Continuous Sittings Prove Fruitless—Bitter Arguments Rouse the House—Mr. Laurier Likens Tupper to an Extinct Volcano Vomiting Smoke and Mud.

Ottawa, April 8.—(Special)—At 3 o'clock this morning clause 5 was still under discussion, and it became evident that a policy of obstructing business at that hour had been determined upon, for Mr. McNeill arose and moved that the committee rise and report progress. Somebody raised a point of order, whereat Mr. Davies (P.E.I.) called out that he had a much more serious point of order to raise, namely, that an honorable member was raising a terrible racket in a back bench by snoring. The somnolent member was aroused.

Mr. McNeill went on to talk against time till he got into a personal argument with Mr. Coatsworth. At this juncture Mr. Daly arose and pointed out that the obstruction had begun just at the same hour the morning before, maintained by Mr. McCarthy's force, and assisted by the Liberals. There was a determination on the part of both not to allow this bill to proceed, and it was well that the country should place responsibility where it belonged.

Mr. Davies protested against the insinuation of obstruction, so far as it concerned the Opposition.

Mr. McNeill proceeded, saying he would tell a story, And he did. It was a serious story enough, but the interruptions of it kept the committee in a roar. No sooner had he announced his intention of "telling a story," than an honorable member, with the utmost gravity, arose to ask if he was sure it was going to be a perfectly proper story.

Mr. McNeill proceeded: "There was a friend of mine, a man named Tracey"—

A voice—What was his first name?

"And his wife died," Mr. McNeill went on.

"How sad," chorused members.

"Poor fellow," interrupted a voice from underneath a handkerchief.

Mr. McNeill continued, "and so he sent the two children to a friend in County Antrim."

"Was Tracey the father of the children?" enquired another solicitous M.P.

Mr. McNeill having given the necessary assurance, the commotion subsided sufficiently to allow him to proceed to tell how these children were placed in a Protestant school where they progressed satisfactorily to their parent, until the parish priest ordered their old guardian to remove them to a Separate school, but he wouldn't.

"The stubborn old chap," interjected a member in mock heroic tones.

"Yes," proceeded the honorable story teller; "the priest ordered the children to be sent to a Separate school."

"Sure he didn't order them to be sent to an Orange lodge?" a well-known member of that order yelled.

Thus the moral and point of the story were lost in the laughter that followed, and Mr. McNeill sat down about 4 o'clock.

Mr. Sutherland was followed by Mr. Wallace, who talked until 5 o'clock, Mr. Mulock following and taking up the succeeding half hour.

Mr. Macdonald (Huron) arose at 5.30 with the excuse that he just wanted to warm himself up a bit. By 6.30, however, he warmed himself up to the pitch of remarking that it was said Mr. Coatsworth was to receive a reward for his vote on the Remedial Bill.

This raised the sharp retort from Major Hughes that those were the insinuations of a "political blackguard," or words to that effect.

Pandemonium reigned for several minutes, notwithstanding Mr. Mulock's efforts to maintain the peace.

The upshot of it was that the gallant major unreservedly withdrew the statement, demanding a similar retraction from Mr. Macdonald. As this was forthcoming, Dr. Sproule arose and renewed the racket by endeavoring excitedly to protest against certain noises in the chamber, which somewhat resembled the clattering of a horse rattle. At 7.30 Dr. Macdonald again raised a disturbance by reading or commencing to read an opinion by W. S. Fielding upon Sir Charles Tupper.

Mr. Devlin, who had been a wakeful but undemonstrative participant in the proceedings, entered a dignified protest against the proposal to introduce any such extraneous matter.

The chairman sustained the objection after hearing a further reading of the extract, which proved its utter irrelevancy. Mr. Devlin adding that he regretted that it was not within his competency to protest against the whole speech.

Mr. Macdonald finally admitted that the purport of his whole speech had been obstruction, in retaliation for the Government's refusal to adjourn the House at a reasonable hour. He finished at 8 o'clock.

The breakfast hour arrived with Mr. Davies holding the floor. He gave way to Dr. Sproule.

Mr. Bain (Wentworth) rose at 10 o'clock to deliver one of his short and pithy speeches. He highly eulogized the member for Montreal Centre, but to Mr. McShane's profound astonishment a further remark of Mr. Bain's, that the member for Montreal Centre deserved credit for securing a settlement of this question, led Mr. McShane to correct the speaker and inform him that he evidently intended to refer to the member for Montreal West (Sir Donald Smith).

Mr. McMillan followed, and before long he was scrapping with Mr. Guillet. The interchange of compliments between them led to great uproar in the House.

Then Mr. Innes relieved the tedium of the morning with an exposition of an hour and a half in duration. He was followed by Col. O'Brien, who wanted the Government to have the chamber swept and garnished. This led Sir Richard Cartwright to ask if the colonel remembered what took place on another occasion when a room was swept and garnished. This remark led to uproarious laughter.

The discussion was continued by Messrs. Bennett, Sutherland and Charlton, the latter of whom read from a pocket Bible and pointed out the certain lessons characteristic of their broad Christianity which could be taught in Public schools. He mentioned amongst these the building of the ark, Esau's blessing, Joseph and his brethren, etc.

Mr. Wallace—Will the hon. gentleman please read about Joseph and his brethren? (Much laughter.)

Then for the next half hour members spoke for and against Mr. Charlton's action, some condemning him, others maintaining that he was in order. At one time a perfect turmoil prevailed, Mr. Davin trying to talk on one side of the chairman, while Clarke Wallace endeavored to speak on the other. After Messrs. Fraser and Wallace had spoken, Mr. Charlton again got the floor and defended himself from the charge of irreverence. He proceeded to read the first chapter of the Gospel of St. John, which he expounded, and followed this with the incident of Christ as a child in the Temple. He continued this practice until well after 3 o'clock, when the House had been in session for more than 48 hours.

Presently he was interrupted by Mr. Macdonald (Victoria), who wanted to know if it were true that Mr. Charlton's tugs ran on Sundays.

Chairman Bergeron ruled the question out as irrelevant. Then Mr. Macdonald asked if Mr. Charlton knew that a ferry boat plied between Sydney and North Sydney 28 Sundays out of the 365. (Laughter.)

Mr. Charlton continued his reading for some time and then gave way to Mr. Cameron of Huron, who assumed the role of prophet and said the Government would not come back with a dozen men from Ontario behind them. On the best authority he understood the P.P.A. in Canada had 300,000 members and they were likely to be a factor in the next elections. He predicted that Mr. Laurier would be Premier within a few weeks.

Mr. Campbell continued the discussion, chaffing those Conservative members who voted against the second reading of the Remedial Bill and yet assisted the Government to take last Saturday in order to endeavor to put the bill through.

Mr. Wilson (Lennox) defended his action in voting to take Saturday. He did so in order that the House might pass other business than the Remedial Bill.

Mr. Laurier, rising shortly before 6 o'clock, warned the Government that this bill could not be railroaded through the House by the unfair methods which the Ministry was pursuing. Coercive methods of this character would not succeed.

Sir Charles Tupper said he had given credit to Mr. Laurier for wanting to act fairly, but he was evidently not entitled to that credit. Clearly Mr. Laurier was aiding on the system of obstruction, of which Parliament had never previously seen the like. He was in close alliance with Mr. McCarthy to prevent this bill from becoming law. Mr. Laurier had shown himself totally unfit to discharge the duties of the leader of the Opposition. (Cheers.) He had outraged every sense of justice, not only of Parliament, but of every fair-minded man in the country by his conduct. (Renewed cheers.)

Continuing at 8 o'clock, Sir Charles said this matter of obstruction had been seriously regarded in other legislatures. He believed that in the circumstances the only course open to the Government was to resist the motion to rise and press this measure in the House.

Mr. Laurier replied, speaking under some excitement, declaring that he felt infinitely obliged to him for his exhibition of unseemly and impotent rage, which he had given before recess. He went on to compare the Secretary of State to an extinct volcano "vomiting smoke and mud." As for Sir Charles' solicitude for the Manitoba minority, he said, "God help my poor fellow countrymen and co-religionists in Manitoba if they are to depend for help on this bill and the Government who professes to be so anxious to put it through." He charged that Sir John Thompson, writing in 1877, declared that all injury to the Roman Catholics in Nova Scotia had come from the Conservative party. Moreover, Sir Charles was the man who a few years ago wrote of Roman Catholics that he had no confidence in the breed.

Sir Charles Tupper replied by stating that one of the gravest acts of deception which Mr. Laurier could have been guilty of was in quoting the remarks of Sir John Thompson as having referred to the party led by him (Sir Charles). Sir John Thompson was referring to a period in the history of the Conservative party in Nova Scotia anterior to his (Sir Charles') leadership. It was because the Conservative party came back in 1856 defeated, because of its anti-Catholic policy, that Mr. Johnson, its leader, urged Sir Charles to take the leadership and reorganize the party with a policy of equal rights to all. Sir Charles added that his position would be desperate indeed before he would take the unfair, deceptive course which Mr. Laurier was pursuing. Equally false was the charge that he ever wrote of Roman Catholics that he "had no confidence in the breed." Mr. Laurier had lost the confidence of his party, of his co-religionists in the country, having joined himself to Mr. McCarthy in his obstruction to this measure. The allegation about his having predicted a crop of a couple of hundred million bushels of wheat in the Northwest the record would show that he had merely quoted a calculation of wheat raising capabilities of that country, a calculation prepared by an official of the Department of the Interior.

Sir Richard Cartwright retorted upon Sir Charles by reading an article from The Toronto Mail of 1891, denouncing the then High Commissioner. He also quoted from Hansard to prove that Sir Charles had prophesied the cost of the C.P.R. would be recouped to the country by sales of public lands. In conclusion, he held that these continuous sittings were of no use in furthering business, while it made Parliament a public scandal.

Sir Charles Tupper put it to the last speaker if it was honest or honorable to quote utterances of The Toronto Mail of 1891, as those of a paper now the organ of the Government. The Mail at that time, he added, was the bitterest opponent the Government had, and he had himself earned its special enmity by denouncing upon the public platform the anti-Catholic course of that paper. (Cheers.)

Dr. Weldon protested against the word "conspiracy" which he took to be used by Sir Charles Tupper towards himself and others, who had temporarily broken with the Government.

Sir Charles Tupper explained that the term had been applied to Mr. McCarthy, as allied with the Liberals in a policy of obstruction.

Dr. Weldon complained of the miscellaneous character of the legislation being attempted in connection with this bill. "What sort of an educational structure shall we have?" he asked. "Will it be Gothic, Doric, Byzantine or Roman?"

Sir Charles Tupper—Roman, of course. (Laughter.)

Later on Messrs. Taylor and Wallace got into an altercation. The latter was called to order by Mr. Taylor for insinuating that he had gone back on his promise to the electors of Leeds to vote against the bill, and that it was said Mr. Taylor was going to be made superintendent of the Rideau Canal, or Deputy Postmaster General. Mr. Taylor gave this a most emphatic denial. He had not been offered nor had he sought for either position, besides he was going to seek re-election in his constituency, and more than that, he was going to carry it. (Cheers.) He intimated his intention to move an amendment providing that a committee of the House be appointed to draft a new bill granting equal rights to all, secularizing schools entirely or else permitting a half hour's religious instruction in the schools under the direction of the respective churches.

Mr. Wallace called attention to the fact that there had been no prayers said in the House for two days and this was having a demoralizing effect on the members.

Mr. Casey then asked if the current rumor were true that Mr. Masson had gone to his reward—in the shape of a judgeship. No answer was vouchsafed.

Shortly before midnight Mr. McCarthy sprang a new point on the House. Mr. Mara was acting chairman and Mr. McCarthy's contention was that Mr. Bergeron could not legally vacate the chair and call another member to take his place.

Mr. Mara ruled that under the English practice Mr. Bergeron had power to call upon another member to relieve him. Thereupon Mr. McCarthy appealed from the chairman's ruling. The Speaker was sent for and Mr. Mara stated the position of affairs. The Speaker immediately proceeded to put the question, when Mr. McCarthy and Mr. Davies wanted to discuss the matter. The Speaker decided against them and although the two members tried to "jolly" him the Speaker was firm. He declared the chairman's ruling sustained, whereupon a division was called, resulted in 93 voting in favor of Mr. Mara's ruling and 25 against. Included in the majority were Messrs. Wallace, Henderson, W. F. Maclean, Bennett and nearly all the French Liberals, while the minority included Messrs. McCarthy, Weldon, Sproule, Stubbs, Tyrwhitt and McNeill and the other 19 were Liberals.

The House is still in session.

BRENNAN'S TRIAL ON TO-DAY.

Defence Will Make a Strong Fight for a Verdict of Manslaughter - Was Mr. Strathy's Murder Premeditated?

Barrie, April 8.—(Special))—Contrary to expectation, the trial of Michael J. Brennan for the murder of John A. Strathy on Feb. 18 was not reached at the Assize to-day, but it will be commenced at 9 o'clock to-morrow morning before Judge Armour.

The prosecuting attorney is Mr. E. F. B. Johnston, Q.C., and the Crown hopes to prove a case of wilful murder. Mr. Wm. Lount, Q.C., a native of Barrie and an intimate friend of the murdered man from childhood, is defending Brennan. He will call about 20 witnesses, including Dr. Buck of the London Asylum, who will endeavor to show that Brennan was insane and that he committed the terrible act on the impulse of the moment owing to a quarrel he had had with deceased, as a result of which he had been turned out of the house. The defence will be perfectly satisfied with a verdict of manslaughter.

Intense excitement prevails in the town, but no one sees how anything but a conviction on a charge of wilful murder can result from the trial. The Crown have over a dozen witnesses to show that the murder was premeditated. It is likely that there will be considerable difficulty in getting a jury satisfactory to both sides. The prisoner's wife, his sister, and his eldest daughter are in the town and will probably give evidence. A number of Toronto medical men are also here.

BLOOD STILL RUNS IN CUBA.

Men are Killed Daily in the Great Fight for Freedom.

Havana, April 8.—A committee of ladies of this city and the Bishop of Havana have presented petitions to Capt.-Gen. Weyler asking for the pardon of the political prisoners Jose Cabrera Roque, whose execution has been fixed for to-morrow. Roque has only one leg, having lost the other at the time he was captured and this fact is urged upon Gen. Weyler as a reason for granting his pardon. Gen. Barges reports the capture of a rebel camp at Jarahueca. In the fight which occurred before the rebels were compelled to abandon their camp five of them were killed. The capture of a camp at Ti Arriba in the Province of Santiago de Cuba is also reported by Gen. Barges. In this engagement the insurgents lost 35 killed and two of the Spanish force were wounded.

Daily Examiner.

THURSDAY, APRIL 9, 1896.

HISTORY REPEATING ITSELF.

The EXAMINER has before it a copy of the London Daily News of June 21, 1846, the first number issued. It contains a six-column report of "a controversy between Mr. Cobden, M.P., and Mr. Wodehouse, M.P., at Norwich," on the subject of free trade. In an editorial comment the News makes the following remark which is strikingly applicable to the present protectionist party in Canada. The News said:

"The protectionists are certainly at last approaching that unenviable condition to which the gods conduct men marked for destruction. Everybody else say that their only chance in the coming struggle, even for the present, lies in a desperate reliance on the weapons furnished to them by their hold on the legislature of the country. In argument they have been beaten to a standstill, any time these twenty years."

Anything more pat to the present situation in Canada, in the regard referred to could hardly be said, if written specially for the occasion. Not only in the matter of protection, but in all other things the government is forced to a "desperate reliance on the weapons furnished by their hold on parliament." The present parliament may support the government but none will have the effrontry to claim that it represents the country. It is effete moribund and a simple machine for registering the autocratic will of a moribund government led by a moribund leader. The government which has so long misruled Canada is in articulo mortis, and the electorate will attend to the details of the political funeral some time the coming summer.

WHAT a "picnic" the Dominion Government would have now if they could "swap" the present vigourous Opposition in the Commons for the week and modest Opposition in the Ontario Legislature.

A GOOD many members of the Conservative party have been hitting each other so hard lately that the Ottawa Journal thinks the party seems likely to go into the general elections rather battered in advance.

EX-PRESIDENT HARRISON is spoken of as a candidate for the presidency of the United States. Whether this is true or not, in view of his recent marriage, he is a candidate for the presidency of his household, with the prospects of disastrous defeat, for his new wife was a widow, petite and with piercing, snappy black eyes.

THE Grand Trunk Railway has greatly improved the Pullman service on its main line between Chicago and Montreal. The comfortable sleeping cars which were hitherto used on the line have been replaced by new cars which are well worthy of the name of rolling palaces. There's a great deal of life in the old Trunk yet.

FROM the practice of English Church vestries holding their business meetings on the same day, Easter Monday, one has a pretty accurate means of judging of their prosperity through the published reports. These indicate generally a steady progress throughout the country, of which the churches in Peterborough and Ashburnham are good examples. Aggressive work in nearly all directions is a characteristic of the Church of the present day.

IN reference to the charge of obstructing the "Dickey Bill," as La Patrie calls the Remedial Bill, that journal points out that Sir Charles Tupper declared in the House that "neither Mr. Laurier nor his party were guilty of obstruction; that was confined to an insignificant minority"—the third party. La Patre also points out that the Tories beat the record for speaking on the bill—between Tuesday and Wednesday, seventeen Conservatives spoke as compared with thirteen Liberals. Talk of obstruction, indeed, the Government is the real obstruction—the brake on the wheel of progress.

"If there is one thing one earth that the people of Canada are heartily sick and tired of hearing about, says the Hamilton Herald, it is the Manitoba school question. We have been having it day in day out at all hours and under all phases, until it has become a weariness to the soul of man. It has been dished up in all shapes and styles—hot, cold, warmed-over, with and without gravy until the stomach revolts." Our lively submontane cotem should not complain of being made sick by the Remedial bill.—Sir Charles Tupper is willing to die for it, in proof in which, he has had, what may presumably be regarded as his death bed; made up of the parliament buildings, so that in the intervals of dying, he may sally forth to the cave of the winds—the common's chamber—and make the wisdom monger of the Herald sick.

BEYOND RECOVERY.

The Boy LaFlamme—His Cure was a Surprise—A few Boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

PAPPINEAUVILLE, March 30 (Special)—The father of the boy LaFlamme, one of the leading merchants here and willing to talk of his son's cure, he says—"My little boy Arthur, after scarlet fever about a year ago never recovered and his ailment ran into a kidney trouble. His body was swollen to twice its natural size. The sufferings of the little fellow were very severe and we had all given up hope of him. But three months ago we commenced giving him Dodd's Kidney Pills, and to-day he is romping and playing with other boys." This, as an instance of cure, is very remarkable.

They received a number of handsome presents from friends in Montreal and Lakefield, namely: a set of pink salt and pepper castors, a set of white salt and pepper castors, a silver plated granite tea pot, a silver and glass pickle cruet and tongs, a silver and glass fruit dish, a book of views of Montreal, two parlour lamps and shades, a pair of handsome vases, a set of salad dishes, one set of silver desert spoons, one set of silver table spoons, a china cream pitcher and bowl, a white silk handkerchief and one dress pattern. Since their return they gave a house-warming, when a very enjoyable evening was passed in dancing and other amusements.

MANY DANGERS AND PERILS.

The Variable Spring Weather a Harvest Time for the Grim Reaper.

PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND THE GREAT HEALTH-MAKER, MAKES PEOPLE WELL ATTHIS TIME.

It Gives Clear, Fresh Blood, New Strength and Vitality and and an Increase in Flesh and Muscle.

DOCTORS PRESCRIBE IT EVERY DAY, AND THEIR EFFORTS ARE CROWNED WITH SUCCESS.

See That Your Dealer Gives You Paine's Celery Compound—Do Not Allow Him to Offer You a Worthless Substitute.

The season of dangers and perils is now with us. Are we fully prepared for it?

It is not our wish to pose as alarmists—to create fear and trembling in the ranks of the timid and fearful. At this season honest, strong and reasonable statements are imperative, so that the thousands of half dead people in our midst may be made to realize that they are standing on dangerous ground, and that the iron hand of the grim reaper—death—may soon end their existence on earth. The early spring days, with rapid changes from warmth to frost, from clear, dry weather to chilly rains and piercing dampness, is the time when the weak, the shattered and broken-down, the sleepless, the rheumatic, the neuralgic, suffer most—the time when all blood diseases are rampant, and most effectually do their work.

Thank Heaven for the provision made to stay the cruel hand of disease! Paine's Celery Compound, discovered by earth's ablest physician, Prof. Edward E. Phelps, M.D., LL.D., is the protector and life giver for all who suffer at this critical time. This marvellous medicine when used at this treacherous season makes the weak strong, gives energy and spirit to the despondent and morose, repairs every department of the nervous system, gives blood as fresh and pure as an infant's and clears and purifies the skin now so sallow and dark. In the past Paine's Celery Compound has proved a blessing to the wearied and sleepless business man. It invigorates his whole system and calms his disquieted nerves. Young women and girls in stores, and those attending school who have been made pale and listless, and who feel used-up, are soon made bright, happy, vivacious and good looking after using a bottle or two of nature's life renewer. The worried and overworked wife and mother, burdened with the never-ending cares of home life, can be made strong, healthy and joyous by the use of Paine's Celery Compound.

Delays are often fatal. If you would derive the advantages guaranteed through the virtues of Paine's Celery Compound, use it now while dangers threaten your life and health. It is an infallible cure—one that has blessed humanity above all other agencies.

The best physicians of the land speak of Paine's Celery Compound every day, and never hesitate to recommend it as the best of all spring medicines.

Just a closing word to every reader who determines to use Paine's Celery Compound. There are many dealers and merchants who, for the sake of gain and extra profit, will offer you, or recommend you to take what they term SOMETHING JUST AS GOOD. Their object is money profit, pure and simple. They care not for your great anxiety about your condition of health; it matters little to them what becomes of you after they have taken your money. Their motives are purely selfish—reject them always. Insist upon being supplied with Paine's Celery Compound, the medicine that has made so many wonderful cures in Canada, and which the newspapers have reported so fully.

MR. MASSON GETS A JUDGESHIP

Six Nation Indians Desire to Form a Militia Regiment—No Let Up in the Sitting Until Saturday — Mr. Greenway's Mission to Ottawa —Topics of the Capital.

Ottawa, April 8.—(Special)—Obstruction was the order of the day, and, although at midnight the House had been in session for 57 hours, there was practically no advance in the direction marked out by the Government, and no sign of a let up. For nearly twenty-four hours the members had been discussing whether the committee should rise or not, which allowed the introduction and discussion of almost any subject under the sun, and in consequence there was seen one of the most disgraceful exhibitions of what might almost be called rowdyism ever witnessed in Parliament.

Another seat is now vacant in the House by the appointment of Mr. Masson, M.P., North Grey, as Senior County Judge of Huron County.

A deputation from the historical section of the Canadian Institute waited upon the Government this morning. The Premier and Minister of Militia were present. Mr. Coatsworth, M.P., presented the deputation, which consisted of Mr. G. A. Howland, president of the section; Mr. C. M. Chadwick and Mr. William Hamilton Merritt of Toronto. Several members of Parliament accompanied the deputation, among whom were Mr. Northrup, M. P., and Major Sam Hughes, M.P. The object of the interview was to request the Government to accede to the request of the chiefs of the Six Nations Indians for the privilege of forming a regiment, to be known as the Royal Six Nations Regiment. The claim of the Indians, who have been loyal to the Crown for more than one hundred years, was advocated, and it was contended that the formation of the Six Nations into a military organization would have an elevating and stimulating effect upon the whole family of red men throughout the Dominion. The Premier acknowledged the great services of the Six Nations to this, their country, both in the French Wars, the Revolutionary War of 1775 and the War of 1812, and he was of the opinion that a distinction paid to our faithful allies would be hailed with satisfaction on all sides. The Minister of Militia also spoke encouragingly.

Major Bruce of the Royal Grenadiers of Toronto was to-day appointed adjutant of the Bisley team by Senator Desjardins, Minister of Militia, and Col. Hon. J. M. Gibson, president of the Dominion Rifle Association. This is as foreshadowed last evening. It is announced definitely that Col. Starke of the Victoria Rifles, Montreal, will command the team.

The general impression in parliamentary circles is that there will be no let up to the committee stage on the Remedial Bill until Saturday. From that time out the Government will barely have two weeks in which to close up necessary legislation. The supplementary estimates for the current fiscal year must be passed and will not likely meet with much opposition from the Liberals, provided the amounts are reasonable. The Government will, therefore, require the greater part of next week in order to get these estimates and certain necessary legislation through the House, so that it is not likely the Remedial Bill will be considered to any great extent after this week.

Premier Greenway's visit to Ottawa is the subject of considerable speculation here. The Ministers are aware of his coming, but have stated it is not at their invitation. It is thought that while here he will negotiate for the adjustment of some claims which the Provincial Government have against the Dominion, when overtures will be made to him for the settlement of the school difficulty on some basis agreeable to the minority without interfering with the principle of a national school system.

Mr. John Robertson, a brother of Prof. Robertson, Dominion Agricultural Commissioner, has just arrived from Scotland, for the purpose of arranging, on behalf of large firms of provision dealers in the old country, for regular shipments of Canadian butter and cheese to Great Britain.

Mr. McShane wants to know if unleavened bread is admitted duty free in all other parts of Canada except Montreal, where good Hebrews reside. He thinks there should be no discrimination in this respect.

Mr. T. Nosse, Consul-General for Japan in Canada, addressed the council of the Board of Trade to-night on the prospects of trade between Canada and Japan. Mr. Nosse expects to visit Toronto next week. During his stay in the city he has had interviews with several members of the Government, who highly appreciate the action of the Japanese Government in sending their official representative to Ottawa to talk up trade matters.

Sir Donald Smith arrived here to-day.

BOOM ON AT SAULT STE. MARIE.

A Million Dollar Water Power Canal in Process of Construction

Montreal, April 8.—(Special)—Mr. L. O. Armstrong, colonization agent of the Canadian Pacific Railway, arrived to-day from Sault Ste. Marie, where he states that everything is on the boom. The Pulp Milling Company that created a water power canal at a cost of $250,000 is making another of greater length and costing $1,000,000, and all sorts of manufacturing establishments are being started. Amongst others, branch works of two of the largest iron consuming concerns in the United States. These industries, Mr. Armstrong states, form a market for the region 50 miles around.

The things that people see are inside of them and not outside. No two people see the same thing exactly alike. One woman may look out at a beautiful landscape and see all the beauty and restfulness and grandness that there is in it. Another one will look out on the same scene and see nothing. The man who is perfectly well and vigorous enjoys life to the full. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery makes people well. There isn't anything miraculous about it—it is the most natural thing in the world. It simply puts the digestive organs, the stomach, the liver, the bowels, in perfect order, and thereby makes the blood pure and rich. All diseases live and thrive on impure blood. Keep a stream of pure, rich, rich blood flowing into a diseased spot, and the disease will not stay. A man lives on rich pure blood, and disease dies on it.

THE QUESTION OF FINANCE

Everyone prefers a high-grade Piano to a poor one, but many are deterred from even inquiring about our instruments from a fear that our prices may be too high or our terms too stringent. Let us say to all who wish a really good Piano at a moderate price on easy terms, that they will do well to correspond with us. We do not pretend to compete on these points with makers of poor or worthless Pianos, but, QUALITY CONSIDERED, our prices are really low, and we try to permit no one to go past us feeling that satisfaction cannot be given on the question of terms.

We Do Not Advertise Our Flour

By telling the public that our 2nd grade is equal to the best Flour made by any other mill. "Such statements are somewhat presumptuous."

We do say, however, that our leading brand, "CALLA LILY," is Equal to Any Other leading brand in the market, and our 2nd grade, "VICTORY," is Equal to Any Other 2nd grade made by any other mills. If the public finds our Flour better than the brands from other mills—that's all right—but WE never "run-down" goods manufactured by our competitors.

"Going to Insure."

THE Man who is simply "going to insure" is usually no better than the man who has'nt made the decision. In fact he is usually worse, because he has considered the subject and been convinced of his duty, but has not done it. "Nothing is done so long as anything remains undone." On application to either of the undermentioned gentlemen, full particulars will be furnished in regard to the Unconditional Accumulative Policy issued by the

RECHERCHE MILLINERY.

The Brightest and Best is the Surest Way to Attract Patronage.

Our brilliant opening exposition of Spring Millinery and Mantles has been the sensation of the week, and the effect produced is just what we aimed at.

Each year we have been lifting the standard a bit higher until now we've reached the plane of rare and recherche productions out of the general run.

Perhaps more than half the ladies who come here have looked all around the other stores. We hope so. We believe in intelligent comparisons and welcome them.

Those who investigate our Goods, Styles and Prices will fare better than those who don't. We want lookers as well as buyers. There's no one here to pull faces at you if you don't buy.

EXTREME NOVELTIES.

These are feast days for those who shop at this store. Extreme Novelties in Millinery, Mantles, Capes and Dress Goods will command larger interest from now until Easter, than anything else.

En Route to the Lumber Camps.

This evening the following Peterborough boys leave to enter the service of the Ontario Lumber Company, Algoma District: Messrs. R. Kennedy, Geo. Patterson and Fred Ball. They expect to be gone about seven months. The boys are a trio of jovial fellows, well up in their work, and will do credit with their employers to their native town. Their friends hope to see them return with a good pile, and will welcome them when they come back.

Battalion Chaplains.

The commanding officers of the volunteer corps of the district are in communication with the deputy adjutant general with the view of having the chaplains of the various battalions officially recognized and their names placed on the militia list. The deputy adjutant-general has coincided with their views and the matter will be laid before the Minister of Militia. The Rangers have no chaplain, but doubtless arrangements will be made towards supplying the deficiency this year.

"A Good Thing"—The New Laundry Case.

"A good thing!"—that is the unanimous verdict passed on the merits of the new patent laundry case manufactured by Messrs. Moffatt & Kidd of this town. Any man, or woman either, who knows a good thing when they see it, will not hesitate to endorse the verdict. So simple, so handy, so neat, so cheap—it fills the bill to perfection. Just imagine the painful exertion of a nervous man struggling in a hurry to tie up into a bundle his soiled cuffs, collars and shirts, and need of such an article as this laundry case becomes apparent at once. Then look on the picture of contentment this same man becomes, his grateful eyes beaming with satisfaction as he stows away, as quick as you could say "Jack Robinson," his weekly accumulation of soiled linen, into a neat and compact little case, two feet long, nine inches wide and five inches deep. The thing speaks for itself. It is rounded at one end and has a collar and cuff attachment at the other, the whole being covered with a white 8 oz. duck bag with ties to secure everything in its place or for hanging up like a wall pocket. The invention of Mr. Thos. Patteson, of this town, who has other records in the patent office of this ingeniuity and skill. It is learned that these laundry cases are taking like hot cakes—the city laundries, as well as those in town, endorsing them very strongly.

PRESBYTERIAN MISSION BUILDING.

A Presbyterial Committee Considered the Subject This Morning—Resolution Adopted.

This morning a committee of the Presbytery of Peterborough, appointed to consider the question of the establishing of a South Ward mission church, under the auspices of St. Paul's church, met in St. Andrew's Manse. The committee was composed of Rev. John Hay, B.D., Cobourg; Rev. Dr. J. K. Smith, Port Hope, and Rev. D. A. Thompson, Hastings.

St. Andrew's church was represented before the committee by Rev. A. MacWilliams, and Messrs. Tully, Fowler, Garrow, Stewart and Cunningham; St. Paul's by Rev. Dr. Torrance, and Messrs. Roger, Walsh, Wright, Gilchrist and Johnston (A. J.)

The subject was presented by both delegations to the committee in a very full manner, and the committee unanimously adopted the following finding:—

"After hearing a very full discussion by the delegations from St. Andrew's and St. Paul's churches, regarding the request made at the last meeting of Presbytery by St. Paul's church for the erection of a Mission Sabbath School building, at the corner of Wolfe and Reid streets, Peterborough, this committe came to the following finding:—That the request of St. Paul's church to erect a school building only, on the site named, be granted, and that in future, in church extension in Peterborough, the interests of both congregations be duly safe-guarded and that the Sessions of both be consulted in any such movement."

HIGH COURT OF JUSTICE.

The Spring Sittings Open Before Justice Rose on Monday Next.

The spring sittings of the High Court of Justice, Queen's Bench Division, will open on Monday afternoon next, at one o'clock, before Mr. Justice Rose.

The cases consist of five civil suits for damages—two jury and three non jury.

The first of the former is that of

ARMSTRONG VS. HUBBLE.

Both the plaintiff and defendant are owners of adjoining farms in Dummer. In the statement of claim the plaintiff charges that on a date mentioned the defendant started a fire on his premises, and through his negligence it spread to the plaintiff's property and destroyed his barns, fences, orchard and considerable standing timber. The plaintiff seeks to recover $500 damages.

The defendant in his statement of defence sets forth that he took all possible precautions in starting the fire but that a high wind sprang up unexpectedly and carried it to his neighbour's property. He states further that the damage suffered was of a trifling nature.

E. B. Stone for plaintiff, and W. A. F. Campbell, for defendant.

MCALLISTER VS. COLE

is a case in which Mr. C. B. McAllister of town, states that he purchased six cars of wheat from the defendant to be delivered on a certain date in Pakenham and Almonte at a fixed price. The wheat was not delivered on the date agreed upon and consequently the profits were lost to the plaintiff. The damages are placed at $325.

In the statement of defence the defendant Cole sets forth that no contract was ever entered into and admitting that if there was there would have been no profits.

E. B. Stone for plaintiff, Millar & Co., Toronto, for defendant.

CAMPBELL VS. CAMPBELL

is the first case set down on the non-jury list. The plaintiff is a widow residing in Douro and the defendant is her son, a Manvers' farmer. The husband of the plaintiff at the time of his death owned several farms in North Monaghan, which he left to his two sons with directions that his wife should live at the homestead, but that in case she left it at any time each son should contribute $50 a year towards her support. This imposed condition was embodied in the deeds of the land to act as a lien.

The statement of claim sets forth that the defendant purchased the homestead and persuaded his mother to release her claim to the stipulated $100 a year. The plaintiff is 85 years of age, illiterate and trusting and unable to protect her own interests. Being unable to write it is charged that she was taken advantage of and induced to sign a deed, the nature of which was unknown to her. The nullification of the instrument by which she signed away her rights is asked.

The statement of defence sets forth that the younger son, who owned the homestead in the first place, mortgaged it heavily, and it was about to pass into other hands. The plaintiff was greatly distressed at the idea of the homestead being occupied by strangers, and being forced to leave it herself, besought the defendant to purchase it. He represented to her that he did not have sufficient means to do so and would be unable to raise much money on it on account of the lien, whereby the plaintiff during her life was to draw $100 a year from the revenue of the farm. The plaintiff agreed to forego this right if the homestead was saved, and upon her signing an instrument to this effect the defendant purchased the farm. He is willing to provide the plaintiff with a home as long as she lives.

This case will probably be settled before it comes before the court.

Dumble & Johnston for plaintiff. Hall & Hayes for defendant.

BARTLETT VS. KENDRY

is a non-jury case in which the plaintiff, F. Bartlett, architect, sues the defendant, James Kendry, to recover $280 damages for drawing plans and specifications for the erection of a residence for the defendant, which the statement of claim says were accepted and in accordance with which excavations were commenced but not continued. The work was recommended and carried out upon plans furnished by another architect than the plaintiff, who claims not to have received payment for his work.

The statement of defence denies the acceptance of the plans and puts the plaintiff to the proof.

A. P. Poussette, for plaintiff; E. B. Stone, for defendant.

EDWARDS & BADCOCK VS. THE MACFARLANE MILLING CO.

The statement of claim in this case sets forth that the plaintiffs, who conduct a milling business in Lakefield, shipped two cars of flour to the defendants, at Sherbrooke, at a fixed price, as per contract. The defendants refused to accept the flour, and the plaintiffs were put to the expense of reselling the flour. The amount of damages is placed at $1,000. No statement of defence has been filed, and a judgment by default, has consequently been given against the defendants to the full amount of the claim.

Edmison & Dixon are acting for the plaintiffs.

DON'T MAKE FODDER CHEESE.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

DEAR SIR,—I submit for publication a letter received from a well-known house in Montreal. It speaks for itself. I would suggest that the directors of each factory discountenance the making of fodder cheese this year, and not allow the makers to control in this matter. They, as a rule, are always anxious to commence work.

Yours, etc.,
W. H. WRIGHTON.

MONTREAL, April 8th, 1896.

Mr. W. H. Wrighton, Peterborough, Ont.

DEAR SIR.—We would like to know when they intend making cheese in the Peterborough section. Price for new-made fodders will be miserably small, probably only 5 or 6 cents per lb., as there are so many old cheese in existence which will be put down to a price under new—no matter what the price is. We recommend the cheese men to make butter, or feed the milk to calves. We want you to keep posted about the make in you section.

Yours truly,
A. A. AYER & Co.

Nervous Prostration

It is now a well established fact in medical science that nervousness is due to impure blood. Therefore the true way to cure nervousness is by purifying and enriching the blood. The great blood purifier is Hood's Sarsaparilla. Read this letter:

"For the last two years I have been a great sufferer with nervous prostration and palpitation of the heart. I was weak in my limbs and had smothered sensations. At last my physician advised me to try Hood's Sarsaparilla which I did, and I am happy to say that I am now strong and well. I am still using Hood's Sarsaparilla and would not be without it. I recommend it to all who are suffering with nervous prostration and palpitation of the heart." MRS. DALTON, 58 Alice St., Toronto, Ontario. Get Hood's, because

DAILY MOTTO.

Thursday, April 9th.

All things "work together." . . . Many different colours, in themselves raw and unsightly, are required to weave the harmonious pattern . . . Take a thread separately and there may be neither use nor beauty discernible. But complete the web, and you see how perfect and symmetrical is the result.

The undone and the done he blends.

To our weak hands His night He lends
And gives the threads beneath His eye,
The texture of eternity.

Hops in Washington and Oregon.

There will be a great decrease in the production of hops in Oregon and Washington this year. The hop industry in previous years has been one of the largest in these States, but overproduction has brought the price down to an unprofitable figure, and in the last year or two insect pests have caused great loss to the growers. A great many hop fields in various parts of the two States have been plowed up, and it is reported that this spring more will be turned under.—Chicago Trade Bulletin.

Observe Arbour Day.

Public School Inspector J. Coyle Brown has in hand a programme of proceedings for arbour day, May 1st. It is from Hon. Mr. Ross, Minister of Education, and presented with his compliments to the teachers and pupils. It is trusted that every teacher in Peterborough will make an earnest effort to observe the day, and that will be a memorable one in the history of the county. It is suggested that teachers call a meeting of trustees and the people of the section, so that arrangements may be made for the celebration of this "bright holiday." Upon trustees is urged the necessity for repairs to fences and other school property as a leader in co-operation of all the truly good and patriotic work of cleaning, improving and ornamenting schools and school grounds.

March Weather Map.

The meteorological service weather map for March is just to hand. It shows that generally in the Dominion the temperature has been below normal; the greatest average daily departure occurring in Algoma and the northern portion of Parry Sound districts, where it was from 5 to 8 degrees; in other portions of Ontario it was from 3 to 6 degrees below. In Quebec (except the Gaspe peninsula) from 3 to 6 degrees below, and in Assiniboia, Alberta and British Columbia, from 2 to 6 degrees below. In Northern Manitoba and a portion of Saskatchewan it was average or a little above, and in the Maritime Provinces, except Western New Brunswick, the average daily temperature was from 0 to 3 degrees above. In Ontario generally the total snowfall of the winter has been greater than the average, the more northern counties and the central counties on the higher portion of the province showing the greatest excess, which in some districts was as much as three feet.

Reorganising a Regiment.

A deputation, consisting of Messrs. William Hamilton Merritt, E. M. Chadwick and O. A. Howland, representing the historical section of the Canadian Institute, waited upon Sir Mackenzie Bowell and Hon. A. Desjardins, Minister of Militia, yesterday morning, accompanied by Major Sam Hughes, Major McGillivray, Mr. J. H. Marshall, Mr. W. B. Northrup, and Mr. E. Coatsworth, M. P., the latter of whom introduced the deputation. The object of the deputation was to obtain the re-organization or the Six Nations' Regiment, to consist of four companies along the Grand river and two companies at Tyendinaga. It is also proposed to form independent Indian corps at Rice Lake, Chemong, Scugog, Rama, Muncey Town and other centres of Indians belonging to tribes other than the Six Nations' The deputation was most cordially received, both the Premier and the Minister of the Militia promising that they would do all they could personally to comply with the request. The Six Nations' Regiment was formed at the time of the war of 1812-15, and was commanded by Tecumseh (Brant) and others. It took a distinguished part in the battles of Lundy's Lane, Queenston, Beaver Dams, Stony Creek and Detroit and it will be especially interesting that its memories should be revived by the third and fourth generations of those Indians who fought so loyally and so ably for the country in the early days of the century.

A CANADIAN CALIFORNIAN.

A Warm Spot in his Heart for Peterborough—A Sketch of California.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—The Examiner comes to hand, and I can assure you it is a welcome visitor to California, although we are about 3,000 miles apart. For the last twenty-one years I have not forgotten Peterborough and my old acquaintances. I see by The Examiner that there are some of them in Peterborough yet.

I presume that some of your readers would like to hear something about the Golden State. Well to begin with, we had an excellent winter here. It was what we call a cold winter here—we had some heavy frosts, and in the months of January and February we had ice, and on the second of March had a big snow storm. It snowed about three inches, which was the heaviest snow fall we have had in ten years, and the people enjoyed it. All business was stopped and snow balling began. Old and young took a hand in it as long as the snow lasted. It was considered a great treat, out I suppose that the people of Ontario are tired of such treats.

The chief industry of this part of the state is wheat raising and at the present time thousands and thousands of acres as far as the eye can reach in every direction, are covered with an unbroken sea of wheat and barley. But the low price of barley is compelling our farmers to change from wheat to something else,—fruit, tropical and semi-tropical has commenced to recieve attention. Irrigation was projected and carried out; lands were improved and thousands of acres were planted in fruit. This winter the better element of our farming community is adapting themselves to another order of things, that is, subdividing their lands and holding out inducement to immigration and home-seekers. As yet our lands are extremely low in price, as compared with other parts of the state that are better developed, but less favoured in other respects. There is a large tract of 150,000 acres of the finest land in this part of the state to be subdivided this coming fall into plots of from 40 to 100 acres. Of this 50,000 acres is in the great Glen ranch. I presume that a great many of your readers have heard of it before. There are 30,000 acres of it in wheat this winter, and at the present moment it is moving beneath the soft and gentle winds that come off our peaceful Pacific Ocean. It takes 60 teams and 8 animals in each team, to cultivate this ranch. They employ about 125 men in winter and about 150 in summer. In the waggon and blacksmith shops they keep on employ, 10 men and harness shop, 2 men. Our shipping facilities are very good. * * * Nappa valley is a very rich valley, their chief industry is grapes and wine; it has very rich soil and fine climate. You can go either by boat or or rail from San Francisco to the city of Nappa, which makes it very pleasant for the people living in that city.

San Joaquin valley is much larger than the Nappa or Sacramento valley, but not as fertile. There is a great deal of sandy land and it takes a great deal of rain to make a crop. They raise a great many cattle and sheep, and besides considerable mining along the foot hills.

Now Mr. Editor, I do not wish to impose on your space in the Examiner, so I will close for the present. I remain,

Yours respectfully
P. Coughlin,
Jacinto, Cal.

SPORTING PASTIMES.

LACROSSE.

The lacrosse club held a meeting last evening and a very large number of players was present.

The matter of grounds was first taken up and it was left with a committee to make arrangements at once, so that the team can practice as soon as the weather permits. There were four fields under consideration and the one giving the best terms will be taken. A committee was also appointed to order suits, the matter being left entirely in their hands.

The junior team will select a captain and secretary to manage their club for the season at another meeting.

Mr. Geo. J. Horkins was present with reference to Peterborough playing at Campbellford on May 24th for a hundred dollar trophy. This was not discussed very fully but will have further attention.

It is expected that about 30 or 40 members will sign with the team this year. It is hoped that any strangers in town who play will make themselves known.

Before getting your lacrosse for the season call on R. M. Glover at The Examiner office. He will handle the best stick in town this season. 3d

CRICKET.

A meeting of all interested in cricket will be held at the office of Mr. R B. Rogers, (Trent Valley Canal office), on Saturday evening at 8 o'clock, to consider organization for the season and other important business.

THE WHEEL.

It was thought some years ago, says the Christian Guardian, that the bicycle, like every other fad, would have its day and cease to be. But notwithstanding the skeptics, it still has its day, and the signs are that it will continue to have its day for a long time to come. Two or three years ago it was thought to have developed into a fever. If it was a fever then, we are at a loss for a term to describe what it is to-day. People are wont occasionally to complain at the high prices which are kept up; but what can be expected when the demand is so enormous? Toronto, for example, has not, at the present time, the facilities for turning out the number of wheels that are wanted for use in this city. A large number must be imported.

The bicycle is now acknowledged to be a factor of modern life. It has to be reckoned with on all sides. The down-town office has to provide for it. The municipal authorities have to consider it, in reference to their road-making and road improvement. The matter of physical health depends, to some extent, upon it. Social intercourse is promoted by it, and better morals have been proved, in instances, to be the result of it. There are some evils consequent upon it, but they are vastly outweighed by the benefits. Long live the bicycle!

THE QUEEN'S BIRTHDAY.

Peterborough Will Have a Celebration.—The Military Turnout.

The 57th Battalion has taken the initiative regarding the holding of a celebration in Peterborough on the 24th of May, and early in the year sent out a number of invitations to the Volunteer corps in the district, to assemble here for the purpose of having a field day.

Already the 15th Battalion, of Belleville, has signified its intention of being present, and in speaking of the proposed trip, the Belleville Intelligencer says:

"The officers and the N. C. O's of the 15th Battalion, A. L. I., met last night and arranged for the establishment of a regimental fund, to which all ranks are to contribute $4 each out of the annual pay. This will complete the equipment of the trip to Peterborough, where the regiment will go into camp on the 23rd and 24th of May, and the 57th Peterborough Rangers will visit Belleville on the 1st and 2nd of July. A good deal of enthusiasm is evinced in connection with the Peterborough outing, which will not only be a source of benefit but also of enjoyment to the men. Everything will be done to give them a good time, and they will no doubt be a credit to the city. We hope to have a military field day here on Dominion Day.

The Belleville Sun has the following to say on the matter.

"At a fully-attended meeting of the officers and non-commissioned officers of the XV Battalion, held last night, it was unanimously decided to establish a regimental fund, all ranks contributing $4 each out of their pay, and defraying out of the fund all the expenses of the trip to Peterborough, where the regiment will camp on May 23rd and 24th. The fund will be administered by the officers, each company appointing an auditor to act with the sergeant-major in approving all expenditure at the end of the year. This will enable the battalion to supply all deficiencies in helmets and leggings, so that the battalion will go away thoroughly equipped and able to hold their own with the other city corps they will meet. The 57th Peterborough Rangers will spend July 1st and 2nd here in camp on a return visit."

The visiting battalions will probably pitch their tents on Burnham's Point, as it was arranged they should do, in the event of a military field day being held last season. The spot is admirably suited for the purpose, but it is objected to by many on account of being difficult of access and too far removed from the town. If too many visitors do not come the tents might be pitched on the Central Park.

The Closing Exercises of the Kingston Training School for Nurses.

In its report of the closing exercises in connection with the trained nurse department of the General Hospital, the Kingston Whig speaks as follows:—

The closing exercises in connection with the trained nurse department, at the general hospital, took place Thursday night in the Fenwick amphitheatre. The seating capacity of the building was overtaxed. The nurses, looking the very model of neatness and kindness, occupied seats at one side, on the ground floor, the graduating class in front and those in training in the rear.

Col. Duff presided and welcomed the visitors on behalf of the nurses. He gave a brief historic sketch of the training department from its foundation in 1886 with two probationers, which grew to twelve in 1892, to fourteen two years later, until now it takes twenty nurses to perform the work satisfactorily. Up to 1895 there were forty-five graduates, all doing well and bringing credit upon the institution. With the six who graduate this year, fifty one have been granted diplomas. During his address the speaker mentioned the fact that Miss Bennett, of Ashburnham, one of the graduates, had secured a good position in a hospital at Baltimore.

Miss McMillan, superintendent of nurses, presented her annual report. In speaking of necessities at the institution, Miss McMillan said an elevator was urgently needed in the main building, and a nurses' home was an absolute necessity, a building where the nurses could live by themselves, with cheerful bedrooms, reading room, dining hall, parlour, etc. Such a place would give more space in the institution and facilitate the work of the nurses.

Col. Duff complimented the graduating class upon its excellent standing, and presented the diplomas to these full fledged nurses: Misses F. Bond, Wilson, E. Bennett, E. Veale, S. L. Charlton and E. Bell. Miss McMillan presented and pinned on the distinctive medals. Rev. M. MacGillivray addressed the graduates, giving them encouragement, and Dr. Garrett impressed upon them the importance of their duties. B. M. Britton, Q.C., also gave an address, after which Rev. Dr. Ryckman closed with prayer. Refreshments were served, of which those in the audience were invited to partake.

ICY SIDEWALK ACCIDENT.

Interesting Test Case Now Before the Court of Appeal.

The Court of Appeal reserved judgment in a case heard at Toronto in which the appeal was based on a statute passed by the Ontario Parliament in 1894, relating to damages for injuries received by falls on slippery sidewalks. Last winter Dr. Jennie G. Drennan of Kingston, at that time a medical student in Queen's College, fell on an icy crossing in Kingston, and hurt her hip so badly that she was in the hospital for 24 weeks. She sued the city and got a verdict for $1500. Kingston then appealed to the Divisional Court and again lost.

It was contended by the city that, according to the Ontario statute, notice of the action should have been given within 30 days, which it was not. It further holds that the city had not been guilty of negligence, and the statute says that cities are only liable for damages if gross negligence be proven.

The judgment in this case will affect four other similar cases in which the judges are awaiting the decision of the Court of Appeal in this one.

A Great Feat.

The bicycle run of "200 miles in one day," performed by Dr. W. N. Robertson, of Stratford, Ont., on the 3rd of June, was a remarkable exhibition of endurance in a purely amateur rider. The doctor's scientific training would, no doubt, prove an important factor in successfully engineering such a difficult operation, though (as will be seen by letter published in another column) he does not hesitate to award due credit for his performance to the agent he relied upon in his great effort. The doctor's testimony to the marvellously sustaining power of Maltine with Coca Wine is entirely spontaneous and unsolicited, and, therefore, of the higher value. His report will be read with interest by wheelmen generally, in view of his claim that Maltine with Coca Wine enabled him to "pedal comfortably for hours after the period that I should been exhausted without it." Dr. Rocertson tersely summarises the valuable action of Maltine with Coca Wine in those cases of enervation common among most "novices on the wheel," and affirms that "it is a wonderful heart-sustainer." This preparation may be had of all druggists, and may be relied upon as an agent of infinite value in nervous prostration and brain exhaustion resulting from undue strain upon the mental or physical energies.—Daily Globe, July 6, 1895

GAS EXPLOSION AT GALT.

Four Members of the Staff of the Merchants' Bank Get Their Hair Singed—The Gas Jet in the Vault Again.

Galt, April 7.—About half past 9 o'clock this morning an explosion occurred in the Merchants' Bank, which resulted in four members of the bank staff sustaining painful though not necessarily serious injuries. Manager Jarvis was in the bank yesterday and noticed a smell of gas and remarked to the janitor, who said that it was coming from the meter, as it always did that when closed off for a few days. On entering this morning the smell was stronger even than yesterday and the windows were at once raised to allow it to escape. It was suspected that the gas was escaping from the jet in the vault, which was opened. Some time after this had been done, the janitor, Mr. Nesbitt, struck a match and stepped inside the vault with the intention of igniting the gas. No sooner, however, had he done so than a sheet of flame rushed through the opening into the faces of Mr. Hyde, the teller; Mr. Crookall, ledger-keeper, who were standing immediately in front of the vault, and Manager Jarvis, who was just passing from his private office at the time. Simultaneously a loud report was heard, followed by a shock, which threw them all to the floor. When the smoke had cleared away and the sufferers had somewhat recovered, physicians examined their injuries. Messrs. Nesbitt and Crookall were, if anything, the most unfortunate, their faces being badly burned and their hair and eyebrows scorched. Manager Jarvis was also painfully injured, sustaining pretty severe burns on the face. Mr. Hyde escaped with a slightly burned face, singed hair and a bruised wrist. After recovering from the shock, Manager Jarvis noticed that the interior of the vault was all ablaze, and with great presence of mind, seized an old coat and subdued the flames. No material damage was done. The presence of gas in the vault is accounted for from the fact that a gas jet burns constantly in the vault and it is supposed that the closing of the door Saturday put the light out.

Thousands have tested the great building-up power of Hood's Sarsaparilla and have found renewed strength, vigor and vitality in its use.

SPAIN WON'T BE BLUFFED.

She Will Send a Heavy Squadron to Overawe Uncle Sam.

New York, April 7.—A special to The World from Madrid says: Admiral Sanchez Ocana, commanding the Great Navy Yard at Ferrol, on the extreme northwest coast, reports that he has completed preparations for sending to sea a Spanish squadron composed of the following vessels: The ironclad Pelayo, the first-class belted cruisers Infanta, Maria Theresa, Almirante, Oquendo and Vizcaya; the second-class armored cruisers Reina, Mercedes and Alfonso XIII., one torpedo destroyer, seven fast torpedo boats. These 14 vessels carry in their crews nearly 6000 men. This fleet will leave Ferrol on Tuesday for gun practice in Arosa bay and will cruise along the northwest coast of Spain ready to start for Havana just as soon as the Cabinet considers that circumstances require its presence in the West Indies. The Madrid press plainly says the movement of the fleet will depend upon the course of President Cleveland after the vote of Congress on the belligerency resolutions. Six trans-Atlantic steamers have been turned into 20-gun fast cruisers. They will be ready for service by the end of April.

SUSPECTS ROT IN THE JAILS.

How the Cruel Spaniards are Treating Their Prisoners in Cuba.

Havana, April 7.—Two hundred and twelve men are confined in two cells of Morro Castle. They are political prisoners, or "suspects," awaiting trial. Some have been there a week, some a month, some a year. Two are American citizens and one is a British subject. In the Cabanas fortress, close by, and in other prisons all over the island, are other unfortunates. The sanitary arrangements of Morro Castle are vile, and the prisoners suffer terrible privations.

Aside from those named, the prisoners are Cubans almost without exception. They are not in any sense prisoners of war. They are peaceable citizens, dragged out of their homes, away from families dependent upon them for support, and sent to Morro. If there is any real evidence against them, they are deported to the Spanish penal colony at Ceuta, Africa. Those remaining at Morro are men who have not rebelled against Spain, but whom Spain suspects of disloyalty. Prisoners of war in Cuba are given drum-head court martial and promptly shot. Political suspects rot in the jails.

All Does Not Seem to be Lovely Within the Harrison Household.

Indianapolis, April 7.—Mrs. Robert McKee, daughter of ex-President Harrison, will leave here to-day for the East, and will not be present to receive her father and his bride when they reach here. Among the things she will take with her are several pieces of furniture and bric-a-brac, part of the latter being vases and china painted by her mother. The fact that neither she nor Russell Harrison attended the marriage is regarded as conclusive evidence of their disapproval of the marriage, and their friends no longer make concealment of the fact that they are very much disappointed. Intimate friends assert that the objection is not against Mrs. Dimmick personally, but against General Harrison's marrying at all.

Who Owned This Baby?

Brockville, April 7.—Yesterday when Samuel Seaman of Rockport went to the bush to chop he noticed a parcel done up in course brown paper. On opening it he was horrified to find the body of a full-grown infant, that had evidently been there for two or three months. Coroner Lane was notified and empaneled a jury, who examined the body and then adjourned till Friday at 1 o'clock. Tracks leading from the river to the spot where the body was found are quite visible, and it is thought the guilty parties belong to the other side of the line.

NO ACTION THIS SESSION.

Manitoba Will Do Nothing to End the School Grievances.

Winnipeg, April 7.—(Special.)—In view of the offer made by the Manitoba Government at the recent conference here to secularize the schools, or change the present regulations regarding religious exercises, and, instead thereof, provide for religious instruction for half an hour at the close of the schools, there has been some speculation as to whether the Government would ask the Legislature to make these changes when it reassembles on April 16.

Any hopes entertained that this will be done were dispelled to-day, when one of the Ministers announced that nothing would be done in this direction at present. He pointed out that Manitoba's offer of concessions mentioned was contingent upon its acceptance by the Roman Catholics as a redress of their grievances. As the offer was not accepted, there is no necessity of any immediate action, as the members of the Legislature cannot afford the time at this season of the year to attend the Legislature. There is little doubt, however, that when the Legislature meets for the next regular session an amendment will be made in the school law in the matter of religious instruction, and in other respects, to meet all the reasonable objections now raised by the Roman Catholics to the present ...ent.

W. C. MUDGE.

THE sick man knocking at the door of health gets in if he knocks the right way, and stays out if he doesn't. There are thousand of ways of getting sick. There is only one way to get well. Do whatever you will, if you do not put your digestion in good order, and make your blood rich and pure, you will not get well. Rich, pure blood is the only thing that can bring perfect health. A large part of all the diseases that afflict mankind are traceable directly to impurities in the blood, and can be cured by eliminating these impurities. That most dreadful of all diseases, consumption, is a disease of the blood. The disease shows in the lungs because of some inherited or acquired weakness there. If the blood were always pure and without germs, the disease would never develop and in time weakness itself would be overcome. Germs and impurities in the blood float along through the body until they find a weak spot for lodgement. They stick there and develop and people call the disease by the name of the organ afflicted. As a matter of fact, the disease is always a disease of the blood, and if the blood be purified, the disease will be cured. That is a perfectly natural, rational conclusion, endorsed both by common sense and the highest medical authority. It is in accordance with these facts that Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery works. The first thing it does is to put the whole digestive system into perfect order. It stimulates the appetite, excites the copious secretion of the digestive fluids and promotes assimilation. It searches out disease germs wherever they may be, kills them and forces them out of the system. The "Golden Medical Discovery" has been used with unvarying success for over 30 years.

If you care to know more about it, and more about your own body, send 21 one-cent stamps to cover cost of customs and mailing only, and you will receive absolutely free a copy of Dr. Pierce's 1008 page book, Common Sense Medical Adviser. Address, World's Dispensary Medical Association, No. 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

HE PROVED HIS THEORY.

A Disagreeable Kind of a Man Told a Queer Story.

"Woman," remarked the disagreeable kind of a man in the midst of a group of ladies, "lacks the discriminating quality."

"I object," interrupted a woman whose mind was strong and who prided herself on it.

"That's because you lack discrimination," said the man with an unmoved manner, according to the Washington Star.

"I object again," persisted the woman.

"Permit me," continued the man, bowing for permission, "to say that, as compared with man in respect of that quality, she is lacking.

"Um," sniffed the woman, "that's what you men always say. I have been a close observer, and my judgment leads me to conclude that woman is not only more discriminating than man, but that hers is a much finer discrimination. Men in their blundering way fail utterly in discerning things which are as clear as day the finer discrimination of women. Women, with their more delicate and nervous organization, are far more impulsive than men, and they discriminate and differentiate by intuition."

The man bowed again and turned appealingly to the half-dozen other women in the crowd, but received no sympathy.

"To-day," he said, slowly, "I was talking to eight women, and I told them a story a sailor had just told me, their reception of which convinced me conclusively that the point I seek to maintain is correct."

"Tell us the story," chorused the crowd.

"It is this," said the man. "The sailor told me he had returned only two days ago from a long voyage, and that while they were in the Pacific they had picked up a shipwrecked mariner on an island, many leagues from land, whose case was the most remarkable, not to say terrible, he had ever heard or read of among all of the tragedies of the sea. The man had lived but a day after his rescue, but had strength sufficient to tell his dreadful story of suffering. He had been cast on a small island where there was absolutely no food supply and only one spring of fresh water and very little of that. He had saved nothing from the wreck except a knife in his pocket and a pair of spectacles. He was so near-sighted he could not see without glasses. There was some driftwood along the shore and from this he made a fire, using his spectacles as a sunglass and setting in a blaze the shavings he cut from the wood. He kept the fire going in the hope that it might attract the attention of some passing vessel, but none came and at the end of three days he was suffering the most exquisite torture from hunger. Still no ship came and the days went by until at length he resolved to eat himself."

All the women gave a concert of small shrieks at this narration.

"With this grim determination," continued the man, "he sharpened his knife and having torn his shirt into strips, with which to bind up his wounds, he cut off his left hand half way between the elbow and the wrist. This he cooked over his fire and by careful economy he prolonged his life. Still no ship came, but hunger did, and ten times worse than before. Then he cut off his right hand. This lasted him several days longer and hunger came again, but no ship. Then he cut off his left foot and lived off it for five days. When he was picked up he was on the point of cutting off his right foot, but fortunately he was saved from further self-demolition.

The story was so horrible that the women fairly shuddered.

"Dreadful; awful; sickening"; they cried, simultaneously, and all of them began sympathizing with the terrible fate of this poor shipwrecked sailor.

The disagreeable kind of a man listened to them with curious interest.

"The other women to whom I told the story," he said, solemnly, "received it exactly as you have done."

"And why shouldn't they?" asked all the women, as if any other reception would have been a reflection on their sex.

"They might have discriminated," suggested the man almost timorously.

"It is no time for discrimination, even if there was anything to discriminate," asserted the woman who had begun the discussion. It is a case calling for sympathy of all human kind."

"Still," persisted the man, as he prepared to depart, "a little discrimination or discernment, or something like that, might have prompted an inquiry as to how the poor wretch could have cut his right hand and his left foot, when his left hand was the first to be cut off. When the sailor told me the story," continued the man, a shade more hurriedly, "I told him he was a liar, but I have not yet heard any such intimation either from you or the other women to whom I narrated the painful episode."

Then the disagreeable kind of a man disappeared and the women took turns looking at each other and wondering what it was all about, anyhow.

In Literature.

"I notice," murmured the editor of the Jayville Banner, as he glanced through one of his exchanges, "that Mrs. Oliphant never touches a pen in the day time professionally. And I further notice," he added, a clear light shining upon his countenance, "that there are points of similarity between Mrs. Oliphant and me remarkable in their closeness."

And when his scissors had done vibrating the columns of the exchange looked as though some of Prof. Roentgen's rays had been turned loose upon it.

Old But Ever New.

"What's the matter with you, anyway?" grumbled the hired girl as she emptied another hod of coal into the stove.

"I feel put out," growled the fire.

"Then I'll have to shift the scene—the kerosene," muttered the hired girl.

And it was so that the next moment she was sailing through the roof, hanging a wad of brilliant colored hair upon a splintered rafter as she went sailing by.—New York Recorder.

Severe Penalty.

"The sentence of the court," said the stern and unfaltering Judge, "is that you be confined in the county jail for the term of three hours, the sentence to begin at once."

The hitherto smiling young woman blanched and would have fallen to the floor had not the faithful family servant supported her reeling form.

"Three hours!" she gasped. "And that bargain sale of silks at Sellemout's will have been over for more than an hour when I am released!"—Indianapolis Journal.

GOOD ADVICE
ABOUT DYSPEPSIA.

The best advice about dyspepsia is—cure it with Burdock Blood Bitters and as surely as you follow the advice and take the medicine the cure will follow in every case.

Mr. Wm. Day of Fort William, Ont., says in speaking of B.B.B.:—Two years ago my wife was very ill with dyspepsia. No remedy that she could find gave any relief; finally she tried Burdock Blood Bitters and after taking six bottles was entirely cured. That is now more than two years ago and she has no return of the malady. I also have had occasion to use B. B. B. and I cannot speak too highly in its favour.

I always recommend it to my friends and in every case with good results. Hoping this may be of use to you, I am. Yours very truly. WILLIAM DAY.

His Patent in Danger.

Attorney Garrett McEnery recently appeared as counsel in a case before a Justice of the Peace at Suisum. McEnery found it necessary to make frequent objections to the evidence that opposing counsel was attempting to introduce. The Justice, whose first rule of evidence is "everything goes," looked first annoyed and then indignant. Finally he could contain himself no longer, and, as a ruling on one of Mr. McEnery's objections, roared:

"Mr. McEnery, what kind of a lawyer are you, anyway?"

"I am a patent lawyer," replied the attorney facetiously.

"Well, all I've got to say is that when the patent expires you will have a hard time getting it renewed. Go on with the case."—San Francisco Post.

AN ABUSED BENEDICT.

It is well known that considerable tact, and experience also, is sometimes required to amuse an infant that is inclined to be troublesome. Such, at least, is the opinion of a gentleman who rashly undertook, last Sunday evening, to stay at home and take charge of his little lassie baby while his wife went to church to worship—and incidentally admire the latest spring fashions in bonnets. Everything passed off smoothly for a few minutes after his better-half had taken her departure, and he was congratulating himself that he would have no difficulty with his charge. Baby, however, soon proceeded to vary her tune from gentle cooing to some very robust war whoops, which not only increased in frequency but in volume also. The poor man did his best—he walked the floor, he danced the little one, he chirped to her and did everything he knew of to quiet the storm, but to no purpose. The baby by this time began to show signs of apoplexy, and was almost black in the face, and the impromptu nurse was sweating like a merchant trying to discount shaky paper. He could stand it no longer, but rushing into a neighbour's house he deposited the child with a lady present and at once set out for the church, where he arrived in a breathless condition. Losing no time in informing his wife of the state of affairs, she smilingly took her departure. On reaching home a few magic words from mamma put baby in the best of humour. Though the gentleman has seen how quickly the storm was calmed, he will not essay again to "mind the baby" and let his wife go to church—he has learned wisdom from experience.

On Wednesday night some unknown, and just as unprincipled, character, who evidently did not spare any pains in his work, entered the school house at Old Havelock and committed depredations which were of no great credit to himself and much less to the school. BRENNAN'S TRIAL ON The Defence of the Prisoner is Insanity.

HIS WIFE SPEAKS IN HIS FAVOR

And Tells the Jury of the Murderer's Peculiar Actions in the Past—Widow of the Victim in the Witness Box—The Crown's Case Concluded.

Barrie, April 9.—(Special)—All the town is excited over the trial of Michael Brennan for the murder of John A. Strathy, which commenced here this morning. Both murdered man and murderer are so well known here that every man in the County of Simcoe seems to have personal sympathies at stake in the case. The best that the defence hope for is a verdict of manslaughter, and Mr. William Lount, Q.C., is making strong efforts to that end. Mr. E. F. B. Johnston, Q.C., the Crown prosecutor, is, however hopeful that he will be able to prove Brennan a reasonable being, knowing right from wrong, and therefore worthy of the extreme penalty.

In securing a jury 15 men were challenged on each side. The jurors are: Thomas Mitchell, Beeton; Joseph Miller, Tecumseth; Thomas Redfern, Innisfil; Frank Carter, Sunnidale; Alex. Bell, Essa; Daniel Jamieson, Oro; Isaac Huk, Tecumseth; William Lockhart, Flos; B. White, Matchedash; Robert Russell, Vespra; Thomas White, Vespra; Robert Johnston, Oro.

After the jury had been sworn in, Mr. Johnston addressed them, asking them to pay no attention to the rumors of the street or the newspaper reports, which have appeared, but try the case according to the evidence. Mr. Johnston reviewed the case for about 45 minutes.

A. W. McVittie, the first witness sworn, certified to certain plans exhibited.

Jennie Nealy, cook at the Strathy residence, told, as at the preliminary examination, about Brennan coming to the door and asking for Mr. Strathy, giving no name, telling her it was an old friend. Ten minutes after she heard the fatal shot.

Phemie McKay, the housemaid, received the message that Mr. Strathy was wanted from Miss Nealy, and went upstairs to inform him. She met Mrs. Strathy in the hall and informed her. Mr. Strathy went to the door and a short time afterwards, witness heard a noise, and, going to the door, saw Mr. Strathy closing it. He walked a few steps and sank away. Witness smelled smoke, ran out of another door to telephone for a doctor and saw the prisoner going out of the gate. Upon returning she saw deceased lying in the hall and noticed a mark on his left side.

Mrs. Strathy, the widow of the deceased, was next sworn. She stated that on the fatal morning, she was with her family when she heard the door bell ring. Mr. Strathy had an appointment and was in a hurry. He was lacing his shoes when she told him to hurry to the door. She heard talking. Mr. Strathy was talking in his usual tone of voice. Next she heard a shot, and, running to the door, noticed smoke and said: "Jack, are you shot." He made no reply, but staggered back and she caught his arm, remaining with him until he died.

To Mr. Lount witness stated that she was not aware that Brennan had been speaking to her husband prior to the shooting.

Coroner Wallwin, who made the post mortem examination, told of the wound made by the bullet and identified the ball he took from the body.

Mr. Lount gave an inkling of his defence by asking Dr. Wallwin if insanity was not hereditary. The doctor answered that it was sometimes.

Thomas Ambler said that he was driving by in a sleigh when Brennan was walking down the street after the shooting. A woman ran out of Mr. Strathy's house and screamed, and Ambler called to Brennan asking him what was the matter. Brennan replied that she was crazy. Then Brennan climbed on the sleigh and Ambler heard him say he had committed a terrible deed.

Mr. C. Lusty, the proprietor of the Victoria Hotel, where Brennan stayed while in Barrie, said that the prisoner was visibly excited, and when he came back to the hotel about 11 o'clock, said he would be at the market if he was wanted.

Joseph Marrin, the constable who arrested Brennan, said he met him on the market place. Marrin's story is as follows: "Brennan came up to me and said, 'Boys, I've done a dreadful deed; I've shot John Strathy.' Others heard him say it. He said if anybody else had been in his place they would have done the same thing. He spoke of his family troubles, and calling me aside, said he wanted to give himself up."

Mr. Lount obtained from the witness the statement that Brennan said before giving himself up that his children had been torn away from him, and that his wife had been advised to leave him. He said that he had had a feeling for four years that not a brute beast could suffer, and that he was justified in doing the shooting.

F. M. Smith swore that he heard Brennan said that he had shot John Strathy.

Sheriff Rrury also heard Brennan confess what he had done, but that he had remarked that he had no intention of killing anybody. Brennan did not seem to know what he was talking about.

Inspector William Greer, the Government officer in charge of the case, was the last witness for the Crown. He told of seeing Brennan in his cell, and of the prisoner's story of the tragedy. Brennan had admitted the crime to him, stating that Strathy had snubbed him. Prisoner asserted that he had no intention of killing Strathy. This concluded the Crown's case.

The defence opened with the evidence of Mary H. Brennan, wife of the prisoner, and she told of her husband being foolish and excitable at times; was also moplsh and despondent. From June, 1892, till she left him, Brennan accused her of intimacy with several prominent people in Midland, and when she would endeavor to convince him that he was in error, he would not allow her to expram. He was always talking during the night, and would not let her sleep. Often he affirmed that she did not appear to think half enough of him. Regarding accusations of her intimacy with Steers, witness said that Steers was only in her house once and that on chuch business.

In reply to Mr. Lount's question witness said that there was positively no grounds for her husband's suspicions. After leaving Midland, Brennan became crazier than ever; he would search the closets and look behind the doors and accuse witness of harboring certain men. He afterwards had a strange look on his face and he appeared to be insane. He would talk and laugh to himself. When witness was frightened away from home by the prisoner she went to her mother's house which was close to her own. Jealousy was her husband's failing. He was otherwise a good husband and a fairly smart business man. Witness thought he knew right from wrong.

Lawyer Steers of Lindsay, who formerly lived at Midland and who had been assaulted by Brennan, who said he had been unduly intimate with Mrs. Brennan, swore that Brennan's suspicions were absolutely groundless. Witness also told of the prisoner's assault upon him.

David Hewis, a Midland liquor dealer, said that he had had to protect Mrs. Brennan from her husband.

James J. Brennan, a younger brother of the prisoner, said that his brother was extremely jealous of his wife; that prisoner had told him that he would not believe her under oath. Since the separation he had heard his brother say that he would have his wife and family if he had to die looking for them. One uncle of the prisoner had been insane. So far as witness knew that was all the insanity in the family.

The court adjourned till 9 o'clock to-morrow morning and the case will likely be concluded early in the day.

THE POPE A MAN OF PEACE.

Through Rampolla He Upholds the Proposition for Permanent Tribunal.

London, April 9.—The Pope, through Cardinal Rampolla, Papal Secretary of State, has addressed to The Chronicle a letter, of which the following is the translation:

"Among the most precious gifts the Divine Redeemer bestowed upon the world was that of peace, and no better desire can exist than that peace should reign on earth. Justly, therefore, the Sovereign Pontiff, as Vicar of the Eternal Prince of Peace, desires and co-operates with every effort towards the maintenance or concord and union of hearts among the nations. On this account, His Holiness, being informed by me of the earnestness with which you are promoting the institution of a permanent tribunal for the purpose of deciding international controversies and safeguarding the peoples from the perils of war, cannot but show his satisfaction and express the wish that God will happily crown your praiseworthy efforts with success."

CAUGHT NOTED BRIGANDS.

Two Notorious Cut-throats of Italy Captured in Honor of Emperor William.

Rome, April 9.—In honor of the German Emperor's visit, the gendarmes engaged in a grand brigand hunt in the peninsula of Gargano on the Adriatic side.

They succeeded in catching the brothers Fraternolo, notorious brigands, who had terrorized the province for four years.

The brigands and gendarmes fought a regular battle. The robbers wounded several of the police.

WILD PARSNIPS KILLED THEM.

Three Small Children Ate the Poisonous Roots With Fatal Results.

Linwood, Mich, April 9.—Walter, aged 7; Lorenzo, aged 5, and Grace, aged 3 years, children of Thomas Hadd and Celia, aged 4; Harry, aged 8, and Arthur, aged 7 years, children of George Stevens, found some wild parsnip roots while playing in the woods yesterday and ate of them. Lorenzo Hadd and Celia Stevens died in a few hours and the other children are in a critical condition.

IN THE IMPERIAL HOUSE.

Britain Has No Understanding About Advancing Up the Nile.

London, April 9.—The House of Commons resumed its sitting, after the Easter recess, at 3 o'clock this afternoon. There was a full attendance of members and the galleries were crowded with visitors.

Mr. G. N. Curzon, Under Foreign Secretary, stated in reply to questions, that the Government had not promised any foreign power that the Egyptian forces should not advance up the valley of the Nile beyond Dongola.

Mr. Chamberlain, Secretary of State, stated that President Kruger of the Transvaal Republic had not yet made any reply to his (Chamberlain's) invitation to visit England.

Spoor spellers will be rejoiced to know that an eminent British philologist, Prof. Earle, believes that the rules of spelling are a great and useless mental tyranny, and holds that literature and true education would be advanced by allowing every person to spell as he liked.

THE LONG SITTING.

Over Eighty Hours Have Been Consumed

AND BUT LITTLE HEADWAY MADE

How the Night Hours Were Put in Discussing Government Supporters Said to Have Billets in Their Pockets Masson's Judgeship —A Few Clauses Passed.

Ottawa, April 9.—(Special)—Up to 6 o'clock to-night the House had been in continuous session for 75 hours. Since 3 o'clock on Wednesday morning Mr. McNeill's motion that the committee rise and report progress has not been disposed of. As previously explained a motion of this character permits members to talk on any subject under the sun, no matter how near to or remote from the Remedial Bill it may be.

To-day the talk has centred chiefly around the appointment of Mr. Masson to a judgeship, several Liberal members condemning Mr. Masson for taking a judgeship and the Government for giving him one. The early hours of the morning saw the same obstructive tactics pursued with unvarying monotony, there being an unusual dearth of incident. The members rose and said their little pieces and then dropped out in this order, Messrs. Landerkin, Semple, McMullen, Edgar (at 4 a.m.), Stubbs, Somerville (who finished at 6 a.m.), Bowman, Yeo, Colter and Flint.

There is a refreshing breeziness about Mr. Stubbs' speeches and his suggestions that the Government should transfer the present show to the Upper House, where some lawyers might be engaged to explain the bill, was greeted with uproarious laughter.

Shortly before 10 o'clock Mr. Martin got the floor and read The Citizen's report of yesterday's proceedings with appropriate comments. Then he had a fling at Judge Masson, who, he insinuated, had been bought by a judgeship to vote for the bill. Now the goods had been delivered. Then he turned his attention to Toronto's own Emerson Coatsworth, who he said was to get a judgeship and Whip Taylor, who is to be superintendent of the Rideau canal.

Chairman Mara called Mr. Martin down by saying that his remarks were in bad form.

Mr. Haggart diversified the proceedings by moving that Mr. Martin's words be taken down. A lively scrap followed, which ended presently by Mr. Martin being allowed to proceed. Later on there was further commotion when he said Sir Charles Tupper's tactics were of so much value to the Liberals that they would subscribe to keep him alive. This led to an altercation between Messrs. Guillet and Martin, after which the pugnacious member for Winnipeg got into a wrangle with Dr. Cameron of Inverness. The climax was reached when Col. Tyrwhitt solemnly drew attention to the fact that Dr. Cameron was obstructing the House. Presently Mr. Martin came to a full stop. Everybody wondered what was wrong and after loud cries of "question" and "go on," Mr. Martin said, "I can't go on while the Minister of the Interior is raising such an infernal racket; I cannot hear myself speak."

Then Mr. Martin had his little say about Judge Masson, which led Mr. Daly to warmly defend Judge Masson's conduct in the House.

Next Mr. Charlton got the floor and ran over the list of Conservative members who had received, or, in his opinion, are to receive Government positions. The mention of Mr. Boyle's name led to an indignant protest from that gentleman and remarks from Mr. Cockburn that such statements were utterly unworthy of a gentleman.

Mr. Mulock followed, and then immediately the House was in an uproar again by an imputation or his on Alex McKay. Then for over half an hour the chairman and Mr. Mulock fought it out, the result being that in the end the member for North York withdrew his reflections on Mr. McKay.

Following Mr. Mulock came ex-Controller Wallace, who held the fort until 3 o'clock, dealing with the charge of obstruction and the Masson appointment.

Mr. Cargill was replying to Mr. Wallace at 3 o'clock, when the third day of the continued sitting ended with nothing done.

Mr. McNeill said the statement made in debate that the rights that the minority had at the union had been "extended and perpetuated," embodied the fallacy which pervaded the speech of the Finance Minister, that was being sown broadcast over the country. The rights that were perpetuated were the rights possessed "at the union," and those only. The state-aided Separate schools were established after the union, and the framers of the constition deliberately refused to enact that they should be perpetuated.

Mr. Cameron—The Judicial Committee said they were perpetuated.

Mr. McNeill—No lawyer in either side of the House will venture to rise in his place and support so absurd a proposition. This shows with how little intelligence members on this side of the House have supported this bill. This was the great fallacy, and it was evident from the excitement of his honorable friend, how much importance was attached to it. Then, it was said, these poor, simple half-breeds were deceived. They thought they were getting their state-aided Separate schools in perpetuity. Were then Sir Hector Langevin and Sir Geo. Cartier and the other able men who represented their interests in Parliament at that time such very simple folk that they did not know the plain meaning of the words used?

If it was understood, as alleged, that state-aided schools were to be established after the union, it was also understood most distinctly that there was to be no guarantee that they were to be maintained in perpetuity. The understanding was carried out in good faith. The state-aided Separate schools were established after the union. They had a fair trial of 19 years. They were found wanting, and the Provincial Government, in the interests both of the minority and the majority, abolished them, and now the Dominion Parliament was asked to coerce the province to re-establish Separate schools. He would do violence to no man's conscience. If necessary, he would interfere on behalf of the scruples of the minority. But the Government of Manitoba had now offered to adopt a system by which conscientious scruples would be carefully respected. Let us proceed with this measure of coercion. But they had no evidence that the minority wished for Separate schools. They knew of many instances where Separate schools were forced upon them

THE Conservatives sneer at Sir Richard Cartwright as preaching "blue ruin." They doubtless prefer to practice "blue ruin" instead of preaching it. They are this far ahead of Sir Richard, they practice what they accuse him of preaching.

OHIO has passed an act forbidding treating to intoxicating drinks. Mr. Old Soak strongly objects to the law as a tyrannical infringement on personal liberty, a discouragement to the brotherhood of man and a death blow to dead-head dispensation of drinks. Seriously it is claimed that, amongst all but seasoned casks, the prevention of treating will diminish drunkenness. A large proportion of excessive drinking is doubtless due to the consumption of liquor as a development of the social instinct.

THE CHEESE TRADE.

The wind up of the cheese trade for 1895 and 1896 has proved very unsatisfactory, and this in face of the most encouraging prospects last fall, when English buyers, induced by the very reasonable prices ruling, made large purchases of August, September and October make, and seemed well satisfied. These goods were put aside, for a later market; but in the meantime large quantities of well kept summer goods came out of their hiding place in cold storage, and this kept the market supplied with a class of goods that suited the English trade, and were of course bought at less cost than the fall cheese. Consequently the English trade got accustomed to this cheaper class of goods, while the fall cheese were comparatively neglected; and as there were a great many more summer goods than was generally expected, the demand was satisfied thereby, to the exclusion of the better and higher priced article. Only a few days ago a lot of 2,000 summer cheese was sold at Ogdensburg, N. Y., to a Montreal firm at 7c there. Advices from London, England, report a better feeling since stocks have been reduced; but prices remain about the same. In this market fall cheese has sold at 8⅓ to 8⅓, with some holders asking 8¾c.—Montreal Trade Bulletin.

THE DAIRY SCHOOL CLOSES.

THREE OF THE STUDENTS FROM PETERBOROUGH.

A Director Reviews the History of the School—How the Ontario Government Came to Take Charge—Improvements Looked For.

Closing exercises in connection with the Kingston Dairy School, says the Kingston Whig, took place the other afternoon. A number of citizens attended, including several ladies. The occasion marked not only the sessional closing, but also the finish of the last special course of two weeks' duration, which thirty-one students took advantage of to advance their knowledge of cheesemaking. E. J. B. Pense, chairman of the dairy branch, presided, and expressed the pleasure experienced by the directors of the school of mining and agriculture at the second successful annual closing. Notwithstanding the difficulty of establishing an independent school in a section of the province lacking permanent agricultural organization, it prospered from the start, and that it would continue to do so was the earnest hope of all connected with it. A new institution had to be created and a sentiment in its favour worked up, but there could be no doubt the right chord was struck when the Kingston dairy school was established. When Principal Grant mooted the scheme to Prof. Robertson, he was at once impressed with it practicability and offered most generous assistance. For 2 years the Dominion government have carried on the work making and instructing. The Ontario government, with unselfish liberality furnished the buildings and gave a yearly grant, and have been true friends and helpers. This year the board of directors realized the time had come when a change must be made. The school could not go on under a divided patronage of two governments. It became necessary that either one or the other should adopt it. An approach was made to the Ontario government, as, under its patronage, a system of dairying education was being conducted with headquarters at Guelph. An auxiliary school being established at Strathroy, with this school in the west and Kingston's in the east, the chain of education would be more perfect and systematic. The Ontario government was favourably impressed with this view, and the Kingston school is now under its patronage and chief control. The board hoped most sincerely that the present staff would be re-appointed. Each member had worked as if not only his credit but that of the country was at stake. The relations of staff and board has been most agreeable. The benefit of the school to Eastern Ontario was dwelt upon, and the speaker expressed his pleasure at the presence of D. Derbyshire, of Brockville, "the daddy of us all" in the cheese and butter industry.

A summary of the attendance was given: Applications received 130; number accepted, 116; students in attendance, 91; students who took one or more courses last year, 13. Three students remained fourteen weeks; one, twelve weeks; one, ten weeks; three, eight weeks; eleven, six weeks; ten, four weeks. The remainder stayed under four weeks. The attendance by counties show that Peterborough county, with its 35 factories, sent in only three pupils. Stormont, Frontenac and Lanark counties, being all in the vicinity, took advantage of the school and sent in respectively, 12, 14 and 15 pupils each.

BEYOND RECOVERY.

PAPPINEAUVILE, March 30 (Special)—The father of the boy LaFlamme, one of the leading merchants here and willing to talk of his son's cure, he says—"My little boy Arthur, after scarlet fever about a year ago never recovered and his ailment ran into a kidney trouble. His body was swollen to twice its natural size. The sufferings of the little fellow were very severe and we had all given up hope of him. But three months ago we commenced giving him Dodd's Kidney Pills, and to-day he is romping and playing with other boys." This, as an instance of cure, is very remarkable.

EXCLUSION OF CANADIAN CATTLE

Was A Subject Discussed in the Senate Yesterday—There is No Pleuro-Pneumonia in this Country.

Ottawa, April 8.—(Special)—The Senate spent the greater part of to-day's session in discussing a motion by Senator Boulton for correspondence relating to the preservation of the health of Canadian herds of cattle and other live stock. He spoke at considerable length, expressing the opinion that the scheduling of Canadian cattle was not an unmixed evil, inasmuch as it would make it necessary for Canadian cattle breeders to export fat cattle instead of sending store cattle as formerly to be fattened in England.

Senator Cochrane said the contention of the English Government that Canadian cattle were affected by pleuro-pneumonia was ridiculous. The scheduling was not an unmixed evil, as Canadians could now feed their cattle at home.

Senator John Ferguson thought the debate exceedingly ill-timed, in view of the fact that a bill to exclude Canadian cattle from the English market was now before the British Parliament.

Senator Ferguson (P.E.I.) pointed out that the utter fallacy of the contention that pleuro-pneumonia existed in Canada was shown by the fact that since the imposition of the schedule 100,000 cattle had been examined and the lungs of over 5000 animals had been dealt with by experts and not a single case of the disease had been discovered.

Senator Angers went into the whole question of the precautions taken by the Government and their efforts to convince the Imperial Government that they were wrong in assuming that the disease existed among cattle in Canada, to show that the action of the British Board of Agriculture was not warranted by the facts.

Senator Boulton withdrew his motion and the matter dropped.

THE UNITED STATES NAVY.

Torpedo Boats and Torpedo Boat Catchers to be Added to the Fleet.

Washington, April 9.—The Naval Appropriation Bill for the coming fiscal year was reported to the Senate to-day. The four sea-going battleships authorized in the House Bill are left untouched. Amendments have been made, however, in the provisions for torpedo boats. Instead of five, capable of attaining a speed of 26 knots, as provided by the House, the Senate has substituted three torpedo boats, which will in reality be torpedo boat catchers, with a maximum speed of not less than 20 knots an hour. In place of ten or more torpedo boats, to cost not exceeding $800,000, and to have the highest practicable speed for vessels of their class, the Senate has substituted a provision for "Not to exceed ten torpedo boats, to cost in all not exceeding $500,000, and to have the highest practicable speed for vessels of their class."

THE LONG SITTING.

by the hierarchy, contrary to their wishes. He cited a case in Ireland and also the case of the Roman Catholics of Walkerton, who had resisted the establishing of a Separate school there. But it had been forced on them. He also quoted the recent declaration of the Government of Manitoba that outside of Winnipeg and St. Boniface the minority preferred the national schools. Was this House then out of sympathy with them to coerce the minority to accept Separate schools, and what about the majority?

After some humorous remarks from Mr. Davin, the Quebec members had their turn. Mr. Choquette protested against the charge that he was one of the obstructionists. Then Messrs. Jorcas and Langelier took a hand in and for some time the fur flew.

Mr. McGillivray said he would take up a few moments to reply to Mr. Wallace's statement that he had wobbled on the school question. Mr. Wallace had declined to take part in any meetings during the last week of the North Ontario campaign and yet after the election and after the time when Mr. Wallace said he had "wobbled," Mr. Wallace sent him a letter of congratulation. Did Mr. Wallace object to his reading that letter?

Mr. Wallace—I heard an expression across the floor. I will repeat it, "Let 'er go, Gallagher." (Laughter.)

Mr. McGillivray—That remark may be Parliamentary, but it certainly is not elegant. (Laughter.) This is a letter from the man who said I wobbled.

Mr. Somerville—He hadn't found you out then. (Laughter.)

Mr. McGillivray proceeded to read Mr. Wallace's letter. It ran: "I have great pleasure in congratulating you on your splendid victory in North Ontario. I am glad you have realized your early expectations. The Grit-Patron combination did not work very well. (Laughter.) Wishing you continued prosperity." (Hear, hear.) Continuing, Mr. McGillivray advertised to some politicians who were noted wobblers, instancing chiefly Sir Richard Cartwright, who, during the whole of Mackenzie's regime, was classed in Parliamentary comparison as an Independent Conservative.

Sir Richard Cartwright—You will never find me classed as a Liberal-Conservative.

Mr. McGillivray—Well, you are the class of Independent Conservatives we don't care anything about. (Laughter.)

At half-past 3, after nearly 40 hours of obstruction, the committee resumed consideration of the bill, the motion for committee to rise being negatived.

Clause six, providing for the filling of a vacancy on the proposed Separate School Board, was amended to read, "That a vacancy on the board being caused by a member's death, or his absence from three consecutive meetings, notice thereof shall be given to the Provincial Secretary, or the Secretary of State, and the vacancy filled."

Clause seven, reading as follows, was next taken up:

"The Lieut-Governor in Council shall appoint one of the members of the board, to be the superintendent of the Separate schools, and the superintendent shall be the secretary of the board. If no appointment shall be so made, the board shall appoint one of its members to be the superintendent."

Mr. Martin had a verbal amendment to suggest in the latter clause, which Sir Charles Tupper was disposed to accept, and when Mr. Martin went on to speak of the character of the Manitoba Government, which passed the old School Bill, Sir Charles requested him to be good enough to confine himself to the bill.

At this Mr. Martin flared up, declaring that the request of the Secretary of State had no effect on him, and that he would do as he pleased. He went on to say that the Conservative Local Government which had passed the old bill had been turned out by the people.

"And they will turn you out," remarked Mr. Foster across the floor.

"No, they can't," was Mr. Martin's retort, "For we aren't in."

After this sally the committee returned to the seventh clause of the bill, and, at Mr. McCarthy's suggestion, the first line was changed by substituting for "The Lieut.-Governor in Council," the "Department of Education."

Half a dozen amendments were offered and talked to in the next hour. The general trend of the discussion favored giving all possible scope to the appointing power, and, accordingly, the following was adopted:

"That the Department of Education shall appoint a superintendent of the Separate schools, who is a Roman Catholic, and shall be the secretary of the board, to hold office during pleasure."

Subsequently a provision was added that the inspector shall speak English and French.

The whole of clause eight having being disposed of, the committee reverted to clause four, sub-section "C," of which relating to the selection of school books had previously been allowed to stand.

Mr. Dickey submitted an amendment, providing that any school books used in any province in Canada might be used in Manitoba.

Mr. Langelier protested against the clause, as giving the Catholics less than what they had before 1890, but his brother Liberal, Mr. Choquette, said Mr. Dickey's proposal was fair.

Mr. Dickey's amendment was adopted and a further one of Mr. Langelier's, to include "the books published in any country."

Clause 4, as amended, was then adopted, and then the House took up clause 9.

Mr. McCarthy urged that the House should adjourn as a good night's work had been done.

Sir Charles Tupper said he appreciated the progress which had been made, but in view of the state of public business it was impossible to accede to Mr. McCarthy's request.

Mr. Sutherland protested against Sir Charles Tupper's announcement.

Mr. Martin declared that if he had his way the House would decline to do any business until Saturday night under the circumstances.

Sir Hector Langevin remarked that he had a conversation with the Secretary of State in the corridor and suggested that the unopposed sections should be proceeded with. To this Sir Charles assented and he therefore offered the House this compromise on the authority of the leader. This was not acceptable to the Opposition and the obstruction began.

Mr. Choquette claimed that the chairman (Mr. Mills) should be able to understand French.

The Chairman decided that the rule quoted applied to the Deputy Speaker, or permanent chairman.

Mr. Fraser then, at half-past 2, moved that the committee rise, and the obstruction proceeded.

MRS. LAWLER WAS A PRISONER.

Forcibly Detained in a New York Hotel—Is There a Warrant for the Arrest of a Toronto Woman?

New York, April 9.—The World today publishes a detailed account of the adventures in this city of Mrs. Katie A. Lawler, a wealthy Buffalo woman. The statement is made by her attorney, H. W. Leonard of this city, that some of Mrs. Lawler's friends have recently been trying to induce her to go to the Sanitarium at Dansville. Mr. Leonard claims that Mrs. Lawler was enticed from the hotel where she has been stopping and virtually kept a prisoner at the Continental Hotel, from Saturday until Monday night, when she was rescued by friends. Lawyer Leonard says he will sue the proprietor of the Hotel Wilton of this city for the loss of Mrs. Lawler's baggage, her trunks having been shipped back to Buffalo without her consent and knowledge. Mr. Leonard also asserts that he has a warrant for the arrest of a young lady of Buffalo, who it is claimed is responsible for Mrs. Lawler being locked up in a room at the Continental Hotel.

Buffalo, April 9.—Mrs. Katherine Lawler, referred to in the above despatch, is the wife of S. W. Lawler, a prominent attorney of this city. She was the youngest daughter of a Mr. Kelly, who a few years ago conducted a large meat market in this city, but some time ago removed to Toronto with his wife and other members of the family. The young lady for whom Lawyer Leonard is said to have a warrant is believed to be Miss Margaret Kelly, who lives with her parents in Toronto.

A DANGEROUS PRECEDENT

Is the Action of U.S. Politicians in Dealing With the Maybrick Case.

Washington, April 9.—The House Committee on Foreign Affairs to-day instructed Chairman Hitt to report with a recommendation that it be passed a resolution asking the Secretary of State to report to the House what facts are in possession of the Department relating to the case of Mrs. Florence E. Maybrick, formerly of Mobile, Ala., and what steps, if any, the Government has taken to secure her release, or mitigation of punishment. Mrs. Maybrick is in prison in England under a life sentence upon conviction of the charge of poisoning her husband, a merchant of Liverpool.

THE CHICAGO AND GRAND TRUNK.

Annual Meeting in Detroit The Year's Business Has Been Disappointing.

Detroit, April 9.—C. Percy, secretary and treasurer of the Consolidated Grand Trunk system, is in Detroit. He was re-elected secretary of the Chicago & Grand Trunk at yesterday's meeting. The old board of directors were re-elected, the resignation of W. J. Spicer not being accepted. James H. Muir was re-elected treasurer. The business of the year has been disappointing. There was a net revenue deficiency of $324,640, or $111,800 more than the deficiency carried forward for 1894. The gross receipts for the year were $2,796,177; working expenses, $2,696,806; interest on bonds paid by Grand Trunk under traffic agreements, $660,000.

REV. DR. CARSON SUCCUMBS.

The Canadian Pastor of Jefferson-Avenue Church, Detroit, Taken Off by Typhoid

Detroit, April 7.—The Rev. W. W. Carson, D.D., of Jefferson-avenue Presbyterian Church, died this morning of typhoid fever.

The funeral will take place in Toronto on Friday.

The Rev. Dr. Carson was born Jan. 7, 1845, in the Township of Osgoode, Carleton County, Ontario, his parents being Thomas and Maria Carson, who came from Ireland in 1833. He was educated at Ottawa Grammar School and at the Iroquois Academy, in which he was for some time a teacher. After a course in theology he was in 1867 called to the ministry of the Methodist Church, being ordained by the late Rev. Dr. Morley Punshon in 1871. His first charge after ordination was the First Methodist Church in Hamilton. Afterward he had under his charge the Grant-avenue Church, Brantford; Woodstock Central Church; Centenary Church, Hamilton; Dominion Church, Ottawa; Toronto, Yonge-street north; the Elm-street Circuit, and in Kingston, going from Sydenham-street Church there to the Jefferson-avenue Presbyterian Church in Detroit. Dr. Carson was successful in every field in which he labored; was broad-minded and tolerant and was greatly esteemed in Methodist circles in Canada.

Regret at Ottawa.

Ottawa, April 7.—(Special)—News of Rev. Dr. Carson's death at Detroit was received here with expressions of great regret. During his pastorate of three years in Dominion Methodist Church Mr. Carson won many friends by his genial disposition. He was pastor of Dominion Methodist Church in this city from 1886 to 1889, going from Ottawa to Kingston. Mr. Carson while in Ottawa was noted for his broad views in religious matters and the religio-scientific cast of his sermons.

Everyone prefers a high-grade Piano to a poor one, but many are deterred from even inquiring about our instruments from a fear that our prices may be too high or our terms too stringent. Wedo not pretend to compete on these points with makers of poor or worthless Pianos, but, QUALITY CONSIDERED, our prices are really low, and we try to permit no one to go past us feeling that satisfaction cannot be given on the question of terms.

HOW THE SUN LIFE
FULFILS ITS PROMISES.

A Matured 10 Year Endowment.

Profits Paid by the SUN 21 per. cent more than the Estimates.

The following letter, which speaks for itself, was received by the undersigned this morning from a gentleman in Brockville, whose ten year endowment which he held in the Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada matured last week and was paid him. The Sun is modest in promises but UNEQUALLED IN RESULTS. The public are benefited by results, not by promises unfulfilled

BROCKVILLE, November 7th, 1895.

W. H. HILL, Mgr. Central Ontario Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada, Peterborough, Ontario:—

DEAR SIR.—I should have acknowledged the receipt of yours enclosing cheque for endowment policy No. 12,571 before, only I wanted to write something more than a mere receipt. I am pleased to hear of the continued prosperity of the "SUN" and it speaks well for your Company when the profits are greater (by 21 per cent.) than you as the Company's representative promised or rather estimated, as was the case with this policy.

I hope your Company will continue to prosper and I often regret that I do not carry more Insurance than I am doing. I might have carried twice as much as I do when at Minden without any great effort, still what little I do carry I feel is perfectly safe being in the "SUN."

I must thank you for your promptness and kindness regarding this policy just settled. I hope we will both be alive and well when the new one I now hold will be due in 1905 and assuring you of very best wishes, I remain,

Yours Sincerely,
(Signed) F. R. C.

The above voluntary testimonial is significant and shows in a most practical way the SUN'S standing as a profit paying institution.

The programme will consist of a Mother Goose reception and drill by a number of children; the fairy drama, "Beauty and the Beast," in six acts; the dolls' drill and a farce entitled "Two Heads are Better Than One." These entertainments which the members of the Guild give annually are always looked forward to with pleasure. 5eod

Presbyterian Mission Building.

A gentleman connected with St. Andrew's Presbyterian church called this morning to state that while our paragraph yesterday, referring to the report of the Commission of Presbytery in reference to the mission building question, in the South Ward, was correct as far as it went, it did not fully explain the circumstances, and requested publication of the following:—"The Presbytery's commission that met yesterday morning in St. Andrew's manse had little difficulty in adjusting matters regarding the proposed mission in the south end of the town. St. Paul's having abandoned all idea of church, St. Andrew's, while not favourable to the site chosen, yet seeing that it had been purchased, offered no opposition to a Sunday School building only being erected thereon. The meeting was most harmonious and the commissioners departed highly delighted. No doubt schools will soon be erected in other parts of the town." It may also be stated that St. Pauls did not apply for permission to erect a church, but simply a Sunday School building.

Wide-Awake Window Dressing.

The massive show windows of Gough Bros. are at present dressed up "fit to kill." As the engineer stands alert at the throttle while the express train flashes through the miles, so must the successful merchant watch every change of season and make his windows mark the signal of every fashion movement. In a store like Gough Bros.' few realize the work of hand and brains required to do this effectively. The passing crowds, no matter what their haste, have to pull up and admire Gough's windows, and there read in a few glances the trend of fashions in clothing, hats, boots and shoes, gentlemen's furnishings, etc. In the evening their window shows often draw as large an audience as any local event on the boards, teaching a lesson to some and advice and suggestions to others. The present handsome hat and clothing window was put in by Mr. W. S. Merrill, and the boot and shoe window by Mr. W. Hinchcliffe and his assistant, Miss Kelly. 1d1w

DETECTIVE MURRAY.

He is in Town in Connection With the Gray Arson Case.

The last chapter of the Scollie tragedy is now being prepared for the press by Detective Murray, who is in town for a day or two looking up additional evidence against Mr. and Mrs. Gray, in reference to the charge of arson, which the Crown, it is said, intends bringing against them at the sitting of the court on Monday next.

Detective Murray states that he does not expect to produce much more evidence than has yet been heard but that the case will be brought before the court mainly on the strength of the evidence already brought forward.

As nearly every man, woman and child in Peterborough is acquainted with the physiogomy of Mr. Murray, the occasion of his present visit has given rise to many inquiries.

Vocal Solo	Mrs Kernigan
Vocal Solo	Miss Lola Pettit

During the intermission each tried to make as many acquaintances and put in as happy a time as possible. In the address which Mr. G. W. Powell, Chief Templar of Auburn Lodge, gave, he set forth the merits and advantages of the order, and urged all present to first join themselves and then get others to come into the lodge with them. The entertainment was a decided success.

A HEAVY FINE.

Thirty Dollars for Selling Cigarettes to a Minor on Saturday.

Mr. Charles Legros was fined $30.00 by Magistrate Dumble in the police Court this morning on a charge of selling cigarettes to a minor on Saturday last.

It seems that Herbert Fitzgerald aged 11 years wished to purchase a package of cigarettes, and, as his youth was very apparent, he got a companion, Harold Graham, who was two years older, to purchase them for him.

The elder lad stated in Court that he went over and bought a package of cigarettes from Mr. Legros for five cents.

Mr. Legros in his evidence stated that he did not remember the boy at all, and that the only boy in his store on Saturday to his knowledge was one who got a package of cigarattes on an order signed by H. Thompson, which was produced in court.

ALL THE WAY FROM TEXAS.

Mr. Rob. Fairweather Sends up a Sample of Oats from the South.

Mr. Robert Innes to-day received a sample of oats from Belton, Texas. The stalk was plucked on March 31st of this year and is four feet eight inches long. By the appearance of the head the yield, it is estimated, will be about 100 bushels to the acre this year.

The sample was received from Mr. Robert Fairweather, of Gilmour street, who is wintering in the south and who states that his health is far more robust than it has been for some time. When Mr. Fairweather returns home he will doubtless have a large number of southern relics to exhibit to his friends, as he has taken his camera to Texas with him.

PERSONAL.

Miss Minnie Weir is visiting friends at Young's Point.

Miss Laura Kearney, of Youngs Point, is in town for a few days.

The Hastings Star says:—"Mr. E. Parsons, of Peterborough, is home on a visit."

Miss Peters, of Peterborough, is visiting with her cousin, Miss Nugent, Millbrook.

Mrs. O'Donovan has returned from Montreal, accompanied by her brother, Mr. Fred Scheak.

Mr. Will Hamilton, who has been ill in the Nicholls Hospital for some weeks, is recovering rapidly.

Miss Mary Farwell, of Millbrook, spent her Easter holidays at the residence of Mr. R. B. Rogers.

The Omemee Mirror says: Miss Best is spending her Easter holidays in Peterborough and vicinity.

Mrs. Absalom Ingram, Lake street, Ashburnham, is confined, through illness, in the Nicholls' hospital.

Miss Bertha Pytle, of Peterborough, who has been spending Easter holidays in Lindsay, the guest of her cousin, Miss Winnifred Shields, has returned home.

The Lindsay Post says: Miss E. J. Williamson, professional nurse of Peterborough, who has been visiting her brother, Mr. Sam Williamson, left for home this morning.

Mrs. M. T. Ostrom and little Miss Lola spent part of the Easter holidays in Toronto at the Walker House with Mr. M. T. Ostrom, Manager for Canada of the Keystone Remedy Co., Chicago.

The Lindsay Watchman says:—"Mr. George Mitchell, of Peterborough, has been promoted to the position of bridge inspector for the Midland division of the G.T.R., with headquarters at Lindsay. He will enter on his new duties at once. Mr. Mitchell is well known in this town, having resided here some years ago. We understand he has secured a house and will remove his family to Lindsay in a few weeks.

Mrs. Kendry, of Peterborough, says the Hastings Star, entertained the Methodist Sunday school, on Sunday afternoon, with a short address. In the evening she gave a very entertaining and excellent address on behalf of missions, under the auspices of the W. M. Society of the Methodist church. Mrs. Kendry is a ready speaker and possesses a broad, intelligent and well cultivated mind. She seems to be deeply imbued with, and thoroughly posted in the mission cause.

Mr. W. W. Powers is in town making arrangements for the appearance here of one of the Marks Bros. companies. This is the one with which Miss Emma Wells and Mr. Joe Marks are connected, and have never been in Peterborough. "Billy" makes a capital advance agent, and with his thorough knowledge of the theatrical business, will doubtless be able to keep ahead of the majority of his rivals on the road. THE EXAMINER received a pleasant call from him this morning.

A MISDIRECTED BLOW.

It Lays Open Reginald McFadden's Upper Lip.

While Reginald McFadden, a Peterborough youth, and son of Mr. Thomas McFadden, contractor and builder, was spending some of his Easter holidays at Mr. Samuel Dayell's, in Otonabee, he met with a very painful accident.

One day, in company with a companion, he was walking through a woods when suddenly seeing a chipmunk, his friend picked up a small sapling and aimed a misdirected slow at the chipmunk, which, instead of hitting the animal, struck Reggy and severed his lip up to his nose. The injured lad was brought to town and Dr. Bell attended to the wound, having to put in four stitches. The little fellow is now doing well.

NEWS NUGGETS.

Paragraphs Picked Up and Pencilled for Public Perusal.

—The ostrich read the fashion news,
And turned him deadly pale,
"Feathers worn again," he sighed;
"Ah! thereby hangs a tail."

—Town doctors report many severe colds.

—Traffic in calves will be resumed the latter part of this month and during May. They are fed to the aristocracy of Montreal.

—Said a bicycle boy "Now, then,
I will ride like the racing men."
But he got into trouble,
For he bent himself double,
And he couldn't bend back again.

—Lindsay's Y. M. C. A. is puttinga football team on the field this season. If the Peterborough Y. M. C. A. would do likewise the result could not possibly be other than beneficial.

—The society of King's Daughters in connection with St. Thomas church, Belleville, has presented the hospital of that place with a special bed for the surgical ward.

—Rusie, the Herculean New York pitcher, is losing exactly $13.33 every day that he refuses to report. He receives a salary of $400 per month and it begins to run just soon as he reports.

Many a good-natured river driver has lost his hard earned money through his negligence in taking care of himself.

Women, who seem to be all worn out, will find in purified blood, made rich and healthy by Hood's Sarsaparilla, permanent relief and strength. The following is from a well known nurse:

"I have suffered for years with female complaints and kidney troubles and I have had a great deal of medical advice during that time, but have received little or no benefit. A friend advised me to take Hood's Sarsaparilla and I began to use it, together with Hood's Pills. I have realised more benefit from these medicines than from anything else I have ever taken. From my personal experience I believe Hood's Sarsaparilla to be a most complete blood purifier." MRS. C. CROMPTON, 71 Cumberland St., Toronto, Ontario.

Trent Valley Canal.

Work is being resumed on the Trent Valley Canal, the snow being now nearly all gone. Operations will be commenced on an extensive scale this spring, as work will be commenced at Sawers' creek, and other places. As soon as the frost is out of the ground a large gang of men will be put on the cut through the village of Lakefield, removing the surface earth and making ready for blasting the rock. The coffer dam, which was put in below the village has been all taken out, but will be placed in another part of the river as soon as the water is low enough. It is expected that the village will present a lively scene next summer.—Lakefield News.

Mr. Sheldrake's Departure.

The following item, relative to a prominent Lakefield citizen, is taken from the Oakville Star of April 2nd, and will be read with with interest:—"Having found expedient to move the management of Lakehurst Sanitarium from Toronto to Oakville, Mr. Sparham Sheldrake, late of Lakefield, has accepted the important position of manager here. Mr. Sheldrake will become a permanent resident, and will be a valuable addition to the literary set in our town. Mr. Sheldrake has written several short poems that attracted much attention, and also contributed articles to papers and magazines. He will prove a tower of strenth to the institution with which he has connected himself. Oakville just suits his fancy as a residental town and it is a pleasure for us to welcome him.

A Great Feat.

The bicycle run of "200 miles in one day," performed by Dr. W. N. Robertson, of Stratford, Ont., on the 3rd of June, was a remarkable exhibition of endurance in a purely amateur rider. The doctor's scientific training would, no doubt, prove an important factor in successfully engineering such a difficult operation, though (as will be seen by letter published in another column) he does not hesitate to award due credit for his performance to the agent he relied upon in his great effort. The doctor's testimony to the marvellously sustaining power of Maltine with Coca Wine is entirely spontaneous and unsolicited, and, therefore, of the higher value. His report will be read with interest by wheelmen generally, in view of his claim that Maltine with Coca Wine enabled him to "pedal comfortably for hours after the period that I should been exhausted without it." Dr. Robertson tersely summarises the valuable action of Maltine with Coca Wine in those cases of enervation common among most "novices on the wheel," and affirms that "it is a wonderful heart-sustainer." This preparation may be had of all druggists, and may be relied upon as an agent of infinite value in nervous prostration and brain exhaustion resulting from undue strain upon the mental or physical energies.—Daily Globe, July 6, 1895

The local cricket club meets for reorganization this evening in the offices of the Trent Valley Canal. The problem of where the club will practice this year will be a difficult one to solve as the water has been cut off from the P. A. A. A. grounds and the new Nicholls Park crease is hardly in shape yet. If the new grounds are sodded it will take some time before the grass would stand being played upon.

LACROSSE.

Before getting your lacrosse for the season call on R. M. Glover at The EXAMINER office. He will handle the best stick in town this season. 3d

THE WHEEL.

Nothing definite was arrived at Yesterday in regard to a reduction of the rate to Quebec on July 1. Several informal conferences were held during the day between Dr. Doolittle and Geo. Van Felson and the influential members of the C. P. R. and G. T. R., who were meeting at the Queen's. That a reduction will be made is almost a certainty, but that it will be as much as has been asked for is not likely. The offer was made to guarantee 250 passengers for each line if an $8 rate was granted, but it was not received very favourably. The Globe has it from an authentic source that a rate of $9 30 will be granted to Toronto wheelmen, and from other places proportionate fares will be asked. The ultimatum of the railway officials will be promulgated next week, and in the meantime the wheelmen are living in hope.

When the Quebec track is completed it will be one of the best in the country, and records will be broken and championships won there on the first of July. The track which was built last year is a quarter-mile affair, but it is intended to enlarge it to a third. It will be constructed on the lines of the Rosedale track. Engineer Craw will have charge of the improvements, which will cost, it is estimated, about $1 500

The demand for bicycles is great and the supply so small that the manufacturers positively refuse to make any reduction in the price of their wheels, no matter how great the number required. A certain firm was offered $950 for ten wheels by a syndicate, but the offer was not entertained, and eventually the party returned and bought the bicycles at catalogue price.

THE MUNICIPAL AND ASSESSMENT ACTS.

AMENDMENTS MADE LAST SESSION OF THE LEGISLATURE.

A Summary of the More Important Changes and Additions.

During the last session of the Ontario Legislature some important amendments were made to the Municipal and Assessment Acts, the most important of which are briefly summarized below:

NOMINATION OF REEVES AND COUNCILLORS

One amendment affecting rural municipalities, was that providing that any township council may pass a bylaw providing for changing the hour for the nomination of reeves and councillors to one o'clock instead of 12 o'clock, as heretofore; and in townships divided into wards, to change the hour for the nominations of councillors from 12 o'clock to 1 o'clock, leaving the nomination for reeve at 10 o'clock as heretofore.

DUTIES OF RETURNING AND DEPUTY RETURNING OFFICERS.

Another amendment to the Municipal Act provides that the returning officer in cities and towns shall remain at his office on the evening of the polling day until all the ballot boxes and ballots have been returned to him by the deputies, and the Act also provides that the deputy returning officer shall forthwith after the counting of the ballots and the sealing of the packets, deliver the same personally to the town clerk, and shall, under no circumstances, take the ballot box or packets, or allow the same to be taken, to his home or house or office or place of business, or to any house or place whatsoever, other than the office of the clerk.

DATE OF FIRST MEETING.

Section six of the Act of 1896 provides that the first meeting of municipal councils shall be held in each year on the second Monday of January, instead of the third Monday as heretofore.

LIMITATION OF THE POWERS OF MORIBUND COUNCILS.

Section seven provides that no municipal council shall, after the 31st day of December, in the year in which the members were elected, pass any bylaw or resolution for the payment of any money, or which involves directly or indirectly the payment of any money, nor shall they enter into any contract or obligation on the part of the municipality, nor appoint to, or dismiss from office, any officer under the control of the council, or do any other corporate act after said day, except in case of extreme urgency; but the council may do any necessary business after the 31st day of December, which may, having regard to the circumstances, be done at such time and which they may now do at their last meeting.

Hereafter coupons to debentures are required to be signed by the treasurer as well as the mayor, whose signature alone was heretofore required.

SEWERAGE REGULATIONS.

Subsection, 15, of section 479, is amended by substituting after the 7th line, the following:

"In or adjacent to the municipality for the purpose of providing an outlet for any sewer or of establishing works or basins for the interception or purification of sewage and for making all necessary connections therewith, but subject always to the payment of compensation to persons who may suffer injury therefrom and to any restrictions and liabilities imposed by this Act in that respect or otherwise."

PERSONATION.

The council of any municipalit may offer rewards for the conviction of persons guilty of personation under the Act.

RE. DAMAGES TO LANDS.

The provisions of Section 487, which were before applicable to cities only, are extended to towns, and in a claim made by the owner of land entered upon, taken or used by the corporation, or injuriously affected by the corporation in the exercise of any of its powers, if the amount claimed does not exceed $1,000 the County Judge is to be sole arbitrator, or he may appoint a sole arbitrator.

DISCRETIONARY POWERS OF POLICE OFFICES.

Subsection 33 of section 480, as amended, provides that a police officer may release a person arrested on a charge of being drunk without being disorderly, even though it be more than the first or second offence.

AS TO HAWKERS AND PEDLARS.

The section respecting the licenses of hawkers, is amended to also include pedlars; and the term hawkers is interpreted to include persons, who are agents for for others, to sell furniture, carpets upholstery and millinery.

FARMERS SELLING AT SHOPS.

By an amendment to sub-section C of Section 503 it is provided that farmers and other producers may sell such produce at stores or shops at any hour of the day. This was Mr. Haycock's amendment as to which a deputation went to Toronto, and as the rule for many years in Peterborough has been to allow farmers to sell at shops at any hour of the day, the amendment does not affect the town.

RESPECTING ACTIONS FOR DAMAGES.

Sub-section 1 of section 531 is so amended that the time of giving notice of action, in respect of claims for damages, arising from persons falling owing to snow or ice upon the sidewalk, shall be reduced to seven days instead of thirty, as heretofore; and the notice must now be given in all such cases, except in case of the death of the person by whom the damage has been sustained, and the discretion which the Court formerly possessed as to the giving of notice, is taken away.

In actions for damages for non-repair of highways, under section 531, the remedy is confined to the municipality, and no member of the Council or officer of the municipality is to be held personally liable.

RESPECTING CLOSING OF HIGHWAYS.

Sections 546 and 550 are amended so that no council can close a road allowance, laid out under original survey, along the bank of a river, stream or the shore of any lake or other water, until the by-law providing for such closing shall have the approval of the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council.

LOCAL IMPROVEMENTS ASSESSMENT.

Section 613, sub-section 1, is amended by providing that the assessment for local improvement under such section shall be upon the property immediately benefitted by such work or improvement.

PUBLIC LAVATORIES AUTHORIZED.

Under section 618, subsection 5, certain restrictions are imposed, as to appeals to the County Judge in respect to assessments for local improvements.

Section 37 is added to as follows:

The council of any city or town may provide and maintain lavatories, urinals and water closets and like conveniences in situations where they deem such accommodation to be required, either upon the public streets or elsewhere, and may supply the same with water, and defray the expense thereof and of keeping the same in repair and good order.

RECOGNITION OF WHEELMEN.

Section 39 is another addition. It read as follows:

The Canadian Wheelmen's Association of the Dominion of Canada may, at the expense of said Association, erect and maintain for the benefit of bicyclists and other travellers upon the public roads and highways, sign-posts at road intersections and wherever necessary to guide travellers and mile-posts to show distances, and danger signals at hills which may be deemed by the said Association dangerous or unsafe for travellers on bicycles. Provided that every such sign-post, mile-post and danger sign shall be so placed as not to be an obstruction to the highway or to endanger the safety of any person travelling thereon; and provided further that no advertisements or notices shall be placed thereon except those only which give the names of places and show danger signs and distances as above mentioned, under a penalty of $5 for every offence, to be recovered before any justice of the peace having jurisdiction in the locality.

ASSESSMENT ACT AMENDMENTS.

None of the amendments of the Assessment Act affect the mode of assessing property. A clerical error in subsection 1 of section 27, is corrected by striking out the word "cities" after the words "ten acres in" in the eighth line. The amendments are chiefly with reference to the collection of taxes.

The Assessment Act is amended by adding the following as section 119 A:

REGARDING ASSESSMENT ROLLS.

Notwithstanding anything hereinbefore contained the council of any city or town may by by-law provide that the clerk shall make a collector's roll or rolls, as may be necessary, containing all the information required by this Act, to be entered by the collector therein; and in such roll or rolls he shall set down the name in full of every person assessed and the assessed value of his real and personal property and taxable income, as ascertained after the final revision of the assessments, and opposite the said assessed value as therein described of each respective person, he shall set down in column the amount for which the person is chargeable, for all sums ordered to be levied by the council of the said municipality for the purposes thereof.

(2) Appended to each and every such roll or rolls there shall be a table setting forth the following information, viz:—(a) the total amount of taxes levied and collected under and by virtue of such roll or rolls; (b) the name and amount of each rate levied by the municipality which is required by law or by the by law imposing it, to be kept distinct and accounted for separately, and specifying the aggregate proceeds of each such rate so levied and collected.

RE TAX NOTICES.

Sub-section 5 of the amended Act provides that the particulars of the different rates levied shall be placed on the notice of taxes given the ratepayer. (Peterborough has in practice anticipated this amendment for several years past.)

DISTRESS FOR TAXES—EXEMPTION.

Section 6 makes provision for the exemption from distress for non-payment of taxes, of the goods not belonging to the person liable for the taxes, with certain exceptions:

In case of distress for the non-payment of taxes where the owner or person assessed is not in possession, the goods and chattels on the premises, not belonging to the person liable for the taxes, shall not be subject to seizure; but this restriction shall not apply in favour of a person claiming title under or by virtue of an execution against the person so liable, or in favour of any person whose title is derived by purchase, gift, transfer or assignment from the person so liable, whether absolute or in trust, or by way of mortgage or otherwise, nor to the interest of the person so liable in any goods on the premises belonging to him, or to the possession of which he is entitled, under a contract for purchase or by which he may or is to become the owner thereof upon performance of any condition, nor where goods have been exchanged between two persons so liable by the one borrowing or hiring from the other, for the purpose of defeating the claim of or the right of distress for the non-payment of taxes; nor shall the restriction apply where the property is claimed by the wife, husband, daughter, son, daughter-in-law or son-in-law of the person so liable, or by any other relative of his, in case such other relative lives on the premises as a member of the family; and possession by the tenant of said goods and chattels shall be sufficient prima facie evidence that they belong to him.

The amendment introduced by Section 7 is very important. Heretofore any goods or chattels found upon the premises, the property of or in possession of any other occupant of the premises were liable to distress for taxes. By the amending section the power to distrain such goods is taken away. Hereafter a new tenant coming into a house will not be liable for the taxes of a previous tenant. The goods of the owner of the property found on the premises still remain liable for distress.

RENT MAY BE PAID TO TAX COLLECTOR.

The following is added to Section 13:

Where taxes are due upon any premises occupied by a tenant who is not liable to pay the same, the collector may give such tenant notice in writing requiring him to pay the rent of such premises as it becomes due from time to time to such collector to the amount of the taxes due and unpaid and costs, and he shall have the same authority to collect such rent by distress or otherwise for the amount of such unpaid taxes and costs as the landlord of the premises would have; but nothing in this sub-section contained shall prevent the recovery of any portion of such taxes which may remain unpaid after applying any payment or payments that are made in the manner provided by law for the collection of taxes.

This will apparently not affect the case of a tenant who is assessed for the premises, and who will still remain liable for the payment of the taxes as heretofore.

TENDERS WANTED.

TENDERS WILL BE RECEIVED UP TO 8 o'clock on the 23rd day of April, for the erection of the new Roman Catholic Presbytery, Hastings.

Teachers Discuss Canadian Patriotism, Monroe Doctrine, French Lyrics, Homeric Poems, German Reformation etc.

Toronto, April 9.

Nigh 400 teachers were present at the second day's proceedings of the Ontario Educational Association.

In the public school department, national patriotism was discussed, and, of course, Alex. Muir, author of "The Maple Leaf," took part in the discussion.

The Hon. G. W. Ross reviewed the new school regulations, and went so far as to say that the closing of Public schools for five years would turn back progress for half a century.

G. R. Parkin, LL.D., spoke of the tendency of teachers to become mere machines, and insisted that the successful teacher should be intensely interested in his work and not in the gain to be derived from it.

The following officers were elected: President, W. E. Graves; vice-president, Miss Hendry, Hamilton; secretary, M. H. Hariton; treasurer, Mr. Richie.

At the historical section a paper was read on the Monroe Doctrine by W. J. Robertson of St. Catharines. He dealt with the subject from the standpoint of international law, claiming that the doctrine had never been accepted by authorities in that department.

Prof. Clark, Toronto, next discoursed on the state of Europe at the time of the German Reformation.

The Public school inspectors elected these officers: President, J. S. Deacon, Milton; secretary-treasurer, W. F. Chapman, Toronto; director, C. Moses, Caledonia. Mr. Dow of Whitby read a paper on how to raise the status of rural schools. Many suggestions were made as to their improvement.

At the Modern Language Association Mr. McLay of McMaster read a paper on "Ibsen." Then followed a paper on "Fixed Forms of French Verse," by Mr. Davidson of Stanford University, California, dealing with the origin and character of the French Lyric.

The election of officers for the new year resulted as follows: President, A. W. Wright, Galt; vice-president, F. H. Sykes; secretary-treasurer, W. H. Fraser.

The Rev. Alex Jackson, Ph.D., Galt, chairman of the trustees' department, gave a vigorous address on the influence of the association in relation to public education in Ontario.

At the kindergarten meeting Mr. Blake of Springfield spoke of the benefits to be derived from the International Kindergarten Union. The following officers were elected: President, Miss Bolton, Ottawa; director, Miss Mary MacIntyre, Toronto; secretary, Miss Florence Bowditch, Hamilton.

In the classical section Prof. McNaughton of Queen's, dealt with the Greek Theatre in the time of Pericles, giving in detail all the arrangements of theatre.

The afternoon was devoted to Homer, papers being presented on "The Similes of Homer," "A Day with Homer," and "The Women of Homer."

The committee appointed by the commercial section to consider the two systems of writing, vertical and slanting, reported against any system that involved finger movement to any great extent. The following were elected officers for the ensuing year. President, Mr. Fletcher, Kingston; vice-president, Mr. Evans, Galt; secretary-treasurer, Mr. Grant, Toronto.

The officers of the Model school section for next year are: Chairman, Mr. Nethercott, Woodstock; secretary-treasurer, Mr. William Wilson, Toronto Junction. A resolution was passed strongly advocating the lengthening of the Model school term to one year, in order to secure the more efficient training of third-class teachers.

The sections meet again to-day.

At the evening session of the association, Prof. Baker delivered his annual address as president. In the course of a very able effort, he pointed out that the methods of teaching English literature were in a very backward state, because only the critical and receptive faculties of the student were being developed. The creative faculties as well should be developed, and the University curriculum should be so arranged that only those who were especially proficient in English literature should pass in that subject.

Prof. Baker also argued in favor of the extension of instruction in physical culture.

The election of officers then took place. Mr. John Dearness, Public School Inspector for Middlesex, was chosen president, defeating Mr. A. Embury, Public School Inspector for Peel.

Messrs. R. W. Doan and W. J. Hendry were elected secretary and treasurer respectively.

Stick Out

YOUR TONGUE!

What for?

Because it may save your life!

How?

It is the barometer that indicates the state of your health by its shapes, coatings and colors.

For example?

Well, a pointed tongue indicates irritation and disorder in the stomach and bowels.

The full broad tongue shows want of proper digestive action.

The dry, pinched tongue is the tongue of acute disease.

The fissure tongue proves inflammatory action of the kidneys.

A dry tongue is evidence that the stomach and intestines cannot do much digestive work.

Coating of the tongue is the result of intemperate eating and drinking The Liver is deranged.

The broad, pallid tongue shows a want of alkaline elements in the blood. It is a danger signal.

The deep red tongue, generally dry, shows acid.

Dryness always indicates nervousness, and diseases of the nerve centres.

Extreme moisture shows the reverse.

Be your own doctor. Examine your tongue. It will show you whether or not you are in condition to stand spring weather changes.

If you are not almost any desease may strike you down. Get in condition at once by using the latest and best spring medicine

"A DANGEROUS POSSIBILITY."

How a Buffalo Journal Views Mr. Chamberlain's Imperial Zollverein.

Buffalo, April 8.—The Enquirer to-day, in a column editorial headed "A Dangerous Possibility," discusses the possibility of a British Zollverein on the lines indicated by Mr. Chamberlain at the Canadian dinner in London. The Enquirer concludes as follows. "As about one-half of our export trade is to the United Kingdom, and as the articles of export are largely products of the field, forest and mine, it is easy to see how serious a matter it might prove for the United States if any such system should be formed, and a discriminating duty levied on our goods."

The Former Well-Known Toronto Newspaper Man Joins the Happy Army.

Brockville, April 8.—In the First Presbyterian Church to-day W. J. Healey, editor of The Brockville Times, was married to Miss Emily Maude, only daughter of the late William McCullough. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. A. Mackenzie, in the presence of a large number of invited guests and friends. The bride was supported by Miss Edith Folger of Kingston, and the best man was L. C. Panet of the House of Commons, Ottawa. The church was beautifully decorated for the occasion. The happy young couple left by the afternoon train for the East and will visit Montreal, Boston, New York and other Eastern cities.

Metric System in the U.S.

Washington, April 8.—The House spent two hours to-day in roll calls upon questions relating to the bill to make the metric system of weights and measures the legal system in the United States after Jan. 1, 1901, and finally it was recommitted to the Committee on Coinage, Weights and Measures.

IT MAKES ALL THE DIFFERENCE.

Some American Politicians Deny That the Paris Tribunal Made an Award in the Behring Sea Matter.

Washington, April 8.—The executive session of the Senate this afternoon was devoted principally to the reception of a report from Mr. Sherman, chairman of the Committee on Foreign Relations, on the treaty now before the Senate relating to the appointment of a commission for the assessment of damage growing out of the seizure of Canadian vessels for violation of the regulations relating to the Behring Sea fur seal fisheries. Mr. Sherman reported a few amendments, which were ordered printed. The treaty will be taken up in a few days.

The amendments reported will not change the text of the treaty in any material manner. The addition of four vessels, not included in the statement of fact submitted to the Paris tribunal, which was thrown out by the committee, has been permitted to stand.

The word "award," as used in the treaty has, however, been expurgated, for the reason that the members of the committee do not agree with the claim of the British Ambassador, that the Paris tribunal made any award in connection with this matter. On the contrary, they contend that the question of damages was not before the tribunal, and that it expressly declined to consider any question relating to damages. Believing that the word "award," if permitted to stand, might lead to confusion, the committee has reported in favor of striking it out and changing the text relating to the statement of fact, so as to read: "As found by the Paris tribunal," instead of "found by the award of the Paris tribunal." The only other amendment of consequence is one that provides that the commission may sit either at Vancouver or San Francisco, the original draft of the convention stipulating that the sessions should all be held in Vancouver.

Five Years for Forgery.

Windsor, April 8.—Adolph Binsette was to-day sentenced by Magistrate Bartlet to five years in Kingston Penitentiary for forging the name of Wm. Sweetman to a mortgage. He was not prosecuted on the charges against him of perjury, false pretence, two others of forgery and two more minor charges.

A TORONTO LADY

GETS A CHRISTMAS BOX WHICH SHE PRIZES HIGHLY.

In tracing up some of Santa Claus' good deeds this year, a lady gives us the following account of her Christmas box. The lady's name is Mrs. H. G. Ferguson, and she resides at 211 Church st. Mrs. Ferguson began as follows:—

"I have for years been a great sufferer with kidney complaint, severe pain under shoulders and across back, and latterly so weak that I could not walk out or do housework. Seven years ago the doctor told me I had Bright's Disease. A number of physicians told me I was past help; one of them said I could not live a month. I have taken a great deal of medicine, but without relief, and had given up hope; in fact, told my son that I did not expect to live until spring. My son saw the advertisement of the Doan Kidney Pill Co., Dec. 3rd, and told me. I asked him to get a box and I would try them, although I had but little faith in them, because all other remedies had failed, and as a result I had given up hope. He got one box of pills at J. R. Lee's drug store and I commenced taking them. The result has been marvellous. After taking them once I experienced relief, and after taking them three times the change for the better was marked. I have only taken one box of pills, but I feel like a new woman. The pain and other symptoms of the dreadful disease are gone. I am stronger and better than I have been in many years. I am now able to do my housework and walk out without suffering any inconvenience. That box of Doan's Kidney Pills was indeed a grand Christmas box for me. I am glad to let everyone know about this wonderful cure, in the hope that some one who has suffered as I have may try the remedy and be benefited as I have been."

STEAMSHIPS IN COLLISION,

The Bell Arden Runs Against the Friesland and is Beached

New York, April 7.—The steamer Bell Arden of the Lamport & Holt line, while outward bound to-night, collided off Owls' Head buoy with the steamer Friesland from Antwerp, which was just leaving Quarantine for her pier. The Bell Arden at once began to fill, and the pilot headed for the Staten Island shore and beached the boat. At the time of the grounding the Bell Arden had 14 feet of water in her hold. The Friesland was not injured and proceeded to her dock. The Bell Arden was bound for Montevideo.

Froebel, the great promotor of the kindergarten system of teaching children said: "Let parents not live for their children, but with them." The mother who understands this sentiment lives with, even her unborn child. She studies to be wise about herself and the little life she is fostering. She does all she can to give her child a fair start in life, by giving it a strong well developed body. All through babyhood, childhood and youth she lives with her son or her daughter. Especially her daughter she will keep near her. She will allow no false modesty to stand in the way of that daughter's knowledge of herself, of her possibilities, of her perils. She will teach her that happy, healthful motherhood is an honor, a blessing. That sickness is a mistake, a breaking of nature's law. But there are times of unavoidable overdoing when the system becomes run-down.

For over thirty years Dr. Pierce has used his "Favorite Prescription" as a strengthener, a purifier, a regulator. It works directly upon the delicate, distinctly feminine organs, in a natural, soothing way. It searches out the weak spots; and builds them up. It is beneficial in any state of the system. A woman who would understand herself will find an able assistant by sending 21 cents to the World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y., for Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser. It is a book that has reached its 680th thousand. It contains in its 1008 pages an immense store of information in plain words that any person will readily understand.

MR. O. G. SPEAR, of Sand Bank, Oswego Co., New York, testifies in this wise: "Our first child was born before my wife was sixteen years old. Afterward her health was very poor. She tried Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. She gained flesh and strength by using two bottles. During the last few weeks of her second pregnancy she again used the "Prescription." Her confinement was a rapid and easy one, and she got up strong and well."

GOOD ADVICE
ABOUT DYSPEPSIA.

The best advice about dyspepsia is—cure it with Burdock Blood Bitters and as surely as you follow the advice and take the medicine the cure will follow in every case.

Mr. Wm. Day of Fort William, Ont., says in speaking of B.B.B.:—Two years ago my wife was very ill with dyspepsia. No remedy that she could find gave any relief; finally she tried Burdock Blood Bitters and after taking six bottles was entirely cured. That is now more than two years ago and she has no return of the malady. I also have had occasion to use B. B. B. and I cannot speak too highly in its favour.

I always recommend it to my friends and in every case with good results. Hoping this may be of use to you, I am, Yours very truly. WILLIAM DAY.

AN ITCHING HEAD

IS a source of great discomfort. It's annoying to yourself and disgusting to your friends.

Most times dandruff, scurf, or scales cause it, and these, if neglected, produce baldness. By using Hairene you can clean the scalp, relieve the itching, nourish the hair roots, and produce a vigorous growth of hair.

It makes any county, whose officials permit a lynching to occur, liable to the family of the victims for damages. The bill is the result of several lynchings of colored men in Ohio in the last three years.

Li Hung Chang's Tour.

London, April 8.—The Times to-morrow will publish a despatch from Singapore saying that after his visit to St. Petersburg Li Hung Chang, who goes to Russia to represent the Emperor of China at the coronation of the Czar at Moscow, will proceed to London. According to this despatch Li Hung Chang has abandoned his intention of making a tour of America.

THEY COUNT BY THE SCORE

Yea, By the Hundreds, Those Who Have Been Cured of Dire Disease By South American Nervine.

A Remedy Widespread and Universal in Its Application.

Where Other Medicines Have Failed and Doctors Have Pronounced the Cases Beyond Cure, This Great Discovery Has Proven a Genuine Elixir of Life.

The Same Verdict Comes From Old and Young, Male and Female, Rich and Poor, and From All Corners of the Dominion.

If it is the case that he who makes two blades of grass grow where only one had grown before is a benefactor of the race, what is the position to be accorded that man who by his knowledge of the laws of life and health gives energy and strength where languor, weakness and anticipation of an early death had before prevailed? Is not he also a public benefactor? Let those who have been down and are now up through the use of South American Nervine give their opinions on this subject. John Boyer, banker, of Kincardine, Ont., had made himself a hopeless invalid through years of overwork. At least he felt his case was hopeless, for the best physicians had failed to do him good. He tried Nervine, and these are his words: "I gladly say it: Nervine cured me and I am to-day as strong and well as ever." Samuel Silva, of Meaford, was cured of neuralgia of the stomach and bowels by three bottles of this medicine. Jas. Sherwood, of Windsor, at 70 years of age, suffered from an attack of paralysis. His life, at that age, was despaired of. But four bottles of Nervine gave him back his natural strength. A victim of indigestion, W. F. Bolger, of Renfrew, says: "Nervine cured me of my suffering, which seemed incurable, and had baffled all former methods and efforts." Peter Esson, of Paisley, lost flesh and rarely had a good night's sleep, because of stomach trouble. He says: "Nervine stopped the agonizing pains in my stomach the first day I used it. I have now taken two bottles and I feel entirely relieved and can sleep like a top." A representative farmer, of Western Ontario, is Mr. C. J. Curtis, residing near Windsor. His health was seemingly completely destroyed through la grippe. No medicine did him any good. "To three bottles of Nervine," he says, "I attribute my restoration to health and strength." Neither man or woman can enjoy life when troubled with liver complaint. This was the sentiment and feeling of W. J. Hill, the well-known bailiff of Bracebridge. "I was so bad," says he, "that one of my medical attendants said that I was dying, but, thank God, I am not dead yet. From the first few doses I took of Nervine I commenced to feel better, and am to-day restored completely to my usual health." A resident of the Maritime Provinces, in the person of S. Jones, of Sussex, N.B., says: "For twelve years I was a martyr to indigestion, constipation and headache. The treatment of several physicians did not help me. I have taken a few bottles of Nervine, and can truthfully say that I am a new man."

A shrewd observer of human nature has said: "The hand that rocks the cradle moves the world." How important it is, then, that health and strength should be made the lot of the mothers of this country. The women of Canada are ready by scores to tell of the benefits that have come to them through the use of South American Nervine. Mrs. R. Armstrong, of Orillia, wife of the colporteur of the Bible Society of that town, suffered for six years from nervous prostration. Medical assistance did not help. "In all," she says, "I have taken six bottles of Nervine, and can truthfully say this is the one medicine that has effected a cure in my case." Mrs. John Dinwoody has been for 40 years a resident of Plesherton, and has reached the allotted three-score years and ten. Three years ago her system sustained a severe shock through the death of a daughter. Nervine was recommended. She perseveringly took 12 bottles of medicine, with the result that she is today again strong and hearty. Hundreds of women suffer from impoverished blood and weakened nerves. "All vitality," says Mrs. J. Ballis, of Brampton, "seemed to have forsaken my system. I was unable to get relief from any source until I commenced taking South American Nervine. The results are most satisfactory—greater far than I could have hoped for." It came within the way of Mrs. H. Stapleton, of Wingham, to treat under the best physicians, both in Canada and England, for heart disease and nervous debility, but she failed to get any relief. "I was advised," she says, "to take South American Nervine, and must say I do believe that if I had not done so I would not be alive today."

Newspaper space is too valuable to permit of further additions to these earnest words of testimony from those who know just what they are talking about. In the common language of the day, they have been there, and are speaking from the heart. The dozen or more witnesses that here speak have their counterparts by the hundreds, not only in the province of Ontario, but in every other section of the Dominion. South American Nervine is based on a scientific principle that makes a cure a certainty, no matter how desperate the case may be. It strikes at the nerve centers from which flows the life blood of the whole system. It is not a medicine of patchwork, but is complete and comprehensive in its application.

SUDDEN DEATH.

On Saturday morning the villagers were once again startled by the announcement that another sudden death had taken place in our midst. On Saturday morning Mr. James Sutton left his home and came over to the barber shop to get shaved, and then went to the butcher shop for a supply of meat to put his family over Sunday, and then started for home, and got a little over half way across the bridge when he was seen to fall. When the parties reached him he had breathed his last. He was conveyed to his home at once and a doctor summoned, but it was of no avail. Heart failure was the cause of death. He was a vigorous old man, 70 years of age, and had lived here for a number of years, working around the sawmill. He had been complaining this winter. This sudden death has again shocked the community. He leaves behind a wife and three daughters to mourn his loss. His daughters are: Mrs. Rowe, of Smith, Mrs. Henry Snelgrove, of Beaverton, and Miss Selina Sutton. He was buried at the Hillside cemetery on Monday, Rev. Wm. Limbert of the Methodist church officiating. The family have the deep sympathy of the village in their sad and sudden bereavement.

CHURCH OF ENGLAND EASTER SERVICE.

On Sunday the choir rendered very effectively Booktrik's "Te Duem," also the anthem, "He is Risen." The following hymns were also sung during the service: "Christ the Lord is Risen To-day," "The Foe Behind the Deep Before," "Jesus Christ is Risen To-day," "On the Resurrection Morning." The incumbent, Rev. G. Warren, preached a very eloquent sermon appropriate for Easter. The altar and baptismal font were nicely decorated with calla lilies, roses, tulips, lilies of the valley, easter lilies, etc.

VESTRY MEETING.

Rev. Geo. Warren presided at the vestry meeting of St. John the Baptist church, which was held in the old church on Monday evening. There was a fairly large number of members present and the proceedings were very harmonious throughout. Mr. C. J. Bloomfield, on behalf of the Churchwardens, made the annual financial statement, which was satisfactory. The societies in connection with the church showed good work done, financial and otherwise.

The election of officers was then proceeded with, and resulted as follows:—

Churchwardens—F. J. Lillicrap, clergyman's; C. J. Blomfield, people's.

Delegates to the Synod—H. J. Lefevre and C. J. Blomfield.

Auditors—Hugh C. Lampriere and F. R. S. Barlee.

SCHOOL BOARD.

On Wednesday evening of last week the regular monthly meeting of the School Board was held in the Town Hall.

There were present Dr. Fraser, in the chair, and Messrs. G. J. Galvin, Levi Payne and W. McDonald.

Moved by Messrs. W. McDonald and Levi Payne, that the accounts of J. W. Ridpath, printing, $1 50, and Harry Ingram, for kindling wood, $4.00, be received and orders drawn on the Treasurer for the same.—Carried.

Moved by Messrs. W. McDonald and G. J. Galvin, that the report of the principal, Mr. W. A. Evans, be received, and that Mr. Evans have authority to get what chemicals he requires for use in the Public School, and also that his recommendation re window blinds be referred to the Property Committee, with power to act.—Carried.

The Board then adjourned.

The things that people see are inside of them and not outside. No two people see the same thing exactly alike. One woman may look out at a beautiful landscape and see all the beauty and restfulness and grandness that there is in it. Another one will look out on the same scene and see nothing. The man who is perfectly well and vigorous enjoys life to the full. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery makes people well. There isn't anything miraculous about it—it is the most natural thing in the world. It simply puts the digestive organs, the stomach, the liver, the bowels, in perfect order, and thereby makes the blood pure and rich. All diseases live and thrive on impure blood. Keep a stream of pure, rich, rich blood flowing into a diseased spot, and the disease will not stay. A man lives on rich pure blood, and disease dies on it.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery makes pure, rich blood. Send 31 cents in one cent stamps to World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y., and receive Dr. Pierce's 1008 page "Common Sense Medical Adviser," profusely illustrated.

Jury Found Michael Brennan Guilty of Murder.

PRISONER KNEW IT WAS A CRIME

When He Ruthlessly Slayed Mr. John A. Strathy—The Insanity Plea Failed—Mrs. Brennan Became Hysterical in Court and Had to be Removed.

Barrie, April 10.—(Special.)—The murder case here closed at 8.40 to-night. It took the jury just an hour to decide that M. J. Brennan wilfully murdered John A. Strathy on Feb. 18 last.

When the verdict was returned an immense crowd packed the court room, and a deathly silence pervaded the place as, in response to the question of His Lordship Judge Armour, the jury foreman pronounced the prisoner's doom in gutteral tones, with the words, "Guilty, my Lord!"

Brennan sat in the dock like a statue and not a muscle of his face betrayed any emotion he may have felt.

His counsel, Mr. Lount, asked for a reserve case on the ground of objection to the judge's charge, but His Lordship would not entertain it.

The judge then arose and said: "Michael James Brennan, have you anything to say why the sentence of this court should not be passed upon you?"

Brennan stared vacantly for a moment, and then, arising, said in a high-pitched but steady voice: "My Lord, I do sincerely ask for another trial, for I have not been properly tried. I will prove that I am not wrong, and I ask you, between God and man, for a fairer trial. I will prove my wife's infidelity. It is something awful the way I have been treated by that woman. She has tortured me beyond all reason. I have not been a bad man, and I have not had a proper trial. All I ask is for my simple children, for whose sake I did not call proper witnesses. I assure you that I did what was right. I ask you as a man to give me a fair trial. I ask you as an honest and just man. I thought I could have got through with my trial without having to disgrace my children. Give me an honest trial, and between God and man I will satisfy you."

The prisoner appeared to be making an effort to say something further, when he turned, and with a loud sigh concluded his appeal by "That's all."

His Lordship arose and quietly delivered sentence upon the hopeless-looking prisoner. "Michael James Brennan," he said, "you have had a fair trial and have been nobly defended. Of the evidence adduced I have no doubts, and I heartily concur in the finding of the jury. The sentence of this court is that you shall be taken whence you came, and remain there until Friday, the 29th day of May next, when you will be taken to a place of execution and hanged by the neck until you are dead; and may the Lord have mercy on your soul."

Brennan then sat down heavily in the dock, and tears filled his eyes. He was removed by Detective Beardsley to the jail.

The verdict appears to meet with universal favor. The popularity of the dead man has manifested itself keenly during the two days of the trial, and, though, as is always the case, considerable sympathy is expressed for the doomed prisoner, those who pity him can but admit that he is only getting his just deserts.

Brennan's wife and family were not in court. The news of the verdict was communicated to them at their hotel, and they took it very hard.

The first witness called this morning was Alphonse Tessier, a Penetang contractor, who had employed Brennan from June to December four years ago and had noticed that he was peculiar, inasmuch as he would shake his head, jerk his shoulders and talk to himself. His mind did not appear to be on his work.

Mary Brennan, the 15-year-old daughter of the prisoner, next took the stand. She is a rather pretty little girl and was nattily attired in a blue dress and a tweed cape.

She gave her evidence regarding her life with her parents in a timid way, occasionally stealing a glance at her father in the prisoners' dock. She swore that he acted in a most peculiar manner during the last few months he had been living with his family.

To Mr. Johnston witness said her father had a very bad temper, although he had always been kind to the children, even when very cross with Mrs. Brennan.

Witness admitted having talked the matter over considerably since her father's arrest and she had been reminded of things by her mother and her sister Agnes which she had otherwise forgotten.

Dr. Buck of the London Asylum, who is a handsome, grey-haired gentleman, with flowing silver whiskers, was the next witness. For some 20 years he has been a medical superintendent and is a professor of mental disease at the Western University. From the evidence he had heard in this case, witness thought Brennan was insane, his peculiar form being paranoia, which is the medical term for monomania. Delusions are brought about by a diseased condition of the mind. In all these cases there is disease of the mind before there is any delusion. First the man afflicted will come to believe things with little cause, then with no cause at all. He would be subject to auditory hallucinations, which is the greatest symptom of the paranoia, form of insanity, and he would hear people speak when they didn't. Brennan was probably a sufferer in this respect, but Dr. Buck thought it possible that he know right from wrong, but did not realize the nature and quality of his act, although he had some appreciation of the enormity of the crime, but then witness hardly supposed that Brennan knew he was committing the crime.

"Why, then, did he go and give himself up to justice?" asked His Lordship.

"He probably realized afterwards what he had done, but he would be conscious of but little of the gravity of it," replied the witness.

Dr. Buck made a personal examination of the prisoner for five hours on Wednesday, and apart from all evidence he could form no opinion regarding his mental condition. He thought Brennan was a lunatic and that his delusion was suspicion of his wife's faithfulness. Dr. Buck said positively that if Brennan could appreciate his act it would be in a very slight degree, but he would doubt that he could realize the enormity of the act, but he would know it was wrong. It did not appear that the trial was bothering the prisoner much, as he was taking very little interest.

The case for the defence closed at 11.45.

In rebuttal, Dr. S. M. Wells of Barrie was called by the Crown. He had to some extent, as an ordinary practitioner, attended cases of insanity. He examined Brennan on several occasions, and thought his mind was not diseased beyond jealousy of his wife's actions. Witness thought that prisoner fully realized the horror of his act in killing Mr. Strathy.

Dr. McCarthy of Barrie examined Brennan three times since his incarceration in Barrie Jail, and thought that he could realize at the time of killing Strathy that he was doing wrong. From the evidence he had heard, it would look as if Brennan was insane.

Dr. Richardson of Toronto Jail examines from 50 to 70 insanity patients a year. He had examined Brennan, and thought that he was entirely capable at the time of the murder of realizing the enormity of the act.

Mr. Lount addressed the jury for the prisoner and Mr. Johnston followed for the Crown.

The evidence was all in at 3.15 and after a short delay Mr. Lount rose to address the jury. His charge was a strong effort put in well chosen language, which moved some in the court room to tears. The lady members of the Brennan family sat in the jury room where they listened to the eloquent address that was expected to save the life of their near relative. Occasionally a bitter sob or a suppressed groan came from the room and was distinctly audible in the court. Brennan sat immovable in the dock and his closed eyes would indicate that he was sleeping, except for an occasional nervous twitching of his face.

Mr. Lount asked the jury not to hang a man who the evidence had shown was a jibbering, chattering, laughing madman, always exhibiting the acts which go to show an unbalanced mind and are known and recognized as the traits of a madman. He reviewed the evidence throughout and cleverly showed Brennan as a man wildly mad on one subject, that of a suspicion of his wife's faithlessness. He drew a strong picture of the meeting of Brennan and Mr. Strathy in the vestibule of the latter's house, and the circumstances which led up to firing the fatal shot. Brennan had not lied about his act. A sane murderer would lie to save himself.

Throughout Mr. Lount's address he was dramatic in the extreme, and he closed with quoting the law regarding culpable homicide and manslaughter, followed by a pathetic appeal for the family of the prisoner. The dying wife and children, and asked them in mercy to thoroughly consider their verdict and return it in his client's favor. The address occupied two hours.

At the conclusion of Mr. Lount's address, Mrs. Brennan, followed by her two daughters, emerged from the jury room and walked through the court. Passing the prisoner's dock, she uttered a piercing shriek and exclaimed, "Oh my God, my God!" Her daughter Agnes placed her hand over her mouth and the unfortunate woman was carried in hysterics from the room. After she had gone, His Lordship remarked: "Constable, see that the door is kept closed, and those women are not allowed to come in here again."

Mr. Johnston commenced to address the jury at 5.25, and impressed upon them the fact that they must first remember their duty. They must say that it is either murder or insanity. It was nothing else. Sympathy must not interfere with their verdict. Sympathy could not restore John Strathy's life to his widow and children. All that was to be considered was stern, inflexible, unbending justice, for the Crown did not ask for a life unfairly or unjustly. Brennan's misfortunes were really of his own making. His actions after the shooting were prompted by the cunning and the scheming of a sane man. Brennan said he had shot Strathy, who was the cause of his troubles, but he did not know then that the shooting was fatal. When he heard of Strathy's death he saw that no excuse such as that would do. Then he would plead insanity. If the jury believed him, then so be it, it was insanity; but if they thought that Brennan knew the consequences of his act then no verdict other than murder could reasonably be given. Mr. Johnston's address lasted one hour and three-quarters. He covered the case very thoroughly and brought out the salient points in an exceedingly able manner.

With but little delay Judge Armour commenced his charge, which only occupied 20 minutes. It was against the prisoner. He explained that appeals are made by counsel on each side to influence the jury to abstract their minds and inspire them with cowardice in order to make sympathy interfere with their duty in rendering their proper verdict. They were not to let it influence them. What would happen if he allowed sympathy to dissuade the bench? "No sympathy or fear prevents me from doing my duty," warmly remarked His Lordship. "So why should it interfere with you." The learned judge then stated that he would first deal with the case as if the prisoner was an insane man. He cited the facts of the tragedy as shown by the Crown, describing the shooting. There was no provocation and there was no reason that the crime should be called manslaughter instead of murder. "I am bound to tell you that the prisoner at the bar is guilty of murder," remarked the Judge, in commenting on Brennan's action, "if he was a sane man." He then went on to remark that the defence set up was insanity; that the prisoner could not appreciate the enormity of his crime. The Judge was of opinion that if he did not he was insane, but it was for the jury to decide. "You are all apparently intelligent men," remarked the Court, "and you have heard the evidence. Did Brennan shoot Strathy? He did." Concluding, the Judge showed why a manslaughter verdict should not be rendered.

The jury retired and Mr. Lount rose to object to the charge, but the objection was not sustained.

The jury returned at 7.30 with their verdict, which meant death.

CLEANLINESS IN BAKE SHOPS.

An Act Providing for This Approximation to Godliness.

During the recent session of the Legislature, an act respecting bake shops was passed. Considerable complaint had been made as to the lack of cleanliness in bake shops, and the Act was passed in the interest of the removal of these very proper complaints, that apply with special force to many city bake shops.

Clause 1, provides that the word "bake shop" shall mean any building, premises, workshop, structure, room, or place wherein is carried on the manufacture, for sale, of confectionery, or of bread, biscuits, cakes or any other food product made from flour or from meal, or from both, in whole or in part, and the said bake shop shall include also any room or rooms used for storing the flour or meal, also any room or rooms used for storing the confectionery, bread cakes, biscuits, and other food products.

Subsection 2 provides for the appointment of an inspector.

Subsection 3, provides that an employer shall mean any person in charge of a bake shop.

Subsection 3, defines a "week" as the time from Saturday night till Sunday night at 12 o'clock.

Section 3 provides that,—All bake shops, to which this Act applies, shall be constructed as to lighting, heating, ventilating and draining in such a manner as not to be detrimental or injurious to the health of any person working therein, and shall also be kept in a clean and sanitary condition, so as to secure the production and preservation of all the food products thereof in a good, wholesome condition.

Section 4 provides that every bake shop shall be provided with a proper washroom, closet, and other conveniences necessary for the health and comfort of the persons employed, the wash-room, closet and other conveniences to be separate from the bake shop; and such wash-room, closet and other conveniences shall be kept clean and in a sanitary condition.

Section 7 provides that no employer shall require, permit or suffer any employee in any bake shop to work more than sixty hours in any one week, except by permission of the inspector, given in writing to the employer.

Section 8 provides that no employer shall knowingly employ any person to work in his bake shop who is affected with consumption of the lungs, or with scrofula, or with any venereal disease, or with any communicable skin disease, and every employer is required to maintain himself and his employees in a clean and healthy condition while engaged in the manufacture, handling or sale of such food products.

Sections 9, 10 and 11 provide penalities for breach of the provisions of the act.

Section 12 provides that nothing in this act shall in any way conflict or interfere with the powers and the duties of local boards of health or the officers appointed under the Public Health Act.

SEIZURES UNDER CHATTEL MORTGAGES.

Legislation Fixing the Fees That May be Charged.

Under seizures for chattle mortgages, fees have heretofore been charged, in many cases, of an unreasonable and exorbitant nature.

By the "Act respecting the cost of the seizure of goods under chattel mortgages" passed at the last session of the legislature the fees are fixed, as will be seen by the following text of the act:

1. Upon making the seizure and sale of goods for default in payment of the principal money or interest secured by any chattel mortgage or bill of sale, no greater or other fees or costs shall be chargeable with respect to such seizure and sale than those hereinafter mentioned, namely:—

1. For making seizure where amount of debt does not exceed $100	$ 1 00
2. For making seizure where amount of debt exceeds $100	1 50
3. One man keeping possession, per diem	1 00
4. If any printed advertisement, the same not to exceed in all	1 50
5. For catalogues, sale and commission and delivery of goods, five cents in the dollar on the net proceeds of the sale, but where the proceeds of the sale exceed $100 then two and one-half per cent. on the excess over $100
6. Where debt is paid before sale, the amount actually disbursed in cartage not to exceed	2 00
7. And commission of two cents in the dollar
(2) No person shall make any charge for anything hereinbefore mentioned unless such thing has been actually done.

2. This Act shall be read with and shall form part of The Act respecting the Costs of Distress and the provisions of the said Act relating to distress for rent or for a penalty shall, save where inconsistent with this Act, apply to the seizure and sale of goods under a chattel mortgage or bill of sale.

Spring Time

Is when nearly everyone feels the need of some blood purifying, strength invigorating and health producing medicine. The real merit of Hood's Sarsaparilla is the reason of its widespread popularity. Its unequalled success is its best recommendation. The whole system is susceptible to the most good from a medicine like Hood's Sarsaparilla taken at this time and we would lay special stress upon the time and remedy, for history has it recorded that delays are dangerous. The remarkable success achieved by Hood's Sarsaparilla and the many words of praise it has received, make it worthy of your confidence. We ask you to give this medicine a fair trial.

A GREAT DEAL OF NONSENSE

Has been written—and believed about Blood Purifiers.

WHAT PURIFIES THE BLOOD? THE KIDNEYS PURIFY THE BLOOD And THEY alone.

If diseased, however, they cannot, and the blood continually becomes more impure. Every drop of blood in the body goes through the kidneys, the sewers of the system, every three minutes, night and day, while life endures.

WARNER'S SAFE CURE

puts the kidneys in perfect health, and nature does the rest.

The heavy dragged-out feeling, the bilious attacks, headaches, nervous unrest, fickle appetite, all caused by poisoned blood, will disappear when the kidneys properly perform their functions.

There is no doubt about this. Thousands have so testified. The theory is right, the cure is right, and health follows as a natural sequence.

FALSE PROPHETS.

In 1873 the late Sir John Macdonald and Sir Charles Tupper preached everywhere in Canada the gospel of Protection, asserting that if that policy were adopted, it would put a stop to the exodus of Canadians to the United States, as all our workmen would find work in Canada and be content to stay at home. This prediction was verified in a left-hand manner. Within the past eighteen years more than half a millions Canadians, the best and most ambitious of our population have sought homes in the neighbouring republic.

In like manner these false prophets, in answer to the objections to the expenditure of about a hundred millions upon the C.P.R., prophesied that the expenditure would be justified by a reduction of the national debt to one hundred millions in a few years, and the covering of the Northwest by a prosperous population. This prophecy has been fulfilled in a disastrously left-handed manner. Our public debt which was only $140,362,000 in 1878 instead of being reduced to $100,000,000 has been increased to about $234,000,000—instead of a reduction of $40,000,000, there has been an increase of over a hundred million.

What this country needs more than anything else is population and the policy of our government is not giving us population. In the past fourteen years over three and a half millions have been spent upon immigration but only about a million immigrants have been brought to the country, and owing to bad government and excessive taxation, half of these have left the country or a similar number of Canadian citizens have joined the exodus, for the population of Canada in the ten years, from 1881 to 1891, only increased 500,000, less than the natural increase should have been without spending a million dollars to pay a number of immigrant officials for doing what amounts to nothing, nit. The teeming population that Sir Charles Tupper promised to overspread the Northwest with, instead of amounting to millions, does not total much more than the fifth of a million, about 200,000.

In place of the three and a half millions spent on immigration, adding anything to our foreign born population, it appears that the native-born population of Canada increased three per cent. in the ten years from 1881 to 1891, showing that the great influx of population that was to follow from the opening up of the Northwest by the building of the Canadian Pacific Railway, aided by the expenditure of three and a half millions for immigration did not come thus, giving the lie direct to Sir Charles Tupper's blatant prophecy. He has been a false prophet for years and he has come back to Canada again to resume his old vocation. But having repeatedly deceived the country, the country will not be fooled by him again.

CURE FOR HAY FEVER.

Mr. R. M. Northrop, of the P. O. Department, Ottawa, Recommends Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder for Hay Fever.

Mr. Northrop, who is one of the chief clerks of the Dominion Post office at Ottawa, found great relief for Hay Fever, with which he was afflicted, in Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder. Perhaps there is no other medicine more satisfactory in its treatment of Hay Fever. It is equally successful in curing catarrh in almost any of its phases, and for cold in the head, which is a fore-runner of Catarrh, it acts like a charm, and quick as magic.

BLAIRTON.

(From Our Own Correspondent.

We don't remember of ever before having so great a depth of snow, as there has been here this winter. A portable saw-mill was to have been set up here in mid-winter, as a great supply of saw-logs was guaranteed, but on account of the unusual depth of snow, the mill could not be erected, nor could anyone draw even a log to the ground.

Hay and straw is very scarce. With many, straw has been used up long ago and pressed is being bought to take its place; by this, many farmers feel that the fees for their initiation into this new order of things is drawing heavily on their pockets.

Some time ago, a gentleman from Madoc came to Blairton to visit some friends. When in Marmora village, on his way here, he put his horse and cutter in an open shed of one of the hotels. After taking from his pocket his pocket-book or purse, in which he had a large sum of money, and taking therefrom some change for present use, he placed it in the manger for a moment only while he put his change away. On arriving at Blairton a couple hours later, he missed his purse and recalled to memory where he had left it. He returned to Marmora with all haste and to his very great and agreeable surprise he found his treasure where he left it, and untouched any further than horse feed had been thrown upon it, and it had been besmeared by the investigating animal who rejected it, as the swine rejects the pearl. To account for it not being meddled with or its contents not being diminished, was perhaps because its presence had not been discovered.

Last week a chopping bee was made to cut wood across Crow lake, for the church here. Rev. Sanderson, on returning to the woods after dinner, took from Blairton to the woods, over the lake, a distance of about two miles, in a single cutter, drawn by a span of ponies, no less than ten men at one load, the aggregate weight of the men is 1800 pounds or thereabouts.

Last week a boy climbed a tree and jumped off into a deep snowdrift; the snow being softened by the thaw the lad sank head and shoulders some feet below the surface. The father, seeing the occurrence, went to the rescue of his twelve year old, but to reach the spot where the young hero was entombed was a difficulty of no small magnitude.

The father, a man who tips 225 pounds, on succeeding in catching a glimpse of his son, found that the snow acted with quicksand treachery and that the law of gravitation claimed that he should come down to a level with his son. To that law he, with his feet, motioned a bribe, then for compromise, but oh no, all was in vain, for a foothold he could not get. In this plight he says:—"Sonny are you there," to which the reply was, "Yes pa, we are here." After a while the father, after tightly packing the snow all around the boy, succeeded in gaining a foothold and called into action all his powers in a most desperate effort to pull his son out, but it was a failure, as the boy by this time was incased as tight as if in plaster paris, nor was he extricated until an hour's hard shovelling had been performed.

When the party had turned their back upon the scene of disaster and their footsteps with rapid motion towards more congenial quarters the father said: "Sonny how did you like it." Boy—"The descent was nice enough, but staying there was what ground-wired the laugh coming in or would you, pa, call it a cut off of the laugh?" Father—"Guess you wont go there again." Boy—"No, pa, and I consider we are foolish for going there that time."

A number of families have recently moved out of Blairton and others from various places have recently moved into the village.

The lithograph mine in the township of Marmora has ever been called a successful and paying concern, but strange to say there are reports afloat and fears entertained that it will not be operated in the coming season.

Some few days ago a gentleman who is connected with the Hamilton Smelting Works came here to investigate the iron ore and to possess himself with knowledge as to quantity and quality of same. He took samples of the several kinds, some of which called forth an expression of his approval. While some of our iron ores have quite a percentage of sulphur, still there is a very large quantity of hematite together with much of the magnetic, which certain traces only of the so-called objectionable properties. Could Blairton ore answer the purpose of the Hamilton smelting works there enough here to last that furnace and another like it for generations to come.

Some six months ago Mrs. McLaughlan, of this place, having a serious bone disease in one of her limbs, was advised to go to a hospital for treatment, as her life was in imminent danger, Having entered the St. Nicholas hospital, of Toronto, she underwent three very severe, but remarkably successful, operations. She has just returned home as well as ever and the picture of health. She says she has not language to express her feeling of gratitude to the good doctors and nurses of that grand institution for their abundant kindness and successful treatment.

Some Dealers Substitute Cheap and Worthless Dyes.

When the Popular Diamond Dyes Are Asked For.

The great popularity of Diamond Dyes has resulted in many worthless imitations—adulterated and cheap materials—that are bought by some merchants at a very low price; and for the purpose of extra large profits, these dealers urge their customers to buy these weak and worthless substitutes.

The substitution of common dyes for the wonder working Diamond Dyes is one of the grossest frauds now being worked on the ladies of Canada. Beware of the dealer who tries to induce you to take the common dyes that give him large profits.

Diamond Dyes are from two to three times as strong as any of the imitation dyes. The best materials that science can produce are used in the manufacture of Diamond Dyes, and you get your money's worth when you buy them.

I, Thomas Moffatt, of the City of Ottawa, in the county of Carleton, do solemnly declare that I live at 176 Murray street, in the City of Ottawa, that I am forty-six years of age and a baker by trade, and was formerly of the Dominion police. For over twenty years I have been badly afflicted with Rheumatism. So severe was my case that I thought that I would never get better. On the first day of May, 1895, I began taking "Ryckman's Kootenay Cure." I used three bottles and it cured me completely. I have not felt the first sign of rheumatism since. It is a great tonic and a grand Blood Purifier. I gained twelve pounds in weight while using the remedy. I recommend it most highly.

And I make this solemn declaration conscientiously believing it to be true, and knowing it is of the same force and effect as if made under oath, and by virtue of the Canada Evidence Act.

Paine's Celery Compound Victorious!

Fearful Sufferings Endured for Years.

SIX DOCTORS FAIL TO CURE A TORTURED LADY.

Mrs. Thomas McMaster, of Toronto, Tells Her Story.

Hope and Comfort for All Who Suffer From Any Disease.

Paine's Celery Compound the Great Healer and Life-saver.

Mrs. Thos. McMaster, of 45 Cumberland street, Toronto, is now a happy and grateful woman, and deems it her duty to acquaint suffering humanity of the great healing and health-giving virtues of Paine's Celery Compound. From her statement made to a reporter of the Toronto Evening Star, we give the following extracts:

"Ten years ago I was attacked with neuralgia, and though treated by six doctors, the disease grew worse and nearly drove me insane. I was for one summer an out-door patient at the hospital here, but only got temporary relief.

"I was sleepless for nights, my digestion was bad, and I would feel a pain in my stomach every time I ate anything. Day after day I suffered the most intense agony and I often wonder I didn't go crazy. I took endless medicines given to me by medical men, and getting worse, I became utterly disheartened.

"One day my deliverance came. A lady who had suffered just as I had told me that Paine's Celery Compound had cured her. I used the compound as a last resort, and it simply made a new woman of me. The pain vanished; my eyesight, which was impaired, returned, and I felt myself growing well, and I never felt happier in my life. I am now well and strong, and all my health and happiness are due to Paine's Celery Compound. I will always gratefully remember the medicine that cured me, and speak a good word for it."

What Archbishop Langevin Has to Say

ABOUT THE SITUATION AT OTTAWA

Cannot Understand How it is That "Necessary Legislation" Can be Delayed—Disgraceful Incident in the House—Those Who Will Go to Bisley.

Ottawa, April 10.—(Special.)—Archbishop Langevin of St. Boniface was asked to-day for his views on the political situation. His reply was that the least that he said the better. He could not see how any statement he made could beneficially affect the situation. If he felt like declaring himself he would do so, if circumstances were favorable, as he felt that a pronouncement made in the Capital City of the country would have greater weight that if given elsewhere. He had made up his mind before leaving that he would observe silence in as far as that was possible. Matters had gone so far that but little could be gained by outside interference. Had his visit been made earlier something might have resulted, but he regarded the case as practically hopeless. He could not understand how it was possible that by the constitution members are permitted to delay necessary legislation. The spectacle presented is a sad one indeed, one that cannot but work toward the lowering of Canada in the estimation of other countries.

The House was the scene of a disgraceful incident this morning. While Mr. Semple was speaking, Dr. Ferguson of Leeds and Grenville moved over beside Dr. Sproule, and the House suddenly became aware that a serious altercation was in progress. Dr. Ferguson was observed shaking his fist in the face of the member for East Grey and poured forth a torrent of abuse, among which such choice expressions were heard as boodler, fool and liar, prefaced by picturesque adjectives. Dr. Sproule brought his fist down on his desk as though he strongly resented the remarks. Mr. Edgar called the attention of the chairman to the fact that a free fight was in progress. The two members would have come to blows but for the timely interference of Mr. McAllister of Restigouche, who grabbed Dr. Ferguson and pushed him out of the chamber. Dr. Sproule followed him. Mr. Stubbs followed Dr. Sproule, apparently to see fair play, but no further hostilities occurred.

Lieut.-Col. Baker has received the following acceptances from those eligible to go on the Bisley rifle team: Staff-Sergt. W. Harp, 48th; Major W. C. Macdonald, 48th; Lieut. W. L. Ross, 13th; Sergt. T. Mitchell, 13th; Lieut. Cartwright, 47th; Lieut. W. C. King, 45th; Lieut. T. Mitchell, 12th; Sergt. G. Crowe, 10th R.G.; Sergt.-Major Armstrong, 1st B.F.A.; Pte. C. E. Neill, 71st, and Capt. J. McRobbie, 8th Hussars. Capt. C. N. Mitchell, 90th, is the only one so far to decline.

The Exchequer Court sat to-day and heard the argument in the case of the Queen v. Canada Sugar Refining Co., a suit for $38,000 customs duty on a cargo of sugar imported at the time the new sugar duties went into force last May. The importers claim that their sugar was entered at the Customs before the duties came into force.

The statement of the revenue and expenditure for March is the most encouraging. The revenue increased a quarter of a million, and for nine months the increase is two millions and a quarter. Correspondingly the expenditure shows a decrease. The net debt decreased last month by a million and a half.

Almonte's Capitalist Suffers Untold Agony for Six Months from Rheumatism.

We have the privilege of publishing the following letter from one of Almonte's wealthiest citizens. Mr. J. K. Cole:—"I was completely helpless for six months from rheumatism. I tried almost every known remedy, without any benefit, and when South American Rheumatic Cure was recommended I secured it, though I must confess I had no faith whatever in it. The first bottle agreeably surprised me, and four bottles drove the disease completely out of my system. It is the very best medicine I have ever taken. I have recommended it to my friends, and I know it has done them great good." Sold by H. S. Macdonald.

DEATH OF BISHOP RYAN.

The Buffalo Prelate Passes Away—He Was Born in Almonte, Ont.

Buffalo, April 10.—Stephen Vincent Ryan, Roman Catholic Bishop of the Buffalo Diocese, died this morning. He was born in the village of Almonte, Ont., on New Year's Day, 1825, but during his childhood the family moved to Pottsville, Pa. He was educated at the Seminary of St. Charles Borrommee, near Philadelphia, and at the age of 19 entered the congregation of the Missionary Lazarists at Cape Girardeau, Missouri. He was ordained to the priesthood by Archbishop Kenrick of St. Louis in 1849 and was appointed professor at St. Mary of the Barrens and afterward professor at Cape Girardeau. Later he was elected president of St. Vincent's College at Cape Girardeau, and in 1857 was appointed visitor of the Lazarists of the United States. During his incumbency the Mother House was removed from St. Louis to Germantown, Pa., where he remained until 1868, when he was consecrated Bishop of Buffalo. Bishop Ryan was a diligent student of church history and an earnest and instructive preacher. He was greatly beloved by his people and his silver jubilee in 1893 was a memorable event and was assisted in by Cardinals Satolli and Gibbons, and all the eminent archbishops and bishops of the country.

The body will lie in state at his late residence until Sunday afternoon, when it will be escorted to the Cathedral where it will again lie in state until the funeral next Tuesday morning. The interment will be under the Cathedral altar, beside the bodies of Bishop Timon and Monsignor Gleeson.

BEYOND RECOVERY.

The Boy LaFlamme—His Cure was a Surprise—A few Boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

PAPPINEAUVILLE, March 30 (Special)—The father of the boy LaFlamme, one of the leading merchants here and willing to talk of his son's cure, he says—"My little boy Arthur, after scarlet fever about a year ago never recovered and his ailment ran into a kidney trouble. His body was swollen to twice its natural size. The sufferings of the little fellow were very severe and we had all given up hope of him. But three months ago we commenced giving him Dodd's Kidney Pills, and to-day he is romping and playing with other boys." This, as an instance of cure, is very remarkable.

MANY DERVISHES GATHERING.

The Anglo-Egyptian Army May Not be Pushed Direct to Dongola.

New York, April 10.—A Herald's Cairo special says: From indications here today it is thought the plan of pushing the Anglo-Egyptian army direct to Dongola has been suddenly abandoned. The purchase of camels and horses has been stopped. It has been found, it is thought, that the force up the Nile is too weak to cope with the hordes of Dervishes now in the field and gathering to the Kalifa's flag between Akasheh and Dongola. It is not thought probable now that any attempt will be made to advance beyond the former point at present. It is believed, too, that it is the intention of the British to move strongly by the Suakim route, when the time for active hostilities arrives.

Portuguese in Hawaii Object to Being Overrun by Chinese and Japanese.

Honolulu, April 2, via San Francisco, April 9.—On the morning of the 26th of March, after several preliminary meetings, nearly 700 Portuguese marched in a body to the Government building and sent in a petition addressed to the President and Legislature. The grievance of the Portuguese is that, having been brought here by their Government, and having settled on the islands, and now increased to 12,000 people, they find themselves subject to an invasion of Chinese and Japanese immigrants. They ask for measures to restrict Asiatic immigration, and also for a more equitable system of taxation.

YOUR "BAD BACK" RE-BACKED.

HOW IT IS DONE!

The pertinent question of the day is—Does your back ache? Is it lame?

Thousands suffer from what they commonly term "Bad back." When they walk or when they work, when they lie down or rise up, wherever they may be or whatever they may do, the old aching, paining, "lame back" worries and wearies and wears them out.

Few people understand the real cause of their aches, and fewer yet know how easily they can be cured.

Just a word of explanation.

The back is the key-note of the kidneys. When it aches that's a sign that the kidneys are not acting properly. When it is "lame," that indicates that the kidneys are clogged up.

Then all the poisonous products that it is the kidneys special duty to eliminate from the blood, are carried in the blood current to every organ and tissue of the body, bringing on many a kidney trouble which if neglected means disease.

Will you heed the timely warning the back gives you? Will you strike the enemy while you can strike hard? Doan's Kidney Pills are the little enemies of kidney disorders. They strike with no uncertain hand Old backs and young backs are being "re-backed" and freed from never-ceasing pain and many a lame and shattered one, stooped and contracted, is strengthened and invigorated by the use of Doan's Kidney Pills For sale by

Everyone prefers a high-grade Piano to a poor one, but many are deterred from even inquiring about our instruments from a fear that our prices may be too high or our terms too stringent. Let us say to all who wish a really good Piano at a moderate price on easy terms, that they will do well to correspond with us. Wedo not pretend to compete on these points with makers of poor or worthless Pianos, but, QUALITY CONSIDERED, our prices are really low, and we try to permit no one to go past us feeling that satisfaction cannot be given on the question of terms.

Scavengers in Trouble.

Complaints have been made at police headquarters that some of the scavengers are working during prohibited hours and pursuing their vocation in the daytime instead of at night. There is trouble in store for some of them.

An Attractive Window.

Mr. A. Clegg's window to-day displays a very handsome bedroom suite with tables, chairs, etc., and a very pretty secretary, all in native birch. The panels and prominent parts are of selected wood, and the effect is very artistic and pleasing. The style of the furniture, especially the bedstead, is quite new.

Register Early.

A bill of the Local Legislature which has become law, all classes of citizens should carefully look up. It relates to the registration of births, marriages and deaths. Under the old law registration could be made within ninety days; the new law shortens the time to thirty days, the penalties are the same, never less than $1 fine.

The Saturday Market.

The market to-day was a fair one when the terrible state of the country roads is taken into consideration. There was a great demand for maple syrup, which sold rapidly at a dollar a gallon. Poultry was very scarce, and the prices did not vary from those of last week. Butter is bringing 18 to 20 cents a pound, and eggs are down to ten cents.

Cause for the Name.

In a barber shop, last evening, a dispute arose as to the origin of the term "trolley car." The name is now commonly applied to electric street railway cars, derived from the trade name of the upwardly projecting pole which makes contact with the overhead wire, and which was first called a "trolley pole." This pole being the most conspicuous difference between an electric and a horse car, the former soon became popularly known as "trolley cars."

Relief in one day.

It powers to cure the stomach are wonderful in the extreme. It always cures; it cannot fail. It radically cures all weakneeses of the stomach and never disappoints. Its effects are marvellous and surprising. It gladdens the hearts of the suffering, and brings immediate relief. It is a luxury to take, and always safe. Sold by H. S. Macdonald.

THE LOST CORD.

A Man and his Mystic Pile of Good Fuel Are Attracting Neighbours' Notice.

Residents of the south end have all winter marvelled at the unseemly rapidity with which their wood piles dwindled.

Several of the heaviest losers by the depredations of the wary midnight prowler at last determined to keep an eye upon their wood, so as to observe the manner of its going.

Suspicion, which had been kept on the go for some time, has at last settled down upon a certain household in the neighbourhood about which matutinnal wood splitting operations are almost daily carried on where no wood pile stood the night before.

Not the slightest suspicion of a jag of wood, some of the losers aver, has been purchased or delivered during the past winter, and yet in the mansion upon which suspicion rests with all the weight of a first mortgage, no one was frozen stiff by winter's stormy blast, and meals have been prepared with great regularity—with about the same regularity in fact that wood piles suffer.

The neighbours declare themselves very tired; and an arrest in a few days may give rise to considerable astonishment in certain social circles, unless things are suddenly different in the vicinity.

O'Neil vs. Finlay.

The case of Mrs. Jane O'Neil against Mr. John Finlay, of Norwood, for damages for breach of promise, will not come up for hearing at the present session of the High Court of Justice. No notice has been served on the defendant and the probability is that nothing further will be heard of the case.

The Bridge as Solid as Ever.

The report which was sent abroad, last night, to the effect that the new bridge on George street, at Spaulding's bay, had "caved in," was proven this morning to be very much exaggerated. The gravel, it is true, at one end of the bridge has sunk appreciably, but this is caused by the fact, that when the gravel was filled in during the winter, considerable snow and ice was thrown in with it and these latter have melted and caused a slump which has since been filled in.

Emma Wells Comedy Company.

R. W. Mark's "Emma Wells Co.," which appears here next Thursday evening, comes well recommended by both press and public. The entertainment consists of cheerful and attractive music, vocal selections, agile dancing and almost continuous fun which will serve to give the entertainment its excessive lightness and sparkle. Miss Emma Wells charms the audience with her wonderful voice, singing soprano, baritone, tenor and contralto, and her work is an artistic feature. Miss Jennie Ray's xylophone and bell playing is very effective. Cool Burgess, the world's famous minstrel comedian, with his laughing song, has a spontaneity and naturalness which makes his unrestrained "ha-ha's" very infectious. Thos. E. Shea and Ed. Curtiss are comedians of a delightful type and their dances are novel and original. J. E. Marks is always received in great favour with his audience. The prices are 10, 20 and 30c and the engagement will be for one night only. Thursday evening next.

A PEDRO TOURNAMENT.

The Curlers Challenged the Town and Were Beaten by Three Points.

The curlers have been having so much fun during the winter at the bonspiels, etc. that it was felt it would be an impossibility to retire into the quietude of domestic life immediately after the close of the curling season. A few of the "best heads" amongst the knights of the stone accordingly laid their heads together, with the result that a challenge was issued from the curlers to the pedro players of the town at large to meet at the rink parlours last evening and participate in a pedro tournament. Mr. W. J. Green was asked to select thirty players from the town, and to Mr. W. Salisbury was assigned the task of picking out thirty curlers to meet them at the card tables.

There were few indeed who declined the invitation, as pedro has become most popular during the winter, and by a few minutes the fifteen tables were all occupied. Five games were played at each table and the town took the lead from the start, at one time being ten games ahead. Towards the close of the evening, however, the curlers pulled themselve together and succeeded in reducing the town's lead to three points, before the last game was played. The results at the different tables were as follows:—

Curlers.		Name of Players.	Town.
S Ray	Town		E Wasson
W E Lech	4—1		Ed Cox
R B McKee	Town		Savigny
C N Brown	4—1		Emmerson
Gus Hay	Town		Gus Sawers, jr

J B Pentland	Curlers		Robt Wallace
W H Meredith	2—2		Robt Gibbs
T Rutherford	Curlers		G Sawers, sr.

As it had been agreed that no game should be started after half past ten several of the tables did not play out the the five games, but in each case the game stood even.

Eight of the town's tables won, so that counting either by tables or points the curlers were vanquished. It is proposed to play the return match on Friday evening next.

NORWOOD NEWS NOTES.

Serious Illness of Mrs. Girvin, Daughter of Reeve Finlay—Attacked With a Hammer—A Timber Case.

(Special to The Examiner.)

Very general sorrow is manifested throughout the whole village over the dangerous condition of Mrs. Girvin, wife of Mr. S. B. Girvin, and daughter of Mr. John Finlay, reeve. Little encouragement is held out for her recovery. Three physicians have been in close attendance at her bedside during the past two days, and but faint hope is held out by them for their patient. Mrs. Girvin gave birth to a stillborn child a few days ago, and since that time has remained in a almost unconscious condition. The very general concern of the community is intensified by the remembrance of the two severe bereavements in Mr. Finlay's family, which have occurred within the past two years. Mrs Girvin is 28 years of age, and has no family.

A row, which might have resulted in a very much more serious affair, occurred in the village on Thursday, in Mr. Thomas Hendren's carriage shop. A painter in his employ took offence at some reflections which were said to be passed upon his ability as a workman by Mr. Hendren, when he seized a hammer and, rushing at his employer, aimed a blow at his head. Mr. Hendren threw up his arm to ward off the blow, and only received a slight stroke by the head of the hammer on the back of the neck. It is stated that the furious man kept closing on Mr. Hendren, until he secured a knife, and thus armed kept his aggressive foe at bay, without any further hurt. No arrests have been made so far as can be learned.

A timber case was heard before County Police Magistrate Edmison yesterday afternoon, which was not completed when your correspondent left. The Rathbun Coy. charged a settler on the 4th line of Dummer with unlawfully appropriating some of their timber. The town hall was crowded all afternoon to hear the case. Quite a number of witnesses were examined, and the proceedings were interesting.

It will either precede or follow the big Halifax sculling regatta, and it is hoped that the best professionals and amateurs in the world will be brought together in the beautiful little city just south of us.

THE WHEEL.

Now approaches that glad time of the new-born year when wheelmen generally make up their minds to begin riding, that is, active and continuous riding. It is also the exact time when the editor annually pens his little bit of advice for the rider to make haste slowly.

To go in for long rides, or to imagine that you will be able to "hit her up" at the same pace you were used to in the autumn, before you eased down in the number and length of your rides, you will soon find is a greatly mistaken idea of yours. If persisted in, early season scorching and distance work cannot but produce bad results, bringing on exhaustion and very often actual distaste for riding as well.

Moderation, at all times wise in cycling, is doubly the mother of wisdom in the early spring work of those riders, who have neglected their wheels for the non athletic pleasures of the winter months.

The Berlin News has been bold enough to set the following afloat: A beautiful girl in white flannel bloomers and other fittings came bowling along the Preston road on a bicycle. Espying an agricultural sort of person sitting by the wayside she pulled up, jumped off, and asked, "Is this the road to Wareham, do you know?" "As to that," replied the tiller of the soil, with a shy glance at the rigout, "I suppose it's a matter of taste, but my missis wears her petticoats outside 'em," and the pace at which the fair one went off was a Zimmerman.

CHILDREN'S AID SOCIETY NOTES.

Children for Adoption—Disciplining a Neglectful Parent.

The Children's Aid Society has now six children on hand for immediate adoption, four boys and two girls. Three of the children—the two girls and a boy—are under three years of age. The others are under ten. They are all at the present in a healthy condition and are exceptionally fine children.

A father will be brought before the magistrate next week and compelled to provide for the temporary keep of a child which he asked the society to take charge of. Though he has no home he is in receipt of wages.

Tired but Sleepless

Is a condition which gradually wears away the strength. Let the blood be purified and enriched by Hood's Sarsaparilla and this condition will cease.

"For two or three years I was subject to poor spells. I always felt tired, could not sleep at night and the little I could eat did not do me any good. I read about Hood's Sarsaparilla and decided to try it. Before I had finished two bottles I began to feel better and in a short time I felt all right and had gained 21 pounds in weight. I am stronger and healthier than I have ever been in my life." JOHN W. COUGHLIN, Wallaceburg, Ontario.

DAILY MOTTO.

Saturday, April 11th.

The souls of the righteous are in the hand of God, and there shall no torment touch them. In the sight of the unwise they a emed to die: and their departure is taken for misery, and their going from us to be utter destruction; but they are in peace—having been a little chastised they shall be greatly rewarded, for God proved them and found them worthy for Himself. Therefore shall they receive a glorious kingdom and a beautiful crown from the Lord's hand, and with His right hand shall He cover them and with His arm shall He protect them.

—Book of Wisdom.

Scent thou the eastern dawn,
Hear'st thou in the red morn
The angel's song?
Oh lift thy drooping head
Thou who in gloom and dread
Hast lain so long,

Death comes to set thee free,
Oh meet him cheerily.
As thy true friend
And all thy fears shall cease,
And in eternal peace
Thy penance end.

The Application Refused.

The petition circulated in Lindsay asking for the release of Patrick Kearney, brother of the suspected boy murderer, on bail, to appear at the June Assizs, was forwarded to Attorney-General Mowat on Tuesday last by Mr. J. A. Barron, Q.C., the prisoners' counsel. As was generally predicted, the request was not acceded to.

Complaint of the Landlady.

A number of boarding-house mistresses in the town have been keeping boarders on credit all winter on the understanding that when work was plentiful in the spring the bread which they cast upon the waters would be returned to them in the shape of dollars and cents. Quite a number of ingrate boarders, however on procuring work changed their boarding houses. It seems there is no remedy for this sort of thing.

A Great Feat.

The bicycle run of "900 miles in one day," performed by Dr. W. N. Robertson, of Stratford, Ont., on the 3rd of June, was a remarkable exhibition of endurance in a purely amateur rider. The doctor's scientific training would, no doubt, prove an important factor in successfully engineering such a difficult operation, though (as will be seen by letter published in another column) he does not hesitate to award due credit for his performance to the agent he relied upon in his great effort. The doctor's testimony to the marvellously sustaining power of Maltine with Coca Wine is entirely spontaneous and unsolicited, and, therefore, of the higher value. His report will be read with interest by wheelmen generally, in view of his claim that Maltine with Coca Wine enabled him to "pedal comfortably for hours after the period that I should been exhausted without it." Dr. Robertson tersely summarizes the valuable action of Maltine with Coca Wine in those cases of enervation common among most "novices on the wheel," and affirms that "it is a wonderful heart-sustainer." This preparation may be had of all druggists, and may be relied upon as an agent of infinite value in nervous prostration and brain exhaustion resulting from undue strain upon the mental or physical energies.—Daily Globe, July 6, 1895

BATTALION NOTES.

Items of Interest Concerning Local and General Military Matters.

Those intending to drill this year, cannot begin too soon, as several outside battalions have signified their intention of coming to town on the Queen's Birthday, in response to the invitation of the Rangers, and the local corps should show up well beside the visitors.

The Rangers will have a splenid set of non-commissioned officers this year, as besides the dozen who were attending the military schools in Toronto and London during the winter, Sgt.-Major Peters has had a class of about another dozen under his personal instruction all winter.

The Lee-Enfield magazine rifle, selected for use by the Canadian militia, is practically the Lee-Metford, but has the Enfield barrel, with its superior groove. The manufacture of the supply for the Canadian service has been commenced.

It is expected that the imperial government will, at once, supply Canada with twenty-eight modern rifled guns for garrison defence, charging only the bare cost of manufacture. These guns are to be allotted:—Two each to St. John's and Three Rivers, P.Q.; three to Quebec; eight to Toronto; eight to Montreal; five to Hamilton. No provision is to be made for Kingston, which is a more important position than any but Quebec. The matter should be taken up by influential military men.

A Kingston officer of high rank remarked with reference to the statement in the Canadian Military Gazette, that drunkenness is prevalent in the Royal Military College, that the authorities should investigate to discover the truth or falsity of the charge, which he himself did not believe. Upon a charge of such serious nature the college authorities should demand the name of the cadet, now attending the college, who is alleged to have given the information, and should require him to substantiate his assertion. Parents will not willingly send their sons to a school at which drunkenness is said to exist, and if the charge be a slander the public service as well as the interest of the parents will suffer.

PERSONAL

Mr. Mart Scheak is in town for a day or so.

Mr. Thos. Blezard, M.P.P., was in town to-day.

Miss Belle Mercer is visiting the Misses Neill in Lindsay.

Mrs. W. B. Bamford is spending a few days in Sherbrooke.

Mr. Court King has again returned to McGill University to resume his studies.

Mr. John Davidson, principal of the Norwood High School, is in town to-day.

Master Fred Hardy is spending a week visiting friends at his old home, Bridgewater.

Miss Theo Kirkpatrick, of Toronto, has been visiting Miss Georgie Dennistoun during Easter week.

The Barrie Gazette says "Mrs. F. Hewson and Miss Bradburn of Peterborough, were in town last week."

The Midhurst correspondent of the Barrie Advance says: "Joseph McGowan has secured a situation as bookkeeper in Peterborough."

Miss Edith Taylor, of Perth, who spent several weeks in town last season, is again the guest of the Misses Sherwood, Hunter street.

Mr. L. Stevenson, of the Perth Collegiate Institute, spent his holidays in Peterborough. It was not difficult to surmise what attraction brought him west.

County Inspector J. Coyle Brown, Town Inspector Wherry and Mr. O'Brien have returned from attending the convention of the Provincial Teachers' Association in Toronto.

The Bobcaygeon Independent says: Miss Wright, of Stanhope, left on Tuesday morning last for Peterborough, where she will be the guest of her sister, Mrs. James Eakins.

Mrs. F. J. Lewis, the Misses Lewis, and Messrs. Harold and Norman left for Montreal, to-day, to join Mr. Lewis there. The removal will occasion a gap in social circles which will be felt for some time.

Mr. E. B. Edwards is to be cordially congratulated on having been elected a bencher of the Law Society. The contest for the coveted places was keen, and election is a strong test of a candidate's availability and popularity.

The Lindsay Post says: Mr. Silas H. Jacobs, engineer on the Alice Ethel, has secured a more lucrative position as engineer on the steamer City of Peterborough, owned by the Peterborough Navigation Co. Mr. Jacob will leave town in a few days.

Mr. Ed. Loucks, formerly of Peterborough, has been elected vice-president of the Kingston Lacrosse Club. Ed. was mixed up in all sorts of Athletics whilst here and his old friends will be pleased to know that he still maintains an interest in sport.

An honour very rarely extended anyone by Mr. Paderewski, was shown Miss Ada Hart, (whose pianoforte playing in Peterborough) was so greatly admired, during his visit to Toronto by according her an interview, and having her play various selections for him. Her renderings were highly complimented by Mr. Paderewski.

The Lindsay Warder says: "Peterborough has lost the C. W. A. meet for 1896, being defeated by Quebec by over two thousand votes. This is the second time Peterborough has lost and surely no club will be so mean to oppose her next year. The result was a great disappointment to the many wheelmen in Lindsay who anticipated taking in the sights. Needless to say Peterborough wheelmen felt their defeat keenly but took it like men, giving a unanimous vote to Quebec. It is estimated that somewhere in the neighbourhood of fifty thousand dollars is spent in the locality of the meet each year."

IMPORTANT TO PIANO BUYERS.

The Well-Earned Record of the R. S. Williams Pianos — Prosperity and Progress of the Local Branch Warerooms.

The indisputable evidences afforded of the superiority of the high-class pianos manufactured by the R. S. Williams & Son Company, (Ltd.), for nearly half a century, has left an indelible impression of the advancement in the science of piano building. These pianos have long ago become firmly established, and their high standard is born of a valuable experience of well earned triumphs in perfection of every detail. The "Williams" piano is no new innovation. The prime qualifications of an American Indian medicine man are an ability to yell and jump up and down, and the man who can yell loudest and jump highest is the most highly respected in his profession. Much of the antics and tactics of the American Indian have to be resorted to in order to dispose of some of the prevalent deformities in the shape of pianos launched on the market in these latter days. Charms and incantations play a more potent part in the pharmacopœa of the untutored agent than experience or skill in the manufacture of the article. In the scientific dissection of a high grade piano like the R. S. Williams & Company's, such as has frequently been given them by the highest musical critics of the world, evidence and proof "as strong as proof of Holy Writ," have been afforded of the honesty of the claims of this company for the superior action and tone of their instruments. Evenness of tone in a piano is an important point, and the "Williams" piano is an artistic triumph in that respect. You do not find a weak note next to a loud one; you do not have a soft note next to a metallic one; the whole eighty-seven notes are perfectly graded, and the entire scale is evenly balanced. From the lowest to the highest notes there is harmony and chord, without the bass overpowering the treble, which is the prevalent defect in most other pianos. No one who will call and examine the large stock of our pianos now on exhibition at our branch warerooms, on Water street, Peterborough, can doubt that the "Williams" is an artist's piano. There you can see them fresh from the factory in all their intrinsic beauty, elegantly finished in rosewood, mahogany, blistered birch, French burl walnut, and other expensive woods. Five cabinet grands are shown, six upright grands and a fine specimen of a Baby Grand, forming a collection unrivalled in Midland Ontario, and outside the scope of local competition. The personal interests of all classes of customers are carefully consulted in the sale of the "Williams" piano. Terms of settlement are made so very liberal that the usual severe strain felt by certain purchasers, as they exist in other piano contracts, is removed. This company handle their own paper, and do not have to resort to any questionable or harrassing expedients in the collection of their bills. Another very important advantage to their patrons is the fact that they employ an expert piano tuner of their own, who is always available in this district, and who has a special interest in attending to the careful regulating of these pianos. The efficient staff now employed in connection with the Peterborough branch, has run up the sales of the "Williams" Pianos during the past twelve months to unprecedented figures, and is very encouraging. A very select stock of sheet music, small musical instruments and furnishings are also kept on sale at the branch warerooms, Water street. GEO. E. DIES, Local Manager.

You are weak, "run-down," health is frail, strength gone. Doctors call your case anæmia—there is a fat-famine in your blood. Scott's Emulsion of cod-liver oil, with hypophosphites, is the best food-means of getting your strength back—your doctor will tell you that.

He knows also that when the digestion is weak it is better to break up cod-liver oil out of the body than to burden your tired digestion with it. Scott's Emulsion does that.

THE MYSTERY OF PAIN.

WHAT ARE ITS CAUSES AND WHY IS IT PERMITTED?

The Great Work That is Being Done by Bright Minds in Alleviating Human Suffering—A Case Affording a Striking Illustration.

From the Erin Advocate.

From the time when man first peopled the earth down to the present day, the mystery of pain has filled all hearts with wonder and terror. What are its causes, why is it permitted, and what its uses are in the great economy of nature? All these questions men have asked of themselves and of one another, but the question has found no solution. All that can be done is to devise ways of relieving physical suffering, and bright minds have assisted tender hearts in bringing aid to the afflicted. All the vast resources of nature's laboratory have been pressed into service to the end that tortured bodies might have surcease from anguish, and know the peace that only health can bring. And what more natural than that these poor victims of disease thus released from suffering should desire to aid in the extension of the knowledge of the means whereby they have been benefitted?

Such a one is Miss Druscillia Shingler, of Erin, Ont., who tells a tale of pain endured through weary years, and of final relief and cure cure through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, the greatest medicine of the age. Miss Shingler says: Twelve years ago I became afflicted with rheumatism, from which I have suffered greatly. Two years later this trouble was aggravated by a growth which started in the throat, and which each year became larger and larger, until it finally became so bad that I could hardly obtain any sleep, as when I would lie down it would fill my throat, causing a feeling of suffocation. What I suffered is almost beyond description, and all the medical aid I had did me no good, and I was told that I could only hope for relief through the medium of an operation. I dreaded such a course and declined undergoing the operation. All this time the rheumatism was taking a firmer hold upon my system, and I felt like giving up in despair. I lost the power of my limbs and my hands got so bad that I could scarcely hold anything. At this stage a friend, who from personal experience had strong faith in Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, bought me a supply and urged me to try them. I thought I felt an improvement after I had used a little more than a box, and after using them for a few weeks there was no longer room to doubt that they were helping me. I was taking the Pink Pills in the hope of finding relief from the rheumatism, but to my great joy I found that the medicine was not only driving this painful malady from my system, but was also driving away the growth in my throat. The result was that after I had used about a dozen boxes of Pink Pills I was completely cured, and although a considerable time has now elapsed I have not had a recurrence of either trouble, and am enjoying the best of health. For the help my statement may be to others, I am only too glad to add my testimony to the long list of wonderful cures, such as mine, that have been wrought by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

This greatest of nineteenth century medicines positively cures all troubles arising from a disordered or weak state of the blood or shattered nerves. If you are feeling weak or depressed Dr. Williams' Pink Pills act as a tonic, and if seriously ill no other remedy can so promptly restore you to health and strength. The genuine Pink Pills are put up in round wooden boxes, the wrapper around which bears the full trade mark, "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People." Do not be persuaded to take some substitute.

JAPAN'S FIELD MARSHAL

Who is in the U.S. Says His Country is at Peace With All.

Omaha, Neb., April 9.—Through his interpreter, Field Marshal Yamagata of Japan said this morning that both Japan and Russia are anxious to see Corea an independent country and that neither country expects to control it. There is no danger of a conflict between them. Japan is at peace with every country on the face of the globe. The recent increase of the Japanese army from 28 regiments to 52 regiments was contemplated long ago and has no significance.

A MILLION FOR ARMS

Asked for in Supplementary Estimates.

THIS IS THE FIRST INSTALMENT

Of the Three Million Dollars Necessary to Re-Equip the Canadian Militia—Probable Date of the General Elections—When Will the Farce End?

Ottawa, April 9.—(Special)—The supplementary estimates for the current fiscal year got into circulation to-day, although not yet presented to Parliament. The total amount to be voted is two millions and a half, of which one million is chargeable to the consolidated fund, and the remainder to capital. Included in the latter is one million dollars for arms and ammunition to the militia, the first instalment of three millions, which Parliament is to be asked to vote. Some $60,000 is to be voted to introduce Canadian meats and other perishable food products into the markets of the United Kingdom, in such a way that the consumers may obtain them regularly in the best condition, under the name of "Canadian"; $15,000 will be the cost of the Manitoba census, and $12,000 is to settle unpaid accounts of the Territorial Exhibition. There is $20,000 to provide for the annual drill, and $45,000 for the pay of active militia at the schools of instruction, including a school at Halifax and one at Vancouver, B.C. Among the capital charges is $265,000 for equipment of the "Soo" Canal. Halifax gets $30,000 for a new immigration building. The subsidy for the winter service between St. John and Liverpool, $25,000, also appears. The Canadian Pacific Railway gets $99,000 in the shape of increased payment at the rate of $130 per mile per annum for the conveyance of mails between St. John and Vancouver, in place of the rate now paid.

Hamilton gets its new bridge over Burlington channel, cost $15,000; $35,000 more is required for mounted police; $31,000 is needed for seed grain for Northwest settlers; $2500 is wanted to pay Engineer Shanly of Ottawa for services investigating the probable effect of the Chicago drainage canal upon the lakes and harbor levels.

Your correspondent had a chat with Gen. Gascoigne to-day on the subject of the proposed visit to England of the 5th Royal Scots of Montreal. The General said that he had not yet received a formal request for permission for the battalion to leave Canada and in view of the recent decision regarding the New Brunswick Hussars he did not see how leave could well be granted for the Scots to go to England. He was satisfied, however, that if any Canadian corps at any time visited the mother country they would be well treated by the home authorities. He had no idea how Col. Strathy proposed to raise the funds for the suggested trip. It was clearly evident from the General's observations that he regards soldiering as a business and not as a species of picnicking!!

Mr. Barlow Cumberland of Toronto, chairman of the Committee on Conveyance and Transportation in connection with the British Association meeting, was in the city to-day and had an interview with Mr. Haggart in reference to transportation matters in connection with the association meeting. Mr. Cumberland also saw Deputy Minister Schreiber and General Manager Pottinger of the Intercolonial on the same subject and also had a conference with Vice-President Shaughnessy of the C. P.R., who was in town to-day.

His Excellency the Governor-General spent several hours at his office this afternoon when Sir Donald Smith had a lengthy interview with him. The report was current to-night that the conference had to do with the negotiations for the settlement of the school question. Sir Donald was asked to-night by your correspondent if he knew anything of the object of Mr. Greenway's visit to Ottawa. He replied in the negative.

"Then his visit is not part of the program arranged while you were in Winnipeg?" Sir Donald was asked.

The reply was that Mr. Greenway's visit was not arranged for by the Commissioners, nor had his mission, so far as he was aware, any connection with the negotiations of the conference. In the course of further conversation, Sir Donald expressed himself as exceedingly hopeful that the school question would be amicably disposed of within 12 months.

Opinion is divided among the members of the Cabinet as to the date of the holding of the general elections. Some are in favor of selecting a day about the 26th or 28th of May, others about the middle of June. Under any circumstances it is thought polling will not be later than June 11.

During the dinner hour recess this evening a conference of the leaders was held, when it was decided to put an end to the farce which has been enacted for the last two or three days and immediately the Speaker resumed the chair the House got down to business on the bill. The general impression is that the sitting will terminate about 3 o'clock, as after that hour no progress will be made.

Mr. R. B. Rogers, engineer of the Trent Valley canal, is in the city. He has just returned from a visit to Europe to inspect the new hydraulic lift lock for canals, one of which will be used on the Trent route near Peterboro. This important experiment will very materially affect all future canal building in Canada.

Mr. Wm. Smith, Deputy Minister of Marine, left for England to-day to attend the final meeting of the British Departmental Committee, which was appointed to enquire into the alleged under manning of ships.

Mr. Devlin, member for Ottawa County, was taken suddenly ill in the chamber to-day.

Archbishop Langevin arrived in the city from Winnipeg this afternoon.

Impoverished blood causes that tired feeling. Hood's Sarsparilla purifies, enriches and vitalizes the blood and gives vigor and vitality.

IT WAS AN AWFUL EXPLOSION.

Austin Stephenson Was Blown to Atoms by 400 Pounds of Nitro-Glycerine.

While Austin Stephenson, an employe of the Hamilton Powder Company, was driving an express wagon to-day containing 400 pounds of nitro-glycerine, the child exploded. The man, horse and vehicle were blown to atoms. The ground in the vicinity of the explosion looks as if a cyclone had struck there. Trees were torn up by the roots, and houses in the vicinity were badly shattered.

Savagery in Turkey.

Paris, April 10.—The Matin, referring to the alleged proposal of the Sultan to expel all the Catholic and Protestant missionaries from Asia Minor, says that the Turkish Government has deceived Europe as to the causes and extent of the massacres, and calls upon Europe to "end an era of misery and prevent the recurrence of savagery."

A COMMA STOPS EXTRA PAY,

Otherwise Street Cleaners Would Have Salary for Sunday Work.

New York April 9.—Commissioner Waring has issued a bulletin stating that under a recent decision of the courts and acting under an opinion from Corporation Counsel Scott, the drivers and sweepers are entitled to no extra pay for work performed on Sundays.

Bad punctuation in the law regulating the salaries of employes of the Street Cleaning Department will prevent the payment for Sunday work. The use of a comma instead of a semicolon is the cause of the trouble. The decision will keep thousands of dollars out of the pockets of the street sweepers.

TEST OF PERFECT HEALTH.

Thousands of Lives are Ebbing Away Because of Improper Heart Action.

The heart is the hub of the human system. If it is weak or deranged physical pains and mental decrepitude in one shape or another must follow, and thousands are suffering various ills of the flesh to day because the heart is not doing its full duty. Whenever the heart flutters or tires out easily, aches or palpitates, it is diseased and the warning should be heeded. The remedy of all others for heart disease is Dr. Agnews' Cure for the Heart. To quote Aaron Nichols of Peterborough, whose wife was cured of twenty years' heart disease by this medicine, "The remedy acts like magic on a diseased heart." With heart disease so prevalent in Canada, a bottle ought always to be kept in the house. Sold by H. S. Macdonald.

Letters Come.

Letters come day by day telling us that this person has been cured of dyspepsia, that person of Bad Blood, and another of Headache, still another of Biliousness, and yet others of various complaints of the Stomach, Liver, Bowels or Blood, all through the intelligent use of Burdock Blood Bitters.

It is the voice of the people recognizing the fact that Burdock Blood Bitters cures all diseases of the Stomach, Liver, Bowels and Blood.

Mr. T. G. Ludlow, 334 Colborne Street, Brantford, Ont., says: During seven years prior to 1886, my wife was sick all the time with violent headaches. Her head was so hot that it felt like burning up. She was weak, run down, and so feeble that she could hardly do anything, and so nervous that the least noise startled her. Night or day she could not rest and life was a misery to her. I tried all kinds of medicines and treatment for her but she steadily grew worse until I bought six bottles of Burdock Blood Bitters from C. Stork & Son, of Brampton, Ont., for which I paid $5.00, and it was the best investment I ever made in my life. Mrs. Ludlow took four out of the six bottles—there was no need of the other two, for those four bottles made her a strong, healthy woman, and removed every ailment from which she had suffered, and she enjoyed the most vigorous health. That five dollars saved me lots of money in medicine and attendance thereafter, and better than that it made home a comfort to me.

BEAN POLE—"Tell a fella how to loaf and grow fat."

HAPPY MAN—"Drink CALCUTT'S ALE AND PORTER."

The dyspeptic carries a dreadful load on his back. It seems as if he were really made up of two men. One of them ambitious, brainy and energetic; the other sick, listless, peevish and without force. The weak man weighs the other one down. The dyspeptic may be able to do pretty good work one day, and the next day because of some little indiscretion in eating, he may be able to do nothing at all. He isn't capable of continuous and vigorous effort. His bodily discomfort affects his mind. Even when he knows just what is the matter, he neglects the simplest precautions and the simple treatment that would cure him. Most of dyspepsia starts with constipation, and constipation can be cured. Constipation is the cause of nine-tenths of all human sickness. Some of its symptoms are sick and bilious headache, dizziness, sour stomach, loss of appetite, foul breath, windy belchings, heartburn, pain and distress after eating. All these are indicative of derangements of the liver, stomach and bowels, and all are caused by constipation. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are the quickest, easiest and most certain cure for this condition. They are quick, but not violent in their action. There is nothing about them that will give the system any shock. They not only relieve immediately, but if taken according to directions, they will absolutely cure. "You do not become a slave to their use." They are different and better than any other pill or preparation offered for the same purpose. Almost all druggists understand this, and are conscientious enough to tell you so. The druggist who tries to sell you a substitute is not a safe man from whom to buy medicine. If you will send your address, we will send you a sample package, containing from 4 to 7 doses, and you can see exactly what the "Pellets" will do for you.

If you will send 21 one-cent stamps to cover cost of customs and mailing only, we will send you FREE the most useful medical book ever presented to the public. This is Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, in Plain Language; a book of 1008 pages, profusely illustrated, the great expense of preparing which has been covered by a sale of 680,000 copies at the regular price, $1.50 per copy. Address, World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

MOST PERFECT BABY.

Pugilist Fitzsimmons's Baby Is, According to Experts, a Prodigy.

If Master Robert Fitzsimmons, jr., was to be entered in all the baby shows of the earth that his parents could hear of in the next twelve months, he would win the title of champion baby of his age. What is more, he would earn the title on merits which even any one of the fondest mammas of other babies would acknowledge.

Master Fitzsimmons doesn't lay claim to extraordinary beauty of face, although he has a mother who is more than ordinary beautiful.

But he is the most perfectly shaped small bit of humanity that has been found in many years. He is a tiny Greek god in every line, which is all the more extraordinary because infants of three months are never expected to have what artists and women call "shape."

Master Fitzsimmons is immensely interesting to doctors and to all who have read Plato's Republic.

Of course, Champion Fitzsimmons, his papa, is admittedly a magnificent specimen of muscle and lightning. Rose Julian, Mrs. Fitzsimmons, was credited with the most beautiful figure of any known American woman.

Master Fitzsimmon's measurements prove his claims to distinction.

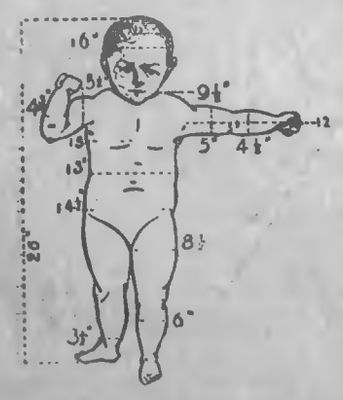
Besides this, he seems to be nothing but muscle. When he was three days old, it is said, he deliberately sat up, and now he declines to lie flat on his back when awake. He can rise unusually heavy weights and can increase h's chest measurement one inch easily. His little back is all muscle instead of fat. Most babies have limbs that are straight junks of fatness.

A sculptor would find in this boy's legs a perfectly shaped calf and a very slender ankle, while the heel is rounded out and the foot arched and curved underneath.

The unusual sight of mature lines from the thigh downward, instead of undeveloped plumpness, is another odd feature.

He is described as a miniature "Champion Fits"—a reproduction in the chest, shoulders and back of his father.

Moreover, he is already a plucky little chap. Not all the pulling and hauling around that he got while being measured could get a sound from him, except of approval of the entire proceedings.



MEASUREMEETS OF FITZSIMMONS'S BABY.

Dr. J. F. Whitmyer, of New York, made an expert examination of Robert Fitzsimmons, jr. The little fellow is only three months old, but to the untrained eye he looks a child of six months or more.

He is unusually bright and intelligent for one so young. An ordinary baby would have resented as entirely unwarranted the physical examination and handling necessary to obtain accurate measurements, to which he was subjected a few days ago. When roused from an afternoon nap he smiled and was in the best possible humor, a condition seldom met with when a baby's sleep has been interrupted.

According to present indications this little fellow is destined to become a good specimen of the physically perfect man.

He weighs fourteen pounds, which is just three pounds more than the average child of his age. His head is round and well shaped—not irregular, as is usual in a young child. It measures sixteen inches. The circumference of an ordinary head is fifteen and one-fourth inches.

His height, or perhaps I should say his length—for he was measured while lying on his back—is twenty-six inches, actual measurement. The term "actual measurement" is used because the child was really measured. Mothers, as a rule, are superstitious, and will allow a baby's measurement to be taken in only one way. That is to place the baby on its back upon a table, on the surface of which two marks are made, indicating the length of the little one. The distance between the marks is then measured. The height of an average boy baby of three months is about twenty-two inches, so that young "Bob" is about four inches taller than the usual run of babies.

His chest also is well developed and in proportion to the rest of his anatomy. It measures fifteen inches against fourteen, which is the general average. The neck, arms and legs are all well and proportionately developed.

The grip of his little hand is like that of a minature vise, proving that he has good muscles and that he apparently knows how to use them.

The child's present splendid condition is in a large measure due to the excellent care he receives from his mother, who has assumed entire charge of him.

HIS BICYCLE GIRL.

I meet her spinning through the park,
Her face alight, her cheeks aglow,
Her face divine with ecstasy—
She loves it so!

I seek her out in cushioned niche
At tea hour—speak of coming storm—
"Oh, dear!" she pouts, "I love my rides
Unless it's warm!"

I praise her gown—its fit, its hue,
Its graceful drape—she looks quite hurt;
"This thing—I'd rather wear, by far,
My cycling skirt!"

I drive her, when the Summer comes,
Thro' woody lane and shady dell;
Scornful she mutters, "Much too rough
For riding well!"

We glide, behind my rapid cobs
O'er smoothed asphalt; sure I feel
Of victory; she sighs: "I wish
I had my wheel!"

My rival—curse him! lures her on
In glib discourse of gear, of tire,
Of this, that "make," until he sets
My brain on fire.

For me alone her proud, cold mien;
How shall I melt the icicle?
Poor heart, go sell they steeds, and buy
A bicycle. —Brooklyn Life.

An Unpleasant Quality.

The professional politician looked worried, and the man of millions looked weary.

"You don't mean to say," exclaimed the former, "that you are going to quit the fight now?"

"Yes. I've had enough."

"But think of what you have invested?"

"I can't quit thinking of it."

"Don't you want power? Don't you want to be a great man with influence? Don't you want a political pull?"

"No. That's what I'm trying to get rid of. It's too much inclined to concentrate itself in the leg."—Washington Star.

GOOD ADVICE
ABOUT DYSPEPSIA.

The best advice about dyspepsia is—cure it with Burdock Blood Bitters and as surely as you follow the advice and take the medicine the cure will follow in every case.

Mr. Wm. Day of Fort William, Ont., says in speaking of B.B.B.:—Two years ago my wife was very ill with dyspepsia. No remedy that she could find gave any relief; finally she tried Burdock Blood Bitters and after taking six bottles was entirely cured. That is now more than two years ago and she has no return of the malady. I also have had occasion to use B. B. B. and I cannot speak too highly in its favour.

I always recommend it to my friends and in every case with good results. Hoping this may be of use to you, I am, Yours very truly. WILLIAM DAY.

No. LVIII.

Short Sketches of Great Men—Plato. No. II.

Philosophy has been defined as that science of which all other sciences are branches. A complete and inerrant philosophy would embrace all things in heaven and in earth. Lord Bacon divided philosophy into three departments—man contemplates, God, nature and himself. "Out of which there do arise three knowledges, divine philosophy (theology), natural philosophy and human philosophy. Nowadays the word is generally used only of metaphysics and ethics, or mental and moral philosophy. Although Plato did not altogether neglect natural science, he is properly speaking a metaphysician and a moralist.

Metaphysics is a fine sounding word, but not a very lucid one. Literally it means "above physics." The subjects with which it deals, viz, the mind of man, its power and capacities, being superior to the study of nature. Metaphysics deals very largely with problems whose solution transcends the powers of the human mind. Men of science have for this reason often held it in contempt. But the human mind seems to be irresistibly driven to seek an answer to the questions, why and how and whence came all these these things, and the fact that all through the ages men of the most profound mental powers have devoted themselves to metaphysics should give pause to the contempt of the man of science. "Philosophy," said Plato, "begins in wonder, for his is the child of Thaumas.

It is not our intention to weary our readers with any lengthy disquisition on the philosophy of Plato, but his ideas were so profound, and at the same time so noble and beneficant, that a brief account of some of them may not be without interest.

The world in which we live is the subject of continual change. This is true not only of nature, but of man. Yet, within us we find the longing for something fixed, stable, unchanging, perfect. Plato thought that the proper object of the highest knowledge, was the Eternal and Unchangeable. This he named sometimes, That which is, and sometimes The Good. "The idea of the Good is the object of the sublimest of sciences; if we know not this idea, it will avail us nothing to know all the rest." The Good again must be True, and what is good and true must also be Beautiful, for beauty is not only of things seen, for do we not speak of beautiful thoughts? The True, the Good, and the Beautiful are one. Only one step was needed to reach the extreme limit of perfection, viz, to unite this threefold excellence, in one personality—God "the happiest of all beings, and whom the soul ought evermore and in every way to contemplate." Through philosophy, then, Plato believed that man entered into communion with the Infinite. How near he came to the Truth we may judge from the words of St. John: "This is eternal life, that they may know Thee the only God, and Jesus Christ whom thou hast sent."

Plato found that the essential attribute of man was his reason. Reason's proper object is truth. Therefore man is made to seek after truth (or again, to quote a parallel from Scripture, "to seek after God if haply they may find Him"). But man is also a being who acts, and his perfection as an acting being, is found in virtue. This leads to the consideration of morals. If, in Plato's ideas of God we find resemblances to Scripture, his scheme of morality presents striking diffsrences. His four cardinal virtues are wisdom, fortitude, temperance and justice. The cardinal virtue of Christianity is love, and consequently the virtues of meekness, humanity, long-sufferingness and forgiveness are the satellites of love. The judgment of many centuries pronounces in favour of the New Testament ideal, although the more difficult in practice.

Like other Greek philosophers Plato took a keen interest in theories of politics. The ancient Greek state was very small, and was pervaded with an intense public spirit. Although Plato is a thorough going aristocrat, he agrees with our modern Socialists, that the individual is to be subordinated to the state. "The general character of the Platonic State is the sacrifice, the exclusive abandonment of the individual to the political element—the reduction of moral to political virtue. Political observance is to become universal and the principle of sense shall be checked and subjugated to that of intelligence. But, if this is to be so, then political authority must undertake the training of all to virtue, or the conservation of public morals; and all subjective self-will, every egotistic end, must disappear in the collective will and in the collective end." For Plato the state is only a huge educational establishment, a single family on the great scale. In such a state freedom gives place to slavery, albeit, not private or selfish slavery, but for the public good. Thus we see how in different guise the perennial question of the relations of individual liberty to the common good exercised the highest minds. The solution of Christianity neither violates freedom nor permits of license. It does not command, but it exhorts. It seeks to present such a glorious ideal of human relations, as shall by its own beauty win its way to the heart of man. In the ideal state of Plato men are compelled to live according to the rule of the philosopher. Christianity sets little store by a compulsory virtue. In its ideal state every man will freely sacrifice himself to the common good, and in this willing offering lies the virtue of the sacrifice.

Yet, until Christianity has thus conquered the heart, the problem of legislation for the common good will be keenly debated between the Individualist and the Collectivist. Critics of Socialism have a trite phrase which is so often quoted that they must think it very clever—"Socialism," say they, "asserts that 'what is thine is mine;' Christianity says, 'what is mine is thine.'" That is very true, but how many Christians say, or even believe, that "What is mine is thine?"

We shall, I suppose, all agree that the problem of the modern state is to reconcile the two sides of the question. There are individual liberties which it is dangerous to destroy. There is an individual license which must be repressed. How can we combine, with the greatest possible freedom of the conscious individual will, the greatest possible omnipotence of the state, so as to stimulate, to its highest activity, individual energies, and at the same time, to promote the common weal?

ED. F. C. C.

The things that people see are inside of them and not outside. No two people see the same thing exactly alike. One woman may look out at a beautiful landscape and see all the beauty and restfulness and grandness that there is in it. Another one will look out on the same scene and see nothing. The man who is perfectly well and vigorous enjoys life to the full. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery makes people well. There isn't anything miraculous about it—it is the most natural thing in the world. It simply puts the digestive organs, the stomach, the liver, the bowels, in perfect order, and thereby makes the blood pure and rich. All diseases live and thrive on impure blood. Keep a stream of pure, rich, rich blood flowing into a diseased spot, and the disease will not stay. A man lives on rich pure blood, and disease dies on it.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery makes pure, rich blood. Send 31 cents in one cent stamps to World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y., and receive Dr. Pierce's 1008 page "Common Sense Medical Adviser," profusely illustrated.

SCRIBNER'S FOR APRIL.

This magazine opens with a living portrait of the late Lord Leighton for frontspiece, the best we have seen. Also a dozen specimens of his work reproduced with extraordinary skill and fidelity. "A Day at Olympia."—A gossipy story of the enchanting land. "Where Burning Sappho Lived and Sung," being a description of the birth of one of the Olympiads, copied, we suppose, from the Missenian Witness, or some other Hellenic daily of that time. Also some facts concerning the revival of the games which will take place at Athens in April. "Sentimental Tommy" decreases not in interest. The chief charm in this work is its originality. Nothing like it has been written during a century's popular story-telling. "The History of the Last Quarter Century" is concluded with this issue, but will be published in book form. There are one or two stories, and something more of the X-Rays, the number being well up to its usual standard of excellence.

His Trouble was in the Kidneys.

This was the case with Mr. D. J. Locke, of Sherbrooke, Que. He suffered for three years from a complicated case of Kidney and Bladder disease, and spent over one hundred dollars for treatment, but never received marked relief until, to use his own words, "I began the use of South American Kidney cure, when four bottles completely cured me." Kidney disease has fastened its fangs on hundreds of others besides Mr. Locke, but everyone can find a cure, effective and speedy, in South American Kidney cure. In most distressing cases relief is secured in six hours. Sold by H. S. Macdonald.

Captain Sweeney, U. S. A., San Diego Cal. says: "Shiloh's Catarrh Remedy the first medicine I have ever found that would do me any good." Price 50c. Sold by John Nugent, 349 George Street.

County Council Want a Commission of Enquiry Into Magistrate's Returns.

(Chatham Planet.)

The county council have been making an investigation into the matter of returns by county magistrates. The disclosures were such as to warrant them in asking that a commission be appointed to examine the books and papers of the magistrates in this county for the past five years.

This matter is one fraught with considerable interest to the magistrate, as each such official is liable to the amount of $80 for every case which is not properly reported to the Department.

THE LIFE OF A DEMON

H. H. Holmes' Confession Given to the Public.

A HORRIBLE RECORD OF MURDER

Tells How He Put Twenty-Seven Persons to Death.

How He Burned Pitezel and Warner Alive. How He Killed Many Women and Innocent Children, Including the Murder of the Two Girls in Toronto.

New York, April 12.—"I positively and emphatically deny the assertions that any confession has been made by me except one, and which is the only one that will be made. The original confession is the one given to The New York Journal. It alone is genuine. All the others are untrue," so writes H. H. Holmes, the self-confessed murderer, under date of yesterday to The New York Journal, which to-day prints the "confession" in full.

Detective Geyer writes a foot note as follows: "I have read the confession and find that it is fully corroborated by the evidence obtained by me in the investigation conducted by me through which Holmes was detected and convicted."

Holmes' story is lengthy, occupying more than three pages of The Journal.

In the introductory Holmes writes: "During the past few months the desire has been repeatedly expressed that I make a detailed confession of all the graver crimes that have with such marvelous skill been traced out and brought home to me. I have been tried for murder, convicted, sentenced, and the step to my execution upon the 7th of May, namely, the reading of my death warrant, has been carried out, and it now seems a fitting time, if ever, to make known the details of the twenty-seven murders of which it would be useless to longer say I am not guilty. In the face of the overwhelming amount of proof that has been brought together, not only in one, but in each and every case, and because in this confession I speak only of cases that have been thus investigated, and of no other, I trust it will not give rise to a supposition that I am still guilty of other murders which I am withholding.

"A word as to the motives or causes that have led to the commission of these many crimes, and I will proceed to the most difficult and distasteful task of my life, the setting forth in all its horrid nakedness the recital of the premeditated killing of many beings, and the unsuccessful attempt to take the lives of others, thus branding myself as the most detestable criminal of modern times, a task so hard and distasteful that beside it the certainty that in a few days I am to be hanged by the neck until I am dead seems but a pastime.

"No cause save the occasional opportunity for pecuniary gain occassioned my crimes, and in advancing it at this time I do not do so with the expectation of a mitigation of public condemnation, or that it will in any way read in my favor. Had this been my intention, I should have considered it at the time of my trial and had it used as my defence.

"All criminalogists who have examined me here seem to be unanimous in the opinion they have formed that while committing the crime these abnormal symptoms were not present, but commenced to develop after my arrest. Two years ago I was thoroughly examined by four men of marked ability, and by them pronounced as being both mentally and physically a normal and healthy man. To-day I have every attribute of a degenerate; a moral idiot. Is it possible that the crimes, instead of being the result of these abnormal conditions, are in themselves the occasion of the degeneracy?

"The first taking of human life was a torturing thought. This, it will be understood, was before my constant wrongdoing. I had become wholly deaf to the prompting of conscience; for prior to this, I beg to be believed in stating that I had never sinned so heavily either by thought or deed. Later, like the man-eating tiger of the tropical jungles, whose appetite for blood has once been aroused, I roamed about the world seeking whom I could destroy.

"Think of the list that follows—men and women, young girls and innocent children, blotted out by one monster's hand, and you, my reader, of a tender and delicate nature, will do well to read no further, for I shall continue to the end, if he be charitable, will say in the words of the district attorney who when the evidence of all these many crimes has been collected and placed before him by his trusty assistants, exclaimed: 'God help such a man!'

"If uncharitable or only just, will be not rather say: 'May he be utterly damned, and that it is almost sufficient to cause one to doubt the wisdom of Providence that such a man should have so long been allowed to live?' If so, I earnestly pray that this condemnation and censure may not extend to those whose only crime has been that they knew and trusted; aye, in some instances loved me, and who to-day are more deserving of the world's compassion than censure."

Holmes uses a ——— to cover the individuality of those who were his associates in crime.

Dr. Russel's murder was committed in Holmes' Chicago "Castle," in which Russel was a tenant. During a controversy concerning unpaid rent, Holmes struck Russel to the floor with a heavy chair, when with one cry for help ending in a groan of anguish Russel ceased to breathe. Holmes continues: "I locked the doors of the office, and my first intention was to dispose of the body to a Chicago medical college, from one of whose officers I had previously obtained dissecting material, as they believed, but in reality to be used in insurance work. I found it difficult, if not impossible, to thus dispose of it, and was directed to call upon a person to whom I sold bodies, and whose name I withhold, but which I have confided to parties in whom I have confidence. To him I sold this man's body, as well as others at later dates; in short, in each instance, when the manner of the disposal of their remains is not otherwise specified, it will be understood that they are turned over to him, he paying me from $25 to $45 for each body.

"The killing of Mrs. Julia Connor was to a certain extent due to a criminal operation, performed by ———, who were cognizant of and partly responsible for both the operation and the death.

"The death of Pearl, her little daughter, was caused by poison, and that ——— were equally responsible for its administration, although it was at my instigation that it was done. I believe the child was old enough to remember her mother's sickness and death. The other parties wished at first to place the child in the care of their aged parents, who lived south of the city, but were overruled by my opposition.

"The next case is that of Charles Cole, a southern speculator. After considerable correspondence, this man came to Chicago, and I enticed him to the Castle, where, while I was engaging him in conversation ——— struck him a most vicious blow on the head with a piece of gas pipe. So heavy was the blow that it not only caused his death without a groan and hardly a movement, but it crushed his skull to such an extent that his body was almost useless to ———. This was the first instance in which I know of this confederate having committed murder, though in several other instances he was fully as guilty as myself, and, if possible, more heartless and bloodthirsty, and I have no doubt is still engaged in the same nefarious work.

"A domestic named Lizzie was the next victim. She for a time worked in the Castle restaurant, and I soon learned that ——— was paying her too close attention, and, fearing lest it should progress so far that it would necessitate his leaving my employ, I thought it wise to end the life of the girl. This I did by calling her to my office and suffocating her in the vault, of which so much has since been printed, she being the first victim that died therein. Before her death I compelled her to write letters to her relatives and to H———, stating that she had left Chicago for a western state and would not return.

"Soon after this Miss Emeline Cigrande was sent to me by a Chicago firm to fill the vacancy of stenographer. She had formerly been employed at Dwight, Ill., where she had become acquainted with a man and was finally engaged to him and the day set for their wedding. This attachment was particularly obnoxious to me, both because Miss Cigrande had become almost indispensable to me in my office work and because she had become my mistress, as well as stenographer. I endeavored upon several occasions to take the life of the young man, and, failing in this, I finally resolved that I would kill her instead, and upon the day of their wedding, even after cards had been sent out announcing that it had occurred, she came to my office to bid me good-bye. While there I asked her to step inside the vault for some papers for me. There I detained her, telling her that if she would write her husband that at the last moment she had known that it would be impossible to live happily with him, and consequently had left Chicago in such a way that search for her would be useless, I would take her to a distant city and live openly with her as my wife. She was very willing to do this, and prepared to leave the vault on completing the letter, only to find that the door would never again open until she had ceased to suffer the tortures of a slow and lingering death."

Here follows an unsuccessful attempt to commit a triple murder "for the $90 that ——— would have given me for the bodies of the intended victims, who were three young women working in my restaurant upon Milwaukee-avenue, Chicago.

"To this attempt to kill could very justly be added my attempt to take the lives of Mrs. Pitezel and two of her children at a later date, thus increasing the total of my victims, as it was no fault of mine that they escaped.

"My next attempt was carried out with more caution. The victim was a very beautiful young woman named Anna Van Tassand, whom I induced to come into my fruit and confectionery store, and once with me I compelled her to live there for a time, threatening her with death if she appeared before my customers. A little later I killed her by administering ferrocyanide of potassium."

"This woman's body could not be disposed of and it was buried in the basement of the store.

"Robert Latimer, a man who had for some years been in my employ as a janitor, was my next victim. Several years previous, before I had ever taken human life, he had known of certain insurance work I had engaged in, and when in after years he sought to extort money from me, his own death and the sale of his body was the recompense meted out to him. I confined him within the secret room and slowly starved him to death. Of this room and its secret gas supply and muffled windows and doors, sufficient

FIGHT LIKELY OVER.

The Government Finds the Time is Too Short.

WANTS TO PASS SOME ESTIMATES

Rev. Dr. Saunders Refers to the House of Commons Bar and Hopes This is the Last Session it Will be Tolerated—General Ottawa Notes.

Ottawa, April 12.—(Special)—Although Sir Charles Tupper announced that consideration of the Remedial bill would be continued to-morrow, it is not expected that there will be another week's fight. If the Government desire to pass the supplementary estimates and clear up the legislation well under way next week alone will not give sufficient time. To-morrow's Council meeting may put a different aspect on the situation.

The Cabinet has had under consideration during the past few days applications for railway subsidies, and it is not at all unlikely that Parliament will be asked to vote a certain number. Over 100 applications are on file in the Railway Department.

Negotiations are in progress between the Indian Department here and the United States authorities at Washington for the return of 500 Cree Indians from Montana to their reserves in the Canadian Northwest. These Indians went to Montana after the rebellion of 1885, having gone there to escape prosecution for their participation in the uprising. The Governor of Montana is anxious to get rid of them, though there is no complaint of their conduct. The Canadian Government will receive them back if they are willing to return.

The following decisions have been made by the Board of Customs and approved by Controller Wood: Acorns, if shelled, 5c per lb; acorns, not shelled, 2c per lb; sad irons, plated, 27 1-2 per cent; California or silver prunes, 1c per lb; fluorspar, 20 per cent.; perforated paper, in sheets or rolls for use in mechanical musical instruments, 25 per cent; filter paper, cut to shape, 25 per cent.

In future the value at which the Austrian florin is to be taken for customs purposes shall be 40.6 cents, instead of 34 1-10 cents, as shown in the analytical index.

John Haggart Montague, infant son of Dr. and Mrs. Montague, aged nearly 12 months, died yesterday of convulsions. The little fellow was taken very suddenly, and notwithstanding the immediate attendance of two medical men, the attack ended fatally. The remains have been embalmed, and will be kept until the arrival of Dr. and Mrs. Montague, who are expected home from England this week.

Word received from Aylmer to-day was to the effect that Mr. C. R. Devlin, M.P., is in a very serious condition. The illness which necessitated his leaving his parliamentary duties has developed pneumonia, and his medical adviser considers his condition critical. Doctors Guay, Cotter, Rinfret and Macdonald, M.P.'s, went up to Aylmer to confer with the local doctors.

A deputation, headed by Senator Cochran, and including Mr. Bickerdike, president of the Board of Trade, and Mr. Cobden of Montreal, representing the interest of the cattle shippers, waited on Hon. John Haggart, Minister of Railways, yesterday and complained of the excessive freight charges by railway companies for the transport of live cattle.

In his sermon in the Dominion Methodist Church last night, the pastor, Rev. Dr. Saunders, made reference to the bar in the House of Commons. "Those scenes," said he, "or orgies, as some one has called them, which have taken place of late in the House of Commons, seem to be the result of having a barroom so convenient. They are a disgrace to Parliament, a disgrace to the land, and I trust this is the last session that a barroom will be tolerated in any House of Parliament in the land."

The House adjourned at five minutes to midnight, and the longest continuous parliamentary sitting in this or any other country came to a close. The House had been steadily in session since last Monday, a period of 129 hours. During these fie days, the flow of talk had been ceaseless, with the exception of two hours each evening when the House rose for dinner.

J. C. Rykert, Dr. Ollie and J. S. Campbell of St. Catharines, representing the St. Catharines and Niagara Central Railway, waited on Sir Charles Tupper and Mr. Haggart and offered to renounce the $108,000 bonus already granted them, on condition that the Government would expend $50,000 in repairing that portion of the road already built between St. Catharines and Niagara Falls.

Samples of mineral, supposed to be gold, found near Prince Albert, have been received by Mr. Macdowall, M.P., who is having an assay made. A practical miner here made a cursory examination of the samples and gave it as his opinion that the mineral was mica.

Can Heart Failure be Prevented?

Startling and brief the announcement, "Sudden Death Caused by Heart Failure." Such is the stereotyped announcement of coroners, juries, and reporters arousing the forebodings of those victims of indigestion and mal-nutrition, who so frequently disturb themselves upon the manifestation in palpitation or fluttering, of functional disturbance of the heart; symptoms which they are foolishly prone to accept as the signs of an incurable and speedily fatal malady. Maltine with Coca Wine is potent in restoring conditions that no longer render possible such alarmingly disturbing symptoms. Maltine with Coca Wine, through its remedial influence upon the nervous system, soothes into calmness the disorganized nerves. The heart, in response to increased nerve force, no longer plunges and beats as if determined to break.

Maltine with Coca Wine has long been recognized as the most pleasant and efficient remedy for all those functional derangements that find manifestation in lassitude, sleeplessness, despondency, and loss of appetite and digestive power. A nerve tonic, a body-builder, a nutrient and digestive agent of inestimable value. All druggists sell it.

"OBSTRUCTION."

The one consolatory reflection in respect of the disgraceful travesty of parliamentary procedure at Ottawa within the past week, is that it cannot last long. Dissolution must come in ten days and with dissolution the reign of the present bulldozing Government is practically at an end. The Government with a brazen effrontery, which shows that shame is a visitor unknown to them, charge that the discussion of the Remedial bill is obstruction; when, as a matter of fact, which every citizen who reads the reports of the alleged proceedings of parliament for himself knows, the Government led by the bull-dozing Sir Charles Tupper is the real fountain source and provocation of resistance to force, yclept "obstruction." In respect of the consideration of the Remedial bill in committee, the government has taken a very high-handed course. The government virtually attempted to have the various clauses passed without discussion. An amendment was proposed and the discussion it properly invited was called obstruction, yet several amendments were accepted as to clauses which Sir Charles had pronounced perfect because "the government had considered them"—even one was proposed by a government supporter and adopted. If the Remedial bill is a bona fide measure which the government honestly desires to become law, they cannot object to sufficient discussion of its provisions to make it workable, which the course of discussion in committee has shown plainly it was not in its original form. But the fact is patent that the government have some ulterior motive for blocking the bill, and Sir Charles Tupper has ordered his actions with this end in view. His policy has been one of virtuperation and vilification of members of the house—abuse, couched in such offensive terms that no self-respecting member could refrain from resenting it; thus discussion, or at least explanation, has been forced on the attention of the committee of the House. Another means of provoking obstruction is the employment of brute force—compelling the House to sit continuously—an attempt that it is not in human nature not to resist. Up to midnight on Friday night the House sat continuously without a break, for 109 hours, the government, relying on the "brute majority, 'refusing to permit an adjournment. The refusal has resulted in the most disgraceful travesty of parliamentary proceedings ever chronicled. The business before the house could receive no proper attention from men physically and mentally prostrated. At times there was not a single member of the government in his place; and members whose strength had failed sought the aid stimulants, and the house was treated right on the floor of parliament to a bout of fisticuffs between two Conservative members.—one a friend of the Remedial Bill, Mr. Ferguson, of Leeds and Granville who attempted by physical force, to bulldose Dr. Sproule, after the example of Sir Charles Tupper's bulldozing policy in his ministerial capacity. Sir Charles Tupper would hear no reason. Mr. Laurier, when the committee had only been 24 hours in session proposed, instead of the painful farce of a continuous session, that the house sit from three in the after noon till three in the morning. But this Sir Charles refused; he had other views than progress with the bill; he wished to provoke occasion for bringing the charge of obstruction. Had he really desired to make really effective progress with the bill, he would have consented to Mr. Laurier's proposition, but the policy of brute force was more in sympathy with his political nature and as a result we have had scenes that it is not too strong language to describe as parliamentary pandemonium. Sir Charles may bull-dose parliament to a certain extent but he cannot bull-doze the electors, before whom he and his government will soon have to fight for their lives.

In his present course Sir Charles Tupper is only carrying out the policy of obstruction the government has long practiced. We have had passed by the government fiscal laws that obstruct the progress of country, that obstruct the development of the illimitable natural and industrial resources of our country, that obstruct the growth of our population, and we can expect no better so long as this Falstaff's ragged regiment of a government—"this thing of shreds and patches"—remains in power. We must have a change and a change we shall have before the snows of next winter whiten the earth. The "extinct volcano" will cease even to smoke though it may still ooze mud in impotent opposition.

THE members of the House of Commons after sitting one hundred and twenty-nine hour continuously were not very well fitted for keeping awake during Sunday's sermons.

How many members of parliament are in the position of Judge Masson who sat for weeks with the promise of a judgeship in his pocket? And this is what the Dominion Government calls representative government. Representative government under Conservative rule has become a farce.

PRINCIPAL GRANT, who is Conservative in his sympathies but who has no sympathy for a Conservative party that has drifted so far from its moorings, says:—"There is scarcely a page of our tariff from which illustrations could not be drawn to show that our tariff discourages industry, or that it is constructed not so much in the general interest as in that of some particular particular person or company that has managed to get the ear of the Finance Minister."

WHO IS THIS SUICIDE?

A 70-Year-Old Man Shoots Himself in an Hotel in Hull—He Left a Strange Note.

Ottawa, April 12.—(Special).—A sensational suicide is reported from Hull. On Saturday morning a well-dressed stranger, a man of about 70 years of age, with grey whiskers, entered Leberge's Hotel in that city, engaged a room, to which he retired at once, saying he was tired and desired only to rest. As he did not put in an appearance at the dining room, the door of his room was forced this morning and the stranger was found dead in bed, with a bullet hole through his head and a revolver by his side. This note, addressed to the hotel proprietor was found on the table:

"Bury me in my clothes. In my pockets will be found $75, sufficient to pay my funeral expenses. My brother will be here in the course of a couple of weeks to adjust bills and other matters. Take care of my watches.

"(Signed) ENGLAND."

His pockets were searched and in them was found $81 in cash and four valuable watches. At the inquest today, at which a verdict of suicide was found, a boy testified that during the night he was awakened by a sharp noise, but concluding that a window had fallen went to sleep again. Nobody else in the hotel heard the pistol shot. When he arrived at Laberge's the unknown said that he came from England and that is all that is known about him.

A Challenge to Fight.

Hamilton, April 11.—(Special)—Jack Kelly, who sparred Schram last night is out with a challenge for any 140 or 145 pound man in Canada, before the club offering the biggest purse, Schram or Crawford preferred, the fight to come off five weeks from the time the articles are signed.

Sawing Wood.

A TORONTONIAN OF 85 YEARS WHO CAN STILL HANDLE A BUCKSAW.

To find a man of 85 sawing and splitting wood without any trouble would surprise most of us to whom such vigorous exercise is—to say the least—distasteful, but to hear the circumstances under which it took place but increases the wonder.

"Our representative visited Mr. John Clyne, 174½ Sackville st., City, a sufferer from kidney trouble for the past 10 years, having undergone two operations during that time. Mr. Clyne was for some 30 years engaged in the express and cartage business for such well-known firms as Swan Bros., Hugh Miller, J.P., Wm. Rennie, etc., and having been a resident of Toronto for 50 years, is well known. Mrs. Clyne was interviewed at their residence and said: 'Mr. Clyne was in a very bad state, his urine almost black with sediment and he was expecting to have another operation such as he had before. The pain in his back was at times very severe and kept him from doing any work. Mr. Clyne got a box of Doan's Kidney Pills at J. R. Lee's drug store and was relieved from the first dose; the urine is now clear, no trouble or burning sensation, and to-day you would say that although 85 years old, he has taken on a new lease of life.' Mrs. Clyne then took our reporter to the yard, and to his surprise found Mr. C. sawing wood for over Sunday. He emphatically endorsed every word Mrs. Clyne had said. 'From the very first they did me good; I am well known here and you can use my name as reference. Two weeks ago I expected to be operated on, perhaps to die—to-day I am well and strong, better than I have felt for a score of years.'"

CAST AWAY ON ICE FLOES.

Government Steamers Make a Fruitless Search for Missing Newfoundlanders.

St. John's, Nfld., April 11.—Yesterday five men, three belonging to St. John's and two to Bey De Verde, drifted away on ice floes. One perished from exposure last night. Two others were saved by the steamer Virginia Lake. The other two are supposed to have been drowned. Fully 60 men barely escaped, contriving to reach land at various places after desperate efforts. Much apprehension was felt this afternoon because the wind had changed, driving the ice off the coast. Hundreds of men were out on the ice. It is not known how many got ashore. Fully a thousand seals have been taken off St. John's and the neighborhood the past three days.

Another body of men, variously estimated at from 20 to 40, went adrift last night at Conception Bay. The Government despatched two steamers in search of them. Both returned to-night, having failed to find any castaways. It is expected that most of them have landed at points not reached by the telegraph, but it is feared that several have perished.

Carrier Pigeons Going Home.

Fredericksburg, Va., April 12.—Eight hundred carrier pigeons from Philadelphia and other northern points were turned loose here this morning. After circling over the town for an hour the birds flew northward.

HOW THE SUN LIFE

A Matured 10 Year Endowment.

Profits Paid by the SUN 21 per. cent more than the Estimates.

The following letter, which speaks for itself, was received by the undersigned this morning from a gentleman in Brockville, whose ten year endowment which he held in the Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada matured last week and was paid him. The Sun is modest in promises but UNEQUALLED IN RESULTS. The public are benefited by results, not by promises unfulfilled

BROCKVILLE, November 7th, 1895.

W. H. HILL, Mgr. Central Ontario Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada, Peterborough, Ontario:—

DEAR SIR,—I should have acknowledged the receipt of yours enclosing cheque for endowment policy No. 12,871 before, only I wanted to write something more than a mere receipt. I am pleased to hear of the continued prosperity of the "SUN" and it speaks well for your Company when the profits are greater (by 21 per cent.) than you as the Company's representative promised or rather estimated, as was the case with this policy.

I hope your Company will continue to prosper and I often regret that I do not carry more Insurance than I am doing. I might have carried twice as much as I do when at Minden without any great effort, still what little I do carry I feel is perfectly safe being in the "SUN."

I must thank you for your promptness and kindness regarding this policy just settled. I hope we will both be alive and well when the new one I now hold will be due in 1905 and assuring you of very best wishes, I remain,

Yours Sincerely,
(Signed) F. R. C.

The above voluntary testimonial is significant and shows in a most practical way the SUN'S standing as a profit paying institution.

THE LIFE OF A DEMON.

has already been printed. Finally, needing its use for another purpose and because his pleadings had become almost unbearable, I ended his life."

The next case, that of Miss Anna Betts, like the case of Miss Gertrude Connor, was due to poison inserted in medicines put up at Holmes' drug store, and no motive for either crime is given.

"The next death was that of a man named Warner, and here again a very large sum of money was realized, which, prior to his death, had been deposited in two Chicago banks, nearly all of which I secured by means of two checks made out and properly signed by him for a small sum each. To these I later added the word 'thousand' and the necessary ciphers, and by passing them through the bank where I had a regular open account, I promptly realized the money. It will be remembered that the remains of a large kiln made of fire brick were found in a basement. It had been built under Mr. Warner's supervision for the purpose of exhibiting his patents. It was so arranged that in less than a minute after turning on a jet of crude oil, atomized with steam, the entire kiln would be filled with a colorless flame, so intensely hot that iron would be melted therein. It was into this kiln that I induced Mr. Warner to go with me, under the pretense of wishing certain minute explanations of the process, and then, stepping outside, as he believed, to get some tools, I closed the door and turned on both the oil and steam to their full extent. In a short time not even the bones of my victim remained."

In 1831 Holmes stated that he associated with a young Englishman to manipulate certain securities and interest English capital. They were on the point of success when an unforeseen occurrence destroyed their rating, and it became necessary to at once raise a large sum. To this end they entered a wealthy banker named Rogers, from a Wisconsin town, to the Chicago Castle. Rogers stubbornly refused to turn his fortune over to the pair, but finally by alternately starving him and nauseating him with gas, he was made to sign the securities, all of which, amounting to $70,000, were converted into cash by the clever forgery of the Englishman, and the latter then chloroformed Rogers and left the body for Holmes to dispose of."

The next case is that of a woman whose name Holmes does not remember. She came to the Castle Restaurant to board, and the man who was conducting the restaurant became infatuated with her, and finally they lived together at the Castle. She was a wealthy widow, of whom the restaurant keeper finally tired, and with Holmes' aid she was chloroformed. It was the body of this woman, within the long, coffin-shaped box, that was taken from the Castle late in 1893.

"I first met Miss Williams in New York in 1888, where she knew me as Edward Hatch, and later under the same name in Denver, as has been testified to by certain young women who recognized my photograph. Early in 1893 I was again introduced to her as H. H. Holmes. She had applied for a position as a stenographer. Soon after entering my employ I induced her to give me $2500 in money, and to transfer to me by deed much southern real estate, and a little later to live with me as my wife; all this being easily accomplished owing to her innocent and childlike nature, she hardly knowing right from wrong in such matters.

"Thereafter I succeeded in securing two checks from her for $2500 each, and I also learned that she had a sister, Nannie, in Texas, who was an heiress to some property. I induced Miss Williams to have her come to Chicago on a visit. Upon her arrival I met her at the depot and took her to the Castle, telling her Miss Williams was there. It was an easy matter to force her to assign me all she possessed. After that she was immediately killed, in order that no one in or about the Castle should know of her having been there save ——, who burned her clothing. It was also easy to give to Miss Williams a delayed letter stating that her sister's proposed visit had been given up, and also intercepting later letters and substituting others to keep her from learning that her sister had left the south."

Having secured all the money and property of Miss Williams, it was time that she was killed. Owing to a fire at the Castle it was impossible to commit the deed there, and the pair went to Momence, Ill., about Nov. 15, 1892, registering at an hotel under an assumed name. It was intended to kill Miss Williams there, but a railway employe met and recognized Holmes, and he abandoned it, but later took her eight miles east of Momence on a freight line little used, and ended her life with poison, and buried her body in the basement of the house spoken of at about the time of the Irvington discoveries, 1895.

"It was a great wonder," writes Holmes, "that the body was not found at the time, if the detectives in reality went to that location. Nothing would at the present time give me so much satisfaction as to know that her body had been properly buried. I would be willing to give up the few remaining days I have to live if by so doing this would be accomplished. Because of her spotless life before she knew me, because of the large amount of money I defrauded her of, because I killed her sister and brother, and because, not being satisfied with all this, I endeavored after my arrest to blacken her good name by charging her with the death of her sister, and later with the instigation of the murder of the two Pitezel children; endeavoring to have it believed that her motive for so doing was to afford an avenue of escape for herself, if ever apprehended for her sister's death, by pointing to me as a wholesale murderer, and therefore presumably guilty of the sister's death as well; for all these reasons, this is without exception the saddest and most heinous of all my crimes."

The next victim was a man, name forgotten, a visitor to the Columbian Exposition, whom Holmes determined to use in his various business dealings, but finding that he did not possess sufficient ability decided to kill him and did so.

The murder of Miss Williams' brother, Baldwin Williams of Leadville, Col., to obtain insurance, brings the story to the murder of Benjamin F. Pitezel, of which Holmes says: "From the first hour of our acquaintance, even before I knew he had a family who would later afford me additional victims for the gratification of my bloodthirstiness, I intended to kill him, and all my subsequent care of him, as well as my apparent trust in him by placing in his name large amounts of property, was simply to gain the confidence of him and his family, so when the time was ripe they would the more readily fall into my hands.

"It seems almost incredible now as I look back that I could have expected to have experienced sufficient satisfaction in witnessing their death to repay me for even the physical exertion that I had put forth in their behalf during those seven long years, to say nothing of the amount of money I had expended for their welfare over and above what I could have expected to have received from his comparatively small life insurance.

"Pitezel left his home for the last time late in July, 1894. We journeyed together to New York, and later to Philadelphia, where the fatal house on Callow Hill-street, in which he met his death, September, 1894, was hired. Then came my writing to him the discouraging letters, purporting to be from his wife, causing him to resort to drink; then the waiting form day to day until I should be sure to find him in a drunken stupor at midday. This was an easy matter, as I was well acquainted with his habits, and so sure was I of finding him thus incapacitated that when the day came on which it was convenient for me to kill him, even before I went to his house, I packed my trunk and made other arrangements to leave Philadelphia in a hurried flight immediately after his death.

"After thus preparing, I went to the house, quietly unlocked the door and stole noiselessly within, and in the second storey room I found him insensibly drunk, as I expected. Only one difficulty presented itself. It was necessary for me to kill him in such a manner that no struggle or movement of his body should occur, otherwise his clothing, being in any way displaced, it would have been impossible to again put them in a normal condition. I overcame this difficulty by first binding him hand and foot, and having done this, I proceeded to burn him alive, saturating his clothing and his face with benzine and igniting it with a match.

"So horrible was this torture that in writing it I have ben tempted to attribute his death to some more humane means; the least I can do is to spare my readers the victim's cries for mercy, his prayers, and finally his plea for a more speedy termination of his sufferings, all of which upon me had no effect. Finally, when he was dead, I removed the straps and ropes that bound him and extinguished the flames, and a little after poured into his stomach one and a half ounces of chloroform. After his death I gathered together various assignments of patents and deeds to property he had held for me that I had been careful to have him sign over days before, so I should not suffer pecuniary loss. I also wrote the cipher message found by the insurance company among my papers after my arrest, imitating his handwriting, and after placing the body in such a position that by a cunning arrangement of a window shutter upon the south side of the building the sun would be reflected on his face the entire day, I left the house without the slightest feeling of remorse for my terrible acts.

"For one month and six days thereafter I took no human life.

"To the question, did Pitezel during his eight years' acquaintance and almost constant association with me know that I was a multi-murderer, and if he did know, was he a party to such crimes? I answer that he neither knew of nor was a party to the taking of any human life, and I earnestly beg that this statement may be believed, both in justice to his memory and on account of the surviving members of his family. The worst acts he ever participated in were dishonesties regarding properties and unlawful acts of trade, in which he aided me freely.

"Upon the 1st day of October, 1894, I took the three Pitezel children to the Circle House at Indianapolis, where I engaged permanent board for them until such time as I could kill one or more of them. The house at Irvington was next rented, and on Oct. 7 and 8 poison was bought at the Irvington drug store to kill the boy with. The house was partly furnished, and then, on Oct. 10, the boy's trunk and a stove were brought to the house, at about 6 p.m., at which time Mr. Moreman was the last person who saw the boy alive, for almost immediately I called him into the house and insisted that he go to bed at once, first giving him the fatal dose of medicine. As soon as he had ceased to breathe, I cut his body into pieces that would pass through the door of the stove, and by the combined use of gas and corncobs, proceeded to burn it, with as little feeling as though it had been some inanimate article.

"I now, with much reluctance, come to the discursion of the murders of Alice and Nellie Pitezel, whose deaths will seem to many to be the saddest of all, both on account of the terribly heartless manner in which they were accomplished and because in one instance; that of Alice, the oldest of these children, her death was the last of the wrongs suffered at my hands. Here, again, I am tempted to either pass the matter by without speaking of it, or to altogether deny it, but to what purpose?

"These children, after boarding in Detroit for about one week, reached Toronto, and were taken to the Albion Hotel, where they boarded until they were killed. Upon Oct. 20, I hired the St. Vincent-street house, having the lease made in the name of H. M. Howard, in order to avert suspicion as much as possible in case an investigation followed. Between 5 and 6 p.m. the same day I took a large empty trunk to the house, and then passed the following day at Niagara Falls. On the 23rd I bought and took to the house the furniture, stove and bedding, and on the 23rd the children were to the House for a few hours. The night was passed in other parts of the city, but on the 25th, the fatal day of their death, they were seen at the house at 1 p.m., and a little later they accompanied me to several clothing stores, and finally, at 4 p.m., while they were in a restaurant near by, I entered a large store in which I believed I should meet Mrs. Pitezel, holding in my hands some heavy winter underwear, which I had bought for the little boy already dead at Indianapolis. At this meeting Mrs. Pitezel has said, 'I believed my children were at that time in that store with me.'

"I immediately took them to the St. Vincent-street house, and compelled them both to get within the large trunk, through the cover of which I made an opening. Here I left them until I should return and at my leisure kill them. At 5 p.m. I borrowed a spade of a neighbor, at the same time called on Mrs. Pitezel at her hotel. I then returned to my hotel and ate my dinner, and at 7 p.m. went again to Mrs. Pitezel's hotel, and aided her in leaving Toronto for Ogdensburg, N.Y. Later than 8 p.m. I again returned to the house where the children were imprisoned, and ended their lives by connecting the gas to the trunk.

"Then came the opening of the trunk and the viewing of their little blackened and distorted faces. Then the digging of the two shallow graves in the basement of the house, the ruthless stripping off of their clothing, and their burial without a particle of covering but the cold earth which I heaped upon them.

"Consider what an awful act this was; these little innocent, helpless children, the oldest being only 15 years of age, a puny and sickly child, who to look at one would believe much younger; consider that for eight years before their death I had been almost as much a father to them as though they had been my own children, thus giving them a right to look to me for care and protection, and in your righteous judgment let your bitterest curses fall on me, but again, I pray, on me alone. There is little more to tell. The next was passed in burning the children's clothing, and in resting from my terrible night's work, and upon the 27th I called an expressman and had the trunk removed from the house, and after giving the keys to a neighbor went away never to return.

"From Toronto I went to Ogdensburg, and form there to Burlington, Vt., where I hired a furnished room for Mrs. Pitezel's use, and a few days prior to my arrest in Boston wrote her a letter, in which I directed her to carry a bottle of dynamite that I had previously left in the basement, so arranged that in taking it to the third story of the house it would fall from her hands and not only destroy her life, but that of her two remaining children, who I knew would be with her at the time. This was my last act, and happily did not have a fatal termination. The eighteen intervening months I have passed in solitary confinement, and in a few days am to be led forth to my death.

"It would now seem a very fitting time for me to express regret or remorse in this which I intend to be my last public utterance for my irreparable shortcomings. I do so without the expectation that even one person who has read this confession to the end will believe that in my depraved nature there is room for such feelings. I fear to expect this would be to expect more than would be granted, and I can and do refrain from calling forth such a criticism by openly inviting it.

"(Signed), H. H. HOLMES."

We Do Not Advertise Our Flour

By telling the public that our 2nd grade is equal to the best Flour made by any other mill. "Such statements are somewhat presumptuous."

We do say, however, that our leading brand, "CALLA LILY," is Equal to Any Other leading brand in the market, and our 2nd grade, "VICTORY," is Equal to Any Other 2nd grade made by any other mills. If the public finds our Flour better than the brands from other mills—that's all right—but WE never "run-down" goods manufactured by our competitors.

Emeralds Attend Mass.

A Serious Affair.

Mr. J. C. Cox had his pacer taken out of a hotel yard, in town, Saturday night, and after the boys giving it a little "exercise" it was turned loose on the street. Mr. Cox has an idea as to the parties implicated in the matter and intends making things most interesting for them.

An Attractive Window.

Mr. A. Clegg's window to-day displays a very handsome bedroom suite with tables, chairs, etc., and a very pretty secretary, all in native birch. The panels and prominent parts are of selected wood, and the effect is very artistic and pleasing. The style of the furniture, especially the bedstead, is quite new.

Flush the Streets.

A citizen suggests to the EXAMINER that the principal business streets should be flushed by the firemen, as the filth which accumulated during the winter is emitting a most disagreeable stench and it is certainly most unhealthy to have it remain on the streets. This matter should be taken up at once.

A Regular Attendant.

Mayor Yelland is one of the most regular attendants at the Police Court. Almost every morning he occupies a chair beside the Police Magistrate. His Worship is evidently posting himself in order that he may dispose of business in the event of Mr. Dumble's absence.

An Easter Entertainment.

The members of St. Luke's Young Ladies' Guild will give their annual Easter entertainment on Thursday evening, April 16th, in the Town Hall, Ashburnham. The programme will consist of a Mother Goose reception and drill by a number of children; the fairy drama, "Beauty and the Beast," in six acts; the dolls' drill and a farce entitled "Two Heads are Better Than One." These entertainments which the members of the Guild give annually are always looked forward to with pleasure. 5eod

THE COURT.

It Opened at One O'clock This Afternoon Before Justice Rose.

The Spring sitting of the High Court of Justice opened this afternoon before Justice Rose, at one o'clock, with the following members of the bar present:—R. C. Clute, Q.C., A. P. Poussette, Q.C., W. A. Stratton, E. B. Edwards, Geo. Edmison, W. H. Moore, E. B. Stone, D. W. Dumble, W. A. Johnston, John Green, L. M. Hayes and W. A. F. Campbell, Norwood.

In addressing the Grand Jury His Lordship stated that there were no cases on the docket which they would be asked to consider, as since the last sitting of the Court there were no criminal cases sent up for trial. The only duty, therefore, which the members of the Grand Jury would have to discharge was to visit the various public institutions of the town and report upon their condition. One matter to which he particularly desired to call their attention was the need of a poor house in the town, so that the indigent poor would not have to be kept in the gaol. He had mentioned this matter on the occasion of his last visit to Peterborough, but no improvement had taken place. He understood that the county had offered to pay its share if such an institution was erected, but the town refused to act. At present there were at least seven old people in the gaol who should not be there, as they had committed no crime, but had the misfortune to be poor and old and unable to support themselves. Their respective ages, he understood, were 81, 77, 77, 75, 75, 67 and 65. It was not wise to teach the people that no distinction was to be made between a criminal and one who was poor, and if such an idea was inculcated into the heads of the poor they could not be blamed for the results which would follow. Looking at the matter from the light which he had, he regarded the absence of a poor house in Peterborough as a wrong perpetuated, and if the Grand Jury chose to refer to the matter in their presentment he would see that it reached the proper quarter.

R. C. CLUTE, Q. C., WHO IS CONDUCTING THE CROWN BUSINESS.

The only criminal case which was to be brought up was that of the Queen vs. Gray, for arson, and as it had come before a previous Grand Jury, the present jury was not affected by it.

Mr. Roger C. Clute, Q.C., of Toronto, was present to conduct the case of the crown against the Grays, and Detective Murray was also in attendance.

As Mr. Clute wished to examine the crown witnesses privately in the Gray case before it was brought on, the case of Armstrong vs. Hubble was taken up this afternoon and the criminal action left over until to-morrow morning.

REV. MR. MACWILLIAM'S FAREWELL IN ST. ANDREW'S.

A Vast Congregation Assembles to Hear Him—Many are Moved to Tears by His Touching References to the Past.

Rev. Mr. MacWilliams delivered his farewell sermon to St. Andrew's congregation last evening and as a tribute to his popularity the large edifice was filled to the doors, chairs having to be brought from the Sunday school room to accommodate those who sought admittance.

The text for his sermon was "Go Forward" and so earnestly did the speaker impress upon his hearers the necessity of complying as a congregation with this command that many were deeply moved.

In conclusion Mr. MacWilliams referred most touchingly to the courtesies extended to him by the pastors of the other churches during his residence in town and thanked his congregation for the assistance which they had given to him at all times in carrying forward the interests of the church. He also thanked the press for kindness received and mentioned the fact that nowhere is so much given to church news as in the Peterborough papers.

The music which was given by a full choir during the evening was especially worthy of mention. Mrs. Jones took the solo parts in the anthem "Seek ye the Lord" with splendid effect. The anthem "Praise ye the Lord" was also given a most effective rendering.

Yaw is Coming.

Arrangements have been made to bring Yaw to Peterborough for a concert on the 21st. The guarantee list is open for signature at Ormond & Walsh's drug store. The entire ground floor of the Opera House will be reserved and the prices are fixed at $1.50 and $2.00.

Provost Welch on "George Eliot."

It was announced in St. John's church last night that Rev. Provost Welch, of Trinity University, would deliver his great lecture on "George Eliot" in St. John's school house, on Friday evening, April 24th. This lecture has been received in Toronto with great enthusiasm, the speaker being a deep thinker and of persuading eloquence.

J. J. Turner & Son.

The following is from the Exeter (Ont.) Advocate of April 2nd:—"Mr. James Vincent, of Peterborough, is putting up a number of very fine awnings in town, for the different merchants, which were made by J. J. Turner & Sons, of Peterborough, Ont." There is no part of the Dominion that Turner & Sons great goods do not find their way to. d1

A Peterborough Boy Stands Highest.

In a recent issue of the Bowmanville Statesman we find the following: "Mr. W. C. Dixon, senior clerk at Stott & Jury, has taken a course and passed his final examinations at the Ontario Optical College, so that there are now two graduates in attendance at that busy store, and as Mr. Jury is one of the best opticians in the Dominion, holding three diplomas, one from the New York School of Optics, Chicago Opthalmic College, and the Detroit Optical College. Mr. Dixon took 299 marks out of a possible 310, being the highest stand taken by any of the students." Mr. Dixon is popularly known in Peterborough as "Will" Dixon, son of the late James Dixon, and his progress and proficiency entitle him to the congratulations of his numerous friends. He is at present visiting in town and filling a short engagement in Madill's drug store in the absence of Mr. Madill.

THE LILY LAKE SINK HOLE.

Trouble With the Track at the Above Point—The Trouble Being Overcome.

The romantic title, Lily Lake, though a sounding phrase in spring poetry, is a word of evil omen to railway men. It is applied to a dismal morass through which the "Missing Link" line of the Grand Trunk runs a few miles west of the town. This stretch of swamp is a veritable bottomless pit, a quagmire whose depths have apparently never yet been sounded. At the time of the construction of the line it gave no end of trouble to the engineers, and several times it proved that when it was filled it wasn't filled, and it has given considerable trouble many times since.

Now it threatens to trouble again. The last train that passed over it went west on Sunday morning, and the conductor reported the shaky condition of the track, which is under water for some quarter of a mile, the sluice ways not being large enough to carry off the spring water as fast as it accumulates.

On Sunday evening about nine o'clock the watchman on duty reported to Mr. Station Agent Hayden that the condition of the track required attention, and a large gang of men with a train of fifteen cars is on the spot, putting the track into shape. At Best's there are about fifty car loads of boulders, which will be placed upon the defective roadbed, [and if these are not enough there are about a hundred car loads more at the old sand pit near Omemee. At any rate the utmost expedition is being used to get the track into shape, which will be accomplished, it is expected, in a day or so.

Meantime there will be no interruption of traffic. Trains are running on schedule time, trains via Lindsay coming to and leaving town via Millbrook. It is a difficult matter to corner the old Grand Trunk in this district—if one line is not available there is another.

ON A WEEK'S SPREE.

At Its Conclusion William Payne Finds Himself Penniless.

George Hall was before the magistrate this morning charged by Wm. Payne, a lumberman, with the larceny of $35 from him.

Last night when Hall was arrested Payne told a very straight story, saying that he arrived in town on Good Friday, purchased some clothes at Gough's and together with Hall had gone to Overend's Hotel and changed them. Whilst there, he stated that he had given his money to Hall to take care of, as he, himself, had been drinking. His complaint was that Hall would not give him back his money.

When the case came before the magistrate Payne got his eye on one of the witnesses, D. Moran, and immediately swore out a warrant charging him with the crime and dropping the charge against Hall. He then uttered his story, stating that it was Moran who went with him to Overend's hotel to change his clothes.

Mr. Dennistoun appeared for the defence, and it was proven that Payne had changed his clothes in Gough's store. The plaintiff kept changing his story, as evidence was produced contradicting it, and it was soon apparent, that though he had doubtless lost a large sum of money, he had no idea what he had done with it, as several others had been asked by him if they had it. He acknowledged being on a spree for about a week, and as no evidence was produced connecting either Hall or Moran with the loss of his money, they were discharged.

BROKE HIS THIGH BONE.

William Bell Meets with a Most Unfortunate Accident.

Wm. Bell, a labourer, living in rooms over 376 Water street, between Hunter and Simcoe, met with a most unfortunate accident last night at about nine o'clock, when he missed his footing in the dark, and fell from a second story verandah to the yard beneath.

Dr. Clarke was summoned and had the patient removed to the Nicholls' Hospital, where it was ascertained that he had suffered a compound comminuted fracture of the thigh bone, just above the knee. He is doing as well as can be expected to-day, but the fracture is a bad one and will confine him to his bed for some time. Six pieces of bone have been taken out of his leg, and to-morrow a consultation of the hospital staff will be held in regard to the advisability of amputating the limb.

OFFICE HOURS OF SHERIFFS.

An Act of the Legislature Defining Them.

An Act passed at the late session of the Ontario Legislature, prescribes the following office hours for sheriffs:—

Every sheriff shall, excepting during vacations and holidays, keep his office open every day from 10 o'clock in the forenoon to 4 o'clock in the afternoon, and during all that time he or his deputy or some clerk competent to do business for him, shall be present to transact the business of said office.

During the long vacation and the Christmas vacation, every sheriff or his deputy or clerk shall be required to be present in his office on every day, holidays excepted, from 10 o'clock in the forenoon until 1 o'clock in the afternoon and no longer.

PUBLIC SCHOOL ATTENDANCE.

Notes Respecting Teachers and Attendance.

The influx of new pupils predicted by Mr. Inspector Wherry in his last report to the Board has come. To-day there are about fifty new pupils enrolled in the several schools. This makes the total registration about 1500. This attendance taxes the accommodation to the utmost.

BLUMENTHAL'S RENNET.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

SIR,—The following from a well-known cheese buyer will explain itself:

PETERBOROUGH, April 9th, 1896.

I have this day closely examined a cheese said to have been made by F. E. Kline, of Lakefield factory, and said to be a September cheese. I found it good colour, very close boreing, fine texture, good flavour for the time of the year, having no off flavour of any kind, unusually sweet for a cheese six months old. I am satisfied it would hold its flavour until next July. This cheese was said to have been made with Blumenthal's rennet.

W. H. WRIGHTON.

Mr. Kline, of Lakefield, will be glad to give any further corroboration of that may be asked of him.

Yours respectfully,
S. BICKELL.

P. S.—I am the only agent in Canada handling this celebrated German Rennet direct from the manufacturer. Cheesemakers are advised to be on the lookout for parties selling rennet by the wine measure, which is unlawful. My customers can make certain of getting imperial measure every time.

TO REVISE THE SCHEDULE.

This is the Request of the Railway Mail Clerks.

During the present session of Parliament representatives of the Railway Mail Clerks Association of Canada, accompanied by an influential deputation of members of Parliament, waited upon the Government to ask that the schedule of salaries be revised in conformity to the increased importance and responsibility of the duties performed by this branch of the civil service. The postmaster-general, though recognising the force of the arguments advanced, could not see his way clear, owing to the annual deficit in the Post Office department to grant the desired change now.

The salaries paid to railway mail clerks now are the same as allowed at the inauguration of the railway service, although many additional duties and responsibilities have been imposed on them since. It is admitted by those familiar with the department that on no other body of men does the efficiency and usefulness of the service so largely depend. There are few positions in the government service that enforce so many requirements as that of a portal clerk. His duties, requiring more than ordinary intelligence, care and precision, are performed under circumstances exposing him to severe physical and nervous strain and constant danger to life and limb. It is a wonder that men competent to discharge the important duties can be found for so small a compensation. The representatives of this branch of the service in the local district are worthy and capable and perform their arduous duties so well that the public or superior officers of the department rarely have causes for complaint.

Catarrh in the Head

Is a dangerous disease because it is liable to result in loss of hearing or smell, or develop into consumption. Read the following:

"My wife has been a sufferer from catarrh for the past four years and the disease had gone so far that her eyesight was affected so that for nearly a year she was unable to read for more than five minutes at a time. She suffered severe pains in the head and at times was almost distracted. About Christmas, she commenced taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and since that time has steadily improved. She has taken six bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla and is on the road to a complete cure. I cannot speak too highly of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and I cheerfully recommend it." W. H. CRICKET.

The Peterborough Cricket Club was re-organized on Saturday evening, when there was an enthusiastic meeting held in the T. V. C. offices.

It was decided to continue the lease of the P.A.A.A. grounds, as the new Nicholls Park will be unfit to use for sometime, no crease having yet been laid out.

The following officers were elected for the year:—

Hon. President—Rev. V. Clementi.
President—Dr. Burnham.
1st Vice-President—R. B. Rogers.
2nd Vice-President—C. Fessenden.
Secretary—E. M. Poussette.
Treasurer—W. J. Drope.

Executive Committee—Messrs. Walter Stocker, C. H. Hibbard, D. M. Rogers, V. C. McGill and W. D. Parker.

An entertainment committee was also appointed for the purpose of making arrangements for the holding of a concert in order that the funds in the club treasury might be increased.

The meeting then adjourned until next Saturday evening.

BASEBALL.

"Why is a pitcher generally the weakest batsman on the team? Easy enough. Because he is afraid of being hit by the ball," says Billy Joyce. "He is the first to see the pain and injury inflicted by hitting a batsman in a tender spot, and when he lays out a man he feels badly over it, if he has any heart at all. Old Jimmy Galvin, one of the best pitchers who ever stepped on the diamond, was hit on the head by a pitched ball while playing with the Buffalo club, years ago, and hovered between life and death for a week. After that accident he hated to go to the bat, and was, of course, an easy thing for the pitchers, as he generally struck out. Tony Mullane was notorious for hitting pitchers in the pitching arm while they were at the bat. It may have been accidental on Tony's part, but a suspicion prevailed that it was done with cold-blooded intent, and with a view, of course, to crippling the opposition. Jack Stivetts and Kid Nichols of the Boston team are two of the best-hitting pitchers I have ever seen."

At a well attended meeting of Port Hope baseballers, held Saturday evening, the following were elected officers for the season of 1896:—

Hon. President—Mr. A. Winslow.
President—J. A. Brown.
Vice-President—Mr. G. A. Smith.
Secretary—Mr. D. Rodgers.
Treasurer—Mr. T. O'Neil.
Captain—A. Marvin.

The Guide says:—"The list of Port Hope sports has now reached a respectable length, and we trust they will secure the warm support of the citizens. Could not a programme of sport be gotten up for the 24th of May—baseball match, lacrosse match, cricket match and bicycle races. If the managers of the different institutions were to put their heads together, we think they would have no trouble. A lacrosse or baseball match would be easily arranged, even if the boys had to fall back upon Cobourg or Peterborough.

HORSE AND TRACK.

The great trotting mare, Beusetta, 2.06½, has improved wonderfully since she has been in California. Orrin Hickok is giving her a little preliminary work, and she is going very true and strong.

The famous pacer, Joe Patchen, 2.04, has arrived at Kankakee, Ill., with his driver, Jack Curry, and he will be trained over the kite shaped track at that place for the coming campaign. Curry is confident that the great son of Patchen Wilkes will get close to the 2.00 mark this season.

Azote, the famous trotting gelding who went lame last fall, is reported to be perfectly sound again. He is quartered at Freeport, Ill., with the McHenry stable, which includes Alix. Alix has done nothing yet, but it is expected that with a complete rest her front tendons will not give way as they did last season.

THE WHEEL.

A meeting of the Bicycle Club has been called for this evening in the rink parlours and a large attendance of members is requested.

The Herald says the bicycle craze appears to have Hamilton by the throat. There were wheels enough and to spare on the city streets last fall, but this spring their number is doubled. The continued demand that exists for bicycles is shown by the number of agencies opening up on every side, and they all seem to be doing a good business. A few years ago the sight of a woman on a bicycle was oddity enough to excite remark and inspire jesting remarks in newspapers, but nowadays women riders are to be seen on every street. If the craze is bad enough now, what will it be by the time the summer is over?

A Chicago individual named Stone has delivered it as his unbiased opinion that the use of the bicycle increases the use of beer. If Mr. Stone was fair, if he knew whereof he spoke, if he were possessed of the reasoning faculties of a child, if his eyes were not closed by prejudice, he would know that beer was, is and always will be, the beverage of the man who prefers the broad-seated chair of a beer hall to the narrow saddle of a bicycle. One cannot rinse the dust of a ten-mile ride from the mouth and throat with beer. The misguided one who attempts it will find that his second state is worse than his first. For the cyclist, water is the only gargle and a closed mouth the only preventative of a dry throat.

FOOTBALL.

A meeting of the Athletics of Youngs Point was held at the Carleton House on Friday evening, for the purpose of arranging a football club. The following were selected as officers:

Hon. Presidents—P. P. Young and Wm. McFarlane.

Vice-President—F. J. Young.
Secretary-Treasurer—F. M. Young.
Captain—F. M. Young.
Curator—Wm. McFarlane.
Executive Committee—Officers of the club.
Ground Committee—P. P. Young, R. Pimmit, R. Fitzgerald, W. Walsh.
Reception Committee—Ed. Young, W. Scollard, W. Brooks, R. Heard.
Gate Committee—C. Young, W. McFarlane, W. J. Young.

The Midland District Royal Templars of Temperence held their semi-annual meeting in the Methodist church on Good Friday April 3. Delegates were present from Millbrook, Campbellford and Havelock councils. Considerable time was taken up during the afternoon session by the delegates reporting on the work that had been done since the last meeting at Millbrook. A number of young men had been reclaimed from the path of the drunkard, and had become active workers in the society. The District Councillor reported that some of the councils in the district had been visited by him and that he had tried to organize a council at Workworth but the attempt had been unsuccessful. The district finances was discussed and on motion it was decided to hold a public meeting during the first week of November, when a collection will be taken up to aid the work of the District council. It was decided to hold the next meeting in Peterborough, on Thanksgiving Day. On account of not being able to secure a suitable place, the public meeting, which was announced to take place in the evening was cancelled. There were 25 delegates present at the afternoon meeting.

FATAL ACCIDENT AT CAMBORNE.

Violent Death of Mr. W. H. Gillespie Last Week.

The Cobourg Sentinel Star contains the following account of an accident causing the death of a brother of Miss Annie Gillespie of town:

"The sudden and violent taking off of Mr. W. H. Gillespie has shocked and saddened the entire community here. On Wednesday of last week Mr. Gillespie was engaged in drawing hay from Mr. Nixon's. In driving up the hill which leads to his barn with a rather spirited team, the sleigh overturned. Mr. Gillespie jumped towards the upper side of the load, and probably fared worse than if he had allowed himself to go with it. Alighting on his head and shoulders he struck either the runner of the sleigh, or the hard frozen snow and ice. Mr. Fred Nixon happened to be close at hand, and he and others assisted the injured man to the house. Dr. Pratt was summoned and found the base of the skull fractured. Subsequently Dr. Douglas was called in consultation, and endorsed Dr. Pratt's diagnosis. Hoping against hope, loving friends watched by the bedside day and night, till as Sunday morning broke death came to relieve the patient's intense sufferings. The funeral on Tuesday was very largely attended, and was chiefly under the direction of the Coldsprings Oddfellows, Mr. Gillespie having been a member of the lodge at that place. The coffin was covered with flowers, among the offerings being a beautiful wreath from the Oddfellows, and an anchor from Camborne Methodist Sunday school, of which the deceased was secretary, and the Epworth League, of which he was president. The Rev. J. F. Mears, for three years past the pastor and friend of the family, conducted the religious services at the house, and in the course of a most fitting address, he was able from personal knowledge to speak of the religious experience of the departed in a way which must have brought much comfort to the sorrowing relatives. The Rev. M. E. Wilson, of Baltimore, and the Rev. M. J. Bates, Conference Evangelist, assisted in the service. The Rev. A. McCormack, of Coldsprings, also was present to manifest his sympathy with the bereaved. At the grave in addition to the funeral service of the Methodist church, led by Mr. Mears, the beautiful ritual of the Oddfellow's Society was read by Mr. Henry Fisher. Mr. Gillespie will be much missed. During the four years of his residence here he made friends of all with whom he came in contact. Universal sympathy goes out to the young widow, who is sorely stricken. She is left with one child, a boy between four and five years of age."

—It is reported from Quebec that a farmer engaged in the smuggling whiskey business had a figure made of tin to imitate a stout old woman, and this hollow figure, filled with liquor and muffled up with shawls, was carefully strapped to the seat on the sleigh alongside of the farmer in his trips from the Isle of Orleans to Quebec. An upset the other day revealed the dodge.

The things that people see are inside of them and not outside. No two people see the same thing exactly alike. One woman may look out at a beautiful landscape and see all the beauty and restfulness and grandness that there is in it. Another one will look out on the same scene and see nothing. The man who is perfectly well and vigorous enjoys life to the full. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery makes people well. There isn't anything miraculous about it—it is the most natural thing in the world. It simply puts the digestive organs, the stomach, the liver, the bowels, in perfect order, and thereby makes the blood pure and rich. All diseases live and thrive on impure blood. Keep a stream of pure, rich, rich blood flowing into a diseased spot, and the disease will not stay. A man lives on rich pure blood, and disease dies on it.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery makes pure, rich blood. Send 31 cents in one cent stamps to World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y., and receive Dr. Pierce's 1008 page "Common Sense Medical Adviser," profusely illustrated.

Health and strength carry us through dangers and make us safe in the presence of peril. Disease germs do no harm in a healthy body. A germ is not a big thing, and it is only physical weakness that makes it dangerous. A perfectly strong man with rich, pure blood, has nothing to fear from germs. He may breathe in the bacilli of consumption with impunity. Nature is continually working to throw off any impurities that may come into the body, but if there is a weak spot where the germs may find an entrance to the tissues, then the trouble begins. Disease germs propagate with lightning-like rapidity. Once in the blood, they quickly fill the whole body. The only way to get rid of them is to kill them. This is what Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is for. It purifies the blood. That means that it kills the germs, but that is only part of what it does. It assists in the digestion of food and puts the digestive organs in a perfect condition. It stimulates the secretion of digestive fluids, so promoting assimilation and nutrition. It fills the blood full of healthy red corpuscles. It purifies and enriches every drop of blood in the whole body and so supplies the tissues with the food they need. It builds up strong, healthy flesh and puts the whole body into a disease-resisting state.

Nine-tenths of all human ailments come from the same cause—impurity in the blood. Take almost any disease you please and trace the cause of it—you will find it in the blood. Purify and enrich the blood and you remove the cause, and so you cure the disease inevitably and infallibly. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures all diseases depending upon poor, impoverished, thin, impure blood.

IN SESSION A WEEK

Yet Little Progress Was Made With the Bill.

MANY REFLECTIONS THROWN OUT

Which Shows That Much Ill-Feeling Has Been Created Owing to the Government's Endeavor to Enforce the Measure—Col. Tyrwhitt Speaks Out.

Ottawa, April 10.—(Special.)—The motion that the committee should rise was made by Mr. Fraser shortly after 2 o'clock this morning. Mr. Fraser continued talking until 3 o'clock, when Sir Richard Cartwright took the floor. Very soon he made a remark about purchased influence, which seemed to point toward the member for Leeds and Grenville. At any rate, Dr. Ferguson so understood it, and made an indignant retort.

"In 23 years in Parliament," said he, "apart from my sessional indemnity, not one dollar have I had out of the public funds," and Sir Richard Cartwright, again interrupting the Doctor, added, with some spirit, "No, nor has any member of my family drawn a dollar from the service."

Mr. Guillett—That's more than he can say.

Sir Richard Cartwright replied that he was pleased to be able to congratulate the service on that fact. "However," he added, "we shall be able to discuss that matter upon the supplementary estimates. I am afraid, however, the hon. gentleman's memory is at fault."

"No," replied Dr. Ferguson. "I may be getting old, but I am not becoming imbecile, I hope."

Sir Richard replied that he was glad to hear it, and proceeded to discuss the January Cabinet crisis, and accused the Government of obstruction.

Mr. Ives replied. Looking around the chamber, he noticed that there was not a single member of McCarthy's party present. "Sir," said he, "there are only, at most, about eight clauses of this bill requiring any particular acumen, the remainder being clauses of a merely technical character. Therefore I contend there is still time enough—the session does not end for 14 days yet—to pass this bill, and the supplementary estimates, as well, if the Opposition will only consent to proceed to business."

"Now," he continued, "what is the reason the McCarthyites, who constitute the only real opponents of Remedial Legislation, have left the chamber—(hear, hear)—and upon whom did The duty of obstruction devolve?" He could assure the committee that, with Sir Richard leading, they could go on and make better progress than, perhaps, could be effected with a full House. "The Minister of Public Works has handed me a marked copy of the bill," continued Mr. Ives, "which shows that, besides those already passed, there are but three clauses of this bill upon which there need be any discussion, and the rest might be laid over for further consideration, while these should be put through. If the members of the Liberal party from Quebec would use the influence which they might use, they could force those hon. gentlemen, who are led by political considerations to obstruct the bill; they could force their party to change its course. But where is the hon. member for Huntingdon?"

Dr. Landerkin—Where every honest man should be at 4 o'clock in the morning—in his bed.

From which observation, I take it, continued Mr. Ives, that you are not one of those honest men. (Cheers and laughter.) But I ask, in all sincerity, where is he, the hon. member who represents a county more than one-third of whom are Roman Catholics? If he went in earnest to the hon. gentleman who leads his party at present and insisted upon the principle that the people of Quebec demanded justice for their co-religionists in Manitoba, and if the other Liberal members from Quebec joined him in that reasonable demand, they could in 25 minutes force upon their party and this Parliament the policy of doing justice to the minority of Manitoba. (Cheers.)

Mr. Ives concluded by calling upon the member for Huntingdon to help the Government do its duty imposed upon it of securing justice for the Manitoba minority.

As Mr. Scriver was somewhere ensconced, doubtless comfortably in bed, there was no response from that hon. member, but in his stead the member for Wellington took the floor. That was at 5 o'clock.

After Mr. McMullen came Mr. Bell, who severely denounced his compatriot for abetting the McCarthy-Laurier party in their obstructive tactics.

Mr. Paterson (Brant) made reference to the alleged absence of members of the Government, which he said was responsible for the committee's not proceeding with the bill.

Mr. Daly replied that he was ready to answer any question regarding the bill so soon as the motion to rise was disposed of.

Mr. Paterson admitted his inability to do so. Then he continued for an hour to defend the Quebec Liberals.

Mr. Wallace followed, speaking until about 9.30.

Fresh as a daisy and blooming a brand new red necktie, Col Tyrwhitt took the floor. He dealt blows right and left upon bolters all and sundry. First came the Deputy Speaker who he said, had struck out for the pardon of Riel, and had evinced a singular feeling of resentment towards criminals ever since. This allusion to Mr. Bergeron's stand on the matter of commutation of the Shortis sentence was lost upon that hon. gentleman, as he was not in the House. However, the colonel went on. He said another critic of his position was the Minister of Public Works, who had kicked himself into the Speaker's chair, subsequently into the Cabinet, and then kicked himself out of it, and sorry he was that Mr. Oulmet had not stayed out.

"For he's the one that's undertaken to read me out of the party," said the Colonel, adding that he was not going to be read out or driven out by such men as the Minister of Public Works. "Talk of being ready to die for one's country," he went on. "When I was going to the front on one train I met him returning from the field on another." (Laughter.)

Then Col. Tyrwhitt launched out against Mr. Masson. "I won't criticise his honor," he said, "but I will say that while he was representing North Grey in this House as a supporter of the bill, his successor, Mr. McLaughlin, had voluntarily pledged himself against it."

Mr. Maclean—Hear, hear.

"Now," the Colonel continued, "I'm as loyal a party man as sits on this side of the House, but I decline to be bulldozed or coerced into leaving the Conservative party." Mr. Davin, he said, had led him to believe that he would oppose the second reading, but at the eleventh hour he had changed his base, evidently in his case evil communications had corrupted his good manners.

Mr. Moncrieff agreed, with some warmth, that the Colonel had good reason for indignation if he conceived that the word "renegade" had been applied to him by any member of the Conservative party. For certainly Col. Tyrwhitt was as true and loyal a Conservative as ever sat on the Government side of the House.

Mr. Kenny—Hear, hear.

The hon. gentlemen, Mr. Moncrieff said, could, he hoped, differ without quarrelling. Speaking for himself, he could say that while he gave a thoroughly conscientious vote on the second reading he believed that if ever an hon. gentleman gave a conscientious vote in the other direction it was the hon. member of South Simcoe. (Cheers.) Of the Government's sincerity in their determination to put this bill through there could be no doubt, he said, and the large majority which had sustained its course was evidence of the feeling of the country.

Dr. Sproule followed and then Mr. Charlton took up the parable.

Mr. McGillivray was the next speaker and before many minutes had elapsed the House was in a continual turmoil. He said that he had borrowed Mr. Charlton's Bible and proposed to quote a few passages therefrom.

Col. O'Brien had gone out of his way to attack him and he thought he might well remind that hon. member of the passage commencing "Judge not," etc. He intimated that Col. O'Brien had been elected through corrupt practices and only saved himself by "sawing off" with Mr. Mulock. The Colonel had gone about the lobbies begging his opponents not to press the protest against him, stating that if they did he would be ruined.

Col. O'Brien emphatically protested against the charge of corrupt practices. Whatever had been done he would refer Mr. McGillivray to Mr. Birmingham of Toronto. Mr. McGillivray read some further Scripture selections and great confusion prevailed. Order was restored by the chairman, who asked Mr. McGillivray to desist in his action as he thought it was not proper. Mr. Charlton the other day had been strongly condemned for his action in reading the Bible, and the member for North Ontario ought not to do it.

Mr. McGillivray taunted Mr. Laurier with never having denied the statement that he had said he thanked God there were no Orangemen in the Liberal ranks.

Mr. Laurier at once rose and said he would answer. He had stated, he said, on the floor of Parliament more than once that he would not be responsible for any words attributed to him in any speech unless that speech purported to be verbatim. No verbatim report of his Chicoutimi speech had been taken and printed. It was not fair, therefore, to ask him to be answerable for imperfect or garbled newspaper reports.

Mr. McGillivray said Mr. Laurier did not say he had not used words attributed to him.

Mr. Belley—I affirm that Mr. Laurier said the words and I can produce 50 people to prove it.

Mr. Choquette—If any one says that he says a lie.

Loud cries of "order," "withdraw," and general confusion.

The Chairman—The hon. gentleman must withdraw that word.

Mr. Choquette—I have nothing to take back and won't take it back. (Uproar.)

The chairman—The hon. gentleman will have to take it back. (Government cheers.)

Mr. Belley—If Mr. Laurier will deny that he said these words, I will accept his declaration. The words were taken down in shorthand by the Mayor of Chicoutimi, and I can produce 50 people to prove that he said them.

For the next few minutes the House was in an uproar, Mr. Mills (Bothwell) endeavoring to speak.

The chairman—Mr. Choquette must take back the word "lie."

Dr. Bergin—I move that Mr. Choquette's words be taken down.

Mr. Choquette—I have no objection.

Then there was further uproar, during which Mr. Casey essayed to speak.

Mr. Laurier asked if Mr. Belley was present at the Chicoutimi meeting.

Mr. Belley—I say this: I affirm that Mr. Laurier uttered the words imputed to him, and I defy him to disprove them.

Mr. Laurier—If Mr. Belley was present at the meeting and heard me use the words, I would request Mr Choquette to withdraw his statement. If he did not hear me, then the ruling of the chair must be different.

Mr. Davies and Sir Richard Cartwright rose simultaneously, when some member called out, "the heavenly twins," and there was an explosion of laughter.

The chairman said he misunderstood Mr. Belley. He thought that the hon. gentleman had said he had heard Mr. Laurier said the words. However, the matter would be settled if Mr. Choquette would say that Mr. Belley was misinformed.

Mr. Laurier thereupon asked Mr. Choquette to withdraw the expression.

Mr. Choquette—Well, Mr. Chairman, I will say that Mr. Belley has been misinformed, and the men who told him that have told him lies. (Laughter.)

Mr. Foster said it would be far more satisfactory if Mr. Laurier, who made the speech, would say just now that he never uttered the sentence. The leader of the Opposition, so far as he knew, had never denied using it, and La Patrie had purported to give a verbatim report of what he had said. Would he deny the matter now and settle it forever.

Mr. Laurier said that if Mr. Foster thought that his cleverness would draw him from his position, he was very much mistaken. (Derisive laughter.) He had spoken for many years in Parliament and out, and throughout the country he knew how to govern his tongue. Of the two speeches which he had delivered, one Chicoutimi and one at Les Eboulements, a verbatim report had not been taken, and he did not know of the statement attributed to him until his attention was called to it by Mr. Smith, the Liberal organizer in Ontario. He wrote to Mr. Smith a letter which was published in The Globe, which contained all teh denial that he had to give. Was there any man in the House who could believe that he would make such a statement as that? Why, his friend from Addingtoon Dawson) was an Orangeman. He did not think he would be called upon to make any more denial than he had given.

Mr. Fraser's motion for the committee to rise was then disposed of, and at 10 o'clock the consideration of the the bill was taken up at clause 10.

At 1.30 a.m. the committee knocked out an amendment by Mr. Martin and Clause 10 was adopted.

DEATH OF LADY MOUNT-STEPHEN

The Sad Event Occurred in London Yesterday Morning. She Was a Generous and Much Loved Woman.

London, April 10.—Lady Mount-Stephen died at a quarter to three this morning, succumbing to the painful operation she recently underwent.

The sad event causes widespread regret in society, where Lord and Lady Mount-Stephen were very much esteemed.

Since they came from Montreal to make their home in London they have entertained lavishly, and Lady Mount-Stephen's parlors were frequented by the men and women most esteemed in London society.

The late Lady Mount-Stephen, nee Annie Charlotte Kane, was born in England, her father being the late Mr. Benjamin Kane. In 1853 she was married in England to Mr. George Stephen, now Lord Mount-Stephen. Until about five years ago she lived almost continually in Montreal from the time of her marriage.

Deceased was of a very kindly disposition, contributed generously to public charities and endeared herself to many people by kindly acts of unostentatious generosity. It is thought that the interment will take place in England.

The death of Lady Mount-Stephen will be sincerely mourned in Montreal and other parts of Canada, where the deceased lady was better known than in Toronto. Still even here she had many warm and attached friends. Never forgetful of earlier days and former friendships, she was a Lady Bountiful, whose good deeds were not bereaved in the press, but whose beneficence was never appealed to in vain. She was a tower of strength to her husband, when in the magnitude of his undertakings his powers were nigh succumbing to the strain on them. For some time past she had suffered from a severe internal affection, and as an invalid was as exemplary as she had been in all other walks of life. She was a native of London, and married to Mr. George Stephen when that gentleman was learning there the rudiments of the flourishing business which he built up in Montreal. She had no children, but was devoted to an adopted daughter, who married the present Sir Stafford Northcote, brother of Lord Iddesleigh.

WOMEN SWEPT EVERYTHING.

They Will Run the Town of Ellis, Kas., in Their Own Sweet Way.

Topeka, Kas., April 10.—The enfranchised women of Ellis, Kas., scored a sweeping victory at the recent municipal election. A complete ticket of women candidates was nominated, and all were elected with the exception of Mrs. Clara Sheldon, candidate for police judge, who was defeated by a majority of five. Mrs. M. A. Wade, proprietor of a large dry goods store, was elected mayor. The women named their ticket "Law and order," and they propose to enforce the prohibition law to the letter.

HICCOUGHS PROVED FATAL.

Usual Remedies Had No Effect on Miss Fennelly and She Died From Exhaustion.

Asbury Park, N.J., April 9.—Miss Emma Fennelly, an estimable young lady residing on First-avenue, died this morning of exhaustion following a prolonged siege of hiccough.

Miss Fennelly was seized with hiccoughs on Thursday last. At first they were mild and caused her no pain, except the usual unpleasant sensation. They continued for several hours, and the usual remedies were tried. Some friends present at the time advised the holding of the left pulse, and others said the best thing to be done was for the sufferer to take nine swallows of water without taking a breath. The cold water gave the young lady some relief, but the hiccoughs returned a short while afterward more violently than before. They continued during the better part of the night and prevented her from securing any rest.

On Friday morning the hiccoughs were so violent that they interfered with her eating, and a physician was sent for. The medical man prescribed the remedies that as a rule are efficient in spasms of the diaphragm, and gave her narcotics. While the narcotics gave the sufferer some rest, the hiccoughs continued, and Sunday she was in an exhausted state. The constant hiccoughing with but slight intermission caused a soreness of the abdomen, making every hiccough painful in the extreme.

Sunday, Monday and Tuesday Miss Fennelly continued to hiccough, in spite of all the remedies given her. She was unable to retain food upon her stomach, and was in an exhausted condition. Hypodermic injections of stimulants were given her along with remedies calculated to cause a partial paralysis of the diaphragm, without any result. Her death occurred after a particularly severe attack.

THE PRESENT CZAR HAS SENSE

Because He Recognized the Love Match of the Grand Duke Michael.

Cannes, April 9.—A daughter of the Grand Duke Michael, son of the Grand Duke Michael Nicolaievitch, was baptized in the Russian Church this morning, the Prince of Wales and the Grand Duchess of Mecklenburgh-Schwerin being her sponsors. The morganatic marriage of Grand Duke Michael at San Remo on Feb. 20, 1891, to Countess Von Merenberg, gave offence to the Czar Alexander, and resulted in the Grand Duke's dismissal from the army, etc., but he has been restored to favor by the present Czar.

TORTURES OF RHEUMATISM.

The pains of rheumatism are removed and the disease driven from the system by the use of Burdock Blood Bitters, the conqueror of thousands of the severest cases.

Mrs. J. M. Monkman, of Arkwright, Ont., says:—I took inflammatory rheumatism in February, 1894, and doctored for it some weeks, but found I was getting worse. All my joints were swollen very much and I was not able to leave my bed and could get neither sleep or rest. Hearing from a neighbour that she got your Burdock Blood Bitters for her daughter, who had the same disease and it cured her, I purchased a bottle and after taking about one half of it I found myself recovering and after continuing it for some time I recovered but when the cold weather set in I found it returning again. So I commenced to take the B. B. B. again, when I found, after taking it about a week, that all pain and swelling of the joints had disappeared and I consider that I am entirely cured.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

Sick headache and constipation are promptly cured by Burdock Pills. Easy to take, sure in effect.

BUILT UP THE SYSTEM IN A WONDERFUL MANNER.

REV. JOHN W. BELL, B.D. HAMILTON, ONT.

JAMES A. BELL, BEAVERTON, ONT.

James A. Bell, of Beaverton, Ont., brother of the Rev. John Wesley Bell, B.D., prostrated by nervous headaches

A victim of the trouble for several years.

South American Nervine effected a complete cure.

In their own particular field few men are beter known than the Rev. John Wesley Bell, B.D., and his brother Mr. James A. Bell. The former will be recognized by his thousands of friends all over the country as the popular and able missionary superintendent of the Royal Templars of Temperance. Among the 20,000 members of this order in Ontario his counsel is sought on all sorts of occasions. On the public platform he is one of the strong men of the day, battling against the evils of intemperance. Equally well known is Mr. Bell in other provinces of the Dominion, having been for years a member of the Manitoba Methodist Conference and part of this time was stationed in Winnipeg. His brother, Mr. James A. Bell, is a highly respected resident of Beaverton, where his influence, though perhaps more circumscribed than that of his eminent brother, is none the less effective and productive of good. Of recent years, however, the working ability of Mr. James A. Bell has been sadly marred by severe attacks of nervous headache, accompanied by indigestion. Who can do fit work when this trouble takes hold of them and especially when it becomes chronic, as was, seemingly, the case with Mr. Bell? The trouble reached such intensity that last June he was completely prostrated. In this condition a friend recommended South American Nervine. Ready to try anything and everything, though he thought he had covered the list of proprietary medicines, he secured a bottle of this great discovery. A second bottle of the medicine was taken and the work was done. Employing his own language: "Two bottles of South American Nervine immediately relieved my headaches and have built up my system in a wonderful manner." Let us not depreciate the good our clergymen and social reformers are doing in the world, but how ill-fitted they would be for their work were it not the relief that South American Nervine brings to them when physical ills overtake them, and when the system, as a result of hard, earnest and continuous work, breaks down. Nervine treats the system as the wise reformer treats the evils he is battling against. It strikes at the root of the trouble. All disease comes from disorganization of the nerve centers. This is a scientific fact. Nervine at once works on these nerve centers; gives to them health and vigor; and then there courses through the system strong, healthy, life-maintaining blood, and nervous troubles of every variety are things of the past.

CHURCH CHIMES.

At the offertory in the George street church last night, Miss Emma Marks sang sweetly "The Better Land," by Cowell.

The anthem rendered by the George street choir last evening, was entitled "Give Thanks to the Lord," by Richard Earle.

The pleasing morning anthem in the Charlotte street Methodist church yesterday was entitled "Give Thanks and be Joyful."

Miss Hendren gave a beautiful rendering of "Almost Persuaded," during the offertory, in the Charlotte street church yesterday morning.

The Anthems at St. Paul's church yesterday, were "Christ our Passover"—Simper, and Dr. Roberts "Seek ye the Lord", the solos being taken by Miss Mein and Mr. H. King, with much acceptance.

The evening anthem in the Charlotte street church, yesterday, was entitled "Arise, O King." Miss Florence Hall took the solo in particularly sweet voice, and the duet was given by Miss Hendren and Miss Stevens in a most effective manner.

Very impressive sacramental services were conducted yesterday morning in St. Andrew's. The pastor preached an able and appropriate sermon from John 17, 24. "Father I will that they also whom Thou hast given me be with me where I am, that they may behold my glory, etc."

Preparatory services were held Friday evening in St. Andrew's Sabbath school rooms. Rev. Mr. Rae had kindly consented to preach, but Rev. Dr. Smith, of Queen's College being present consented to assist. The services were very impressive. The attendance was very large. About twenty united with the congregation. The sacrament of baptism was also administered to one adult.

THE GENERAL HATES THE EAGLE.

Why Ballington and Mrs. Booth Left the Ranks of the Salvation Army in the United States.

New York, April 12.—A lengthy statement was issued to-night by Commander and Mrs. Ballington Booth, in which they make public their reasons for leaving the Salvation Army. Referring to the visit of General Booth to this country last year they say: "From first to last he impressed us with his displeasure and his dissatisfaction with us personally, and with our method of administering affairs. We loved and understood this country. He exhibited prejudice and misconception of it and its people. He objected to the display of the national flag upon our badges and in our halls and in our homes. He said that the time had arrived to cease carrying the Stars and Stripes at the head of our parades. He objected to the use of the eagle upon our crests and insignia, and constantly spoke depreciatingly of the country, its people and its institutions. Our constant defence and explanation in answer to his attacks only increased the difficulty. With our affection for and knowledge of America this placed us in a most unfortunate position. He in consequence showed but little interest and sympathy with us personally. He spoke no word in public of approval of our toil and services or success, and in other ways that we need not mention made the visit one of the bitterest experiences of our lives."

Continuing, they say: "During his last interview with us in America the General stated that he wished us to assist the struggling work in Canada by giving up a certain portion of the United States to be annexed to the Dominion. We expressed our willingness to further assist our comrades in Canada with money, having already helped them financially, but said that the annexation of American territory to Canada was quite impracticable and would damage the work. Our arguments carried no weight, and the General considered them unreasonable. When we spoke of the national feeling, he closed the controversy by drawing his fingers down the map of North America in three sections, declaring that ultimately he intended to cut the country in three, joining each to a section of Canada, to break down any national feeling existing."

The Americans, they say, objected to their money going to Canada.

In conclusion, Commander and Mrs. Booth reassert their decision not to return to the Salvation Army.

One Honest Man.

Dear Editor:—Please inform your readers, that if written to confidentially I will mail in a sealed letter, particulars of a genuine, honest home cure, by which I was permanently restored to health and manly vigor, after years of suffering from nervous debility, sexual weakness, night losses and weak shrunken parts. I was robbed and swindled by the quacks until I nearly lost faith in mankind, but thank heaven, I am now well, vigorous and strong, and wish to make this certain means of cure known to all sufferers. I have nothing to sell, and want no money, but being a firm believer in the universal brotherhood of man, I am desirous of helping the unfortunate to regain their health and happiness, I promise you perfect secrecy and as I do not wish to expose myself either, please address, simply: P. O. Box 55, Jarvis, Ont.

SEALS IN BEHRING SEA.

Are They Being Exterminated?—A Joint Commission Will Investigate—The New Fast Atlantic Service.

New York, April 12.—Mr. Ballard Smith cables from London to The World: It seems like locking the stable door after the horse is stolen, if the stories of the almost total extermination of the Behring Sea seals are true, but I am privately informed to-night that Lord Salisbury has at last consented to despatch three experts in response to urgent appeals from Washington, to enquire into and report upon the statement as above. The United States Government has urged that the total extinction of the seal fisheries on the Pribyloff and Commander islands is imminent, owing to the indiscriminate slaughter of nursing seals. According to my informant, Mr. Macoun, a leading Canadian authority on the subject, has already been appointed, but the other two experts are not yet decided upon. The Prime Minister, however, has promised to act immediately, and even to send a warship to convey the experts quickly to the points of enquiry.

The information cabled last November, that a new line of mail steamships, between Canada and England, with an Imperial subsidy, had then been agreed upon by the new British Government, was officially confirmed in Parliament last night.

HOLMES' CONFESSION

Several Alleged Victims Said to be Alive.

DR. RUSSELL WAS NOT MURDERED

He is Now at the Head of an Hospital in Grand Rapids and is a Canadian—What the Chicago Detectives Say About the Vile Murderer.

Chicago, April 13.—Inspector Fitzpatrick this morning will have his officers dig up the basement of 1151 Milwaukee-avenue for the purpose of ascertaining if H. H. Holmes did really bury there Emily Van Tassel, whom he claims to have murdered.

"This is done in the interest of giving some credence to the statements of Holmes," said the Inspector. "I have read his confession. Some of it corroborates what our detectives found. Some is hard to believe. Still, we'll do a little digging on Milwaukee-avenue in order to satisfy everybody."

Chicago detectives treat the alleged confession of H. H. Holmes with contempt. They have had since last July indubitable proof that he murdered Julia L. Connors in his castle on Sixty-third-street. They have believed the proof to be equally strong that he murdered Pearl Connors, her daughter. He admits both murders in his confession and details the manner in which he committed the crimes.

Chief of Police Badenoch said yesterday afternoon: "I have not read the confession. I received from Detectives Fitzpatrick and Norton ample proof last summer that Holmes was a murderer, a swindler, a scoundrel, a liar, and a coward. His story in many features does not fit with the precise evidence obtained by the Chicago police against him last summer. Our evidence is right."

Detective Sergeant Andy Rohan said: "The biggest liar of the day has worked his last fake. To get a little money he joins in with a New York newspaper to print a sensational story. He takes what the brightest newspaper minds of Chicago and the best detective ability of the city discovered eight months ago, adds a few lies to it, and lets it go. He doesn't enumerate the twenty-seven people he claims to have killed. No one believes that he ever killed that number. He made the figure up to make the story sell. It's made of cheap stuff."

Holmes claims he killed Gertrude E. Connors. She died in Muscatine, Iowa, July 18, 1891, of neuralgia of the heart. Her death occurred seven weeks after she had left Chicago. She had been subject to neuralgia for years prior to her death. She was buried by her parents. The Chicago police satisfied themselves last July that Holmes had not the slightest connection with her death. No Anna Van Tassaud was ever missing in Chicago. Emily Van Tassel of 641 North Robey-street, did disappear. She knew Holmes. She has never been found. Her parents still live in this city.

Robert Latimer, whom Holmes claims to have murdered, is alive. He is employed, or was until a few weeks ago, by the Western Indiana Road as a flagman at the Sixty-third-street crossing of the company. He worked for Holmes as a carpenter and a choreman. Three statements sent out by Holmes from the Philadelphia prison in July and August of last year contradict every statement made in his confession. The Chicago police gave him credit for admitting that he murdered the Pitezel children. Pitezel himself, the two Williams girls, Julia Connors and Emily Cigrande. They know that the man who was to marry Emily Cigrande, and whose name appeared upon her wedding cards, was none other than B. F. Pitezel. He had taken the gold cure at Dwight, met the girl there, and brought her finally to Chicago, where she secured work with his master, Holmes. After she had been betrayed it was necessary for both Holmes and Pitezel to dispose of her.

The story created no sensation in police circles, for the truthful portions of it were secured by Chief Badenoch last year, and the lies were so patent as to only cause laughter. Detective Welbaskey said last evening:

"I worked three weeks tracing the Williams girls. Holmes' confession in regard to the killing of Nannie is not true. He did not kill her the day she arrived from Texas. She lived here with Minnie on the south side, with her at 1220 Wrightwood-avenue, and at Harvey before either was killed. Minnie never met Holmes in New York as Hatch. There is not the slightest proof that he ever saw her in New York. She left Oak Cliff, Va., to go to Fort Worth. From there she went to Dallas, thence to some other Texas point, thence into Wisconsin, and from there she came to Chicago. Then she first met Holmes. I have the proof that Nannie came on here at her sister's request. Both were with Holmes day in and out for weeks. They were often seen together in Englewood before they disappeared finally. Look, also, that in his confession Holmes says he first met Minnie Williams in 1893, and then claims that he killed her on or about Nov. 15, 1893. That's a queer kind of confession."

The Record this morning says: Four of the victims who were slaughtered relentlessly yesterday morning in H. H. Holmes' "confession" have been seen alive and well since the dates on which they were officially murdered. One is in Englewood. One can be reached through the medium of the United States mail or either of two telegraph lines. The third has done business and failed in Chicago since the time at which the self-abhorred criminal asserts that he killed him. The fourth has been seen by those who know her well in the vicinity of the "castle," since Holmes, according to his story, declares that he suffocated her in the vault of his unique building. A fifth, claimed to be a wealthy Chicago banker, never was heard of in this city. The man who Holmes says can throw light upon the dark places in his unsolicited testimonial to his own evil character is a myth, unheard of by the police of the two cities in which he is supposed to have operated.

Robert Latimer, the ex-janitor, whom his erst while employer credits with the feat of tearing out the bricks and mortar of the vault of the castle in his dying agony, may be seen any night after midnight swinging a red lantern at the railroad crossing at 63rd and Wallace-streets. He is not a spook, for spooks do not figure on the pay roll of the Western Indiana Railroad. He is the night flagman at that crossing and has been since midnight of July 3, 1894. Latimer resides at 759 63rd court, three blocks from Holmes' castle. When he flags trains his shelter is just across the track from this building and not 50 feet away from it.

Latimer was born in Canton, O., lived in various parts of that state until nine years ago and then moved to Englewood. He went to work for H. H. Holmes almost immediately and continued in his employ until his brother, learning that Holmes was not paying him promptly or regularly, induced him to leave. After that he did odd jobs of carpenter work, incidentally working on some of the buildings of the World's Fair.

His term of service for Holmes closed just before the third story was added to the castle. Ever since his old employer was arrested Latimer has protested that Holmes was innocent of all the murders charged up to him, and, further, that he did not believe that Holmes ever even swindled anybody. He still asserts the same, in spite of the evidence and Holmes' accredited confession. Latimer married in Englewood since he left Holmes. He has no children.

The other "victim" whose whereabouts are positively known is Dr. Thomas Russell, to whom Holmes accords the distinction of first place in his chef-d'oeuvre of yesterday. Holmes asserts that he felled the doctor with a chair in a quarrel, which arose over the latter's non-payment of rent. This story was exploited last fall by some of the daily papers, and at that time Dr. Russell, who is at the head of a hospital at Grand Rapids, Minn., wrote a letter to The Record, which was published, informing the public that he was the man referred to, and that the story was a canard. The doctor is a Canadian by birth, and is a graduate of the University of Toronto. He had an office in Holmes' building in the spring of 1891.

He found that it was hard to work up a practice there, for some reason, and stayed only three or four months. He went to 4944 Ashland-avenue, where he did well, and in the fall of 1892 was offered the direction of the hospital where he is at present.

Dr. Samuel T. Felmlee of 5491 Ashland-avenue, who is well acquainted with Dr. Russell, said yesterday:

"Russell never quarrelled with Holmes. The doctor always paid his bills, and, after he had been out of the 'castle' nearly a year he and I went back to get a certificate he had left behind. Holmes was there and nothing was said to intimate that Russell owed him a cent. The doctor visits Chicago every year. He visited me last July and discussed the story that had been circulated to the effect that he had disappeared."

Dr. Russell's brother William, who is in the bicycle business on the north side, was calling at Dr. Felmlee's house yesterday afternoon and confirmed what the doctor said concerning his brother. Dr. Benedict Einarson, who has an office at 640 West 63rd-street, half a block from the "castle," knew Dr. Russell well, and corroborates the assertions of Dr. Felmlee and William Russell.

IN THE CANADIAN SENATE.

The Diversion of Western Shipping Trade From U.S. to Canadian Ports.

Ottawa, April 13.—(Special)—A discussion took place in the Senate regarding the winter service from St. John. Senators Dever and Wood said it had been very successful.

Sir Mackenzie Bowell said he was glad to hear the unanimous verdict of the previous speakers to the effect that the policy of the Government of late years had led to the diversion of western shipping trade from the United States to Canadian shipping ports. He saw no reason if a further diversion of this trade could be accomplished by subsidizing a line of freight steamships from Halifax, why it should not be given by the Government.

On the second reading of the bill respecting the Behring Sea claims commission, Senator Boulton wanted to know if the Government had any knowledge of the bill which it was reported was being passed through the American Congress to exterminate the seals in Behring Sea.

Sir Mackenzie Bowell said no American statesman of any prominence regarded such a measure as even possible. What the Americans did want was a monopoly of the killing of the seals on the Pribyloff Islands and the prevention by regulations of their own of pelagic sealing by any other nation.

BISHOP EMARD'S PASTORAL.

His Lordship Talks on Politics to the Clergy and Faithful of Valleyfield.

Montreal, April 13.—(Special.)—Mgr. Emard, Bishop of Valleyfield, has issued a pastoral letter to the clergy and faithful of his diocese on the duties of the people at the coming elections. His Grace proceeds to warn the electorate against corrupt acts, and invites them to exercise their franchise freely and to permit others to enjoy the same liberty. The following passage also occurs in the bishop's letter: "For the present, desiring to observe throughout the present letter a complete neutrality, we declare that we do not wish either by counsel in our civil capacity or by the way of Episcopal direction to influence you in any way to vote for any particular party or candidate."

It would appear, however, from the wording of the episcopal letter, that a subsequent communication might see the light, for his lordship states that he does not intend to abdicate the right which all citizens possess, viz., to express his opinion in an open and loyal manner regarding matters which interest the public weal. "It is our right, it is sometimes our duty as a citizen, to pronounce ourselves on questions of temporal order which concern the future welfare of the country. No one, in fact, can deny the right of any citizen to interfere in such matters."

THE ONTARIO BANK.

Reduction of Capital Stock to $1,000,000 Advised.

CHIEF SHAREHOLDERS AGREE.

BY-LAW TO BE SUBMITTED AT THE ANNUAL MEETING.

Provisions Made for Carrying Out the Reduction—Decided Action Taken by the New Manager.

The following circular has been issued to the shareholders of the Ontario Bank:—

TORONTO, April 13th, 1896.

SIR,—On the 1st of July last Mr. Charles McGill became General Manager of the bank. Mr. McGill at once entered upon an examination of the bank's affairs, and has lately embodied in a report to the Board of Directors the result of his inspection of all the branches, and of a careful examination, independently conducted by him, of the whole of the bank's business and assets. Mr. McGill reports that before his appointment sufficient provision was not made from time to time in respect of various accounts which have involved loss to the bank, with the full particulars of which the board had not been made acquainted; and that the long-continued business depression has resulted in a large shrinkage in the value of securities held in connection with such accounts. His opinion is that these accounts must now be dealt with in order that the bank may be put upon a sound and proper footing.

After careful consideration Mr. McGill has advised the reduction of the capital stock to $1,000,000, believing, he reports, that such a reduction is necessary in the interests of the bank, and would be amply sufficient to meet all bad and doubtful debts. He reports that there have been no late losses, and that the bank has an excellent connection, and is possessed of a large and remunerative business, and that upon the reduced capital a fair dividend can easily be earned.

The directors, having considered carefully Mr. McGill's recommendation, deemed it advisable to consult the principal shareholders, both in Montreal and Toronto, and they are unanimously in accord with the directors in believing that the proposed arrangement is for the benefit of all who are interested in the bank, and that the recommendation should be adopted, though it may be hoped that the loss which Mr. McGill estimates on these accounts will be diminished when they are finally liquidated.

Under the bank act the capital stock, with the approval of the Treasury Board, may be reduced by by-law passed at the annual general meeting. At the annual meeting, to be held on the 16th of June, the shareholders will be asked to pass a by-law providing that the capital shall be reduced from $1,500,000 to $1,000,000, and divided into 10,000 shares of $100 each, and that for every three shares of the existing stock held by any shareholder he shall be entitled to two shares of $100 each. Proper facilities will be provided to enable the bank to deal with shareholders holding a number of shares not divisible into new shares without a remainder; but it will greatly facilitate the proposed rearrangement if such shareholders buy or sell a sufficient number of shares to enable them to make the conversion without any remainder. If any existing shares remain unconverted upon the 1st day of August, 1896, then it is proposed that such shares shall be reduced one-third of their par value and dividends will be paid on such reduced value.

There is now at the credit of the rest account $40,000, and at the credit of the profit and loss account $12,000, to which are to be added the earnings of the current half-year. Under the proposed rearrangement the rest account will be increased to $50,000, and so soon as the Treasury Board has approved of the reduction by-law, it is proposed to use a portion of such earnings in paying a dividend of 2½ per cent upon the reduced capital for the half-year ending May 31st 1896.

At the annual meeting the fullest information will be placed before the shareholders, and in the meantime the General Manager holds himself in readiness to afford every explanation that individual shareholders may ask for in reference to the methods to be adopted by shareholders in carrying the arrangement into effect.

The annual meeting of the shareholders of the company, will be held at the banking house of the Bank in Toronto, on Tuesday, the 16th day of June 1896, at the hour of 12 o'clock, noon. I am, sir, yours faithfully,

G. R. R. COCKBURN,
President.

Can Heart Failure be Prevented?

Startling and brief the announcement, "Sudden Death Caused by Heart Failure." Such is the stereotyped announcement of coroners, juries, and reporters arousing the forebodings of those victims of indigestion and mal-nutrition, who so frequently disturb themselves upon the manifestation in palpitation or fluttering, of functional disturbance of the heart; symptoms which they are foolishly prone to accept as the signs of an incurable and speedily fatal malady. Maltine with Coca Wine is potent in restoring conditions that no longer render possible such alarmingly disturbing symptoms. Maltine with Coca Wine, through its remedial influence upon the nervous system, soothes into calmness the disorganized nerves. The heart, in response to increased nerve force, no longer plunges and beats as if determined to break.

Maltine with Coca Wine has long been recognized as the most pleasant and efficient remedy for all those functional derangements that find manifestation in lassitude, sleeplessness, despondency, and loss of appetite and digestive power. A nerve tonic, a body-builder, a nutrient and digestive agent of inestimable value. All druggists sell it.

Another 1000 has just arrived in Osgoode lines, Egyptian vellum, ivory white and pure cream papers. Our "Record-breaker" tablet, containing 100 sheets at 10c, is a snap. An Attractive Window.

Mr. A. Clegg's window to-day displays a very handsome bedroom suite with tables, chairs, etc., and a very pretty secretary, all in native birch. The panels and prominent parts are of selected wood, and the effect is very artistic and pleasing. The style of the furniture, especially the bedstead, is quite new.

MISTAKEN SYMPATHY.

AMERICAN "statesmen" might be charged with making fools of themselves if Nature had not anticipated their efforts. The Venezuela boundary matter and the Cuban interference are not the only matters in which they have interfered without any claim to right of interference that would not render their action of the element of impertinence. The United States Secretary of State has been instructed by the Foreign Relations Committee to communicate "all the information possessed by the department bearing up the case of Florence Maybrick, the steps taken by the Government to secure her liberation, or an inquiry by the British Government into the merits of the case." The "merits of the case" are very simple. Mrs. Maybrick was a wicked woman who poisoned her husband to make her course clear for a guilty intrigue with another man. She received a fair trial, and was justly sentenced—her punishment being mitigated from hanging to imprisonment from the fact that her husband was an habitual arsenic eater, a fact that was taken into consideration by the Home Secretary, after the jury had pronounced her guilty of murder. In England and Canada as a rule justice takes its course, and the authorities are not, as a rule, amenable to the sentimental and other influences that are so freely employed to defeat the ends of justice among our neighbours to the south of us. Behind the petitions at Washington are some sentimental cranks, similar in moral calibre and mental astuteness to the misguided individuals in Brockville, who are showering flowers on the wretch, Lapointe, who stood in the streets at noon day shooting down whoever came in sight. It argues a great deal of misdirected sentiment when a poor woman sent to gaol for stealing a loaf of bread is allowed to languish unnoticed, while a truculent Jesebel like Mrs. Maybrick is rewarded for the cold-blooded poisoning of her husband, with the basest motive that can inspire the female heart, by being loaded with flowers, the machinery of Government put in motion, and all the arts of international diplomacy used to defeat the ends of justice in relieving a lewd woman from punishment due to the gravest crime known to the law.

THE Conservatives, says La Patrie, are blue with terror lest Sir Oliver Mowat enter the Federal arena as Mr. Laurier's lieutenant from Ontario. Quite natural.

THE Toronto Mail and Empire says that the Opposition has set afloat a story that Sir Charles Tupper is about to join the Roman Catholic church." When did the Mail and Empire "join" the Opposition?

APROPOS to the report originated by the Toronto Mail and Empire, that Sir Charles Tupper has joined the Roman Catholic church—the great Stretcher is already an old man, and if he confesses all his political sins before he gets absolution he won't have much time to spare.

THE question of inter-imperial trade suggests the idea of inquiry whether the Empire can feed itself. A writer in the nineteenth century goes exhaustively in the subject and shows by figures that there are British colonies able to supply all the main requirements to feed the population of Great Britain and Ireland—that is counting the development of which the wheat producing are as capable.

ACCORDING to Sir Richard Cartwright the origios which have taken place in the restaurant of the House recently have been the cause of the death of at least one member of the House. But, remarks the Montreal Herald, he was not a Liberal. At least one member of the House was so drunk yesterday afternoon that he was persuaded by his friends to leave the Chamber. But he was not a Liberal. If the bar of the restaurant of the House of Commons depended for its support upon the bibulous propensities of Liberal members of the House it would not stay open a week.

THE seventh parliament of the Dominion of Canada has, says the Montreal Witness, outlived its time and reached a stage of driveling senilety, a stage from which its best friends would call death a happy release. Its behaviour, as telegraphed from night to night, is getting to be simply disgusting, and the country will heave a great sigh of relief when it sees the last of it, and still more when it sees the last of a government which is impudently holding control for years after it has been confessedly afraid to seek the endorsement of the people.

IN connection with the preferential trade proposal, the following statistics showing the sources of the wheat importations of Great Britain will be of interest:

	Quarters.
United States	11,618,879
Russia	3,677,600
Argentina	2,589,185
India	1,662,630
Canada	1,109,000
Australia	774,178
Chili	413,713
Austria-Hungary	398,000
Roumania and Turkey	303,217
Other Countries	234,872
Total	22,237,276

A reference to these figures will indicate one of the reasons for the reluctance shown by British statesmen to accede to any proposal looking to the imposition of a tax on breadstuffs imported otherwise than from the colonies.

RUMOUR has it that several more members of Parliament who are supporting the government are to get their reward and the fact of Judge Masson having got his place, is prima facl evidence of the correctness of the rumour. It is said that Mr. McKay, of Hamilton, is to be appointed collector of customs at Hamilton. Mr. Coatsworth, of East Toronto, is to be appointed to a judgeship. Mr. Davis, the member for Alberta, is to be made collector of customs for the Niagara district; Mr. Marshall, of North Middlesex, is to be made a postmaster and Mr. Boyle, of Monk, is to be shelved in the customs office at Niagara Falls; Mr. Moncrief, of East Lambton, though he denies it, is said to be made a judge. Mr. Temple, of York, N. R., is to come in for a senatorship; Mr. White, of Shelburne, is to get a seat on the bench, and also Mr. Gillies, of Richmond; Mr. Metcalfe, of Kingston, is booked for the wardenship of the penitentiary and Mr. Taylor, of Leeds, is to be made a canal superintendent. It is shameful that members should sit in the House, voting for the government, with their support purchased by promises of office. It may be denied that such promises have been made, but there is no doubt as to the senatorships. The Premier, Sir Mackenzie Bowell, told Mr. McNeil, of North Bruce, that all the senatorships had long been promised, but this was before Sir Charles Tupper read Mr. McNeil out of the Conservative party. O, its a nice affair, altogether, the highest in authority bartering, like huxters, the sacred trust imposed by the pople in their representatives.

AGAINST THE REMEDIAL BILL.

Montreal's Protestant Ministers Register a Strong Protest Against the Coercive Measure—Alcoholism in Communs.

Montreal, April 13.—(Special.)—The following resolutions were unanimously adopted at the regular monthly meeting of the Protestant Ministerial Association this morning, and copies were ordered to be sent to Sir Charles Tupper, Secretary of State:

"That we hereby put on record our sense of shame and sorrow at the disgraceful conduct of certain members of the House of Commons during the debate in committee on the Remedial Bill, as reported in the public press. The presence of intoxicated members in the House, the utterance of blasphemous language, the ridicule and sarcasm with which the Word of God was treated—all speak of a depth of degradation which crimsons with shame the cheek of every self-respecting citizen of our beloved Dominion, and fills with sorrow and humiliation the heart of every Christian.

"That we reiterate our protest against the passage of the proposed Remedial Bill, for the reasons assigned in our resolutions of March 30. And in thus strongly opposing Separate schools, in which the doctrines and ritual of a particular church are taught, we refuse to be stigmatized as unprotestant, uncharitable and unchristian. Neither do we accept the position assumed by the advocates of Remedial legislation, that what the Roman Catholic hierarchy of the Dominion are exacting from the Federal Government is simply the privileges guaranteed to the Protestant minority in the Province of Quebec. The Protestant dissentient schools of this province are absolutely unsectarian.

FRUSTRATED IN HIS ATTEMPT TO DEFRAUD.

A Substituting Druggist Who Wished a Lady to Buy Common Dyes when she Asked For Diamond Dyes.

Some druggists and dealers make it a point to push on their customers cheap and worthless dyes when the Diamond Dyes are asked for. This contemptible work is carried on from day to day merely for the sake of profit.

The crude and poorly prepared dyes are made from such common materials that the dealer is enabled to buy them at very low prices, and of course endeavours to sell them at the same price as Diamond Dyes—ten cents per package. When the dealer sells a package of the adulterated dyes he makes as much profit as a sale of three packages of the Diamond Dyes would give him.

Mrs. Nelson Malcolm, of Teeterville, Ont., says:

"I am a large user of Diamond Dyes, and went into a city store last week to buy some. The druggist insisted that I should take another make of dye. I told him I would accept no substitute, so he handed handed me the Diamond Dyes that I asked for."

Beware of substitutes when buying dyes for home dyeing; see that you are supplied with the Diamond Dyes.

MARTIAL LAW IN MOSCOW.

The Czar in Fear of Assassination—Nearly 5000 Persons Arrested.

New York, April 13.—A special to The Journal from St. Petersburg says: The Governors of the Russian provinces are being instructed to arrest all political suspects on the spot. The round-up is being inaugurated in all parts of the empire. Nearly 5000 men and women have been put in jail and will be confined there until after the coronation. Any attempt on their part to appeal is impossible. Hundreds of students from the various universities have been forced to choose between going home or to prison. Martial law has been declared in Moscow. The Czar is not going to Nijni Novogorod for fear of assassination. A plot to murder him at the fair has just been discovered.

How the Kidneys Talk.

They have a Language of their own.

Kindeys can't talk, but if you don't treat them rightly you will hear from them. They have a language of their own, and this is how they speak to you; You stoop or strain, ride too far, walk too much, work too hard and rest too little; then your back aches, and your head aches, and you ache all over.

Oh! you say, it's because I'm tired out. Now, this isn't true. It's because your kidneys are tired.

They can only do just so much and the lifting, stooping, straining or exciting has retarded their action.

The heart has pumped the blood into them faster than they could filter it. The filter is overtaxed and becomes clogged. They cry for assistance in the many symptoms that follow.

There is dull headache, backache, pains in various parts of the body, scalding of the urine, high colored urine, puffiness under the eyes, swelling of the legs and all the other conditions that go with kidney disorders.

Why do the kidneys thus tell you their troubles in language so plain as to be unmistakable?

So that you may be warned in time. Will you heed the warnings?

If so, you will use Doan's Kidney Pills. Nothing starts the kidneys working so quickly. Remember "Doan's." It is the original kidney pill, the most reliable kidney pill, and the pill you can place full confidence in to cure you. For sale by

At this season, Paine's Celery Compound is a heaven-sent blessing to every nervous, weak, debilitated and sleepless mortal. The diseases that have held men and women in bondage during the winter, can now be effectually removed by the use of Paine's Celery Compound.

If you are truly and earnestly seeking for renewed health and long life, let the example of Mrs. Lloyd lead you to give Paine's Celery Compound a fair trial. You are certain to reap the same happy results that she and thousands of others have experienced. Mrs. Joseph Lloyd, of Gananoque, Ont., says:

"I feel it my duty to tell you what Paine's Celery Compound has done for me. I was always a sufferer from nervous debility and very bad headaches, and found it impossible to obtain regular rest and sleep.

"Two years ago I read of your Paine's Celery Compound, and bought a bottle of it. After I had used it I found I could get rest and quiet. I have used altogether seven bottles and find myself completely cured.

"Your medicine purifies the blood and regulates the system; and I would not be without it in my house if it took my last dollar.

"Before using Paine's Celery Compound my weight was only 100 pounds; now I weigh 141 pounds. Is this not sufficient reason for me to praise the Compound highly?

"Before I knew of your valuable medicine I was treated by the doctors, but never received any good. Five of my friends are now using your great medicine since they have seen what it has done for me.

"I wish you to use my statements, as they may be of encouragement to others.

THE IRISH LAND BILL

Brought Down in the Imperial House.

CLAUSES FROM MR. MORLEY'S BILL

Have Been Embodied in the Government Measure, Which Has Just Received Its First Reading—Mr. Gerald Balfour Explains Its More Important Provisions.

London, April 13.—In the House of Commons to-day, Right Hon. Joseph Chamberlain, Colonial Secretary, stated that Sir Hercules Robinson, Governor of Cape Colony, had wired that he was about to send 500 regular troops to Rhodesia from Natal, in addition to the volunteers, and 250 Basutos, who have already left for Rhodesia. The War Office is making arrangements to replace the troops that have been ordered to the interior.

Right Hon. Walter Long, President of the Board of Agriculture, announced that the Government had received a copy of the resolution passed by the House of Commons of the Dominion of Canada in reference to the Diseases of Animals Bill before the British Parliament. Mr. Long regretted, he said, that he was unable to accede to the wishes of the Dominion Government in the matter, as set forth in the resolution. It would be impossible to do so and still be consistent with the interests of home agriculture.

Mr. James O'Kelly, member for North Roscommon, asked the Government, in accordance with previous notice, whether it was the intention of Lord Salisbury to direct the British Consul-General at Havana to report upon the condition of Cuba, with reference to the state of affairs which is alleged to exist there. Mr. Curzon, Under Secretary of Foreign Affairs, replied that the British consuls in Cuba made regular reports to the Foreign Office as to the situation on that island, and consequently a special report was not necessary.

Mr. Curzon said that the British vice-consul at Euch has telegraphed under date of March 27, that the local authorities, by virtue of an irade, required all foreign missionaries to leave Asia Minor immediately by way of Alexandrette. Sir Philip Currie, the British Ambassador to Constantinople, Mr. Curzon said, had made representations to the Porte, and had learned that the irade did not refer specifically to missionaries, but applied to all persons involved in seditious movements. No missionaries conforming to the laws would be molested. The United States Charge d'Affaires at Constantinople, Mr. Curzon added, had since been informed that the irade had been repealed.

Gerald Balfour, Chief Secretary for Ireland, introduced the Irish Land Bill. In doing so he referred to its complex and intricate character. The Land Act of 1881, he added, had initiated an agrarian revolution, transforming the system of land tenure. During the past 15 years there had been a reduction of agricultural values that nobody in 1881 expected. This had added to the difficulty of the issues involved in a settlement of the land question. The keystone of the Unionist policy since 1881 had been to establish a peasant proprietary in Ireland and a single instead of dual ownership of land.

Mr. Balfour reviewed the effects of the successive land acts as tending to extend the holdings of farmers and peasants. He held that the Ashbourne Act of 1885 better assisted to the purchase of land than the act of 1891. The present measure would carry out the best principles of the Ashbourne Act, would adopt several of the features of Mr. Morley's bill of 1895, and would add a series of provisions amending the procedure of previous acts, and facilitate a working purchase system. The clauses adopted from Mr. Morley's bill included the provisions defining the legal position of a tenant at the end of the statutory term, which everyone admitted was necessary in order to remove doubts in refixing the judicial rents. The next clause made valid a tenancy holding, despite the fact that it might have been sub-let without the assent of the superior landlord, if it appeared that the landlord had passively acquiesced. The next clause adopted Mr. Morley's provision to prevent a lessee, when a fair rent has been fixed, from being charged rent on his improvements.

Regarding arrears, the bill proposed that a tenant who was able could in all cases redeem his holding by the payment of two years' arrears, leaving the landlord to recover arrears beyond this period by ordinary procedure. The bill did not abolish the landlord's right of pre-emption.

Regarding compensation for improvements, the bill provided that after an allowance had been made to a tenant for improvements, the court could award a further compensation if it decided that the tenant had not received equitable compensation.

The scheme for fixing the judicial rents proposed a term of 30 years' duration, but this would be variable every five years on the application of either landlord or tenant. The land commission could also vary the rent under a report of the commissioners, according to the various values of the products of the land, and the effect of such variation upon the fairness of the rent. The landlord and tenant might themselves agree to vary the rent in ratio to the variation in the prices of products.

In regard to the purchase of land, Mr. Balfour said that where the present time for the repayment of the sum advanced for purchase extended over 40 years, in continuous payments, at 4 per cent. interest, the present bill proposed to extend the period to 70 years.

Another important proposal aimed to strengthen the Land Commission by enabling an interchange of functions between the officials of the commission and the Landed Estates Court.

Other provisions simplified the procedure enabling tenants to purchase and landlords to sell without the consent of a sub-commission.

In conclusion, Mr. Balfour said that the bill might not be all that the Nationalists wanted, but he held that it would be fair and beneficial to both landlord and tenant.

John Morley, Chief Secretary for Ireland in the last Liberal Government, said he was pleased with parts of the bill, chiefly those that had been adopted from the Liberal bill. He was disappointed with the other clauses, part of which were quite unworkable. The fair rent proposals were by far the most important. He predicted that these would be passed in an improved form, and that the remaining clauses would be postponed at the pleasure of the House.

John Dillon, leader of the anti-Parnellites, said that Mr. Balfour's speech proved that this Parliament was incapable of dealing with the question. The Irish would be greatly disappointed by the bill.

The bill then passed its first reading. The second reading was fixed for April 27th.

The Spanish Elections.

Madrid, April 13.—The returns received up to a late hour to-night indicate the election of 280 Conservatives, 65 Liberals, eight dissident Conservatives and five Carlists. It transpires that the report of the election in Bilbao of Iglesias, the leader of the Spanish Socialists, was erroneous. Not a single Socialist has been returned.

Call to Rev. D. V. Ross.

St. George, April 13.—The unanimous call to Rev. Dr. Ross of Cannington from the St. George Presbyterian Church was considered by the presbytery of Paris at Brantford to-day, and unanimously sustained by that body. Rev. Dr. Cochrane was appointed presbytery delegate to prosecute the call before the presbytery of Lindsay.

Want the Sultan Deposed.

London, April 13.—The Turkish Reform League has issued from Brussels an appeal to the great Powers to depose the Sultan as the only remedy for Turkish misrule. They declare that the Dardanelles could be forced and the Sultan deposed without the loss of twenty lives.

The things that people see are inside of them and not outside. No two people see the same thing exactly alike. There isn't anything miraculous about it—it is the most natural thing in the world. A member of the Globe staff, whose duties demand extensive travel throughout western Ontario, reports the condition of the fall wheat as not being wholly satisfactory. GRAY TRIAL FOR ARSON

Begun This Morning at the Court House.

HUSBAND AND WIFE ARE TRIED CONJOINTLY.

Both Plead "Not Guilty" to the Felonious Burning of the Scollie Residence—Mrs. Gray's Improved Appearance and Impassive Bearing—The Evidence so far Largely a Repetition of That Adduced at the Trial Last Fall—The Case Collapses—A Verdict of "Not Guilty."

It will be remembered that last fall Thomas and Hessie Gray were charged at the Assizes with the murder of David Scollie, whose charred and headless body was found in the ruins of the Gray residence, in the 11th concession of Otonabee, which was destroyed by fire on Feb. 23rd, 1894. The Grand Jury found a true bill against both the Grays on the double charge of arson and murder on Sept. 26th, and when they were arraigned on the charge of murder both pleaded not guilty. The trial of Mrs. Gray was proceeded with and after the Crown witnesses had been heard, and two of the witnesses for defence, His Lordship asked the Crown prosecutor if it were worth while to go on with the case, and the latter replied that he was WILLING TO DROP IT.

His Lordship remarked that the case against the prisoner was a weak one, and he, with the prompt concurrence of the jury, directed the clerk to enter a plea of "not guilty." The pending charge of murder against Thomas Gray, and of arson against both the Grays was not pressed at the last assizes, and both were liberated on bail and they are standing their trial to-day.

A sketch of David Scollie's connection with the Grays may lead to making the circumstances of the present case more intelligible. David Scollie was 67 years of age and a bachelor. He owned a small farm on which he lived on the 11th concession of Otonabee, about five miles from Peterborough. At times the old man worked for Mr. J. G. Weir and thus became acquainted with Thomas Grey, who worked at the same place. It was arranged that the Grays and Scollie should live together, the former supporting the old man. In return at his death they were to

of the farm. Although quite old Mr. Scollie enjoyed perfect health and it appeared as though the Grays would get the worst of the bargain. This was represented to Scollie, who stated that he was willing to break the agreement and pay a lump sum to settle the matter up to date. The Grays asked $1,200.00, but the old man considered this too much and it was finally agreed that the old agreement should be allowed to stand.

The house and its contents was insured for $500, more than they were worth, the Crown contends.

On February 23rd, 1894, as stated, the fire took place in the absence of Gray, and the premises were entirely consumed. In the morning the charred remains of the old man were found in the ruins, and at the Fall Assizes the Crown endeavoured to show that Scollie had been murdered previous to the fire taking place. This was received an effort was made to sell the place and leave the country immediately.

PETERBOROUGH, April 14th.

The court room was well filled this morning in expectation of the Gray case—the trial of Thomas and Hessie Gray for arson—coming on, though the case did not excite the interest of the trial for murder last fall.

After the disposal of a civil case which occupied about an hour of the court's attention the trial of the Gray's began.

"Thomas Gray and Hessie Gray" exclaimed the court crier, and these persons came forward from the audience and, standing in front of the dock, the indictment, charging them with arson, was read to them, and they pleaded, in distinct voices, "not guilty."

Mrs. Gray, who appeared in much better health that at the trial last fall, with a ruddy flush on her cheeks and a bright light in her dark eyes, wore a black hat with a scarlet wing nestling in a big bow of black watered ribbon in the front. She wore a black henrietta dress, with a narrow ecru frill around the neck, she had a fur tippet on her shoulders, a smile on her face, and seemed to be merely an unconcerned spectator.

Mr. W. A. Stratton defended the accused, having associated with him Mr. R. R. Hall.

EMPANELLING THE JURY.

The jury after six had been challenged on behalf of the crown and two on behalf of the defence, was empanelled as follows:

David Breckenridge,	J W Butcher,
Henry Morgan,	James Patterson.
Duncan Fife,	W A Howson,
James Lillico,	Herbert Roseburgh,
Richard White,	Geo Scott,
J W Jory,	Wm. Stothart.

Mr. R. C. Clute, Belleville, crown prosecutor, addressed the jury, giving a brief outline of the case, stating that a house owned by David Scollie had been conveyed by him to Thomas Gray, on condition that

THOMAS GRAY.

Scollie should have board, lodging and medical attendance during his life-time. Gray got the property, and the house built on it had not cost $200 at the outside, and the contents were not worth $50. But an insurance of $300 on the house and $200 on the contents had been effected, and Gray subsequently got the insurance. The crime charges that Gray procured the burning of the house and left home on Tuesday, for the purpose of being absent, so that he would not be supposed to have knowledge of the burning of the property, which took place on Friday, Feb. 23rd, 1894.

EVIDENCE ADDUCED.

Mr. W. L. Innes, C.E., was the first witness. He drew the plans of the Gray residence and the other houses in the vicinity. Z. Burnham's residence was distant 710 feet from the Grays and the McGregors' 2,257 feet.

W. J. McGregor, brother-in-law of Thos. Gray, swore that Gray had told him that the cost of the house on the Scollie lot was $200. The night of the fire, about half-past two, Gray's little girl came to witness' house and said their house was on fire. On his way to the Gray's he met Mrs. Gray about 200 yards from her own house. After he had got to the house he found it burning briskly. He then went and aroused Mr. Burnham and returned to the fire. Mrs. Gray told witness that the children aroused her and saw the house was on fire, and that she had broken open the window with an axe and got out with the children. She first went towards Lavelle's and then turned back. She said she didn't call any of the neighbours. When witness first saw Mrs. Gray she had no boots on, only socks. to show that the place was fired by those who would benefit by the insurance.

Evidence will again be brought forward to endeavour to prove that a proper effort was not made to procure help to put out the fire, as the McGregors, living half a mile away, received the first alarm, when Mr. Z. Burnham lived much nearer. It is also said that the Crown will try to show that hints to the effect that the place would be burned were dropped by the Grays at different times. The prosecution will also bring forward evidence to try and show that as soon as the insurance money

MARRIED IN THE CATHEDRAL.

A Pretty Wedding Celebrated Early This Morning.

One of Peterborough's most charming young brides was claimed at the altar at 8.30 o'clock this morning, when Miss Cecilia McDonald, youngest daughter of Mr. John McDonald, of Crescent street, and sister of Mr. Alfred McDonald, was united in marriage to Mr. Francis Stemlin, of Chatham, by Rev. Father Fitzpatrick.

A large number of Miss McDonald's friends were present in the cathedral, including quite a few from Toronto, and the bride looked charming in a neat tailor-made travelling suit of green tweed trimmed with brown. The bridesmaid, Miss Rose Weldon, of Chatham, was prettily gowned in blue and gray tweed. The groom was assisted by Mr. Charles Hadley, of Chatham.

At the conclusion of the ceremony the bridal party returned to Mr. McDonald's residence on Crescent street and partook of a sumptuous wedding breakfast, after which Mr. and Mrs. Stemlin left on the 11.25 C. P. R. express for Montreal and the east.

A large number of young friends were at the train to see them off and, as usual, the bride and groom entered the train amidst a shower of rice. THE EXAMINER desires to extend most hearty congratulations.

THE CREEK RISING.

It Sweeps Away Some of T. Fitzgerald's Woodpile.

The creek, which has been most peaceful so far this spring, became uncontrollable yesterday for the first time, and surging over its bounds washed away quite a good deal of cord wood and loose timber from the yard between Charlotte and King streets, which Mr. T. Fitzgerald uses for storing his wood.

A number of the piles of cordwood were transferred to higher ground as the water began to rise, but before all could be moved the water floated quite a little of it off.

It is an ill wind, however, which blows no one good, and the floating sticks were all landed further down the creek by poor families greatly in need of it.

The rising waters also swept away Mr. Alf. Parker's bridge just below Charlotte street, but the greater part of the timber was again secured. The water is still on the rise.

PART OF THE NEW GEORGE STREET BRIDGE WASHED AWAY.

The Creek Undermines the Stones and the North-east Corner Gives.

This morning it was ascertained that the rising waters of the creek had so undermined the stonework of the new bridge on George street, that the north-eastern corner had fallen into the stream. The bridge, however, is apparently safe, and the difficulty may be easily repaired when the water lowers.

As the bottom is of mud the foundation should have been "piled" when laid and when the abutment is being repaired this precaution will be taken to prevent a recurrence of the damage. When the stone work was being done the foundation should have been made deeper, and the span of the bridge wider. The opening is not sufficient to allow the volume of water to pass through. This difficulty should not have happened to new work recently completed. A new structure should certainly stand until the cement is dry.

Purified Blood

Saved an operation in the following case. Hood's Sarsaparilla cures when all others fail. It makes pure blood.

"A year ago my father, William Thompson, was taken suddenly ill with inflammation of the bladder. He suffered a great deal and was very low for some time. At last the doctor said he would not get well unless an operation was performed. At this time we read about Hood's Sarsaparilla and decided to try it. Before he used half a bottle his appetite had come back to him, whereas before he could eat but little. When he had taken three bottles of the medicine he was as well as ever." FRANCIS J. Jury Cases Concluded—The Presentment of the Grand Jury—His Lordship's Reply.

PETERBOROUGH, April 14th, 1896.

Yesterday afternoon the court was occupied with the trial of

ARMSTRONG VS. HUBBLE.

Both the plaintiff and defendant are owners of adjoining farms in Dummer. In the statement of claim the plaintiff charges that on a date mentioned the defendant started a fire on his premises, and through his negligence it spread to the plaintiff's property and destroyed his barns, fences and considerable standing timber. The plaintiff seeks to recover $500 damages. The defendant claims that he took all possible precautions in starting the fire, but that a high wind sprang up unexpectedly and carried it to his neighbour's property. He claims further that the damage suffered was of a trifling nature. Verdict for defendant. E. B. Stone for plaintiff and W. A. Stratton and W. A. F. Campbell for defendant.

M'ALISTER VS. COLE

is a case in which Mr. C. B. McAllister of town, claims that he purchased six cars of wheat from the defendant to be delivered on a certain date in Pakenham and Almonte at a fixed price. The wheat was not delivered on the date agreed upon and consequently the profits were lost to the plaintiff. Damages were placed at $325.

The defendant claims that no contract was ever entered into and admitting that if there was there would have been no profits. The plaintiff was non-suited. E. B. Stone for plaintiff; Miller & Co., Toronto, for defendant.

At the sitting of the court this morning the presentment of the Grand Jury was read as follows:

"We visited the jail and found everything in first-class order with no complaints whatever. We also visited the Nicholls Hospital, St. Joseph's Hospital and the Protestant Home, and we found all them, as far as sanitary conditions are concerned, satisfactory.

The Lady Superintendent of the Nicholls Hospital complained of being somewhat cramped for room and intimated that they needed two diet kitchens badly. Otherwise the institution is a model of completion, so far as we could judge.

St. Joseph's Hospital we found admirably adapted for its purpose and apparently doing a beneficent work in a charitable way, as well as taking care of the sick and afflicted. Of the 49 inmates, 43 came under the head of charity, that is inmates who are not ill, but who are being cared for by the hospital authorities.

We recognize with your Lordship the necessity for a joint county and town House of Refuge of some sort, whereby the poor of the town and county could be cared for without being classed with criminals. We trust that the proper authorities may devise some means whereby this may be done in the near future. The county having already signified its willingness to contribute its proper proportion for such a project, the responsibility for the lack of such a place now lies wholly with the town of Peterborough.

We congratulate the county on the absence of crime.

All of which is respectively submitted.

H. RUSH,
Foreman.

His Lordship in reply said that he would see that a copy of the jury's presentment would be forwarded to the town and county councils and the Inspector of prisons. He suggested that the jury should not cease their advocacy of a house of refuge, with their present visit. In such cases there was necessity for constant agitation to secure the end desired. It gave him great pleasure to discharge the Grand Jury so early in the sitting of the Court.

The jury was accordingly discharged.

CIVIL SIDE.

The case of Campbell vs. Campbell begun yesterday was then resumed.

The plaintiff is a widow residing in Douro, and the defendant is her son, a Manvers' farmer. It appears that the husband of the plaintiff at the time of his death owned several farms in North Monaghan, which he left to his two sons with directions that his wife should live at the homestead, but in case she left it any time each son should contribute $50 a year towards her support. This imposed condition was embodied in the deeds of the land to act as a lien. The statement of the claim set forth that the defendant purchased the homestead and persuaded his mother to release her claim to the stipulated $100 a year. The plaintiff is 85 years of age, and unable to protect her own interests. Being unable to write, it is charged that she was taken advantage of and induced to sign a deed, the nature of which was unknown to her. The nullification of the instruments by which she signed away her rights is asked. The statement of defence sets forth that the younger son, who owned the homestead in the first place, mortgaged it heavily, and it was about to pass into other hands. The plaintiff was greatly distressed at the idea of the homestead being occupied by strangers, and being forced to leave it herself, besought the defendant to purchase it. He represented to her that he did not have sufficient means to do so and would be unable to raise much money on it on account of the lien, whereby the plaintiff during her life was to draw $100 a year from the revenue of the farm. The plaintiff agreed to forego this right if the homestead was saved, and upon her signing an instrument to this effect the defendant purchased the farm. He is willing to provide the plaintiff with a home as long as she lives. After hearing considerable evidence the case was settled between the parties.

Dumble & Johnston for plaintiff. Hall & Hayes for defendant.

GRAY TRIAL FOR ARSON.

ing the youngest child. The day after the Coroner's Inquest, witness saw Mrs. Gray's "good dress" on her. Gray was absent at his brother's; and witness telegraphed and met him that night at Downer's Corners. He talked with witness about rebuilding the house, and Gray did'nt know whether he would rebuild or not, as he was only acting to "keep down suspicion." Gray told him that when he went back to the woods he didn't expect to see Scollie alive when he came back; that he had the smartest little wife in Canada, who knew how to "get rid of the d——d old brute." Gray told witness that he had got the whole of the insurance but that there was not much left for him.

The witness then proceeded to enumerate and place a value on the different articles of furniture in the house at the time it was burned, the Crown thereby attempting to show that the contents were insured for more than their worth. In the witness' judgment the whole contents of the house were not worth more than $50.

Justice Rose—"But you have already given us figures which total up to $64.75."

The witness—"That would be their value if new."

Justice Rose—"Well that value will have to stand, as it would cost that amount to replace them."

The witness then continued to state that he understood the prisoners had been instructed by Mr. W. A. Stratton to place such values upon their furniture, so as to bring the total amount up to $300, when a $200 insurance policy could be placed upon them.

The itemized list of contents as presented to the insurance company was then examined by Mr. McGregor, who criticised the various items stating that the cutlery and glassware was greatly over-rated, as he had been there at times when there was not enough plates for the children to have one each. There was no cupboard with glass front; there were no window curtains worth $6; there was no carpet worth $12. In this manner the witness went on to discredit a large number of the values placed upon the different articles in the house.

IN THE CROSS EXAMINATION

the witness stated to Mr. W. A. Stratton, counsel for the defense, that he intended to be perfectly fair in his testimony. He and the Grays had fallen out because the Grays stated that he, McGregor, could have saved Scollie had he so minded. He had also fallen out with the Grays over other matters. His ire had been raised against the family in a number of ways.

In continuing the examination the witness admitted that though only the stairs and partition in the house were burning when he arrived, yet he had made no effort to save the old man, but had run over to Burnham's to get further help. On his return the place was entirely in flames and nothing could be done to save Scollie then. He had seen the broken window, through which Mrs. Gray and the children had made their escape. Mrs. Gray was in delicate condition at the time. She had given birth to a child a few weeks later. The Gray family had lived with him for a few weeks after the date of the fire. During this time nothing was said about the fire being an incendiary one.

He thought that there was a sinister meaning in Gray's remark when he went away to the woods, "That he did not expect to see the old man again."

The counsel for the defence then went into the matter of the itemized list of the contents of the house, and took the witness over a number of the items.

Witness placed prices on everything, yet admitted that his wife did all the buying for his own house. He stated that he was so well acquainted with the interior of the house that he would know if there was such a thing as an extra kettle or a fish pan in connection with the culinary department. Witness acknowledged that great preparations had been made for the entertainment of friends who came from California. A quantity of new furniture had been bought at the time. He had only been upstairs twice in his life, yet was prepared to swear that there were only six—not seven—half worn chairs in the house. There was no high chair. There was no eight day clock in the house—it would only run for thirty hours. He had never wound the clock up. He didn't know much about clocks. Although there were three babies in the house witness discredited the story that five baby dresses had been lost in the fire. He swore positively that there was no carpet in the house, although warned by Mr. Stratton that three witnesses could be brought to prove the fact. He knew that there were not three jars of preserves lost, nor a barrel of apples, nor 60 pounds of pork. He knew that there were not two pair of scissors in the house. He reiterated his statement that the contents of the house were not worth $50. On the market the whole outfit set down as valued at $425 would not bring $25.

Witness met Gray at the train on his return to Peterborough; prisoner did not say anything that would indicate that he knew anything of the fire. He acknowledged harbouring unkind feelings towards Mr. Gray.

IN THE RE EXAMINATION

Mr. McGregor stated to Mr. Clute, that when he arrived at the scene of the fire, the kitchen partion was burned down, as had the stairs, but the kitchen itself was not burned down as yet. The prisoners had a hard enough time to get along without furnishing their house with such contents as described in the itemized list.

MRS. MCGREGOR, the wife of the last witness and sister of Mrs. Gray, was the next witness examined. She stated that the Grays had been in Canada for fourteen years. The prisoner had worked for Mr. Weir when first coming out, and had afterwards worked in town as a plasterer's labourer. Before the fire Mrs. Gray had told her she and Scollie had quarrelled and that she was going to try and get rid of Scollie during the winter. She would watch her chance and shoot him. Mrs. McGregor had told her that she would never get to heaven if she shot him. Mrs. Gray had also said that she would set fire to the house afterwards and no one would know anything about it.

At another time Mrs. Gray had told her that she was afraid the house might catch fire from Scollie's "shanty lamp."

When the children came up to her house the night of the fire the were clad, but witness could not tell whether they had on boots or stockings. Some had on dresses and some had not. The first thing she heard Mrs. Gray say was "my good house and my good barn."

At this point Justice Rose pointed out that the evidence of this witness went to show that the fire had been started to cover the crime of killing Scollie. As the previous trial went to show that there was no killing, he did not see how the evidence of Mrs. McGregor affected the present case.

Mr. Clute acknowledged that this was the case and then proceeded to examine the witness as to the contents of the house.

Mrs. McGregor showed herself to be not nearly so well posted in this matter as her husband. The ticks and bedding were good, as far as witness had observed. No clothing had been saved from the fire other than what the children had on.

IN THE CROSS-EXAMINATION

the witness stated to Mr. Stratton that the prisoners had the usual necessaries in the way of cooking utensils. There was quite enough bedding for the family. She had never heard that there was a shortage of dishes. Trouble had been created between the families by the statement of the Grays that McGregor had acted the part of a coward at the fire. More trouble had been aroused over a promissory note.

"NOT GUILTY."

About four o'clock, at the conclusion of the evidence for the Crown, His Lordship directed the jury to return a verdict of not guilty, and the Grays were discharged.

CAPITAL STOCK TO BE REDUCED.

Is banking as in building a good foundation is an essential requisite. At the annual general meeting of the shareholders of the Ontario Bank in June next a bylaw will be submitted empowering a reduction of the capital stock from $1,500,000 to $1,000,000. This decision is the outcome of the careful and bold policy inaugurated by Mr. Charles McGill since he assumed the management of the bank last July. He has made an exhaustive examination of the bank's affairs and has submitted to the directors the fact that to put the stock on a proper footing a reduction in the capital liability should be made. There is now a rest account of $40,000, and $12,000 stands to the credit of the profit and loss account, to which is to be added the earnings for the half year current. The proposal is to pay a dividend of 2½ per cent. for the half year, such dividend to be estimated upon the reduced capital, and for this purpose a portion of the earnings will be used. The Bank Act provides for the reduction of stock by bylaw passed at an annual meeting and approved by the Treasury Board. At the annual meeting on June 16th, the shareholders will be asked to pass a bylaw for this purpose, as outlined in the circular letter printed in another column of this issue. For every three shares of the existing stock held by every shareholder, he will be entitled to two shares of $100 each. It will appear that the standing of shareholders will not be adversely affected by the reduction. The assets represented by the stock and the profits upon which dividends are paid must necessarily remain unchanged. In the one case a low dividend on a large capitalization is paid, and in the other a proportionately higher rate on a reduced capital, the difference being merely a matter of calculation. The reduction proposed is contemplated only after consultation with the leading shareholders in Montreal and Toronto, who think with unanimity that it would be in the best interests of the bank. The general manager, the officers of the bank and the leading shareholders are to be commended for the courageous stand they have taken to restore a proper ratio between the assets and capital, in conformity with that existing in other Canadian banks. The Bank of Ontario has a good business to start with, it has good financial backing, excellent connections, a good class of shareholders, nothing further to clear off, and public confidence in it is undiminished. With a reduced capital its outlook is decidedly advantageous. The officials and those concerned in the proposed readjustment have the courage of their convictions. They propose a radical measure; but the promise of advantageous results justifies the strong confidence they have in the prosperous future of the bank. This change, however, does not affect the depositors in the bank, who are all amply secured, and the bank will continue to do business as usual.

PURE CANADIAN!

Scott's Sarsaparilla No Imported Decoction.

The Raw Ingredients Are Brought Here and Prepared.

Foreign Sarsaparilla Cannot Compete with it on Account of a Heavy Customs Duty—That is why They are so Much Poorer than Scott's.

Scott's Sarsaparilla is of purely Canadian manufacture. The ingredients are imported and the medicine compounded and put up here.

That is the reason no American or foreign preparation can begin to compare with it in quality or strength.

The Canadian duty on imported patent medicines is 50 per cent. on the selling price. Hence on a bottle of imported Sarsaparilla that sells for one dollar the customs authorities collect fifty cents. Yet these imported medicines have to compete with those of Canadian manufacture which have no duty at all to pay.

Of course it is impossible for them to do so. To meet the duty without increasing the price so much less must be spent in the medium itself. Reducing the cost of the ingredients in a bottle of Sarsaparilla by fifty cents so as to cover the duty makes the medicine worthless.

Raw Sarsaparilla

The manufacturers of Scott's under the Canadian tariff have the right to import all their raw material free. In Canada the real genuine Sarsaparilla is prepared. It is put up good and strong.

Saddled by no duty, Scott's Sarsaparilla outdistances in strength, purity and health-giving qualities anything offered on the Canadian market. Those who prefer medicines simply because they have foreign names should ponder over this. If Scott's Sarsaparilla were made in the United States and sent to Canada it could not be sold here for less than $1.50 per bottle, the extra 50 cents would be for duty. If it had to be sold at $1, as some Sarsaparillas are, the amount of the duty would have to come off the cost of the medicine.

Purely Canadian.

Scott's Sarsaparilla is made in Canada, the bottles it is sold in are made in Canada, the labels on the bottles are printed in Canada. The boxes and wrappers it is sold in are Canadian Everything about it is Canadian, and that is the reason it has made its reputation as the best and most thorough blood purifier and spring tonic to be had anywhere. Good cleaning out medicine at this season of the year is an absolute necessity in every household. Purchasers are foolish to experiment on unknown preparations when they can get an established medicine like Scott's to whose curative properties thousands of leading Canadians testify. More tomorrow.

FIREMEN'S LIVES IN DANGER.

Several Men Almost Suffocated at a Fire in Detroit.

Detroit, April 11.—Fire started on the top floor of the five-story brick building, Nos. 37 to 41 Woodbridge-street east, this evening, and caused a loss of $20,000 on the building and $40,000 on the contents, which consisted of household goods stored in the building. Assistant Chief Kendall, with eight or nine men, started to carry a line of hose up the stairway. They were met on the third floor by a dense volume of smoke, which nearly suffocated them. Kendall and one other of his men managed to get back down the stairway and tell of the predicament of their comrades, and all were carried out in an unconscious condition and taken to hospitals. Although all of them suffered severely from the effects of the inhalation of smoke, the physicians believe all will recover.

TORTUSES OF RHEUMATISM.

The pains of rheumatism are removed and the disease driven from the system by the use of Burdock Blood Bitters, the conqueror of thousands of the severest cases.

Mrs. J. M. Monkman, of Arkwright, Ont., says:—I took inflammatory rheumatism in February, 1894, and doctored for it some weeks, but found I was getting worse. All my joints were swollen very much and I was not able to leave my bed and could get neither sleep or rest. Hearing from a neighbour that she got your Burdock Blood Bitters for her daughter, who had the same disease and it cured her, I purchased a bottle and, after taking about one half of it I found myself recovering and after continuing it for some time I recovered but when the cold weather set in I found it returning again. So I commenced to take the B. B. B. again, when I found, after taking it about a week, that all pain and swelling of the joints had disappeared and I consider that I am entirely cured.

W. C. MUDGE.

SOMETIMES the most careful women are the most careless. Many a woman bundles herself up, puts on heavy clothing and wraps and furs to keep out the cold—to keep out sickness—when she is neglecting the very worst sickness that can come to a woman. She is allowing a slight disorder to grow, to become worse, to slowly and surely sap her vitality. The little pain and the other slight indications of trouble seem to her unimportant. She pays no attention to them. By and by they grow a little worse, but she is used to them then and takes them as a matter of course. By and by, they have grown into dragging pains that occasionally keep her in the house—that occasionally put her to bed. Then she knows what is the matter, but she won't go to a doctor because she knows he will insist on "examinations" and "local treatment." She goes on, with increasing suffering, until life itself becomes a drag. Nervousness, "sinking spells," digestive disturbances, and fifty other complications may arise from the same cause. Frequently such symptoms are treated as digestive diseases when the root of the whole matter is the derangement of the organs distinctly feminine. Over thirty years ago, the need for a reliable remedy for so-called "female complaints," was recognized by Dr. R. V. Pierce, then, as now, chief consulting physician to the World's Dispensary and Invalids' Hotel, at Buffalo, N. Y. He prepared Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, the most wonderfully effective remedy that has ever been used for such maladies. Its sale now exceeds the combined sales of all other medicines for women. Its effect is perceptible almost immediately. It relieves pain, allays inflammation, checks debilitating drains, and quickly subdues other distressing symptoms. It makes the organs and their surrounding tissues strong and healthy, thereby correcting displacements and invigorating the whole body.

IS POLITE SOCIETY POLITE?

Trend of the Latest Volume of the Essays of Mrs. Julia Ward Howe.

That famous leader among women, Mrs. Julia Ward Howe, has collected a number of her papers which were written for her popular audiences and which were read in many parts of the country before the physical weakness of old age caused a cessation of the work of the authoress in the lecture field. "With the burthen of increasing years," says Mrs. Howe, "the freedom of locomotion naturally tends to diminish, and I must be thankful to be read where I have in other days been heard. I shall be glad indeed if it may be granted to these pages to carry the message which I myself have been glad to bear—the message of humanity, despite the faults and limitations of individuals. That hope casts its light over the efforts of years that are past and gilds for me with inaffaceable glow the future of our race."

"Is Polite Society Polite? and Other Essays" the new volume is styled. The book is replete with wholesome, common sense ideas and merits careful perusal. In fact, the name of its authoress will command for it the consideration to which its genuine merit will prove its title.

Observing the shortcomings of what we term society (wherein there are many people whose behavior is guided by no sincere and sufficient rule of conduct), Mrs. Howe asks: "Are these people what they should be?" and then endeavors to answer the question. As to a proper definition of politeness, she says:

What shall we accept in the ordinary sense of them as politeness? Shall we consider it a mere surface polish—an attitude expressive of defence, corresponding to its outward grace of good feeling? Will you ask to live with the person who, in the great world, can put on fine manners, but who, in the retirement of home, manifests the vulgarity of a selfish heart, and an uncultivated temper?

No, you will say; give me for my daily companions those who always wear the best manners they have. For manners are like clothes—you can mend them but when you have them on.

Mrs. Howe then observes that sincerity is the best foundation upon which to build the structure of a polite life; that affectation of deference carries its own contradiction with it; that flattery is, in itself, an offence against politeness, and that it is oftenest administered by persons who are already suffering the intoxication of vanity, and that the tone of society is lowered by a low view of the conduct and natures of those who are made the subjects of discussion. The world's social recognition does not affect all people in the same manner. One passes the ordeal unscathed, but for one such unspoiled world-favorite there are twenty men and women who, at the first lift of fortune, forsake their old friends, neglect their near relations, and utterly ignore their poor ones.

The justifiable side of exclusion is choice, the selection of one's associates. Society may decree that those who come of a certain set of families; that those who have a certain education, and, above all, a certain income, shall associate on terms of equality. With this decree there comes to foolish human nature a certain irrational desire to penetrate the charmed circle.

"Good Queen Bess" on a Wheel.

Looking backward nowadays on ages of the past the curious are prone to ask themselves how some of the olden heroes and heroines would appear in pictures with a nineteenth century setting.

Lord and Lady Dufferin both ride bicycles, and so does more than one daughter of Her Majesty Queen Victoria. Nothing odd about that. It takes no jot or tittle away from whatever honor is theirs. But just mount Queen Elizabeth on a wheel and we become almost offended at the caricature.

Women of the present time are reviving the ruffles and big sleeves of Queen Elizabeth's period. It is only fair to give "Good Queen Bess" a chance to even up a little, even if this evening-up process only go so far as a pictoral ride on a bicycle. Her Majesty had a superabundance of nerve and not all the criticisms of all the writes in England would have had a deterrent effect on her if she had once taken the notion to wear bloomers.

At a Hotel.

Guest (to waiter)—I can't eat this soup!

Waiter takes it away and brings another kind of soup.

Guest—I can't eat this soup!

Waiter, angrily, but silently, for the third time brings another kind.

Guest (again)—I can't eat this soup.

Waiter, furiously, calls the hotel proprietor.

Proprietor (to guest)—Why can't you eat this soup?

Guest (quietly)—Because I have no spoon!—Texas Siftings.

Harry Sweet's Cakes.

Mrs. New Wed (who is near-sighted)—Where did you get these pretty brown plates, Harry Sweet?

Harry Sweet (pouting)—Why, Jane those are not plates, but buckwheat cakes. Pa taught me how to make them. I think you are just as mean as you can be.

Mrs. New Wed (soothingly)—There, there, little one. Don't cry. I'm sure they must be delicious. (Aside) Pa must have learned cookery in a boiler factory. I'll steal a set of them and present them to the club for quoits.

Speedy Enough for Him.

Typewriter Agent—Regarding your typewriter—wouldn't you prefer one a little more rapid? I can recommend one that requires no ribbons, feeds better and is very quick.

Old Mr. Baldboy—That'll do, young man. I don't mind about the ribbons, and I don't want a better feeder than mine. She's got me nearly broke now with her speed. I am not looking for anything quicker. Good day.

Work of the Coal Trust.

Lady (to coal merchant)—I sent my little boy for three pounds of coal this morning, and when it came home I weighed it and found only thirty-six ounces.

Christian Lightweight—Dear me! You don't say so. It must have been a mistake on the part of the new boy. He probably thought we sold our coal by apothecary's weight. I'll send the other twelve ounces down just as soon as the boy comes in.

The Indignant Monkeys.

"What," inquired the proprietor of the Chicago menagerie, testily, "is the matter with that cageful of monkeys? I never saw them so angry."

"You see," explained the attendant, "that's Prof. Garner over there; he has just been telling them about Darwin's theory that they are descended from me."

ST. JOHN'S S. W. MISSION VESTRY.

It Met Last Night—Church Extension to be Begun Immediately.

At the meeting of the Vestry in connection with St. John's South Ward Mission, last evening, the rector chose Mr. R. W. McFadden as his warden for the year, and Mr. W. B. Bamford was re-elected by the congregation. The following sidesmen were chosen for the year: Messrs. Layfield, Pearson, Hillier, Alexander, Fegg, Hutchinson and Armstrong.

As is known the congregation have been contemplating extending the church by the addition of a chancel for some time. Mr. R. E. Layfield presented the following report of the Building Committee:

Your committee beg leave to lay before the congregation the report, in full, of the Chancel fund.

At the meeting held some time ago the amount of money reported upon the books for this purpose was $333.25. Since that time extra sums have been reported by the collectors to the amount of $2.50. The Easter offertory, by special resolution, was applied to this fund, and amounted to $105.64. There was also on hand in the bank for this purpose, $75.10. From the small cards distributed there has been handed to the treasurer $4 90. Thus a detailed statement shows:

On Collectors' books	$ 333 25
Extra "	2 50
Special Easter offertory	105 64
Cards, etc	4 90
In bank	75 00
	$ 521 29

Of this amount we have as cash in the bank $126.00.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

The report was received and adopted. The Wardens then submitted

THE FOLLOWING REPORT.

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN.—In presenting the financial statement, we have pleasure in reporting the substantial increase in every particular. We commenced the year with a credit balance of $94.09, and finished with a credit balance of $179.26. The collections, ordinary and envelope, show an increase of $73.48. The total receipts for the year ending March 31st, 1896, are $808.17 and the expenditure $717.87, against the total receipts for the previous year $672.87 and an expenditure $600.94. This is made up of Sunday collections, including ordinary and envelope, $453.94, Sunday school, $53.41, Poor Fund, $15.26 and other incidental revenue $280.50. Of this amount $30.05 was paid into the synod funds of the Diocese.

The Easter day collections were most satisfactory, being $102.45, and owing to the fact that the South Ward Mission at present is in a good financial position, we strongly urge the members not to relax in the slightest, either in offertory or work. During the coming year you will have to meet a shortage in the receipts of $150.00, which was made up last year by $130.00 rent for the basement and $20.00 from our Rector, who we regret is compelled to reduce his annual subscription to $100.00. We trust by the steady growth and united effort we may be able to overcome this difficulty and to accomplish this, your assistant wardens beg earnestly to call your attention to the envelope system of collections, which is the only guarantee of sure revenue. We have at present, subscriptions to the system yielding weekly only about $6.50. We trust all who can will adopt this method of contribution.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

W. B. BAMFORD,
A. PEARSON
Ast. Wardens.

The report was received and adopted, after which Rev. Mr. Davidson spoke on the subject of church extension. One great advantage he pointed out would be that the basement would also be enlarged and hereafter all entertainments could be held there instead of in the body of the church, as heretofore. This, he thought, would have the tendency to raise the worship to a higher level. He did not believe in holding worship and entertainments in the same portion of the church. When the change was made the present chairs could be replaced with pews. The church, too, he thought, should now have a name of its own, but in this matter he was sure the congregation would like to have some little time to select a suitable name.

Rev. Carl Smith thought that the devoting of the building to church worship alone would raise the whole tone of the services. The basement could hereafter be used for entertainments. In concluding he thanked the congregation most heartily for the way in which they had supported him since his connection with the church. He had never had to ask twice for anything.

Mr. R. M. Dennistoun had no advice to proffer to the congregation, but was most hearty in his congratulations and stated that it was with pleasure that St. John's contributed $100 towards the building fund.

Mr. Harry Long spoke of the great progress which the Mission was making and stated that although St. John's was speaking of putting in a chime of bells, if the mission kept on progressing so fast, it would probably have the chimes first yet.

Mr. Points urged that the work of extension go on at once, as did Mr. W. B. Bamford.

On motion of Messrs. Points and Pearson, a motion was passed authorising the wardens to advertise for tenders at once.

The Building Committee, on motion of Mr. Bamford, will be composed of Messrs. Points, Pierson, Layfield, Bell, the two wardens, Rev. J. C. Davidson, Mrs. Fitzgerald and Miss Chamberlen.

Mrs. Pope submitted, as follows, the annual report of the South Ward

THE WHEEL.

At a well attended meeting of the bicycle club last evening the yearly financial statement was submitted showing a balance on hand of $37. As the rooms have been furnished it was resolved to reduce the fee from $5.00 to $2.00 per year and to make an endeavour to boom the membership.

The riders were anxious to learn if the club proposed to do anything in regard to paying the expenses incidental to putting a racing team on the track this year.

No decided answer was given and it is understood that the racing men on Monday evening will ask for a definite reply and if suitable arraugements are not made in this particular the formation of a new club has been decided upon.

On motion of Mr. Robert Fair a resolution was passed expressing the views of the members to the effect "that thanks are due and are hereby tendered to Mr. J. R. Stratton, M. P. P., and Mr. D. W. Dumble for the kind assistance given the club in endeavouring to secure the annual C. W. A. meet for Peterborough this year."

Mr. R. H. Kells brought up the subject of having the stones raked from the principal roads leading out of the town, and it was decided to see if the township councils would not co-operate with the club in having this done.

The idea of making arrangements for holding races here on May 24th, was also brought up, but as it is understood that another committee has a programme already drafted for that day, the matter was left to stand over until the next meeting, but a big day's sport will be arranged for the first of July.

One Honest Man.

Dear Editor:—Please inform your readers, that if written to confidentially I will mail in a sealed letter, particulars of a genuine, honest home cure, by which I was permanently restored to health and manly vigor, after years of suffering from nervous debility, sexual weakness, night losses and weak shrunken parts. I was robbed and swindled by the quacks until I nearly lost faith in mankind, but thank heaven, I am now well, vigorous and strong, and wish to make this certain means of cure known to all sufferers. I have nothing to sell, and want no money, but being a firm believer in the universal brotherhood of man, I am desirous of helping the unfortunate to regain their health and happiness. I promise you perfect secrecy and as I do not wish to expose myself either, please address, simply: P. O. Box 55, Jarvis, Ont.

Statements Made In Several Pulpits

ABOUT DEBAUCHERY IN THE HOUSE

Denied by Sir Charles Tupper and the Speaker—Only Two Members Were Intoxicated—How Sir Richard Cartwright Puts It—An All Night Sitting.

Ottawa, April 14.—(Special.)—At half-past 2 Mr. Wallace took the floor and spoke for half an hour without interruption, when he happened to remark that "if Sir John had been alive" things would not have been allowed to come to the present pass, the country divided on religious lines, "and the House doing what?"

"Killing time," interjected an hon. member.

The members talked all night.

Mr. Charlton railed against the long sittings of the House and read strong denunciations of the Government's course contained in the resolutions of the Montreal Ministerial Association.

Sir Charles Tupper replied to that portion of the resolution regretting "the presence of intoxicated members in the House, the utterance of blasphemous language, the ridicule and sarcasm with which the Word of God was treated." There was no worse act of Mr. Charlton's than the foundation which he gave for that statement. In the whole period since 1867 he had never seen the members more controlled by a sense of due decorum, never had he seen less intoxication or drinking in any Parliament since Confederation. (Hear, hear.) It was a gross wrong for anyone to spread the opposite impression. Recently he had met Sir Cecil Graham, for years private secretary to Lord Carnarvon, and he testified that after having visited all the legislatures in Europe and the Congress of the United States, he could say, having spent three weeks around this House, that Canada possesses the second deliberative assembly in the world. (Cheers.) All deplored the fact that two members who ordinarily conduct themselves with great decorum were seen in the House intoxicated. In the case of one he had just risen from a bed of sickness and was probably more easily affected. But to blacken the character of the House because less than one per cent. of its members had been seen in this condition was not a creditable act for any hon. gentleman. It was such a trifle as this that, broadly stated as it was, had led clergymen and others, who did not understand the facts, to form the opinion they have. This was also a gross injustice to the present Speaker of the House, who had done more than any other Speaker to enforce the rules governing the place where refreshments are obtained by members. And it was a gross injustice to lead people who did not know the facts to suppose that there was a bar-room in the House, that is a scene of disgraceful orgies. He had himself been in the refreshment saloon at a late hour at night and had never seen a man under the influence of stimulants. He thought it was wrong to mislead the clergy upon this matter.

Sir Charles proceeded to denounce the statement of the Rev. Dr. Mackay of Woodstock that the Government had spent $25,000 on the ball given by Their Excellencies. Not a dollar of public money was spent upon it and those who were there declared it was a model of decorum, good taste and grace, and reflected the highest credit upon Lady Abe[illegible] who had organized the historical [illegible]ntation. "I think," said Sir Cha[illegible] to charge that in a matter connected with the very head of society in Ottawa there were perpetrated disgusting scenes of vice and immorality is a most monstrous statement." (Loud applause.)

Sir Richard Cartwright agreed that there was no foundation for the charge of impropriety with regard to the historical ball. But he added, when the Government set all the rules of health and reason at defiance, they set a premium upon immorality. He agreed also that the scenes of this session were not half as bad as under some of Sir Charles Tupper's predecessors. In fact there had been a great improvement in the sobriety of this House during the past ten years. But if the honorable gentleman had been in the House, as he himself had been, he would have seen that, while not to the extent that was supposed, still there was some justification for these strictures—(Many honorable members "No, no,")—and while he would acquit the Speaker of any responsibility and would admit he had done more than any of his predecessors to preserve the respect and dignity of the House, yet during the long sitting of the debate on the second reading, there were enacted scenes that were not a credit to the House.

As for their being the second deliberative body in the world, if it had that reputation, it was all the more shame for them to set such an example to the world, as the Government was displaying, an example of stupidity and folly, all brought about in the paltry attempt to fasten upon Mr. Laurier and those behind him the onus for the non-passage of this bill. He characterized these tactics as tyrannical and bulldosing. There were only six working days left. Even if the Government did ask Wednesday they would not get nor be allowed to do any business if they did. He assured the Government they could not get the bill through now, and advised them to drop it.

Speaker White next spoke. In dignified tones, but with great earnestness, he protested against "the unjustifiable and unfounded aspersions which have been cast upon Parliamentary institutions by certain clergymen throughout this country." Without impugning their motives and while crediting them with a desire to promote public morals, he would venture to suggest to them that teaching the truth was quite as essential to the promotion of public morality as is sobriety. Some of these statements were certainly not founded on facts. The statement that there is a bar-room in the precincts of this House carried on at the expense of the country is well known to every member to be wholly unjustified by facts. Three years ago, when the suggestion was made that a Provincial license should be taken out he emphatically declined to do so on account of the scandal which would attach to the sale of liquor in a licensed saloon in the Parliament Buildings. Now that the facts were made known to the reverend critics, he trusted they would have the grace to withdraw their misstatements. He paid a high tribute to the character and dignity of the members of the House

Mr. Laurier agreed in the main with the observations of the Speaker and Sir Charles Tupper and especially with what had been said in respect to the historical ball.

Mr. Flint, prohibition champion, testified to the sobriety of Parliament, remarking that he was sorry so many friends of temperance held altogether erroneous notions of the House of Commons.

Mr. McDonald believed a more sober body of men could not be found in the country, but that the restaurant should be abolished in order to remove the false impressions.

After some further discussion Mr. McNeill called Sir Charles Tupper's attention to a letter written by Mr. Robert Birmingham, Conservative organizer, to a prominent Conservative in North Bruce, stating that Mr. McNeill seemed to have permanently broken with the party and asking him to state his opinions regarding the position of affairs in the constituency. He would like to know if Sir Charles Tupper approved of the letter.

Sir Charles Tupper replied that he did not think that Mr. McNeill had drifted so far away from the party, holding the views he did on the trade question.

After remarks by Messrs. Edgar and McCarthy, Mr. W. F. Maclean said that like Col. Tyrwhitt and Mr. R. S. White back in 1891, with the concurrence of his leader, Sir John Macdonald, he had been given full liberty to exercise his own discretion on the school question. He told the East York convention then, let come what may, he intended to stand by Manitoba and had no hesitation in saying his declaration gave him the unanimous nomination.

Mr. La Riviere—Was it on the school question or the question of disallowance?

Mr. Maclean—On the school question. Continuing, he said that he repeated his declaration in 1892, when the bye-election was held, that he would stand by Manitoba. He was as good a Conservative as any man in that House, but he felt bound to protest against the coercion of Manitoba on this question. He held that Parliament was not compelled to legislate on this matter, but must exercise its judgment as to what was for the best interests of the country. He took issue with his leader when Sir Charles said the Government assumed the responsibility for the measure now before the House. Parliament would be responsible for any remedial legislation it might pass. No member could delegate his individual responsibility to the Government. (Hear, hear.) This question must be remitted to the people for settlement, and until sent there it would never be settled. If the people by an overwhelming majority declared in favor of remedial legislation, that would put a different aspect on the question. Personally he believed the course suggested by Sir C. H. Tupper a year ago was the correct one. Sir Charles Hibbert then wanted the question submitted to the people. He (Mr. Maclean) believed the great majority of the Conservatives of Ontario were opposed to this bill. If the Government found that the sense of the House was against the measure then let them frankly accept the situation, withdraw the bill and go on with other business before the House. There was no great urgency on this question and there was always a possibility of Manitoba settling it. There were many questions of greater moment than this, and Parliament would be better employed in endeavoring to aid the industrial development of the country. (Hear, hear.)

After some remarks from Mr. Davies the motion for the committee to rise was negatived and at 11 p.m. consideration of the bill was resumed.

After considerable discussion, clause 14 was struck out, it being covered by another provision.

IMMIGRANTS WITHOUT MONEY

Arrive at Halifax and Will Probably be Sent Back.

Halifax, N.S., April 14.—Eight emigrants who arrived here on the steamer Scotsman from Liverpool are detained at the United States Immigration Commissioner's and will probably be sent back on account of being without money. The case of one, a Swedish girl, is somewhat romantic. She states that she is bound for Chicago to join her lover who left Sweden three years ahead of her. Both are from the City of Stockholm. They are to be married as soon as they meet. The girl has been saving and scraping together money sufficient for the last three years to carry her to America. She made the mistake of supposing that when she reached the shores of the western continent that was the end of her journey. She has no money now and has not got a ticket for Chicago. She has a child three years old with her and her story may be a strategy to pass muster at the frontier. The girl is rather comely in appearance and cries bitterly at the prospect of being sent back to Sweden.

IT WAS AN AWFUL EXPLOSION.

Austin Stephenson was Blown to Atoms by 400 Pounds of Nitro-Glycerine.

While Austin Stephenson, an employe of the Hamilton Powder Company, was driving an express wagon to-day containing 400 pounds of nitro-glycerine, the fluid exploded. The man, horse and vehicle were blown to atoms. The ground in the vicinity of the explosion looks as if a cyclone had struck there. Trees were torn up by the roots, and houses in the vicinity were badly shattered.

HE DIED FROM CANCER

Col. F. C. Denison, M.P., Succumbs This Morning.

HIS SERVICES IN THE SOUDAN

For Which He Was Given Imperial Honors Interesting Sketch of the Career of Toronto's Well-Known Soldier and Lawyer—West Toronto Vacant.

Toronto, April 15.

After an illness of four months, during which more than once his life was despaired of, Lieut.-Col. Denison of the Governor-General's Body Guards, and M.P. for West Toronto, died at his residence, Rusholme, at 1.15 this morning, in his 50th year.

A fortnight ago the gallant Colonel was reported considerably better, and was able to come down town and attend to official business. His malady, however, cancer of the stomach, admitted of no hope of permanent convalescence, but it was not till early yesterday morning that the alarming symptoms recurred in such severity as to preclude hope. The members of the family were summoned, and the Colonel's many friends were apprised of the fast-approaching end.

AN EVENTFUL CAREER.

Incidents in the Life of the Late Lieut.-Col. Denison, M.P.

Frederick Charles Denison was the second son of the late Col. George Taylor and Ann Dewson Denison and was born at Rusholme, near Toronto, on Nov. 22, 1846, the same house where he has just passed away. He was a direct descendant, a great grandson, of John Denison of Hedon, Yorkshire, England, who came to Canada in 1792, and who removed to York, now Toronto, in 1794. F. C. Denison was educated at first privately and when he was in his eleventh year, in 1857, entered Upper Canada College, where he remained until 1863. After leaving U.C.C. he entered upon the study of law, being called to the bar in 1870. He was one of the early graduates at the Military School in Toronto, having for one of his cotemporaries Lieut.-Col. James Mason, now commanding the Royal Grenadiers. In 1865 the deceased was gazetted cornet in the Governor-General's Body Guard of Cavalry, a corps with which he had an hereditary connection, his father and grandfather before him having had command of that body. He was promoted lieutenant in December, 1867, captain in 1872, major in 1876 and lieutenant-colonel by brevet in 1884.

In 1870, on the breaking out of the Red River disturbances, he accompanied Colonel, now Field Marshal, Wolseley, who was in command of the Canadian expedition sent to suppress the rebellion, as orderly officer, or what might more fitly be termed Provincial A.D.C. In that capacity he displayed great zeal and capacity for work and was mentioned in despatches by Col. Wolseley.

In the latter part of the summer of 1884 occurred the troubles in the Soudan and the expedition up the Nile. Gen. Wolseley recollecting the services rendered by his young Canadian A.D.C. in 1870, determined to place him in command of the corps of Canadian voyageurs embodied here for service in the Nile. The telegram offering Lieutenant-Colonel, then Major, Denison the post reached him through the Governor-General on Aug. 26, 1884. He did not wait a moment in deciding on his course, but most cheerfully signified his willingness to undertake the hazardous and extremely responsible duty. Devoted to duty as Frederick Denison always was, he might well have been excused had he declined the invitation. He was a militia officer, not under the control of any Government but that of his native country; he had a large family, all of them very young, and he had other interests which would suffer by his absence. None of these things weighed with him though; he was a soldier first, a husband and father afterwards. His duty to his country demanded that when he could serve her he should do so and he put duty first and other retarding influences in the background. Just three weeks elapsed and the expedition was organized and equipped, sailing from Quebec on Sept. 15, 1884. When they reached the Soudan, Denison and his men were attached to Gen. Earle's brigade and were present at the battle of Kirbekan.

For his conduct in the Soudan Lieut.-Col. Denison received the English war medal, the Khedive's bronze star, was created C.M.G., was several times mentioned in despatches and was specially mentioned in the British House of Commons by the Marquis of Hartington when he moved the thanks of Parliament to the troops who had served throughout the campaign.

Before leaving Egypt Lieut.-Col. Denison was attacked with enteric fever and had a long and dangerous illness, from which he only slowly recovered, but eventually entirely regained his health.

On the dissolution of the Dominion House of Commons in 1887 Lieut.-Col. Denison was, after a severe contest, elected for West Toronto and has represented that constituency since. In politics he was a straight Conservative though he voted against his party in the division on the Jesuits' Estates Act. Regarding the fiscal policy of the country Col. Denison was a Protectionist and boldly avowed that he was one. Right or wrong at all times, the Colonel had the courage of his opinions. In conversation with an old friend not long before his death, speaking of Free Trade and Protection, he said, "I am a Protectionist; if we are to be manufacturers at all, we must have our industries protected." In accordance with these sentiments the member for West Toronto always recorded his vote on all questions affecting the tariff.

In 1894 Lieut.-Col. Denison was president of the Canadian Military Institute and in the same year was commandant of the Canadian team of riflemen sent to Bisley, England.

Lieut.-Col. Denison married on April 22, 1874, Julia, the second daughter of Oliver T. Macklem of Chippawa, by whom he had a family of six sons and two daughters. One of the former is a midshipman in the Royal Navy; another, the eldest one, took a course at the R.M.S., Kingston, and is now engaged in the study of law.

The deceased was a brother of Toronto's Police Magistrate and also of Commander John Denison, R.N. He was an Anglican and a member of St. Anne's Congregation, Brockton, having attended that church since its erection.

A POOR SUBSTITUTE.

LAST January the Ministers bolted from the Cabinet because they had not a Premier who could command the confidence of the Government. Tupper was sent for, Tupper came and the Tupper boom was, in the matter of leadership, a flop from the frying pan into the fire. Sir Mackenzie Bowell may have been weak and lacking in the essentials necessary to secure the respect and confidence of a "nest of traitors," and that circumstance is greatly to his credit. Sir Charles Tupper possesses characteristics to provoke the sympathy and through this to command the confidence of the bolting and unbolting members of Cabinet. Sir Mackenzie may be weak and mild but he is a gentleman. Sir Charles may be strong but it is the strength of a political bully, who since his last arrival in Canada has dragged the name of statesmen into the mud and outraged every tradition of honest upright, dignified and decent statemanship. Party ties are strong, party fealty is sturdy, but both have been stretched to to the breaking point by the Great Stretcher. As leader of the House of Commons Sir Charles is responsible for a leadership that has degenerated the popular chamber into a bear garden and the purlieus of the House into a boozing ken. He is not a man to lead the honest Conservatives of this country who claim to be a party of gentlemen, and whose present leader has divested himself of the chief characteristics of a gentlemen. He has not the honesty to represent the honest electors of Canada as First minister. He has not the honesty to direct an honest government such as this country has needed for the past dozen years. He has not a single claim to his party allegiance or public confidence. He is an impossible political quantity and if the people of Canada give him their confidence they are betrayed in advance. We have had enough of corruption in the places of government for the past eighteen years, but all that is past will be as nothing to that which will prevail if the "high priest of corruption" has the sacrificial knife put in his hand and is placed before the altar upon which the best interests of the country will be sacrificed to the moloch of greed of power and place.

SPEKING at the Young Men's Liberal convention at Ottawa, Rev. Ralph Duff, of Georgetown, in seconding a vote of confidence in Hon. Wilfrid Laurier and Sir Oliver Mowat, said: "I am here, not in my character as a minister of the Gospel, but as a citizen anxious to see this great country advance and prosper. With all my heart I say that I am proud, as a Protestant, to be able to second a resolution of confidence in the Hon. Wilfrid Laurier, a Roman Catholic French Canadian. I will trust my political future in his hands without fear or misgiving. I admire his statesmanship and love him because he is patriotic."

CANADIAN MILK.

It is encouraging for milk users to know on Government authority that the quality of milk in Canada is improving. The Department of Inland Revenue has recently issued a bulletin in which it gives the results of the examination of two sets of milk samples collected from all parts of the Dominion, one in 1892 and the other in 1895. These samples are examined and divided into classes described as follows—Genuine, watered, skimmed, under average in solids and under average in cream. Of course all that are not classed as "genuine" fall alike under the condemnation of the householder. Comparing the two sets of samples, then, the percentage of genuine samples throughout the country and at several of the principal points was as follows in each case:

	1892.	1895.
All the localities	60.6	71.9
Halifax	58.3	66.6
Quebec	61.5	93.1
Montreal	72.2	72.7
Ottawa	73.1	62.5
Toronto	61.0	60.0
London	55.5	56.6
St. Thomas	75.0	100.0

It will be observed that the only case in which the percentage of samples of genuine milk fell off was that of Ottawa, where things frequently happen that would sour the sweetest milk. These are all the points mentioned in the '92 table, but it will be interesting to give the '95 percentage for some other points:

St. John, N.B.	81.2
Sorel	100.0
Three Rivers	87.5
Sherbrooke	100.0
St. Hyacinthe	100.0
Winnipeg	72.2
Portage la Prairie	75.0

The importance of having pure milk and good milk will be all the plainer when it is remembered how completely invalids and children depend upon it for food, and that cheese and butter are among our most promising exportable products. This is an age in which quality tells with more force than it ever did before; and the farmers are vastly improving the quality of their milk.—Montreal Star.

BRITAIN'S POPULAR QUEEN.

The popular craze of the day is now directed toward the new and elegant cabinet photo of Her Majesty the Queen, worth fully 40 to 50 cents each, that Wells & Richardson Co. are sending out as part premiums to thousands in Canada and the United States.

The well known manufacturers of Diamond Dyes recently made arrangements with the publishers of Our Home, by which they were enabled to make the following offer:

"An elegant full cabinet photo (from a recent copy taken by royal command) of Her Majesty Queen Victoria; a four-page pamphlet giving dates of births, marriages and deaths; and other items of interesting and useful information relating to the royal family, that but few people have access to; six Diamond Dye Dolls with six extra dresses; and a card of forty-five samples of dyed cloth, showing colours of Diamond Dyes, sent free to every man, woman and child who will send in 25 cents in money or stamps for one year's subscription to Our Home, a paper that thousands declare to be worth a dollar."

Wells & Richardson Co. regret very much that they were compelled to keep so many waiting from three to five days before orders could be filled and mailed. The rush of new subscribers has been, and still is, extraordinary—in fact so heavy that the artist has not been able to keep up with the demand.

Arrangements are being perfected in the direction of a larger mailing staff and increased supply of photos, so that new subscribers to Our Home will receive prompt attention.

Bear in mind that the whole cost of Our Home, photo and other premiums, is only 25 cents. Address Wells & Richardson Co., Montreal, P.Q.

THE GRAYS FREE AT LAST.

Murder Charges Failed and Now the Charge of Arson Falls in Court.

Peterboro', April 14.—The trial of the Grays on the charge of arson came to an abrupt conclusion this afternoon at 4 o'clock, when, after the examination of a half-dozen of the most important Crown witnesses, Justice Rose asked if the Crown wanted to press the charge, as he failed to see any evidence of guilt whatever. Crown Prosecutor Clute acceded to the request of His Lordship, who directed the jury to bring in a verdict of "not guilty." The prisoners were then discharged.

Can Heart Failure be Prevented?

Startling and brief the announcement, "Sudden Death Caused by Heart Failure." Such is the stereotyped announcement of coroners, juries, and reporters arousing the forebodings of those victims of indigestion and mal-nutrition, who so frequently disturb themselves upon the manifestation in palpitation or fluttering, of functional disturbance of the heart; symptoms which they are foolishly prone to accept as the signs of an incurable and speedily fatal malady. Maltine with Coca Wine is potent in restoring conditions that no longer render possible such alarmingly disturbing symptoms. Maltine with Coca Wine, through its remedial influence upon the nervous system, soothes into calmness the disorganised nerves. The heart, in response to increased nerve force, no longer plunges and beats as if determined to break.

Maltine with Coca Wine has long been recognised as the most pleasant and efficient remedy for all those functional derangements that find manifestation in lassitude, sleeplessness, despondency, and loss of appetite and digestive power. A nerve tonic, a body-builder, a nutrient and digestive agent of inestimable value. All druggists sell it.

The prince of pectoral remedies, Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup cures coughs, colds, asthma, hoarseness and bronchitis without fail. Price 25c., all druggists.

Gomez is Still Alive.

Madrid, April 10.—A despatch from Havana to The Imparcial says Captain-General Weyler, in discussing the Cuban reform movement with some of the leaders of the Reformist party, declared that Spain reaffirmed the impossibility of even thinking of reform until the island should be pacified by force of arms. The despatch also says it is now definitely known that the rebel leader Gomez is alive, despite the many recent reports of his death.

CANADA'S CAPITAL.

The Bell Case Was One of Gross Inhumanity.

WHAT JUDGE ROBERSTON SAYS.

Their Excellencies' Visit to Toronto—Premier Greenway of Manitoba Interviewed—Is Dissolution in Order Next Week?—Death of Rev. J. H. Robinson.

Ottawa, April 14.—(Special)—Mr. Justice Robertson opened the High Court sitting last evening and to-day addressed the grand jury, in the course of which he referred in the strongest language to the Bell case. He said that Mrs. Bell's treatment of her grandchildren brought her within the criminal law. "Her action towards them," he said, "was most diabolical. I am told that she exposed the boy to the cold with a wet shirt on opposite an open window, while the thermometer was some degrees below zero. She sent him out to work in the snow until his toes became frozen and dropped off. She did other things most revolting, and beastly things that no human being should do to another, let alone a grandmother to her own flesh and blood.

Their Excellencies the Governor-General and Lady Aberdeen, attended by Capt. Sinclair, Capt. Wilberforce, A.D.C., and Miss Wetterman, left Ottawa this morning on a short visit to Toronto, where they will be present at the Horse Show. Their Excellencies are expected to return to Ottawa on Friday morning.

Rev. J. H. Robinson, an aged minister of the Methodist Church, and father-in-law of Prof. Saunders, died here yesterday. He was well known throughout Western Ontario and of late years in this city had preached with great acceptance on many occasions. Deceased was in his 89th year. The funeral takes place at London.

Ottawa promises to have a plethora of opera houses. It is stated Ald. O. B. Sheppard of Toronto has arranged for the erection of one on Bank-street. Another local syndicate has decided to put one up at the corner of O'Connor and Albert-streets, and to-day it is announced that the Russell House Company have made all the necessary arrangements for the erection of a first-class theatre in the rear of the big hotel.

Ottawa Conservatives will ask Sir Charles Tupper, Bart., to contest the constituency. Sir Charles has already been approached on the matter, and is said to be not unwilling. His acceptance will have the effect of heating the breach which unfortunately exists here at present.

Premier Greenway arrived here to-day from Toronto. He appears to be in good health and evidently is no worrying over the political situation. He is on his way to Montreal, where he will meet Mr. A. J. McMillan next week and discuss immigration matters with him. The Premier informed your correspondent that he would remain in the Capital for two or three days, but denied that he came with any particular object in view. He refused to talk of the Remedial Bill, or the recent conference, for publication. There is no doubt but that he will be approached while here by the leaders of both the Liberal and Conservative parties and urged to do his best to effect a settlement of the school difficulty.

Speaking of immigration prospects, the Premier said there would be a larger movement from Ontario to Manitoba this season than there was last year. With regard to the report that he intended resigning the premiership and running for the Dominion House, he stated that he knew nothing of the matter until he read it in a St. Paul paper.

Sir Charles Tupper this afternoon made what he termed the last appeal to the House to pass the Remedial Bill. It is expected that the obstructionists will continue their work over Wednesday and that to-morrow night or Thursday morning Sir Charles Tupper will announce the Government's decision to withdraw the Remedial Bill, as it is hopeless to pass it this session. A few essential Government measures, certain unfinished private legislation will be disposed of, and then an effort will be made to pass supplementary estimates. Prorogation is talked of for St. George's day.

The rumor is afloat that His Excellency, before leaving for Toronto, urged the Government to withdraw the bill immediately and close up the business of the session. Some prominent Conservatives incline to the belief that dissolution may come this week.

Sandford Fleming was to-night chosen one of the delegates of the Ottawa Board of Trade to the congress of the Chambers of Commerce of the Empire to be held in London in June.

ONE HONEST MAN.

DEAR EDITOR:—Please inform your readers that if written to confidentially, I will mail in a sealed letter, the plan pursued by which I was permanently restored to health and manly vigor, after years of suffering from Nervous Weakness, Lost Manhood, Lack of Development and weak, shrunken parts.

I have no scheme to extort money from any one whomsoever. I was robbed and swindled by the quacks and I nearly lost faith in mankind, but thank Heaven, I am now well, vigorous and strong, and anxious to make this certain means of cure known to all.

Having nothing to sell or send C.O.D., I want no money. Address JAS. A. HARRIS, Box 139 sedw Detroit, Mich.

RETURNED TO LIFE AGAIN

Mourners at a Wake in Freehold, N.J., Had a Terrifying Experience—The "Corpse" Sat Up.

New York, April 14.—While the friends of Clara Heppenstall were gathered at her home in Freehold, N.J., on Saturday night, talking of her death the day before, they were startled by a shriek coming from the room where the body was laid out.

Several of the men rushed to the room. The sight that met their gaze terrified them. Sitting upright in her white robe was the supposed corpse, with wide-open eyes, staring straight ahead. On the floor, overcome with fright, was Charles Burton, a neighbor.

The lips of the supposed corpse began to move. Then the woman fell back on her bier.

The frightened men then plucked up courage enough to go to the assistance of Burton, and a doctor was hastily summoned.

When the physician arrived Burton had recovered. The doctor examined Miss Heppenstall and announced that there was yet life in her. He said that the case was one of suspended animation. He applied remedies, and soon the woman was resting easily. She slept all night and she is sinking rapidly. Her physician does not think her recovery probable, though it is possible.

Miss Heppenstall had all the appearance of being dead for more than twenty-four hours. She had been suffering from typhoid fever and a complication of other diseases.

Mr. Burton told the doctor that he went to the room to saturate cloths that were over the eyes of the supposed corpse to prevent discoloration. He noticed nothing peculiar about the body and was about to leave the room when he took another glance at the sheet over the ice box. Then he saw Miss Heppenstall sitting up with her eyes wide open and staring at him. He did not remember anything further until found by those who came in response to his shriek.

Miss Heppenstall was to have been buried yesterday.

A CLOSE SHAVE

A TALK WITH THE MAN WHO EXPERIENCED IT.

People really do not know how often the angel of death hovers over them. Mr. R. P. Watkins, 173 Bay st., is a barber by trade, and gave our representative this short history of his escape from the disorder which was rapidly carrying him to his grave. Mr. Watkins is a skillful and experienced man, and is now enabled to exercise his skill from morning till night, where before he was unable to regularly follow his chosen calling. This is Mr. Watkins' story as related by himself.

"For over three years I have been troubled with what the doctors said was Bright's Disease, was getting rapidly worse, and could scarcely attend to my business. My ankles were swollen, the pain and heat in my back were almost unbearable, the urine was of a dark wine color, and it used to dribble away continually. I had to rise 9 or 10 times each night to void the urine, and consequently lost nearly all my sleep. The scalding heat and pain in passing the urine were painful and distressing beyond my feeble power to describe. People who did not know my trouble used to laugh at my frequent visits to the urinal. My hands and feet were always cold and clammy, and I suffered severely from palpitation, shortness of breath, and was, in fact, almost a total wreck. I got a box of Doan's Kidney Pills from Messrs. E. Hooper & Co., and improved at once. I have used two boxes and feel like a new man; can now work right along and at 12 p.m. feel like working right ahead. Had I not got those pills I feel that I would not have been working to-day. My words only faintly express the dreadful condition I was in, and the wonderful cure made by Doan's Kidney Pills."

MINNIE MINCHEN'S DEATH.

A Coroner's Jury Says She Died from the Effects of an Illegal Operation.

Niagara Falls, Ont., April 14.—An inquiry was begun this evening into the circumstances surrounding the death of Minnie Minchen. Dr. S. P. Emes, testified that he was a widower, with five children. Deceased was his housekeeper. The first knowledge he had of her illness was on Thursday at noon, when his daughter told him of it. He saw deceased, who told him she had used a syringe the night previous. Witness thought her trouble was uterine colic and gave her sedative medicine. At night the girl was no better. He did not see her after Thursday evening. On Saturday Dr. Sutherland came to his office and informed him of her death, and he sent for the police officials, that there might be an inquiry. Asked why he did not see the girl between Thursday and Saturday, he said he expected Dr. Sutherland from the other side on Friday, and intended to have him attend to the case. Hearing that there was no change, he said, he thought the danger past. He was not certain the woman was pregnant.

Dr. Burgar, who performed the post-mortem, swore that death resulted from an abortion, which had been so clumsily performed that death must have followed within two or three hours. Dr. McGarry thought 24 hours might have elapsed.

The jury found that deceased met death by an abortion performed by some person other than herself, such person being unknown.

SHOT BY A MANIAC GIRL.

Miss Elizabeth Trowbridge of Elgin, Ill., Killed in Cold Blood.

Elgin, Ills., April 14.—Mary Linnett of Chicago shot and instantly killed Elizabeth Trowbridge, a prominent young lady of this city, and then killed herself last evening. The murderess was a former patient of the Insane Asylum, and was discharged as cured in December. Miss Trowbridge was her attendant and she conceived a passionate affection for her. She came here yesterday to induce Miss Trowbridge to return to Chicago to live with her. Miss Trowbridge could not be induced to do this, and Miss Linnett determined to kill both Miss Trowbridge and herself rather than be separated. Miss Linnett was 18 years old and about two years ago tried to kill a friend in Chicago for whom she had conceived an unnatural affection.

BE NOT DECEIVED.

The Unparalled Success of Dodd's Kidney Pills Excites the Envy and Greed of Unscrupulous Imitators.

A kidney treatment in pill form was unknown until Dodd's Kidney Pills came into use.

If Dodd's Kidney Pills were not indeed "the best in the world" no one would imitate them.

BRENNAN AWAITS HIS DOOM.

The Barrie Murderer Still Maintains His Indifferent Air—Mrs Brennan Ill.

Barrie, April 13.—Brennan, the convicted murderer, still maintains his indifferent air, as he awaits the fatal day. His wife, who is ill with consumption, will, it is believed, not live until the day set for the execution.

Only two death sentences have been carried out in Barrie previously. The first was that of James Carruthers of Essa Township, who was hanged about 7 a.m., June 11, 1873, for the murder of his wife in the previous December. He was 50 years of age. The second victim was John Tryon of Parry Sound, who was committed for trial on the same day when Carruthers was hanged. The charge against Tryon was the murder of Fisher, with whom he had been trapping. He was 57 years of age, and was executed at 8 a.m., Dec. 30, 1873.

The things that people see are inside of them and not outside. No two people see the same thing exactly alike. One woman may look out at a beautiful landscape and see all the beauty and restfulness and grandness that there is in it. Another one will look out on the same scene and see nothing. The man who is perfectly well and vigorous enjoys life to the full. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery makes people well. There isn't anything miraculous about it—it is the most natural thing in the world. It simply puts the digestive organs, the stomach, the liver, the bowels, in perfect order, and thereby makes the blood pure and rich. All diseases live and thrive on impure blood. Keep a stream of pure, rich, rich blood flowing into a diseased spot, and the disease will not stay. A man lives on rich pure blood, and disease dies on it.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery makes pure, rich blood. Send 21 cents in one cent stamps to World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y., and receive Dr. Pierce's 1008 page "Common Sense Medical Adviser," profusely illustrated.

The Bridge.

An examination of the cement used in the building of the new bridge shows that the frost got into it before it had "set" and consequently when the earth began to settle behind the abutments one end was toppled over into the water. The contractor, it is expected, will remedy the matter as soon as the water lowers. No permanent damage, it is said, has been done.

Teachers' Convention.

The National Educational Association meets in Buffalo this year. The council meets July 3rd, the association as a whole July 8, closing July 11. Good programmes have been prepared in all the departments. The railroads have granted single fare, and it is expected that 20,000 teachers will attend. It is expected that there will be a larger attendance of teachers than at any previous association, as Buffalo is within such easy reach.

Practical Entomology.

Rev. C. J. S. Bethune, M.A., D.C.L., Port Hope, will deliver a lecture on "Practical Entomology, under the auspices of the Natural Science Association, on Tuesday evening, April 28th, at 8 o'clock. The place of the lecture will be announced later. The reverend lecturer will treat the subject in a most interesting manner, and as insect life is exchanging the dormant condition of winter for the humming activity of spring, the opportunities for the study of practical entomology, taken in connection with the subject of the lecture will suggest a large attendance.

Auburn Lodge, I.O.G.T.

Last night's meeting was a very interesting, the Lodge had a good programme, and some of the members of City Lodge were in attendance, among them Miss A. Ellis, Lodge Deputy. Look out for a public meeting in a few weeks' time.

JOHN GRAHAM WEIR SUED FOR SLANDER.

WRIT FOR $1,000 ISSUED AGAINST HIM.

Mr. Gray Alleges That Weir has Been his Bitterest Prosecutor in the two Trials, and Will Give him an Opportunity of Pleading "Justification" for Accusing him of Being a Murderer.

To-day a writ was issued out of the High Court of Justice, against John Graham Weir, of Otonabee, at the instance of Thomas T. Gray, for slander, by Mr. W. A. Stratton.

Although Mr. Gray has been put on trial twice,—once on the charge of murder and once on that of arson, he has never yet been able to get his side of the case heard. He claims that if he could do this, he could remove every vestige of the suspicion which surrounds his case.

As Mr. Graham Weir, he alleges, has been his most persistent and bitter prosecutor throughout his trials, he has instituted an action against him for slander.

In this action Mr. Weir will have a full opportunity to for the charge of murder, which Mr. Gray alleges he has accused him of. Mr. Gray has resolved in this connection to make Mr. Weir apologize most openly or make him pay damages, if the issue of the suit should be in his favour.

Mr. Gray says that throughout the whole case the other side of the story has always been given. For instance, there were four witnesses who saw the head on old man Scollie when he was burning in the fire. This fact has never yet been given publication. The witnesses who are prepared to give their evidence in this respect are James Jervis, Madden Howard, Wellington Cow and Geo. Cow and they are most positive that at the time they saw the body the head was then attached to the neck, but there was a very fierce fire where it lay. Then it has never come out in evidence that before Graham Weir hunted for the head there were at least two parties who poked about through the burning debris, namely, Mr. Lavelle and Mr. Lahey, nor has it ever come out in evidence that was actually found in the cellar, where Mr. Lavelle had probably thrown it, accidentaly and that this portion came into the hands of Dr. Bell, the coroner of the county.

As to the value of his house, Mr. Gray says that John Taylor, J. Henry and W. J. Johnston, who all assisted in building the house, were, and are still, prepared to swear that it was worth $500 before finally completed. As to the value of the chattels, Mr. Gray had all his neighbours at Court yesterday, and they were prepared to state that the house was most comfortably furnished, and that all the articles which were proved against the Insurance Company were in their possession before the fire, and that the $200 insurance which was received on the chattels represented a loss, over and above the insurance, of at least $200. He was also prepared to show that regarding Scollie, the family were always on most friendly terms with him. He was always most affectionate with the children, and in the old man's death he, Gray, had no possible interest.

THE GEORGE STREET BRIDGE.

Mistake Made in its Location.

Last evening a large number of the citizens visited Spaulding's Bay, and those of them who were ratepayers had their feelings strongly excited, and did not hesitate to express them, by the serious mistake made in the location and construction of the new George street bridge. It was obvious to any person that the narrowing of the opening under the bridge was unwise, and it would have been better if the site of the bridge had been placed further south, so that the more natural channel of the water would have been opened under the bridge, instead of forcing it through an unnatural and too contracted a channel, as is the case with the present bridge. One thing is certain, the opening will have to be enlarged, or a new opening and a new bridge built further south. For the present narrow opening cannot be allowed to remain as the only out-let for the tremendous flow of water now coming down the creek and demanding an out-let across George street. The water is backed up in the bay, and as a result Townsend street is being washed away, cellars in the vicinity are being flooded, and a considerable amount of damage being done. The town authorities have to face the problem that confronts them, and it is to be hoped that a more careful calculation of the possibilities that will affect the bridge in relation to the creek will be made the next time.

And the worst of the obstruction has not come yet. Contracted and insufficient as the waterway under the bridge is now, it will be still more narrowed when a stop log in the form of the 24-inch steel sewer pipe is stretched across the opening. Twenty-four inches is the interior diameter and the outer will be fully twenty-six inches. This will represent a decrease of the already narrow waterway by about 62 cubic feet, no inconsiderable obstruction in itself to the free passage of water at times of freshet. It is evident that something must be done to facilitate the flow of the water from Spaulding's Bay under George street. A gentleman familiar with such problems suggests that a comparatively cheap supplementary channel could be opened south of the present bridge by extending two or three culverts of steel pipe, five feet in diameter, under George street, furnished with gates at the western ends to be opened in cases of spring freshets like the present. This would relieve the waterway under the bridge, and is submitted as a cheap way of getting over the difficulty.

An Easter Entertainment.

The members of St. Luke's Young Ladies' Guild will give their annual Easter entertainment on Thursday evening, April 16th, in the Town Hall, Ashburnham. The programme will consist of a Mother Goose reception and drill by a number of children; the fairy drama, "Beauty and the Beast," in six acts; the dolls' drill and a farce entitled "Two Heads are Better Than One." These entertainments which the members of the Guild give annually are always looked forward to with pleasure. 3eod

WEST RIDING LIBERAL CONVENTION.

The Dominion election contest is at hand. The present Parliament expires by effluxion of time on April 24th, at midnight; but there is a probability of dissolution coming any day. The present make-shift Government is in such a shaky condition, and is being so shaken up by Parliament day by day and night by night, that in sheer desperation they may "throw up the sponge" and dissolve the House at any moment; and such a course would not be unreasonable. Self-preservation, itself, would dictate such a course. Every day the Government is losing influence and prestige, and the longer they perpetuate the present Parliamentary farce the more they are sacrificing.

Under such circumstances it behooves the Liberal party to be ready, specifically, as they are ready generally, for the impending contest. West Peterborough will not be found wanting. By notice in another column it will be seen that a convention of the Liberals of West Peterborough and of all electors opposed to the present government is called to meet in Bradburn's Opera House on Wednesday, April 22nd, at 1.30 o'clock p. m. Arrangements are being made for addresses by prominent Liberal members of the House of Commons.

The occasion is a most important one, which it is not exaggeration to denominate a crisis in the political history of this country. A government is on its trial, that has lost every claim to public confidence. It is guilty of every possible act of political crookedness. It is marked and noted for its unbridled and undisguised corruption; for its utter lack of political principle; for its extravagant expenditure and actual waste of public funds; for prostituting every function of government to the furthering of corrupt ends and the retention of power. Under its rule the country has not prospered. Our population has remained practically stationary; it has pursued a policy that has advanced the interests of the few at the expense of the many; it has encouraged monopolies and become the foster father of combines, that prey upon the public; it has placed the public interest secondary to the promotion of interests, which could be counted upon to give corrupt support and comfort to itself; it has forfeited every claim to public support, and the country is ripe for throwing off the yoke that has been imposed. Never before in all the past eighteen years of misrule has there been such urgent need of a change of government and a return to honest, economical administration in the interests of the people. In this emergency, the country looks to the Liberal party for relief, and it will not look in vain.

The West Riding of Peterborough must and will do its share. With this end in view, the convention of April 22nd is called. It is urged that there be a large and enthusiastic attendance. A cordial invitation is extended to all who are opposed to the present inefficient and time-serving Dominion Government, in order that the candidate selected to enter the contest, may be assured of the hearty support of all electors, who desire a return to honest government. Let there be a large attendance in Bradburn's Opera House, on Wednesday, April 22nd, for the purpose of nominating a candidate. The call comes to every patriotic citizen who has faith in Canada and who believes that, with capable government, her future will be a great one. We have the country, we have the resources and we have the people, whose energies rightly directed and freed from the trammels of restriction, will make of Canada a great nation. We had the foundation laid strong and deep at Confederation, but we have permitted political jerry-builders to attempt to build up the national structure with rotten materials and by rotten methods. We must have all that changed, and a unit of the national element in working that change will be the action instituted at the Liberal convention in Peterborough on April 22nd.

SPORTING PASTIMES.

Wheel Talk and Items of Local and General Interest to Sportsmen.

THE WHEEL.

The local bicycle agents are all doing a splendid business in wheels this year and more new wheels will be ridden in Peterborough, probably, than any town of its size in the Dominion.

Last fall Peterborough's road racing team made a great name for itself in the Midland district and this season an effort will be made to win more than local fame. The team is going to begin training immediately for the W. G. and R. trophy team race in Quebec on the first of July. With Horkins, Little (late of Sarnia), Walker, Lytle and Lush the boys should be able to do good work.

A great effort will be made to have the big Dunlop trophy team race run off on the Lakefield road this year.

LACROSSE.

The lacrosse boys are already out in the evening practising and are eager for the ground to dry up sufficiently to permit of some practice games being held. This time last year they were in fairly good shape. It is expected that Cobourg will be asked up for the Queen's Birthday and the sooner arrangements are made for practice grounds the better.

ANOTHER CATHEDRAL WEDDING.

It Took Place at Five O'Clock this Morning in St. Peter's.

The full choir was present at St. Peter's Cathedral this morning at five o'clock, when the wedding of Mr. Thos. Carveth, now of Buffalo, son of Mr. Harry Carveth, of town, and Miss Maria Ball, daughter of Mr. John Ball of Park street, was celebrated.

The bride wore a handsome travelling costume of fawn tweed with large velvet sleeves and carried a bouquet of lilies and carnations. She was assisted by her sister, Miss Katie Ball, who was gowned in navy blue with trimmings of chiffon. The groomsman was Mr. Angus McPherson.

Ven. Archdeacon Casey performed the marriage ceremony.

The wedding march was played by Miss K. Hurley, and a large number of the friends of the popular young couple was in attendance.

After partaking of a wedding breakfast at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carveth left via the C. P. R. for their future home in Buffalo.

Mr. Jacob Wilcox of St. Thomas, Ontario, is one of the best known men in that vicinity. He is now, he says, an old man, but Hood's Sarsaparilla has made him feel young again.

"About a year ago I had a very severe attack of the grip, which resulted in my not having a well day for several months afterwards. I was completely run down and my system was in a Terrible Condition.

I lost flesh and became depressed in spirits. Finally a friend who had been benefited by Hood's Sarsaparilla advised me to try it and I did so. I continued taking it until I used twelve bottles and today I can honestly say Hood's Sarsaparilla has restored me to my former health." JACOB WILCOX, St. Thomas, Ontario.

THE CIVIL DOCKET.

The Court Sits Late and Finishes its Business.

The last case on the civil docket was taken up and adjudicated upon last night without a jury. It was that of Bartlett vs. Kendry, in which the plaintiff, F. Bartlett, architect, sued the defendant, James Kendry, to recover $280 damages for drawing plans and specifications for the erection of a residence for the defendant, which the statement of claim says were accepted and in accordance with which excavations were commenced but not continued. The work was recommended and carried out upon plans furnished by another architect than the plaintiff, who claimed not to have received payment for his work.

The statement of the defence denied the acceptance of the plans and put the plaintiff to proof.

The Judge in giving judgment referred to the difficulty that he found in arriving at a conclusion, owing to the conflict of evidence, as each party had acted upon lines which appeared clear to himself and not clear to the other. He referred to the fact that the plaintiff had approached the defendant offering to supply a plan and that he found it difficult to say when the plaintiff put the defendant in a position that he ought to pay. He stated that he did not think he ought to allow the plaintiff the full fees which he charged but, having regard to the misunderstanding that had arisen, and the conduct of the defendant not being at all in bad faith, he allowed $150 and County Court costs, and no set off of High Court costs.

A. P. Poussette for plaintiff; E. R. Edwards for defendant.

BATTALION NOTES.

Talk of a Sham Fight on the Queen's Birthday.

Every Tuesday evening sees new recruits falling into line at the drill shed and the veterans are also beginning to show up again.

Last evening the colonel formally announced that the 15th Battalion from Belleville would be the guests of the Rangers on the 24th of May and that the visit would be returned on the first of July.

Belleville has a beautiful camp ground for the battalions which drill there from time to time and her citizens have proven themselves past masters in the art of entertaining visiting corps of volunteers, so that the Rangers may be sure of plenty of fun and a cordial welcome in the Bay City.

Sgt.-Major Peters would very much like to see a sham fight take place on the Queen's Birthday and it would doubtless be a most interesting manœuvre for the public to witness on the morning of the 24th.

Can Heart Failure be Prevented?

Startling and brief the announcement, "Sudden Death Caused by Heart Failure." Such is the stereotyped announcement of coroners, juries, and reporters arousing the forebodings of those victims of indigestion and mal-nutrition, who so frequently disturb themselves upon the manifestation in palpitation or fluttering, of functional disturbance of the heart; symptoms which they are foolishly prone to accept as the signs of an incurable and speedily fatal malady. Maltine with Coca Wine is potent in restoring conditions that no longer render possible such alarmingly disturbing symptoms. Maltine with Coca Wine, through its remedial influence upon the nervous system, soothes into calmness the disorganized nerves. The heart, in response to increased nerve force, no longer plunges and beats as if determined to break.

Maltine with Coca Wine has long been recognized as the most pleasant and efficient remedy for all those functional derangements that find manifestation in lassitude, sleeplessness, despondency, and loss of appetite and digestive power. A nerve tonic, a body-builder, a nutrient and digestive agent of inestimable value. All druggists sell it.

Mrs. T. S. Hawkins, Chattanooga, Tenn., says, "Shiloh's Vitalizer 'saved my life.' I consider it the best remedy for a debilitated system I ever used. For dyspepsia, liver or kidney trouble it excells. Price 75 cts. Sold by John Nugent, 339 George street.

THE GRAYS NOT PUT ON THEIR DEFENCE.

THERE WAS NO CASE TO BE SUBMITTED TO THE JURY.

McGregor's Evidence Said by Justice Rose to Show Motive and Prejudice. —The House was Worth far More Than it was Insured for.

The evidence of the last witnesses called by the Crown in the Gray arson case, was given as appended, together with the remarks of Justice Rose, when he took the case from the jury. The result of the trial, a verdict of "not guilty," was published in yesterday's issue of the Examiner.

Zacchеus Burnham was the third witness. He stated that he lived just across the way from the Grays. He knew of no reason why he should not be called in case of fire. When he was called the building was almost consumed. He could give no idea as to how the house was furnished.

Mr. Burnham was not cross examined.

John Graham Weir was the fourth witness. The prisoner had worked for him for two years. He had started him housekeeping, purchasing for him a stove for $26, furniture $16, a clock $4, and had also advanced him $10 to get other things. Mr. Weir was not cross-examined.

The fifth witness was Robert Mitchell. He had been in the Gray homestead once. He had no knowledge of the value of the contents.

Fred Scribner gave evidence as to what furniture was in one of the upstairs bedrooms.

Cross-examined by Mr. Stratton he stated that this bedroom which was somewhat recently furnished, was used by John Henry, a labourer on the farm.

John Henry had worked on the farm for three months, a couple of years before the fire. He gave evidence as to the manner in which the house was furnished, but he had never been in any bedroom but his own.

Michael Fitzgerald, who purchased the place, was asked by Mr. Clute what he gave for it, but Justice Rose ruled this out as not being evidence.

CROSS-EXAMINED

by Mr. Stratton, witness stated that McGregor's reputation amongst his neighbours for veracity did not amount to much. He would not believe McGregor on his oath.

At this point Justice Rose took occasion to reprimand Detective Murray for prompting Mr. Clute too loudly, and stated that in the event of its recurrence he would have to have him removed from the Court.

John Taylor had helped to erect the Gray homestead. It had cost between four and five hundred dollars, exclusive of the sheds and outbuildings. It could not be built for this amount to day.

The Crown Counsel at this point remarked that if this was the opinion of this witness it would entirely contradict the theory of depreciation of value, which was a point that the Crown had intended making.

Miss Alice Tufts, of Tuftsville, whose father conducts a tavern at Maduc Junction, was called by the Crown and stated that a man named Gray had come to her house the week previous to the fire. [She here identified the accused.] He had told the story of keeping Scollie and receiving the farm in return. He also said the house and contents were insured for $500. Her father had asked him if he was not afraid to leave home in so dry a time of the year in case of fire, and Gray had answered, "If anything should happen it would be all right as his wife was a smart woman and everything was well insured." Gray had come back later in the month and said that the house had burned down with the old man in it, and that his wife and children had escaped in their night clothes. He had received a telegram to this effect. He again mentioned the insurance.

CROSS EXAMINED

by Mr. Stratton, the witness stated that the discussion on fire had been started by her father speaking about the dry season.

Mr. Clute then submitted the documents proving the insurance of the house and contents in the Mercantile Fire Insurance Company.

At this point His Lordship inquired "Do you think it is a case to press, Mr. Clute?" and continuing said: "We have to start with the fact that both prisoners have been declared innocent on the charge of killing or encompassing the death of the old man. No theory therefore, said he, can be placed before the jury, of arson to hide the crime of killing, and the only other possible theory is that the building was fired for the insurance money. To make this theory plausible, there would have to be some discrepency between the value of the property and the amount for which it was insured. As far as the house is concerned, contended his Lordship, the evidence of the Crown's own witnesses goes to show that it was worth a sum equal to the insurance on it and the contents as well. The principal witness too, comes into court acknowledging prejudice and with a very evident desire of placing himself in a better position than the rumours, which are afloat have placed him. Then again, Mrs. McGregor gives evidence, placing much more value on the contents that does her husband, whose testimony is weakened by his assertions concerning the contents, concerning which he has an unnatural knowledge.

Mr. Clute signified that he would not press the case.

His Lordship then addressed the jury, stating that who set fire to the house was not shown. This had to be found out and they would have to start with an inference. This could not be that they had killed the old man, as they had been declared "not guilty" on this charge. In regard to the other theory, that the house was fired for the insurance, the only fact that they had to go upon was that the chattels were overvalued—this was simply and solely the only fact and it could not be taken as testimony from McGregor, as reliance could not be placed on his evidence. It was evident that he was actuated by motive and had a desire to injure, and besides the evidence of other witnesses went to show that the chattels were there. Therefore, there was no fact to show that the two prisoners, conspiring, had set fire to the house and he did not consider that it would be just to even put them upon their defence.

The Clerk was then directed by His Lordship to enter a plea of "not guilty" on the indictment and the prisoners were discharged.

CAHILL & HOOLIHAN

A MINISTER TORTURED.

REV. WM. TUCKER WAS IN AGONY MANY YEARS.

Says he Felt as though he had been Stabbed by a Thousand Knives—Feared he Would Lose his Mind—His Recovery Looked upon as a Miracle.

From the New Era, Greensburg, Ind.

It was publicly talked all over Decatur and Ripley counties for some time before New Era sent a reporter to Pierceville to fully investigate the Tucker matter. The Tuckers are prominent people and are all well to do farmers. The Rev. William Tucker, subject of all the talk, was pleased to allow us an interview. This is his story as he told the reporter:

"I was born and reared on a farm but entered the ministry at an early age. I was always subject to rheumatism even when quite young. Pains, sharp and acute, would sweep across my body, causing me much suffering. The doctors pronounced it then a spinal disease. The pains kept getting worse all the time, from day to day, as the years rolled round, and I experienced many years suffering.

"Although I much regretted to, I was finally compelled to retire from my work in the religious cause. The pains would first start from my hands and limbs, but afterwards began shooting from all parts of the body, and it seemed as though a thousand knives were sticking me. After these pains would first come on, my entire body would suddenly grow cold, I would be numb all over and all my muscles would be asleep. I would then turn suddenly blind. I often lay in this condition for hours, and generally I was conscious and knew what was going on, but the suffering was intense and unbearable. No words can describe it.

I consulted several physicians at Greensburg, but they said my case was hopeless, as the disease was incurable. I went to other cities for treatment. A prominent doctor of Toledo, Ohio, dismissed me as incurable and I gave up in despair. I tried many patent medicines, but none of them did the least good. Finally I saw in the New Era an article about Dr. William's Pink Pills. I tried them as a last resort. They soon helped me and I kept on taking them. I have taken over a dozen boxes now and I feel perfectly well in every respect and feel that I am cured. I could never sleep soundly before, as the pains would come suddenly on me in the night and I would become numb. Many a time I've walked the floor in agony the entire night. I can sleep perfectly sound now, and my appetite is better than ever before, and I weigh more than for many years. I feel that I owe my life to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills contain all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. They are sold in boxes (never in loose form, by the dozen or hundred) at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50, and may be had of all druggists or directly by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

VON KOTZE KNOWS TOO MUCH

For the German Authorities to Arrest Him on the Charge of Duelling

New York, April 14.—A Berlin special says: Notwithstanding the clamor of the religious and moral elements represented by organs such as The Reichsbote, The National Zeitung, The Catholische Volkszeitung and other Conservative journals, for the enforcement of the utmost severity of the law against duelling, Baron Liebercht Von Kotze has not yet been arrested.

Not desiring, however, to outrage public sentiment, the authorities have refused the request of the friends of Baron Von Schrader, who was killed by Von Kotze, to allow his body to lie in state in the Friedenskirche, an honor which would otherwise certainly have been bestowed on the late Master of Ceremonies of the Prussian court.

Walked into the Lake and Died.

Port Hope, April 14.—Michael O'Neil, about 70 years of age, committed suicide here this afternoon by walking into the lake. Insanity was the cause of the act.

TORTUSES OF RHEUMATISM.

The pains of rheumatism are removed and the disease driven from the system by the use of Burdock Blood Bitters, the conqueror of thousands of the severest cases.

Mrs. J. M. Monkman, of Arkwright, Ont., says:—I took inflammatory rheumatism in February, 1894, and doctored for it some weeks, but found I was getting worse. All my joints were swollen very much and I was not able to leave my bed and could get neither sleep or rest. Hearing from a neighbour that she got your Burdock Blood Bitters for her daughter, who had the same disease and it cured her, I purchased a bottle and, after taking about one half of it I found myself recovering and after continuing it for some time I recovered but when the cold weather set in I found it returning again. So I commenced to take the B. B. B. again, when I found, after taking it about a week, that all pain and swelling of the joints had disappeared and I consider that I am entirely cured.

Rheumatism Cured in a Day.

South American Rheumatic Cure, for Rheumatism and Neuralgia, radically cures in 1 to 3 days. Its action upon the system is remarkable and mysterious. The first dose greatly benefits. 75 cents. Sold by H. S. McDonald.

MURDER OF INFANTS

Many Babies Thrown Into the River Thames.

SOME TERRIBLE WORK IN ENGLAND

How a Professional Baby Farmer and Murderess Was Caught in Her Nefarious Trade—How Children Were Put Out of the Way by the Accused.

London, April 13.—Terrible revelations of crime arising, it is confidently believed, from professional baby-farming have occurred at Reading, on the Thames. Five decomposed corpses of infants have been already dragged from the miry bed of the river. It is shocking to have to say that facts like these seem to produce little or no impression in England, save perhaps in the immediate spot concerned. Occasionally a courageous paper publishes a violent indictment against baby-farming, but the police shrug their shoulders and say, "What can we do?"

The infantile mortality in many of the large towns of Great Britain is too awful to contemplate. People attribute it to a lack of knowledge on the part of mothers and municipalities, and debate the question with advice to parents. But those who know the truth affirm that one out of every four children is purposely done to death, and not one crime in a hundred is ever brought home.

Here in London many people think less of killing a child than of killing a cat. The papers to-day state that the corpse of a two-months-old child was found in the Thames near Lambeth Bridge yesterday morning, with a weight fastened around its neck. Another body of a new-born child was found in Hamstead Heath. As far as a hasty examination of statistics goes, it can be shown that 40 bodies of murdered children have been taken from the River Thames during the last 12 months, while scores of undiscovered bodies have been washed down to the sea on the rapidly rolling clay-colored river.

A week or two ago a waterman, while following his occupation, dug up a brown paper parcel, embedded in the mud at Caversham Lock. Inside the parcel was the body of a child, which had a piece of cord around its neck, showing that the little creature had been strangled. No one identified the corpse and the jury returned a verdict of "Wilful murder against a person or persons unknown." A subsequent examination of the paper, however, disclosed an address thinly written in ink of "Mrs. Annie Dyer, Kensington-road." The police ascertained that this paper had been supplied by a local tradesman to Mrs. Dyer, who, when questioned, gave unsatisfactory replies. She was arrested and her house was searched. Letters, telegrams, pawn tickets and receipts for advertisements in many London weekly papers—which, by the way, accept a more shady class of advertisements than the dailies—were discovered by the police.

Arthur Ernest Palmer, Dyer's son-in-law, was arrested on the charge of being an accessory after the fact.

The police dragged the Thames, and another body was discovered with tape round its throat. Soon afterward two more were fished up, one in a carpet-bag, which appeared to have been strangled, and on Friday night a fifth child was dragged out.

It is believed that this system of murder has been going on for months. It is stated that the modus operandi was to advertise that a lady was anxious to adopt a child in consideration of a money payment, this being the usual way in which a baby farmer does business. All sorts of answers would be received, from those in high places down to the humblest shopkeeper, and it is affirmed that many of these people, when handing over their offspring, knew the fate in store for them.

Seized documents prove that many children passed through Mrs. Dyer's hands, and some disappeared at once. The woman, who is married, but is living apart from her husband, is alleged to be a well-known baby farmer. She is a gaunt yet pleasant looking woman of about 50, and gets a fair income out of her business. This business seems, however, to have got her in jail some years ago. She denies all knowledge of the affair, but the evidence will, it is believed, be overwhelmingly against her.

Indeed, remarkable developments are anticipated, and it is generally hoped that the police will be able to proceed against those who knowingly did their offspring to death. Three little children were found at Mrs. Dyer's house when the police arrested the woman—a boy of 7 years, a girl of 8 years and a boy of 3 months. The Treasury will undertake the prosecution when the evidence is complete. Everyone with a grain of feeling hopes that these new revelations will waken up the magistracy and British Legislature against baby farming, which is a crying scandal in England.

HAD TO EAT THEIR BOOTS.

The Terrible Sufferings of Lost Men Off the Newfoundland Coast.

St. John's, Nfld., April 13.—All of the men who went adrift on the ice made their way ashore or were rescued by boats, except two. The boats got within a mile of one of these, and lost sight of him in the darkness, and he perished. The other man is supposed to have been drowned. Several of the rescued men were driven to eat their leather boots before being found. Much relief is felt that the loss of life was so slight. There have been only three deaths.

The Supreme Court opened to-day. No progress was made in the trials of the bank directors owing to the sudden illness of the Chief Justice.

MONTREAL'S CREDIT IS HIGH.

The Bank of Montreal Pays a Good Price for the New Loan.

Montreal, April 13.—The Bank of Montreal has bought the new $2,000,000 city loan at the best rate ever obtained by Montreal or any other Canadian city. The loan is in 40-years, 4 per cent. stock, and the purchase price is £105 1s sterling for every £100 of stock net to the city. In other words, the city is relieved of all costs in connection with the disposition of the bonds, and receives a premium of £5 1s on every £100 of stock. The $2,000,000 raised by this loan will be devoted to the retirement of all outstanding temporary loans, on some of which high rates of interest were being paid. All round, 1 per cent. of interest, or $20,000 a year will be saved to the city annually, while the original saving in premium will be about $100,000.

MAY BE A TRIPLE MURDER.

Beak Shoots His Divorced Wife's Father Brother and Sister.

Newhampton, Ia., April 13.—Herman Beak, a stonemason of this city, to-day shot and killed Mike Bartz and fatally wounded Bartz's son and young daughter.

Beak was lately a son-in-law of Bartz, who lives three miles from town. Beak's wife recently obtained a divorce from him. Beak lay in wait in the brush for them, while they were on their way home from church, and discharged both barrels of a shotgun at them at short range. The girl will die and it is thought the boy will. Beak mistook the girl for his wife. He came to the city and surrended himself immediately after the shooting.

HOW THE SUN LIFE FULFILS ITS PROMISES.

A Matured 10 Year Endowment.

Profits Paid by the SUN 21 per. cent more than the Estimates.

The following letter, which speaks for itself, was received by the undersigned this morning from a gentleman in Brockville, whose ten year endowment which he held in the Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada matured last week and was paid him. The Sun is modest in promises but UNEQUALLED IN RESULTS. The public are benefited by results, not by promises unfulfilled

BROCKVILLE, November 7th, 1895.

W. H. HILL, Mgr. Central Ontario Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada, Peterborough, Ontario:—

DEAR SIR,—I should have acknowledged the receipt of yours enclosing cheque for endowment policy No. 12,871 before, only I wanted to write something more than a mere receipt. I am pleased to hear of the continued prosperity of the "SUN" and it speaks well for your Company when the profits are greater (by 21 per cent.) than you as the Company's representative promised or rather estimated, as was the case with this policy.

I hope your Company will continue to prosper and I often regret that I do not carry more Insurance than I am doing. I might have carried twice as much as I do when at Minden without any great effort, still what little I do carry I feel is perfectly safe being in the "SUN."

I must thank you for your promptness and kindness regarding this policy just settled. I hope we will both be alive and well when the new one I now hold will be due in 1905 and assuring you of very best wishes, I remain,

Yours Sincerely,
(Signed) F. R. C.

The above voluntary testimonial is significant and shows in a most practical way the SUN'S standing as a profit paying institution.

How much business can a man do whose system is in a state of disorder? Headache is only a symptom. It is not a disease. The pain in the head is the sign of rebellion. There have been mistakes in diet. There has been overwork and sleepless nights. The machinery of the whole system is demoralized. A business man feels that he cannot afford to be ill enough to quit work. He drags along day after day, makes bad deals, says the wrong thing, and health and business collapse together. There's no need of either disaster. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are a gentle, effective renovator of both stomach and bowels. They assist nature without threatening to tear the body piece-meal. There are no griping pains, no nausea. One is a barely perceptible laxative. Two give more noticable results, and they may be continued until the system is throughly renovated, strengthened, and put into harmony with nature. One need not fear a "habit" of taking the "Pleasant Pellets." As soon as health is restored they may be discarded without a return of illness because of their absence. Therefore, you don't become a slave to their use.

A GREAT BOOK FREE.

When Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., published the first edition of his work, The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser, he announced that after 680,000 copies had been sold at the regular price, $1.50 per copy, the profit on which would repay him for the great amount of labor and money expended in producing it, he would distribute the next half million free. As this number of copies has already been sold, he is now distributing, absolutely free, 500,000 copies of this most complete, interesting and valuable common sense medical work ever published—the recipient only being required to mail to him, at the above address, thirty-one (31) cents in one-cent stamps to cover customs and mailing only and the book will be sent post-paid. It is a veritable medical library, complete in one volume. It contains over 1000 pages and more than 300 illustrations. The Free Edition is precisely the same as those sold at $1.50 except only that the books are bound in strong manilla paper covers instead of cloth. Send NOW before all are given away.

WILL SIT TILL THURSDAY.

Government to Force Another Continuous Session of the House of Commons.

Ottawa, April 13.—(Special.)—Nothing of an official character has been received by the Government regarding glanders existing among Canadian horses landed in England. Mr. Scarth, Deputy Minister of Agriculture, states that in March Dr. Montague cabled him from England that horses shipped from Canadian ports should be subjected to inspection, the same as cattle. Some American horses imported were apparently affected with glanders. This cable, Mr. Scarth points out, did not even state that the American horses were shipped from Canadian ports. He wrote to Dr. McEachran, who stated that he questioned the existence, to any extent, of glanders in Canada, and pointed out that the Government had no powers under the Contagious Diseases of Animals Act to inspect horses before an expert. Dr. Smith, head of the Ontario Veterinary College, Toronto, was also communicated with, and replied that there was very little glanders in Ontario. Upon this information, the Government decided upon the measure introduced by Mr. Foster to-day, giving the Government the necessary power to inspect horses prior to shipment. The department has information of glanders being on the increase in England, but Mr. Scarth does not think it is attributed to Canadian horses, nor does he think the grounds for such a charge exist. The bill now before the House will, he says, do away with all fear of glanders being spread throughout England through horses shipped from Canadian ports.

The general impression in Ministerial circles to-night is that the House will continue in committee on the Remedial Bill until Thursday of this week. This will be necessary if the Government desires to secure Wednesday, as under the rules of the House, Wednesday is still private members' day.

Prof. E. Odium of Vancouver, who came East with the immigration delegates, has been commissioned by the Dominion Government to proceed to England to deliver a series of lectures on Canada in the interests of immigration to this country. Mr. Odium is a splendid speaker, and creates a favorable impression wherever he goes.

The Minister of Marine presented to Parliament to-day the report of Mr. O'Hanley, C.E., upon the probable effect of the Chicago drainage canal on lake levels. The document is a voluminous one, consisting of 90 typewritten pages, and containing in detail the hydraulic formulae by which the surface effect of the discharge is determined, and the probable effect of the artificial retention worked out. The following deduction is made from one series of formulae: That, estimating the discharge of the drainage canal at 15,000 cubic feet per second, it would take 82 5-6 days for the canal to lower the level of Lake Michigan one inch, or 230 days to lower it 3 1-2 inches. Mr. O'Hanley suggests that a gauging party be sent this spring to observe the mean discharge at St. Clair River.

The railways subsidies, which are revotes of lapsed subsidies, have all been decided by council. The list will probably be brought down by the end of the week. The prospective new subsidies are now being considered.

Dr. G. R. Parkin of Toronto was in the city to-day en route from Montreal.

DEATH OF SIR JOHN SCHULTZ.

One of the Best Known Figures in the Canadian Northwest Passed Away in Mexico Yesterday.

Winnipeg, April 13.—(Special.)—News was received in the city this afternoon of the death at Monterey, Mexico, of Sir John Schultz, ex-Lieutenant-Governor of Manitoba. Sir John and Lady Schultz went to Mexico in December last, to avoid the rigors of the Manitoba winter, and were making prepafations to return north when the sudden collapse of the once sturdy pioneer intervened. Sir John Schultz was one of the first Canadians to emigrate to the Red River Settlement. Coming by wheeled conveyance across the prairie from St. Paul in 1865.

Ottawa, April 13.—(Special.)—Word was received in the city to-day of the death at Monterey, Mexico, of Sir John Schultz, ex-Lieutenant-Governor of Manitoba. Sir John had gone south for the benefit of his health. Mr. Daly, on behalf of himself and the Manitoba delegation, telegraphed condolences to Lady Schultz this afternoon.

THE COMING ELECTIONS.

How the St. James' Gazette Views the Situation in Canada

London, April 13.—The St. James' Gazette this afternoon, referring to the importance of the Canadian election, says it apprehends that if the principles of Federal control and justice for the Catholics of Manitoba are re-asserted, the difficulty will be ended. If, however, the verdict is partial and obscure, the Conservatives will not have a strong majority. Chaos will follow, the constitution will be unworkable, and Canada will be divided by the sword of sectarian strife.

NAVIGATION AT COLLINGWOOD.

The Ice Has Shifted From the Outside Harbor Vessel Men at Work.

Collingwood, April 13.—The south winds of yesterday and to-day have shifted the ice from the outside harbor. What remains in the inner harbor is so weak that it would not interfere with navigation. All the lines of steamers are busy making preparations to start as soon as the ports up the lakes are open. The fishermen expect to leave for their stations about the 25th of this month.

Killed While Running for Safety.

Butte, Mont., April 13.—The last body of the six miners, killed by the powder explosion in the St. Lawrence Mine on Saturday morning, was recovered to-day. The position of the bodies found indicates that the men discovered that an explosion was about to occur in the magazine, and started to run away, but they could not reach a safe distance before the explosion occurred.

Hyppolite's Enemies Returning.

Kingston, Jamaica, April 13.—Haytians who became refugees during the Presidency of Hyppolite, are accepting the amnesty offered by the new President, T. Simon Sam, and are making preparations to return to Hayti. The submission of the Maigatists is regarded as suspicious.

Combermere, April 13, (Special)—Mr. H. E. Hudson, trapper, hunter and lumberman, was injured by falling on a knot which entered his body from beneath and injured the bladder and kidneys. He says:—"I was confined to my bed for six weeks and was rarely able to work, feeling too weak since the injury over eight years ago. I have taken one box of Dodd's Kidney Pills and am perfectly cured and as able bodied as ever before in my life. One box was worth one hundred dollars to me, if it is possible to estimate such a benefit in dollars."

One Honest Man.

Dear Editor:—Please inform your readers, that if written to confidentially I will mail in a sealed letter, particulars of a genuine, honest home cure, by which I was permanently restored to health and manly vigor, after years of suffering from nervous debility, sexual weakness, night losses and weak shrunken parts. I was robbed and swindled by the quacks until I nearly lost faith in mankind, but thank heaven, I am now well, vigorous and strong, and wish to make this certain means of cure known to all sufferers. I have nothing to sell, and want no money, but being a firm believer in the universal brotherhood of man, I am desirous of helping the unfortunate to regain their health and happiness, I promise you perfect secrecy and as I do not wish to expose myself either, please address, simply: P. BAD BLOOD.

Bad blood courses through the veins and arteries just the same as good blood does, but good blood carries with it health, while bad blood distributes diseases throughout the whole body.

Good blood means vigor. Bad blood sows the seed of scrofula, ulcers, abscesses, boils, blotches, skin diseases, and almost all the ills that flesh is heir to. To get health we must cure the bad blood, and is Burdock Blood Bitters, which removes all impurities from the blood by its action on the stomach, liver and bowels, thus carrying off all morbid and effete matter, and purifying, cleansing and healing every organ of the body.

Y.P.S.C.E. NOTES.

Paragraphs of Local Interest to Endeavourers Supplied by the County Union and Epworth League.

WORLD'S CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOUR PRAYER—A CHAIN.

"The whole round world is every way
Bound by gold chains about the feet of God."

Subject of prayer for April:—"For Christian Stewardship—that Christians everywhere may realize their stewardship, giving more generously, and praying more earnestly for the conversion of the world."

OUR NEW YEAR.

As we enter into this year should we not make some special effort to bring the C. E. movement more prominently before the public of the country. How is this to be done? The secretary in his report recommends that the individual members aim at reaching a higher spiritual standard. That the societies throughout the country endeavour to arrange for concerted evangelistic work. Also to endeavour to increase the interest in missions. Is it not time some one touched the Endeavourers of this county up? Look at last year's record—one society has less than reported for '94 and '95, one hundred dollars less for missions, and a net gain in membership in the entire county of only 27 members. Who is to blame for this? Each individual member in the county is to some extent responsible for this state of affairs. Now, to remedy the evil done we must make a special effort, and each individual member must do his or her part. Last year we contributed at the rate of eighteen cents per head for missionary purposes, about one-third of a cent per week per member, and with such a record can we march along with flying banners, claiming to have consecrated our time and talents to the Master? Let us see what could be done if every society in the county adopted the Fulton plan, that is each member to contribute two cents per week for missions. If this plan was adopted we could report having contributed ($1,200.00) twelve hundred dollars for missions during the year of '96 and '97, as against ($200.00) two hundred contributed in the year just past.

The matter of conducting evangelistic services throughout the county should be discussed, first by the Executive, they to endeavour to arrange for a series of revival meetings in the different districts. How to reach the higher Christian life, is a matter members must settle for themselves. The Endeavourers' way to reach it is to live closer to the requirements of the pledge; keeping in close communion with Christ, the Head, and always looking for the opportunity to touch your next man. Now to the work—"Ye are servants of God,"—and know this "that all things can be done through Christ who strengtheneth us."

From time to time we would like to hear from the societies throughout the country what is being done along these lines. We want news that will prove interesting to all, and the best news consists of work done by the different societies. Let us hear from you—do not think your plans too simple to report; you know that "simple things confound the mighty."

THE NEW EXECUTIVE.

The county Executive has undergone a complete change this year, and probably some of the members did not notice that the last Executive was composed of Presbyterians. The president, the superintendant of Junior work, the secretary-treasurer and the editor were all Presbyterians. The three latter were members of St. Paul's society. This year the Executive is composed of mostly Methodists. The Honorary President, Rev. Mr. Beer, of Ashburnham. The President, Rev. Mr. Liddy, of Keene. The Secretary, Mr. Porter, of Keene. The Assistant Secretary, Mr. Beer, jr., of Ashburnham and Mrs. (Dr.) Harrison, of Keene, superintendant of junior work; all Methodists. Two of the vice-presidents are also Methodists. Mr. J. O. Fife, of Keene district, and Mr. Elliot of Norwood district. Miss Cronie of the Central district is a Presbyterian, but is a member of Salem society which is Methodist. Miss Darling of Smith district is a Baptist, as is also (Rev.) Mrs. McDonald of Lakefield district. Miss Roseburgh, of Norwood, assistant superintendent of junior work, is a Presbyterian, as are also the editors, Mr. Johnson and Mr. Martin.

THE LOCAL SOCIETIES.

Mark street Society.—The meeting on Monday night was conducted by Miss M. Hamilton. Mr. Beer taking the topic, after which the monthly consecration service was held. At the close of the meeting the following officers were elected and committees drafted:

President—Miss M. Hamilton.
1st Vice-President—Miss A. Smith.
2nd Vice-President—Miss A. Dawson.
Secretary—Miss E. F. Smith.
Treasurer—Mr. A. Fowler.
Organist—Miss L. Beer.
Prayer Committee—W. Throop, H. Beer, Lizzie Taylor, Albert Fowler, Maud Finnemore, Miss Hopkins, Miss Brough and Mr. W. Beer.
Lookout Committee—M. Finnemore, E. F. Smith, S. Taylor, K. Wand, F. Weir and W. McCarthy.
Missionary Committee—M. Nelson, E. F. Smith, Nellie Wood, Essie Law, Aggie Dawson, Winnie Courtney.
Social Committee—Nellie Courtney, Lottie Beer, A. Smith, Maud Dawson, Jas. Reid, A. Fowler, M. Hooper, Alicia Fowler.
Visiting Committee—Eva Weir, A. Smith, L. Beer, F. Beer, G. LeWarne, E. Wright, Elsie Glover.
Flower Committee—Elsie Glover, Nellie Wood, F. Beer, K. Wand, L. Dawson, L. Taylor, C. Frith.
Good Citizenship Committee—H. Beer, C. Crowe, Nellie Hooper, W. Throop, J. Shearer, S. Taylor, N. Revoy, Alice Frith and Bessie Crowe.

The first named on each committee to act as convenor.

ST. PAUL'S.

Mr. Connal presided and presented the topic at the meeting on Monday night. A novel scheme to get all to take part was adopted. The passages used for the daily readings was given to sections of the society—six in all. Each section stood up and read in consort the passage allotted to them. The service throughout was highly spiritual. During the hour there was not one pause. At the close of the meeting the Executive met and nominated the officers for the ensuing term. Next Monday the Goodcitizenship Committee take charge of the meeting and will present for discussion this topic, "The Proper Observance of the Sabbath."

GEORGE STREET SOCIETY.

The meeting on Monday night was literary in nature. The subject was "Great Women," and was presented in four papers: 1st, "Mrs. Samuel Wesley," by Miss Mark; 2nd, "Florence Nightingale," by Miss Lewis; 3rd, "Madame de Stael," by Mrs. Kendry; 4th, "Elizabeth Barrett," by Mrs. Young. An excellent musical programme was arranged and interspersed between the different subjects. The entire programme was listened to with rapt attention.

CHARLOTTE STREET SOCIETY.

The Epworth League of Christian Endeavour of the Charlotte street Methodist church held their regular monthly consecration meeting on Monday evening, the 13th inst., the president in the chair. The attendance was very encouraging, being the largest meeting this year. After the opening devotional exercises the roll was called by the secretary, each member responding to their names by reading a verse of Scripture or by a personal testimony. We were glad to receive five new members to our society at the close of the meeting. We are looking forward to a bright meeting next week. All young people are invited.

BLAIRTON.

From Our Own Correspondent.

Mrs. Atwell, widow of the late Wm. Atwell, has gone from here to remain for a few months with her son Charles at Carleton Junction.

Mrs. Brock is paying a few weeks visit to her sister, Mrs. Thos. Rutherford, of Campbellford.

Quotations from some farmers:—"This winter has taught me lessons on feeding worth to me more than will meet my expenses in the purchase of feed for my stock. We have at other times fed too much and too irregularly." Another says:—"Never before did I know that cattle would eat up so clean, and, in fact, eat straw that we at other times would call too inferior for them, and I may say they have, with less feed, done as well, if not better, than in other winters." From another:—"In other winters my cattle have mostly been able to wade around my yard in a foot of straw, and yet I would have to use grain to bring them out fairly good in spring. This winter I have had to almost count out straws to each one, at feeding time, during the whole winter. Not enough straw would be found in the whole yard to make a hen's nest, and yet the cattle, having had less grain than in former years, look in as good condition, if not better, than in former years. This winter has simply taught me a useful lesson how to feed for profit."

We are sorry to have to chronicle the almost sudden death in New York, on Sunday last, of Mrs. Pearce, sister of Mrs. J. L. Aunger of this place. Deceased was brought home to Franktown, Ont., for interment.

Where, I ask, is foolhardiness or foolhardihood (either will do nicely) more exemplified than on the ice of our lakes and streams in the spring? We take our glass and see parties venturing across Crow lake, where large openings and air holes are all around them. It gives us a sudden chill to watch the proceedings:—team comes to a halt, boy goes a few yards ahead; with a slight touch his axe goes through, he motions danger, and on a close investigation of their position, they find they dare not turn around, but carefully back on their track. A repetition of this kind of thing is often witnessed, and the fact of their success in gaining shore rather than finding a watery grave can be deemed nothing short of miraculous.

Applications from different parties in mining districts are often made to Mr. J. L. Aunger of this place for "good miners," and "men competent to work steam drills." The last gang of such sent from here was to work in the Copper Cliff Mine, Sudbury.

Now that bare ground appears it is not at all uncommon to find dead foxes in the fields. It is presumable that after they had partaken of their dainty bait and wandered away in bitter reflection upon their unlucky choice, the constant snow storms prevented their benefactor from tracking them to their place of halt.

Mr. Junkin, manager of the affairs of the Pearce Co., Ltd., Marmora, recently had occasion to go to an hospital in Toronto for treatment of some serious disease. The sad news of his death having taken place there yesterday while undergoing an operation, is received here to-day. Much sorrow is felt at his apparently untimely end.

A woman's headaches may come from several causes. She may have a headache arising from nervousness, or from digestive disturbances. Nine cases in ten, her headaches come from disorders peculiar to her sex. It may show itself in the symptoms which are characteristic of a dozen disorders. Thousands of times women have been treated for the wrong disorders. Dr. Pierce's Favourite Prescription was compounded for the sole purpose of relieving womankind of these ills and pains. Thousands of women have testified that after taking treatment from several physicians without benefit, the "Favourite Prescription cured them completely and quickly. It has been used for over thirty years, and has an unbroken record of success.

The woman who hesitates is invited to send 31 one-cent stamps to cover only the cost of mailing a copy of Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, which contains plain, clear information about all of the organs of the human body and their functions.

PRESIDENT ROBERTSON ACTS.

Interviewed the Customs Authorities With Happy Results. Prof. Robertson, Dominion Agricultural Commissioner, Grows Tired of Being Overlooked.

Ottawa, April 15.—(Special)—Commander Wakeham, Canada's international fishery commissioner, and his United States colleague, Mr. Rathbone, are making good progress at Washington in the preparation of their report. The report is to be in the hands of the respective Governments of Great Britain and the United States by the 1st of June, but it is not unlikely that an extension will be granted for six months in order to complete some essential enquiries.

The statement in The World of yesterday that Sir Mackenzie Bowell is to retire from the Premiership this week is denied by him, and the likelihood now is that he will continue at the head of his party until after the elections. It may be necessary for him to go to England in a couple of weeks, but he will go as Premier. The report is current to-day that Hon. Mr. Ouimet, Minister of Public Works, will retire from the Administration at an early date.

Mr. Robertson, president of the Canadian Wheelmen's Association, had an interview with Mr. Kilvert, acting commissioner of customs, with reference to the proposed regulations for the admission into Canada of bicycles owned by American tourists. As announced the other day the Customs Department has in contemplation a scheme whereby visiting cyclists will be required to present their certificate of membership in the League of American Wheelmen and after complying with certain formalities they would be allowed to bring their wheels into Canada without paying duty. As a result of the conference between Messrs. Kilvert and Robertson the latter promised to communicate to the department certain suggestions for the better carrying out of the proposed regulations and pending the receipt of this communication the department has stayed its hand. Mr. Kilvert, speaking to your correspondent to-day, stated that it was impossible for the department to allow the condition of affairs which existed last year to continue any longer. The confidence placed in the wheeling fraternity was greatly abused in many places and several wheels brought into this country under the tourist concession, but really intended for permanent use in Canada, were afterwards seized.

An interesting report of the operations of the Northwest Police force in the Yukon country, up to Jan. 26, was presented to Parliament to-day. Inspector Constantine states that the ground upon which the barrack building has been erected had to be cleared of moss which varied in thickness from one to three feet, below which was a layer of clear white ice. The buildings were put up only after very arduous labor. Rations for one year were procured from the Hudson Bay Co. at Winnipeg before the detachment started, but the inspector says the trading companies at Fort Cudahy will be able to supply them hereafter. Lots of moose and caribou have been obtained during the winter, but the supply is uncertain. About a quarter of a million dollars' worth of gold was taken out by the miners last summer. A quartz ledge has been struck, which seems to be richer than the famous Tradewell mine near Juneau. Matches up there are very expensive, a pointer for the Eddy firm. Coal oil is $1 per gallon. During the two weeks from December 24 to Jan. 6, the thermometer ranged from 47 to 65 degrees below zero.

The interesting announcement is made of the approaching marriage of Prof. Robertson, agricultural commissioner, to Miss Mather, daughter of Mr. John Mather, the well-known lumberman of Ottawa and Winnipeg. The marriage takes place early next month.

Mr. Earle, M.P., received advices from British Columbia to-day, stating that the Canadian sealers which had wintered in Japan, and who are now engaged in sealing on the Asiatic side, have only had indifferent success, owing to bad weather.

The annual reunion of Scottish Rite Masons of the Ottawa Valley is being held this week. To-day eight candidates received degrees up to the 14th. There are many visitors from a distance attending the reunion, including Messrs. Hugh Murray, Hamilton; Ben Allen, E. T. Malone and N. T. Lyon of Toronto and about a dozen brethren from Montreal.

Flags were flying at half-mast on the Parliament Buildings and the Rideau Club to-day out of respect to the memory of the late Col. Fred. Denison, M.P. A beautiful floral wreath was placed by Conservative members of the House on the desk occupied by the late member for Toronto.

Commander Spain, chief of the Fishery Protective Service, leaves for the Maritime Provinces next week to take command of his fleet. At present there are four cruisers out. The Kingfisher met the first American banker working up the Canadian coast off Shelburne County on Monday.

Ormond Hyman, electrician to the Inland Revenue Department, has been offered the position of chief electrical engineer for the colony of Queensland. Mr. Hyman prefers to remain in Canada.

The bill to permit a limited net fishing of salmon by riparian owners struck a snag in the Senate this afternoon. Mr. Drummond moved the six months' hoist, and Mr. Angers strongly opposed the measure. The debate went over till to-morrow.

Mr. McCarthy was to-day offered the nomination as independent candidate for the Burrard division of British Columbia. He has written declining the offer.

The statement in the Toronto evening papers to-night as to the date of the elections is merely conjecture.

FAVOR PREFERENTIAL TRADE.

Views of the Winnipeg Board of Trade, as Expressed in Resolutions for the London Meeting.

Winnipeg, Man., April 15.—(Special.)—At the meeting of the Board of Trade to-day a series of questions, proposed for the consideration of the Congress of the Chambers of Commerce of the British Empire, to be held in London June next, were discussed, and the views of the board crystallized in the following resolutions:

"Considering the means established for inter-communication between the various parts of the Empire and the great quantity of agricultural produce that can be supplied by Western Canada, it is desirable that trade between Great Britain and her colonies should be stimulated, extended and increased, and the freest trade relations possible established, the advantages to be derived therefrom warranting the freest exchange of commodities within the Empire on a preferential trade basis consistent with the revenue necessities.

"As to the bills of lading reform, we would favor the full responsibility by all common carriers.

"As to commercial education, we would favor the general system calculated to bring commercial affairs more into line as a branch of popular education. The board would favor a uniform decimal system of weights, measures and currency. We would approve of the closest possible trade relations between all the different colonies and dependencies of the Empire. We would strongly favor the appointment of a permanent Board of Arbitration for settlement of international disputes; we realize the advantage and the desirability of a uniform procedure on bills of exchange throughout all parts of the Empire.

"The board strongly favors a uniform postage rate of one penny within the Empire."

The Winnipeg Board of Trade also went a step further and passed the following resolution on the emigration question for submission to the Congress:

"Resolved, That this Congress views with regret the disposition on the part of many people of influence in Great Britain to direct the tide of the surplus population leaving that country to foreign lands, thus drawing from the strength of the Empire to build up alien powers. That the Congress looks upon such a tendency as not only wasteful of the vitality of the Empire, but altogether unnecessary, seeing that the British colonies and dependencies offer fields for immigration as attractive as, if not more attractive than, can be found in any foreign country.

"That within the bounds of the British Empire the emigrant can find any variety of climate and reach success in any pursuit, and yet retain all the privileges of British subjects.

"Therefore this Congress deems it the duty of the Imperial and Colonial Governments, as well as of all patriotic citizens of the Empire to use every means available to encourage emigration to the colonies from the Mother Land and to discourage in every possible way the directing of such emigration to foreign countries."

FROM DESK TO DANCE HALL.

Rosario Bourdon of Quebec, Clerk for the R. & O. Navigation Company's Cashier.

Montreal, April 15.—From the position of cashier and confidential clerk in the Richelieu and Ontario Navigation Company's office, Montreal, to that of a singer in a Parisian cafe, is considerable of a change many will admit, and, as in Eden, woman was the cause of it all. Rosario Bourdon was the unfortunate young man, who, becoming fascinated with one of the ladies of the French opera, left wife and family and an overdrawn account to the extent of several thousand dollars, sailed for la belle France. To-day High Constable Bissonnette received a cablegram from the Chief of Police in the French capital, saying that Bourdon had been arrested in one of the provincial towns, where, in company with Mlle. Marie Legendre, he was earning his living singing at the different cafe concerts. Mr. Bissonnette will leave to-morrow for Paris to bring back the prisoner. Bourdon's family is well known and highly respected, and the accused was exceedingly popular in local musical circles.

Damaz Laframboise and Larrie Lee, two incorrigible convicts at St. Vincent de Paul, were taken from that institution to-day and sent to Kingston. "I will make them pay for this," said Laframboise, as he was leaving the prison, "and never will I leave Kingston, except to walk to the scaffold." He is looked upon as a desperate character.

The death of E. H. King, the famous ex-general manager of the Bank of Montreal, recalled the great financier's gold deal in Wall-street years ago, when he proved himself more than a match for the New York money kings. Mr. King married Miss Budden, sister of Mr. H. A. Budden, vice-president of the Intercolonial Coal Company.

Mr. John Stephen, youngest brother of Lord Mount-Stephen, who died at Guelph on Monday, was buried in Montreal to-day.

A Chapter of Fatal Accidents.

Danielsonville, Conn., April 15.—Frank Baribault was drowned in Quinbaug River to-day. Charles Burton, a machinist, saw the accident and was drowned while trying to save the boy. Hugh Scallon nearly perished in trying to save Burton.

GRAIN INSPECTION FEES.

Winnipeg Grain Men Believe the Inspector at Fort William Should Get Fees.

Winnipeg, Man., April 15.—(Special)—In the matter of grain inspection fees at Fort William, Winnipeg grain shippers do not share the apprehensions entertained by the Toronto grain men. While no official communication has been received here from the Commissioner of Inland Revenue, it's the prevailing opinion that the cancellation of the order-in-council does not restore the old rate of 60 cents per car for inspection, but only abolishes the fixed salary of the inspector, his future remuneration being 40 cents per car. Secretary Bell points out that the Winnipeg grain exchange never favored the salary system and impressed on the Government that it would be more satisfactory to place an inspection fee at a sufficiently low figure and then make the inspector responsible under heavy bonds for any misgrading he might make. The members of the exchange are of the opinion that the Government have now seen the wisdom of this proposition and have cancelled the order-in-council relating to the definite salary and adopted the course suggested by them, leaving the inspection fee at 40 cents, to which figure the Government reduced it last fall on the petition of the Winnipeg Exchange.

THROWN UP AT LAST

The Government Tired of the Remedial Bill.

PROROGATION WEEK FROM TO-DAY

Dissolution of Parliament a Day Later—Major Hughes Makes a Bitter Attack on the Ex-Controller of Customs—A Wake in the House.

Ottawa, April 15.—(Special)—Prorogation has been definitely fixed for Thursday of next week, and Parliament will dissolve on the following day.

The Government practically gave up the Remedial Bill to-night, when Sir Charles Tupper moved that the committee rise and report progress. The proceedings thereafter took the form of a wake, Mr. McCarthy not being the gentleman who rendered the dirge. The opponents to the bill, who have slaved so long and so hard during the all-night sittings in defence of Manitoba, had no regrets to express at the Government's action. In fact, Mr. McCarthy congratulated Sir Charles Tupper on the sensible move, even if it was at the 11th hour. Sir Charles, however, reiterated the support of the Government to the coercive measure and would not admit that the death of the bill meant the abandonment by the Government of the policy of granting remedial legislation to the Manitoba minority.

Much objection was taken by supporters of the Government to the statement of Mr. Ouimet that remedial legislation would be in the forefront of the planks of the Conservative party in the coming elections. Mr. Davin, speaking for the Northwest, said he would be unable to travel under any such banner.

The attack of Major Sam Hughes on Mr. Wallace was a sensation of the day, second only to the dropping of the Remedial Bill.

A remarkable turn was given to the debate after dinner by Sam Hughes. The gallant major rose and asked Mr. Wallace if he charged him with writing a letter signed "West York Conservative," which appeared in The Mail a few days ago.

Mr. Wallace replied that Mr. Hughes had no right to catechise him.

Mr. Hughes said that was the size of the answer he expected. The letter referred to was not written by him and he read a telegram from the editor of The Mail stating that he (Hughes) had nothing to do with it directly or indirectly.

Mr. Somerville—Where do you stand on this bill? (Laughter.)

Dr. Landerkin—On both sides.

Mr. Hughes, continuing, said that up to a few months ago no one stood higher in his estimation than Mr. Wallace

Dr. Landerkin—That was his misfortune. (Laughter.)

Mr. Hughes said that Mr. Wallace was the last man in the world to talk about newspaper correspondence. Why, only a few days ago he had given an article written by himself to the young and virile reporter of The Toronto Telegram lauding the action of himself and his six associates who had fought against the bill. (Laughter.) Then Major Hughes adverted to the anonymous letters, in connection with which the names of Sir Adolphe Caron and Dr. Montague were mentioned, and implied that the member for West York knew something about their origin.

Dr. Landerkin said he understood this matter was before the courts; it was sub judice. (Laughter.) It is not to be spoken of by any person outside court. (Laughter.) I think the point is well taken. (Loud laughter.)

Mr. Hughes, ignoring this, went on to say that Mr. Wallace was animated by an insane hatred and jealousy of Dr. Montague, although up to a few weeks ago he had no truer friend than the Minister of Agriculture. That gentleman had refused a Cabinet position on the ground that Mr. Wallace was his senior. Mr. Hughes then went on to speak of the North Ontario election and condemned Mr. Wallace for resigning at the time he did to injure Mr. McGillivray's chances of election. Following this, he referred to Mr. Wallace's 12th of July speech at Ottawa and charged that a portion of the published utterances had never been delivered. (Laughter.) The speech had been prepared and on looking over it a number of Mr. Wallace's friends thought it was too strong It was therefore decided to take one paragraph out, but several newspapers published the speech with this paragraph in. (Laughter.) Mr. Wallace had favored home rule, the release of the political prisoners in Ireland and had stood up for the rights of the Protestant minority in Ireland. The relevancy of this remark, however, was not apparent. In conclusion, Mr. Hughes said he personally had pursued a consistent course on the Remedial Bill and he trusted yet that the Manitoba Government would settle this question.

The faces of the Opposition members beamed with anticipatory smiles as Mr. Wallace arose to reply. When he began in a low tone they shouted "louder." While he was bound to accept Mr. Hughes' statement that he had not written The Mail's letter signed "West York Conservative," yet it certainly tallied exactly with Mr. Hughes' expressions. But perhaps it was only another illustration of great minds running in the same channel. (Laughter.) Mr. Wallace corrected the statement that he had written the interview in The Toronto Telegram setting forth the position of the Ontario opponents of the Remedial Bill. So, too, he denied that the record proved he had once favored a Home Rule proposal. But he prophesied an interesting time for Mr. Hughes when he went back to North Victoria with what Mr. Wallace called his "double record" of opposition to the bill and the nights spent in the effort to put it through the House. (Opposition cheers.) The electors of Victoria would estimate him at his true worth.

Mr. Wallace took up the file of The Lindsay Warder and proceeded to read from an editorial in it which he presumed to be written by Mr. Hugh as because his name appeared in it no less than 97 times.

"That," said he, "shows the hon. member's extreme modesty." This sally raised another laugh, which was repeated when he went on to read how, at the time of the crisis, Mr. Hughes had been offered the portfolio of Militia in the reconstructed Cabinet, provided he would swallow remedial legislation. "Who had offered the hon. gentleman this position?" asked Mr. Wallace.

The Major's prompt reply was to the

SOME GOVERNMENT FRAUDS.

A little real, genuine and unadulterated politics is a pleasant change from the interminable iteration and irrelevance being talked over the school bill in the House of Commons. Dr. Landerkin conjured up some old friends yesterday on the floor of the House, but old faces are ever welcome, and these particular ones must not be forgotten, especially by the electors. Mr. Haggart was constrained to tell Dr. Landerkin, who was in an inquisitive mood, that the original estimate for the Curran Bridge was $223,000, and $405,000 had been expended on the bridge already, leaving a balance of $79,000 which has not been settled. This was what Mr. Dickey termed "a clear case of steal." For this the Department of Railways was responsible, in Judge Desnoyers' opinion. The locks at Little Rapids were to have cost $45,000, but up to date the total expenditure on the same work had mounted up to $255,000 through changes in the plans and other "improvements." The Galops Rapids Canal was, according to the first estimate, to have cost $212,000, and since the work was commenced it had cost the country $329,000. The estimated cost of the St. Charles Branch Railway was $228,000 for the purchase of land and $327,000 for the building of the road. These figures have been changed to $909,000 for the land and $823,000 for the work, with $5,500 still claimed. The Langevin Block was in the first instance to have cost $444,000, but in the end the main contract had risen in price to $727,746, so that with $96,000 for the purchase of the land site and $52,000 for changes since its completion, the figures are brought up to close upon one million dollars. There was, he said, a claim of $295,000 by Mr. Charlebois, the contractor, not recognised by the government. And there is much more of the same kind to be revived. It is this kind of thing that the Government is trying to keep out of sight, and as far as it shrouds misdeeds of the kind the school bill controversy is rather a Godsend than otherwise. But that will pass away. The bad record of sixteen years will not.—Ottawa Free Press.

How beautiful, exclaims the Brantford Expositor, the ermine of the Canadian bench will look when it is worn for the most part by men who have gained the honour by their ability to eat political dirt!

Its a pity the jurisdiction of the Mayor of Ottawa doesn't include Parliament Hill. His worship has promptly prohibited a prize fight in the Opera House. The scenes that have been enacted in the House of Commons recently were more disgraceful than any half decently conducted "mill" that could be presented.

THE reports of Tuesday's proceedings in the House of Commons state that Sir Charles Tupper laughed for the first time since he entered the House two months ago, and that he audibly smiled four times during the evening. Though Mr. Ferguson of Leeds, seemed to have "smiled" more than that, yet Sir Charles' repeated risible relaxation of his facial muscles suggests the quotation—"a man may smile, and smile, and smile, and be a ——" politically, of course.

AS TO religion and morality, when they reach the domain of politics, Sir Charles Tupper and his following, show a touching solicitude for the morals of the Manitoba people in their insistence on the fullest measure of religious instruction in the schools. One of the champions of this laudable crusade is Mr. Ferguson, of Leeds and Grenville, who came drunk into the House and in the interests of religious instruction attempted to convert Dr. Sproule by assailing him with unprintable profanity of vulgar coarseness and shaking his fist under his nose. This reminds one of the pious zeal of a member of the Toronto School Board, in the height of the "Ross-Bible" controversy, declaring that they would have "the whole d——d Bible" read in the schools.

THE new British battleship Renown, in her official trial, developed a speed of 19½ knots an hour, and kept up a steady run of 18¾ knots. A battleship is a heavy fighting machine, and is not calculated to have the speed of a cruiser, which is intended more as an ocean commerce protector, or "commerce destroyer" as some countries prefer to put it. The Renown's speed makes her the equal of many, if not most, cruiser's belonging to foreign navies. It will, when in commission, have the strength to meet another battleship, and the speed to keep up with a cruiser, which would be unable to offer any effective resistance to the Renown's attack. It should be one of the best ships on the ocean. Great Britain is spending money without stint on her fleet. It looks, too, as if she was getting value in return.

THE milk of human kindness in some breasts is considerably curdled and soured. Some misguided individuals are agitating for the release of McWherrell, the murderer. They should not be encouraged. McWherrell was found guilty of a heinous murder, and his imprisonment is not an adequate punishment. His release, therefore would be an outrage on justice. This agitation points to the fact that it is the safer way to hang a murderer when convicted—we should not be bothered then with attempts to secure executive clemency. It is curious to note what exceeding interest some persons will be found to take in an individual who has forfeited all claims to living by having taken the life of a worthy citizen—a man who is an unsafe unit in society. If such persons would permit their zeal in charitable deeds to be directed in the channels of work of the Children's Aid Society they would be assisting in rescuing from crime, instead of turning loose on society, persons who are a menace to the safety of life and property.

THE RESULT.

(E. E. Shepherd, in Toronto Star.)

As Sir Charles Tupper, Bart., has felt himself moved to prophesy, others, though infringing His Highness right, are stating how coming events cast their shadows before.

I have just returned from a trip to Winnipeg, during which there was a three-days' detention in the snow. Three trainloads of passengers, numbering some two hundred, were all talking politics more or less, and I did not find one amongst them, though they were from all parts of Canada, who expressed a belief in the success of the Government.

Returning from Winnipeg, I interviewed a number of gentlemen from British Columbia and the Northwest Territories, and though with one accord they expressed themselves as being Conservatives, not one of them had the slightest idea that the Government would survive the election, and few if any intended to support the coercionists.

In Manitoba I did not meet a man, Conservative or otherwise, who expected anything but the Government's overwhelming defeat. A Conservative and one of the leading stumpers for the Conservatives in the last Provincial campaign, told me that the Conservative party had simply been obliterated in Manitoba. "We were induced," said he, "to go out as Conservatives and oppose Greenaway, though stating to the electorate that we were as much opposed to remedial legislation as Greenway himself. Now the general elections come on and the remedial bill will still be the main issue, and it is utterly impossible for us to go out and support a government that if returned would attempt to carry it. I can assure you it is too sharp a curve for any Conservative speaker in this province to take if he desires to preserve his self-respect."

During the present session I think I have had as good opportunities as Sir Charles Tupper to discover the general feeling of the country, and my own belief is that he will not have over forty pledged supporters in the next Parliament, and the largest estimate I have had given me by anyone at all conversant with the facts, is that he may have sixty or sixty-four.

SUNDAY CHURCH DINNERS.

Bethel Baptist Church of Kalamazoo Will Try a New Scheme.

Kalamazoo, Mich., April 15.—The Bethel Baptist Church, a prosperous organization of this city, will next Sunday try the novel plan of serving free Sunday dinners in order to induce its morning congregation to remain for Sunday school. The membership of the church is almost entirely among the working people, and it has been found, especially during warm weather, that the attendance fell off.

The plan is unique, and the members of the Young Men's Club think it will result in large accessions to both the church and the Sunday school. The club has enough money in the treasury to serve Sunday dinners for a long time and will not have to call for contributions.

ASK YOUR DEALER FOR THEM.

The full intensity of living is reached only by the perfectly healthy. Sickness discounts the capacity for enjoyment. When a piano is badly out of tune, the noises that come from it are certainly not musical. They are not beautiful. If it is only a little bit out of tune, you can play some few things on it. You can create a semblance of music, but you cannot make really beautiful, satisfying, soul-stirring music, unless every string is tense and firm, unless every piece of the whole instrument is in perfect tune, in perfect condition, in perfect harmony with every other piece.

It is the same with a human being. If his body is all out of order and run-down, he will not be able to enjoy anything, no matter how full of enjoyment it may be for other people. If he is just a little bit out of order, if he "is not sick, but doesn't feel just right" he will only be able to enjoy things in a half-hearted sort of way. The nearer he is to being perfectly well, the nearer will his capacity for enjoyment be perfect. To really live, and to take his part in the work and pleasure of the world, his body must be in perfect condition. If this condition doesn't exist, something is wrong and something ought to be done. That something nine cases in ten means the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It works directly on the digestive organs, and on the blood and through these on every tissue of the whole body. It makes the appetite good, the digestion perfect and nutrition rapid and easy. It supplies rich, red blood to all the tissues and builds up solid, healthful flesh. It brings perfect health and restores vigorous, springy vitality. It makes every function in life a pleasure instead of a drag. It is an invigorating tonic as well as the greatest blood-purifier of the age. You can get it at any drug store. If you care to know more about it, and about your own physical make-up, send 31 one-cent stamps to cover cost of customs and mailing only and receive absolutely free a copy of Dr. Pierce's celebrated book, "Common Sense Medical Adviser"—1008 pages, profusely illustrated. AN ESSAY ON WOMAN.

BUT THE WRITER ADMITS THAT IT IS ONLY A HUMOROUS ARTICLE.

The Subject Confined to "Lovely and Unlovely Woman"—Three Unique Heads Briefly Discanted Upon—The End of it All.

Before you go any further I want to make one admission. This is a humorous article. I make this admission at this time, for the reason that I might forget it at the close, and I would not like to have you labor forever under a mistaken impression.

I did not originally intend it to be humorous. Far from it. It was a very serious business, I assure you. I felt that the world demanded and needed a full exposure of woman's foibles and other things, and I felt a still, small voice urging me to fill the demand. However, when I had it completed, I read it to a friend, and when, after an hour's hard work on my part, with the assistance of iodoform and carbolic acid, he recovered, he suggested that I label it as humorous. This struck me as being a very ludicrous idea, but I determined to adopt it, even if I did not get paid for it.

But I must confine myself to my subject, which is "Woman; Lovely and Unlovely Woman." I shall divide this subject into three heads: The woman as a maiden, the woman as a wife and the woman as a woman.

First we will take a woman as a girl. As such she is a paradox. She is one of the simplest things on the face of the earth, yet no one ever understands her. She is chuck full of wisdom and learning, and yet she can be one of the silliest things in the universe. She can talk for ages on metaphysics and histology, but if you mention the fact that a button is off your coat her face will assume a perfectly blank expression that you can't scare away. If she is a pretty girl, kiss her when nobody is looking and she won't object in the slightest, but kiss her when any one is near and she'll snatch you bald-headed. You learn to love her, or think you do. You go to see her in the evenings. She is the sweetest, nicest and prettiest girl on earth. Her beautiful golden curls rest trustfully on your manly bosom, and your heart feels as though it were full of great big chunks of bliss.

Drop in to see her some morning, as if by accident, about 10.30 o'clock. You'll think that you have struck the hired girl for awhile. The lovely tresses that spotted your shirt bosom the night before now rest on the bureau, and she sports a head of short red hair. The trim figure is no longer there, and she seems to be built after the pattern of a barrel. The pretty little foot that you thought was wobbling around in a number two shoe now wears a number six, and it seems to fit pretty tight, too.

Take her as a wife. The paradoxical affinities still pertain to her. She's not afraid to hit her big, burly husband over the head with an umbrella, but if a mouse runs across the floor she'll jump on a chair and call for the police, incidentally showing off the new styles in hosiery. If her husband asks her to go out calling with him she tells him that she is tired and not feeling well, and wants to stay at home and rest, and three minutes afterwards she'll ask him to take her to the theatre. She will scold the servant for wasting matches, on the plea of economy, and then will go out and buy herself a $60 cloak, when a $23 one would have done her just as well and suited her husband's pocket better. She'll jump on her hubby about chewing tobacco and she'll go around chewing gum. She's worse, if anything, than before she married.

Take her as a plain, every-day woman. She's worse yet. Women are responsible for a great many things that happen in this world. One is responsible for me. History tells us that when Nero set fire to Rome, and rendered such up-to-date selections as "Annie Rooney," and "After the Ball" on the violin, while the great flames made thousands of people homeless, a woman put him up to it. A woman invented face paint, which is one of the heaviest sins on her soul. A woman was the cause of man's downfall. A woman invented tights. I blush to say it, but it's true. A woman was instrumental in breaking up the French Revolution, as she stabbed one of its leaders, paying, however, her own life as the forfeit. A woman first advanced the idea of squeezing a number four foot into a number two shoe. A woman once destroyed one of the best armies of the world in a single night. A woman, as a whole, is a curious and fearful combination.

The woman on dress. She knows more about dress than anything and everything else combined. She can discourse by the hour on crepe de chine, garnitures, shot silk, guipure lace, velours Russe, Pekin velvet, etc., until you think she is a regular walking encyclopedia; but ask her how to regulate the stitch of her sewing-machine and she's stuck.

There is a woeful lack of training in the kitchen in the present day. If a husband and wife do not get along well together all she has to do is to make him some biscuits or mince pies and feed him on them. If he survives there will be no disagreement of the jury if they once see and try to bite them.

Can a woman talk? I'm ashamed of myself for asking this question. Even Echo answers Yes. She can talk to a wooden Indian so as to drive him to drink. I know this from my own experience. I knew a girl once who could talk French and English at the same time without getting them mixed. She was a deaf mute and talked English with her right hand and French with her left.

Combermere, April 13, (Special)—Mr. H. E. Hudson, trapper, hunter and lumberman, was injured by falling on a knot which entered his body from beneath and injured the bladder and kidneys. He says:—"I was confined to my bed for six weeks and was rarely able to work, feeling too weak since the injury over eight years ago. I have taken one box of Dodd's Kidney Pills and am perfectly cured and as able-bodied as ever before in my life. One box was worth one hundred dollars to me, if it is possible to estimate such a benefit in dollars."

The Dream of Life.

The penniless youth fell into a deep sleep.

"Ah," he dreamed, "if only I had but five thousand a year, what good might I not do! How happy I could be! What presents I could bestow; what delights I could bring to so many! The poor should know my humble but discerning charity; the needy should not appeal in vain. Ah, if I had but five thousand a year secured, what a life I could lead! How noble and generous I could show myself!"

The years rolled by. The penniless youth was now worth a hundred thousand dollars. Once more he fell into a deep sleep.

"Ah," he dreamed, "if only I could accumulate a million dollars, how happy I should be! How I could enjoy life! What power I should possess! What influence, what authority! How men would look up to me, and admire me, and seek my friendship. Truly, that would be happiness, greatness, joy!"

The millionaire dozed in his easy chair.

"Ah!" he dreamed, "could I but turn my millions into ten millions! Could I but add to my wealth! Could I but get a higher rate of interest; could I but invest it to greater advantage! Could I but change my millions into ten millions! Could I but do it, could I but do it, could I but do it."

The dream went on, and to the dreamer waking came no more.—Truth.

Mr. Chas. Smith, Dawn Mills, says:—"For several years I was troubled with pains in my limbs, which continued getting worse until I thought I would have to quit work. In fact the pains were so severe that I could not rest nights. I took one box of Miller's Compound Iron Pills and am perfectly cured." Although it is nearly a year since Mr. S. took the pills he has had no return of the pains, and feels splendid. Sold in Peterborough by Wm. Madill, Druggist.

Half Witted, Level Headed.

No one near Crab Orchard, Ky., knew how old or how young Zeke Morse was thirty years ago. Old men claimed that he looked just the same as dacted just the same when they were boys. Some old men have lied, even in Kentucky, but it would not be prudent to say so in their hearing down there.

Zeke Morse was half-witted, and unlike most men in that fix he confessed it, which probably should be taken as an argument against the charge. One day old Dr. Breckinridge of Centre College, Danville, and father of a well-known ex-Congressman, overtook Zeke Morse, and raising in his cab, said:

"Zeke, why do you want to live?"

"I hain't nevah sed I keerd much to live," replied Zeke, pushing back his patch of a felt hat and looking into the doctor's small, gray eyes.

"Zeke," said the doctor, "as you don't care about living, I'll give you $1000 if you'll let me kill you."

"See here, Doc," said Zeke, as he scratched his mop of red hair, "don't folks say I'm half-witted?"

"I believe they do, Zeke."

"Well, sah, ondah them sacumstances I'll let yo hah kill me, fo half de money."—New York World.

Where is it?

Miss Yaw sings one octave and two notes above high C. Five notes higher than Patti. Can you find the key on your piano which represents that note? Miss Yaw's concert takes place Tuesday evening in Bradburn's Opera House.

An Attractive Window.

Mr. A. Clegg's window to-day displays a very handsome bedroom suite with tables, chairs, etc., and a very pretty secretary, all in native birch. The panels and prominent parts are of selected wood, and the effect is very artistic and pleasing. The style of the furniture, especially the bedstead, is quite new.

A sad Death.

Little Bonnie Van Amburg, daughter of Prof. Van Amburg, of Picton, died last week in Detroit. The little girl was a very clever musician and appeared on several occasion in Peterborough with her parents and brothers and sisters in their popular concerts.

A Conversazione.

Can Heart Failure be Prevented?

Startling and brief the announcement, "Sudden Death Caused by Heart Failure." Such is the stereotyped announcement of coroners, juries, and reporters arousing the forebodings of those victims of indigestion and mal-nutrition, who so frequently disturb themselves upon the manifestation in palpitation or fluttering, of functional disturbance of the heart; symptoms which they are foolishly prone to accept as the signs of an incurable and speedily fatal malady. Maltine with Coca Wine is potent in restoring conditions that no longer render possible such alarmingly disturbing symptoms. Maltine with Coca Wine, through its remedial influence upon the nervous system, soothes into calmness the disorganized nerves. The heart, in response to increased nerve force, no longer plunges and beats as if determined to break.

Maltine with Coca Wine has long been recognized as the most pleasant and efficient remedy for all those functional derangements that find manifestation in lassitude, sleeplessness, despondency, and loss of appetite and digestive power. A nerve tonic, a body-builder, a nutrient and digestive agent of inestimable value. All druggists sell it.

REMEMBERING THEIR DEPARTING PASTOR.

Rev. A. and Mrs. MacWilliams Delightfully Surprised—The Gift of the Officers and Teachers of St. Andrew's Sunday School.

Last night the teachers and officers of St. Andrew's Sunday school to the number of about fifty, gave Rev. Mr. MacWilliams and Mrs. MacWilliams a delightful surprise at the residence of Rev. Wm. White, 42 Albert street, where they passed the last night of their stay in town. The friendly invaders came upon Mr. and Mrs. MacWilliams about nine o'clock, and thoroughly surprised them by presenting them with a handsomely framed composite photographic group picture, including a splendid view of St. Andrew's church, closing the vista of Brock street on the west, and portraits of the officers and teachers of the Sunday school. The picture, which is artistically arranged and executed, is four by five feet in size, and reflects great credit upon the skill of Mr. P. H. Green, photographer. Mr. G. W. Mulligan, St. Andrew's choir-master, in a few well-chosen words of reference to the love that existed between pastor and people, and of regret at the severance of such pleasant relations as had existed for five years, assisted by Mr. White and Mr. Gladman, made the presentation. Mr. MacWilliams, who was deeply moved by this evidence of the love and esteem of his late co-workers, said that his association in Sunday school work with so faithful a band of assistants, had been one of the pleasantest features of his pastorate. He hoped that his successor in the pastorate of St. Andrew's would receive the same hearty and willing support he had enjoyed at the hands of the officers and teachers of St. Andrew's Sunday school. After refreshments had been served a delightful evening was concluded by the singing of "Auld Lang Syne" and the final good by.

Mr. and Mrs. McWilliams left this morning by the 8.30 G. T. R. express for Hamilton, where the ceremony of induction into the pastorate of the Wentworth street Presbyterian church at 8 o'clock this evening takes place.

CHILDREN'S AID SOCIETY NOTES.

Children for Adoption—Action to Enforce the Cause of Children.

Persons desiring eligible children for adoption will be interested in knowing that the Children's Aid Society has now six healthy children available for adoption. Three of the children—two girls and a boy, are under three years of age, the others—boys, are under ten years of age. All are fine healthy children.

This morning an information was laid by the Society against a man for refusal to support—practical abandonment of his children. It is the determination to not permit any person to wrest a statute passed in the public interest for the protection of children from its true meaning, and make unlawful use of it, by taking advantage of the Society's willingness to care for dependent children. So long as parents are able, morally and financially, to take care of them they will be compelled, so far as the Society is concerned, to do so.

Boil Your Water.

At this season of the year when the surface water is running off, it is very important to be careful of the quality of water used for drinking purposes. We are informed by physicians that typhoid fever is likely to result from drinking the bad water. It would be well to boil all drinking water before use until the snow and ice are all gone and the land drained of water. Boil your drinking water.

The Three Graces.

Rosy cheeks, laughing eyes and teeth of pearly whiteness. Bright smiles with a background of teeth not resplendant of whiteness and purity—impossible. Beauty may be found hidden in a bottle of foaming Ivorine, the newest, best and most fragrant preparation for the teeth. Ivorine is so nice to use—fragrant, refreshing. It purifies the breath, which it renders sweet, and to the teeth it imparts both whiteness and brilliancy.

An Easter Entertainment.

The members of St. Luke's Young Ladies' Guild will give their annual Easter entertainment on Thursday evening, April 16th, in the Town Hall, Ashburnham. The programme will consist of a Mother Goose reception and drill by a number of children; the fairy drama, "Beauty and the Beast," in six acts; the dolls' drill and a farce entitled "Two Heads are Better Than One." These entertainments which the members of the Guild give annually are always looked forward to with pleasure. 5eod

A Remarkable Voice.

Munsey's Magazine of November, 1894, says of Yaw:—"Ellen Beach Yaw is something more than a fine singer, her voice is a phenomenal one in the fullest sense of that much abused word. It extends over nearly four octaves, from G below to E in the altissimo. Of New York, she has studied abroad, and her present home is in California. Aside from its extraordinary compass, Miss Yaw's voice has received high praise for its purity and sweetness of tone. When she sings the 'Mad Scene' from 'Hamlet' she is described as simply feeling aloud." Miss Yaw appears at the opera house here on Tuesday evening next, April 21st. This is undoubtedly the musical event of several seasons.

A Flying Britisher.

Britain now has the fastest vessel which floats in Her Majesty's ship Desperate. She is 210 feet over all, with a beam of 19 feet 6 inches, and a depth of 13 feet 6 inches. Her engines have 5,600 horse power, or one-sixth the horse power of the great ocean steamer Lucania, although that vessel would make fifty of the Desperate. Hitherto no fuel limitations have been imposed upon vessels in the very high speed class. The Desperate is the first torpedo destroyer which has been bound to give a certain speed upon a certain fixed consumption of coal. The contract in her case, it is believed, provides that the Desperate must at full speed consume two and a half pounds of coal per horse power per hour. With this consumption of coal the Desperate in six runs, off what is called the Maplin mile, averaged 30.46 knots, or thirty-five miles an hour, a higher speed than is attained by express trains in Canada, and at a rate which would bring the Desperate across the Atlantic in a little more than four days.

To-day Mr. H. A. Collins, Supreme Treasurer, and C. C. Whale, High Court Inspector of the Independent Order of Foresters are in town. Accompanied by Mr. W. H. Meldrum and Mr. W. H. Brisbin they went to Keene this afternoon to attend an entertainment under the auspices of the local I. O. F. A part of the programme will consist of the presentation of badges to the local court as recognition of the greatest increase in membership made by this court.

THE WHEEL.

The bicycle craze has struck Bobcaygeon in earnest. Already half-a-dozen of the villagers have machines, and the number of riders will be more than doubled in a few weeks.

Servia is waking up and several modern cycling tracks are on the tapis. As King Alexander is a wheelman, the affair does not lack the sanction of fashion.

It is proposed to hold a mixed match between Jaap Eden and J. S. Johnson in two heats, the first to be ridden on wheels and the second on skates.

It may yet be possible to bring Walter Sanger and W. W. Hamilton together for a race. Attempts have been made again this week to that end.

The Quill Club Wheelman of America will attempt to make a match between "Eddie" Bald and "Walter" Sanger. Advices from the two men are expected this week.

Tom Cooper is training at Louisville.

The nearest approach to perpetual motion that will ever be discovered is the wheel of a young racing man in training.

Constant Huret, the twenty-four hour champion, has challenged Frank Shoreland, the English pride, for a twenty-four hour race.

A Frenchman has equipped his wheel for hill climbing purposes with a pair of direct-acting cranks on the front wheel and a second saddle nearer the handle-bars.

The Salvation Army at Seattle, Wash., is organizing a bicycle corps and will fight the devil awheel.

Walter Sanger is reported in excellent condition and likely to give the professional racing men some lively tussles during the coming season.

Some hotel managers at the summer places announce that special arrangements have been made to care for wheels. A room, suitably equipped, will be devoted to the storage of bicycles, and a man will be specially detailed to see that they are not stolen. The next thing for some hotel proprietor, more enterprising than his fellows, to advertise is that a skilled repairer will be engaged for the season to look after the welfare of the bicycles owned by the guests. Then a man can take his wheel away with him, feeling that he will not be obliged to express it back to the city the first time something gets out of order, and receive it at the lapse of a week in worse order than it was when it left, due mostly to rough handling in transit.

The business of horseshoeing has not fallen off so greatly since the advent of the bicycle as some people would have folks imagine. A prominent farrier said recently: "It is not so much the bicycle as the use of electricity that has turned many of our class of workmen into the streets. The street railroads have abandoned horses, and that did have some effect in increasing the number of idle smiths. So far as I can see, just as many horses as ever are used on vans and trucks, and my experience is, also, that not many people have abandoned their horses for pleasure purposes. That is to say, while a great many elderly people are riding bicycles, they mostly are of that class that never possessed the means to buy and keep a horse. To them the bicycle is truly the 'poor man's horse.' There is another feature to be considered, and that is the fact that many smiths who claim to have lost employment by the perfection of the bicycle can, by a little exertion on their part, acquire sufficient skill to become good repairers of wheels. It's an ill wind that blows everybody bad."

If you are going to do road riding this year, and a great deal of it, the chances are you will become a disciple of the barrel hub school. This season will fully determine its efficacy.

Don't try the hazardous experiment of using your foot for a break unless you have complete confidence in your ability as a rider. The season is young, and the crop of twisted ankles already is large.

Louisville wheelmen will have to fight a tax ordinance, now that the "hay-seed" Legislature has adjourned without passing the Coleman bill, which required each wheelmen to dismount when approaching a team. One of the local councilmen believes that too many of the wheelmen do not pay any taxes, and therefore he will introduce an ordinance taxing each wheel $1. Unless there has been a great change in the last few weeks, the ordinance will not be able to pass, but it will have one effect—that of making them join in some organization for self-protection.

An extreme wide soled shoe is a distinct disadvantage in pedalling. A sole too narrow affords the leather of the upper no protection, and is apt to be cut. Be conservative, therefore, about your footwear.

A wheel painted in dark olive green, with copper trimmings, is a distinct novelty and looks very swagger on dress parade. There really are some people who have what they call a "hack about" wheel and also a best whel. The former is for common riding and the latter for show in the parks.

Corduroy trousers seem abhorrent to masculine taster. Nevertheless, there is no material that makes better bicycle knickerbockers than corduroy. It is serviceable and holds its colour splendidly.

The things that people see are inside of them and not outside. No two people see the same thing exactly alike. One woman may look out at a beautiful landscape and see all the beauty and restfulness and grandness that there is in it. Another one will look out on the same scene and see nothing. The man who is perfectly well and vigorous enjoys life to the full. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery makes people well. There isn't anything miraculous about it—it is the most natural thing in the world. It simply puts the digestive organs, the stomach, the liver, the bowels, in perfect order, and thereby makes the blood pure and rich. All diseases live and thrive on impure blood. Keep a stream of pure, rich, rich blood flowing into a diseased spot, and the disease will not stay. A man lives on rich pure blood, and disease dies on it.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery makes pure, rich blood. Send 21 cents in one cent stamps to World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y., and receive Dr. Pierce's 1008 page "Common Sense Medical Adviser," profusely illustrated.

A RESOLUTION AFFECTING REV. MR. MACWILLIAMS.

The Ministerial Association Regrets his Departure to Hamilton.

At a meeting of the Ministerial Association held at the residence of Dr. Torrance on Monday last, the following resolution, moved by Rev. J. J. Rae, of the Charlotte street Methodist church, seconded by Rev. J. E. Trotter, of the Murray street Baptist church, was adopted by a standing vote of the Association:

"The Ministerial Association of Peterborough on the occasion of the departure of Rev. A. MacWilliams to Hamilton, cannot allow him to sever his connection with them without expressing their high esteem for him, and their great regret at his removal from the town. Ever since the organization of the Association Mr. MacWilliams has been one of its most active members, so that his removal will leave a blank which will not be easily filled. The Association would express their heartiest wishes for his success in his new field of labour, and their deep sympathy with St. Andrew's congregation in the loss of so estimable a pastor."

The Fall Wheat.

A member of the Globe staff, whose duties demand extensive travel throughout western Ontario, reports the condition of the fall wheat as not being wholly satisfactory. When first the snow and ice disappeared the plant looked healthy, but the subsequent frost and sunshine had a most destructive effect. In some counties the outlook is good, but on flat lying fields and where late sowing took place fully one-third is destroyed.

Nervous Prostration

It is now a well established fact in medical science that nervousness is due to impure blood. Therefore the true way to cure nervousness is by purifying and enriching the blood. The great blood purifier is Hood's Sarsaparilla. Read this letter:

"For the last two years I have been a great sufferer with nervous prostration and palpitation of the heart. I was weak in my limbs and had smothered sensations. At last my physician advised me to try Hood's Sarsaparilla which I did, and I am happy to say that I am now strong and well. I am still using Hood's Sarsaparilla and would not be without it. I recommend it to all who are suffering with nervous prostration and palpitation of the heart." MRS. DALTON, 58 Alice St., Toronto, Ontario. Get Hood's, because

Hood's Sarsaparilla Is the Only True Blood Purifier

—Ex-Councillor Cobb is putting the Court House Park into shape again, and has a number of men busy cleaning up.

—The ice still holds in the rink. A hockey match would be a novelty at this season of the year, but it is not outside the possibilities.

—Lovely ladies, clad in bright spring gowns and vernal hats of shapeless shapes, and brightest hue, make our dreary streets resplendant with youth and beauty, under the most heart-breaking conditions.

—Don't forget that the Marks Bros'. Emma Wells Co. appear at the Opera House to-night. This is a good company and it has given satisfaction in every place where they have appeared. Prices 10, 20 and 30c.

—Haskell's Gold Dollar Barber Shop has been supplied with a spanking new white awning, manufactured by J. J. Turner & Sons. This additional comfort to Haskell's patrons will be appreciated fully as well as the new Auer light recently put in by Mr. Adam Hall.

—To-night in the S. A. barracks a number of recruits are to be sworn in as regular soldiers. This is a very impressive ceremony and needs to be seen to be appreciated. All are invited to attend, and to come expecting a good time and you will not be disappointed.

Brantford rejoices in the gilt edge brand of justice. At the opening of the assizes there the other day, after the judge had taken the bench, Sheriff Watt in full regalia of cocked hat and sword, proclaimed the opening of the court. Brantford's sheriff may be a model of propriety, but he comes into court, ready, if occasion requires, for a "quiet little game of draw".

—The other night as a couple of well-known St. Thomas curlers were returning from the rink, they met a couple of women at the end of the lane leading to Metcalfe street. One of the women got scared and swooned, and fell into one of the curlers' arms. On coming to she stated that she had been to a revival meeting, where the minister had been talking of the devil, and when she saw one of the curlers in the dark she thought that it was "Old Nick."

The Weather.

Those who fancy that spring has come in all its plenitude of brightness and warmth, are likely to be disillusionized. The probs. give us promise of rain followed by a drop in temperature, and accidents are liable to happen to the most promising vernal weather. A gentleman informed THE EXAMINER to-day, as the twain were admiring the vernal and verdant growth of grass on a lawn, that thirty-nine years ago, come April 20th, we had a fall of snow coming from the north, that lasted during the day, and at five o'clock, when the fall ceased, there was a foot of snow on the ground. Counting what had thawed during the day by contact with the warm earth, at least eighteen inches of snow fell on the 20th of April, 1857. Therefore none should be too precipitate in moving stoves and doffing winter under clothing. There's a chance for the lower notes of the thermometer to be heard yet.

Zephyr, Ont., Aug. 12, 1895.

Dear Sirs,—It gives me much pleasure to testify to the fact that Scott's Sarsaparilla has caused a most remarkable change in my condition. I was so much run down I had to give up work, and felt as if life was not worth living. Mr. Dafoe, our local merchant, induced me to try Scott's Sarsaparilla. I did so and took four bottles. I am now feeling as I did years ago. I want to say for the benefit of those suffering from indigestion and broken down health, don't despair until you have given Scott's Sarsaparilla a trial.

Dear Sirs,—In reply to your enquiry concerning the effect of your Scott's Sarsaparilla on heart disease I may frankly say it has been most beneficial to me. For a long time past I have frequently been severely ill and sometimes thought I was near death. Smothering spells and palpitation of the heart laid me up for days at a time. I am now at this date of writing as well as ever I was in my life, and have not had a return of heart trouble since taking the first dose of Scott's Sarsaparilla. Yours sincerely,

JOE CHAMBERLAIN'S SCHEME

Discussed by Canadian Senators on a Resolution Brought in by Senator Boulton The Premier's View.

Ottawa, April 14.—(Special.)—The Senate spent most of this afternoon debating a motion proposed by Senator Boulton "that it would result in a benefit to the material and commercial interests of Canada if Canada were to adopt the offer indicated by the Hon. Joseph Chamberlain, Colonial Secretary, for an imperial customs union, based on a free trade zollverein."

Senator Boulton spoke for several hours in support of his motion, drawing an alluring picture of what would be the result if all the British colonies would adopt the idea embraced in his resolution.

Sir Mackenzie Bowell thought, with the Hon. Joseph Chamberlain, that the time had not yet come when it was advisable or possible to adopt the idea of a zollverein such as existed between the German States. The different States of Germany, he said, were contiguous to one another, and resembled much the position which the different States of the American Union occupied towards one another. The colonies of the British Empire, on the other hand, were scattered over the face of the globe, and existing conditions in each made the adoption of such an idea almost impossible, and even if the Mother Country favored the idea, it was not likely that the colonies would. He regarded Mr. Chamberlain's utterances more in the night of a happy augury of what was to come.

It was evident to him that a zollverein without preferential protection within itself would not meet with favor in any of the colonies, as any benefit which would accrue from such an arrangement would be open to the world, so far as the markets of the Mother Country were concerned. But if a preferential arrangement could be arrived at between Great Britain and her colonies, whereby mutual advantages could be exchanged, he, as a loyal British subject, would gladly welcome it. He hoped that he would live to see the day when the growing and intelligent interest taken by Imperial statesmen in colonial affairs would result in some preferential arrangement which would tend to bring into closer touch the many and important colonies with each other and with the Motherland.

The debate was continued by Senators McLellan, Macdonald (Victoria), Ferguson, Scott and Dever, after which Senator Boulton withdrew his motion.

EVA BOOTH THE CHOICE.

Appointed to the Sole Canadian Salvation Army Command.

Toronto, April 15.—Commissioner Eva Booth, a sister of Ballington Booth, and who was recently sent out from England to the United States by Gen. Booth on a mission of peace, has been officially appointed commandant of the Salvation Army in Canada.

This news was received by Commandant Herbert Booth yesterday. No time has been fixed for the arrival of Miss Booth in Toronto. Her brother relinquishes his command here at the end of May.

Before she was 15 years of age Eva Booth was selling War Crys in the streets of London, and since that time she has filled every grade and rank in the Army from cadet to commissioner.

Miss Booth settled down in the Training Home in London and helped her sister to turn out large numbers of women warriors from that institution. Her pupils made fine reputations for themselves and did her great credit.

When she was considerably less than 20, the famous Pall Mall Gazette revelations convulsed London, and the Salvation Army took a prominent part in the trouble. The greatest trouble was connected with an Army building in the very heart of London's slums. Eva Booth was sent there to restore peace. Day after day she and her little band of women marched out as a target for sticks and stones, and day after day they marched back very much bruised, but still full of cheerful enthusiasm.

Recently Miss Booth has been in command of the London province, which contains 21,000 soldiers and 350 field officers.

Eva Booth is 5 feet 2 inches tall and she weighs about 100 pounds. Her chief beauty lies in her eyes and hair, which are a soft shade of brown. The hair is very curly and the eyes are large and appealing. She has a high forehead and a large nose. The family resemblance is very strong.

Miss Booth's hands are long and thin, with nervous, slender fingers that are never still.

With one or two rather startling exceptions her dress is the uniform with which all are familiar. She wears a plain navy blue skirt, which flaps around her slender figure. She wears a little blue jacket, with plain, tight sleeves and a rolling collar. But—under that jacket she wears the very reddest jersey a woman ever wore, and the front of that jersey is embellished with pictures and texts embroidered in white silk. The chief work of art is the seal of the Army above the words "Blood and Fire." To this, which every woman warrior wears, Miss Booth has added a sentiment of her own in the form of the words "Blood Washed"—very heavily and elaborately done in white silk. She says she selected that motto when she was a child, and that she has always worn it. The poke bonnet she wears is heavily satirred with navy blue silk and the wide ribbon strings tie at the left ear in a bow that is almost coquettish.

In speech Miss Booth is quiet and gentle. In important matters she takes her stand in a gentle but absolutely immovable fashion. It would not be easy to move her from a stand which she thought was right.

The late Mrs. Gen. Booth had ideas of her own on the subject of education, and few of her children were sent to school. They had masters and teachers at home, but they went into the work of the Army at a very early age, and the world has been their university. In Commissioner Eva Booth's case it has been a very good one, and if a little of the polish of courts may be lacking it is only natural.

ZLAMEL SAT DOWN TO DIE.

He Murdered Teresa Kamora and Met Death as a Stupid Man Would.

Dannemora, N.Y., April 14.—The 8th electrocution took place in the death chamber at Clinton prison this morning, when at 11.43 a.m., Josef Zlamel, the murderer of Teresa Kamora, met death in the electric chair. Zlamel was accompanied to the chair by the village priest and his lips moved in prayer up to the time the current of 1840 volts was turned. He was cool and composed and met death in a manner that would indicate stupidity, rather than bravery. The electrocution was successful in every particular.

TORTURES OF RHEUMATISM.

The pains of rheumatism are removed and the disease driven from the system by the use of Burdock Blood Bitters, the conqueror of thousands of the severest cases.

Mrs. J. M. Monkman, of Arkwright, Ont., says:—I took inflammatory rheumatism in February, 1894, and doctored for it some weeks, but found I was getting worse. All my joints were swollen very much and I was not able to leave my bed and could get neither sleep or rest. Hearing from a neighbour that she got your Burdock Blood Bitters for her daughter, who had the same disease and it cured her, I purchased a bottle and, after taking about one half of it I found myself recovering and after continuing it for some time I recovered but when the cold weather set in I found it returning again. So I commenced to take the B. B. B. again, when I found, after taking it about a week, that all pain and swelling of the joints had disappeared and I consider that I am entirely cured.

OUR MAIL.

B.B.B. CURES

Our mail brings us every day dozens of letters about Burdock Blood Bitters. Some from merchants who want to buy it, some from people who want to know about it, and more from people who do know about it because they have tried it and been cured. One of them was from Mr. J. Gillan, B.A., 39 Gould Street, Toronto. Read how he writes:

GENTLEMEN,—During the winter of 1892 my blood became impure on account of the hearty food I ate in the cold weather. Ambition, energy and success forsook me, and all my efforts were in vain. My skin became yellow, my bowels became inactive, my liver was lumpy and hard, my eyes became inflamed, my appetite was gone, and the days and nights passed in unhappiness and restlessness

For some months I tried doctors' and patent medicines of every description, but received no benefit. Being advised by a friend to try B.B.B., I am glad to have the opportunity of testifying to the marvellous result. After using three bottles I felt much better, and when the fifth bottle was finished I enjoyed health in the greatest degree, and have done so from that day up to date. Therefore I have much pleasure in recommending B. B.B. to all poor suffering humanity who suffer from impure blood, which is the beginning and seat of all diseases.

THE EYES OF THE WORLD

Are Fixed Upon South American Nervine.

Beyond Doubt the Greatest Medical Discovery of the Age.

WHEN EVERY OTHER HELPER HAS FAILED IT CURES

A Discovery, Based on Scientific Principles, that Renders Failure Impossible.

In the matter of good health temporizing measures, while possibly successful for the moment, can never be lasting. Those in poor health soon know whether the remedy they are using is simply a passing incident in their experience, bracing them up for the day, or something that is getting at the seat of the disease and is surely and permanently restoring.

The eyes of the world are literally fixed on South American Nervine. They are not viewing it as a nine-days' wonder, but critical and experienced men have been studying this medicine for years, with the one result—they have found that its claim of perfect curative qualities cannot be gainsaid.

The great discoverer of this medicine was possessed of the knowledge that the seat of all disease is the nerve centres, situated at the base of the brain. In this belief he had the best scientists and medical men of the world occupying exactly the same premises. Indeed, the ordinary layman recognized this principle long ago. Everyone knows that let disease or injury affect this part of the human system and death is almost certain. Injure the spinal cord, which is the medium of these nerve centres, and paralysis is sure to follow.

Here is the first principle. The trouble with medical treatment usually, and with nearly all medicines, is that they aim simply to treat the organ that may be diseased. South American Nervine passes by the organs, and immediately applies its curative powers to the nerve centres from which the organs of the body receive their supply of nerve fluid. The nerve centres healed, and of necessity the organ which has shown the outward evidence only of derangement is healed. Indigestion, nervousness, impoverished blood, liver complaint, all owe their origin to a derangement of the nerve centres. Thousands bear testimony that they have been cured of these troubles, even when they have become so desperate as to baffle the skill of the most eminent physicians, because South American Nervine has gone to headquarters and cured there.

The eyes of the world have not been disappointed in the inquiry into the success of South American Nervine. People marvel, it is true, at its wonderful medical qualities, but they know beyond all question that it does everything that is claimed for it. It stands alone as the one great certain curing remedy of the nineteenth century. Why should anyone suffer distress and sickness while this remedy is practically at their hands?

"And age is a time of peace
So it be free from pain."

Old Age
AND ITS Infirmities.

The descent of the hill of life should be gradual and easy. The decline of life should be free from care and sickness and pain. So it would be in the great majority of cases were the prime of life lived according to Nature's rules. But in the struggle for wealth and fame, swimming against the strong tide of competition, health is neglected. We live too fast, work too hard, drink too much, sleep too little, keep our nerves on the jump all the time.

Then the Kidneys give out. They can't stand the terrible strain to which they are being subjected.

As a result the blood is not properly filtered. It passes through the system unpurified, and carries disease to every organ of the body.

That terrible affliction of old age, Rheumatism, seizes on the joints and makes life unendurable with suffering.

Muscular weakness, tiredness, depression, irregular heart action, and shortness of breath follow in its train.

Perhaps there is suppression of urine, frequently it scalds, and often there are brick red deposits in it.

The remaining years of life instead of being peaceful, happy and free from pain, are one continuous round of suffering.

Is there no help or hope this side the grave?

A thousand times YES.

Doan's Kidney Pills are the great remedy for all those ailments that arise through diseased or disordered kidneys.

They're the old people's friend. They relieve their sufferings, cure their diseases, and infuse new health and hope and happiness into their life.

But always see that you get Doan's; other pills are almost sure to disappoint. For sale by effect that that portfolio had been offered by Dr. Weldon.

THROWN UP AT LAST.

The Warder article went on to say how proud the hon. member was "to follow such men as Sir Charles Tupper, the Hon. George E. Foster, the Hon. John Haggart, the Hon. Dr. Montague, the Hon. J. F. Wood, the Hon. A. R. Dickey, etc." "Who are the et-ceteras?" asked the ex-controller, looking squarely around at Mr. Ouimet.

The Opposition had another laugh when Mr. Wallace read further from Mr. Hughes' paper that "the Cabinet Ministers named were as opposed to Separate schools as any were in Canada, but like the sheriff and the condemned man, they are executing the judgment of the highest court in the Empire."

After observations from Messrs. Semple and Flint the chairman put the question, and Mr. Stubbs' motion for the committee to rise was declared lost.

On Clause 15, Sir Chas. Tupper rose and moved that the committee rise and report progress. In doing so he expressed his very great regret that in the face of the continued obstruction to this measure which the Government was sincerely anxious to pass, it seemed to be absolutely necessary at this advanced period of the session that the few days still remaining should be utilized to provide for the absolute necessities of the country. It would be extremely unfortunate if the necessary supplies for carrying on the public business were not voted and therefore to-morrow the House would go into committee of supply on the estimates. He deeply regretted that owing to the continued and persistent obstruction on the Remedial Bill greater progress had not been made. Very important features of the measure had received the sanction of the committee. The bill itself had received the sanction of a very satisfactory majority of the House and the obstruction practised had been condemned by an overwhelming majority of the House. If it were not possible to proceed with the measure further this session—and he did not say they would not be able—and the matter would be left open, it would be a matter of great regret. There were some important questions on which he regretted the opinion of Parliament had not been taken. He was sorry, for instance, that Mr. Dupont's amendment to Clause 74, providing for the grant to Catholic schools in the event of the Provincial authorities refusing to aid them, had not been reached. Under all the circumstances he could only move that the committee rise.

Mr. Laurier said, as to the regrets of Sir Charles that Mr. Dupont's amendment had not been presented to the committee, two ministers, Messrs. Dickey and Ouimet, pronounced against the constitutionality of this amendment.

Mr. Dickey—The honorable gentleman is mistaken as regards myself.

Mr. Laurier—The honorable gentleman at least expressed grave doubts as to the constitutionality of the proposal that the Dominion should supply the financial assistance referred to.

Mr. Dickey—Not so. My observation had reference to our power to compel Manitoba to make this provision.

Mr. Laurier replied that it was one and the same thing. "And now," he said, "the Government withdraws this bill."

Sir Charles Tupper—No, no, only to proceed now with the supplies for the necessary service of the country. The moment that has been obtained we can go on with this bill.

Mr. Laurier—Well, I proceed to protest against the charge of obstruction.

Sir Charles Tupper—You have just listened to nine hours of it. (Cheers.)

Mr. Laurier went on to say that the tactics of the Government were the cause of the discussion and he hoped Sir Charles had learned that he could not force this or any other measure upon this House, by such means. Never had the Parliament of Great Britain witnessed such scenes. "Anyway," continued Mr. Laurier, "whose fault is it that the question was not settled five years ago? Whose fault that a drastic order was sent out that drove Manitoba into opposition? Whose fault that the bill was not introduced last session, when Mr. Angers, the only sincere man in the Cabinet, left it? Whose fault that the Cabinet dissentions at the early part of this year prevented its introduction at the early and not at the dying stages of this session. It was surely the gentlemen on the Government benches. And as to the charge of obstruction, he would leave it to the judgment of the intelligent electors of the country.

Mr. LaRiviere protested in the name of the Manitoba minority against the action of those who had prevented this bill becoming law. To his Quebec Liberal friends he would say that not only had the bill been accepted by the minority but by the whole Roman Catholic hierarchy of Canada as well.

Mr. Dupont made an earnest appeal for justice to the minority.

Mr. McCarthy said he did not deny to French Canadians their just rights, neither did he admit that they were entitled to more than any other class of people in court. He had to offer his congratulations to Sir Charles Tupper. The House was evidently celebrating the obsequies of this bill.

Mr. Ives—And of those who oppose it.

Mr. McCarthy, continuing, said he ventured to say they were listening to this bill for the last time either in this Parliament or the next. There was no more promise of remedial legislation in the next Parliament. He had realized that this country would not interfere with Manitoba in its educational affairs and he (Mr. McCarthy) was glad to feel that they had heard the last of remedial legislation. Personally, he claimed to be as good a Conservative as any member on the Treasury benches and he was satisfied more than half the Conservatives in the country were opposed to this measure. Sir Charles Tupper had read Messrs. McNeill and Sproule out of the Conservative party, but why had he not done the same with Messrs. Wallace and Weldon? Why not? Because he realized he had gone too far in his attempts to dragoon a free Parliament. (Liberal cheers.)

Mr. Ouimet emphatically denied that he had said Parliament had no constitutional right to provide financial aid to the Separate schools of Manitoba. On the contrary, he believed Parliament had full power to legislate in that direction. He dissented from Mr. McCarthy's statement that the majority of the Conservative party were opposed to this measure. The Conservative party had for their watchword "Respect for the Constitution," and at the coming elections this question would be in the forefront of the Conservative policy.

Mr. Davin said he was expressing the sentiments of the Northwest when he said if remedial legislation was to be on the banner of the Conservative party at the coming elections he would not be fighting under it. The grievance of the minority was merely a sentimental one with no foundation in actuality.

After observations from Mr. Martin, Mr. Macdowall protested against Mr. Davin's assumption to speak for the entire territories. His constituency, Saskatchewan, certainly believed in the maintenance of the constitutional compacts.

Mr. Craig regretted to hear Mr. Ouimet's declaration. He was a Conservative, but he dissented from the statement that this question was to be the chief plank of the Conservative platform. He was a firm believer in the trade policy of Government, and if Mr. McCarthy was a good Conservative, why should he put up a candidate in East Durham against him, seeing that they were agreed on the chool question? Evidently Mr. McCarthy was not in harmony with the Conservative party on the school question.

Messrs. Wallace, Sproule, McNeill and Maclean protested against the Remedial Bill being made the chief Conservative plank at the coming elections.

The discussion was continued by Messrs. Forter, Lister, Haslam and McGillivray.

The motion was adopted, the committee rose and the House adjourned at 2.30 a.m.

PROFESSOR STARR'S TRIP.

His Researches Among the Little People and Mountain Idiots of Mexico and Guatemala.

Chicago, April 15.—Frederick A Starr, professor of anthropology in the University of Chicago, returned yesterday from a three months' trip through unexplored portions of Guatemala and Mexico. His trip was to visit all the ruins in the two countries, which he had heard so highly praised, and to find a pigmy tribe supposed to live about some of the ruins.

Prof. Starr found specimens of four eyed fish in Tehuantepec. Two of the eyes are used while the fish is above water, and two when it is swimming.

"A curious fact that I learned in Tehuantepec," said the professor, "was that many of the Zapotecs have the third toe short. These people are called by the Indians maquilles."

Concerning the pigmies and whether the small people of the country might not be descended from the mountain idiots, Prof. Starr said:

"I found lots of idiots in the country, regular colonies of them, but in no case was there any connection between them and the little people. Crotins, as the idiots are called, are descendants of goitrous people. Goitre is a disease caused by the water the people drink, and the descendants of these goitrous people are usually deaf, dumb and idiotic.

"The small people are not diseased, and retain all their faculties. There are so many of them that it is impossible to call them freaks, but I couldn't find a pigmy tribe from which they might be descendants, and I don't believe there is such a tribe."

A PETITION FOR BRENNAN.

Some People Desire a Commutation of His Death Sentence.

Barrie, April 15.—A petition praying for commutation of the sentence of Michael Brennan, the murderer of J. A. Strathy, has been drawn up and it is expected that it will be largely signed, mainly out of sympathy for the prisoner's relatives. To his spiritual adviser, Brennan has expressed himself as resigned to his fate, and he is prepared to forgive everyone against whom he has cherished hard feelings.

In company with the Very Rev. Dean Egan, Mrs. Brennan visited her husband on Tuesday. She told him how mistaken he was in his ideas regarding her actions, and a thorough reconciliation was effected. None are allowed to see the prisoner excepting his relatives, Dean Egan and medical men.

We Do Not Advertise Our Flour

By telling the public that our 2nd grade is equal to the best Flour made by any other mill. "Such statements are somewhat presumptuous."

We do say, however, that our leading brand, "CALLA LILY," is Equal to Any Other leading brand in the market, and our 2nd grade, "VICTORY," is Equal to Any Other 2nd grade made by any other mills. If the public finds our Flour better than the brands from other mills—that's all right—but WE never "run-down" goods manufactured by our competitors.

LAURIER'S EULOGY

PROHIBITION OF ART LOTTERIES

The "Manufacture" of Immoral Literature Will Not be Permitted in Canada—To Prevent Continuous Racing Meetings—The Soulanges Canal Contract.

Ottawa, April 16.—(Special)—By a strange coincidence a glint of sunshine shot over the beautiful wreath lying on the desk of the late Col. Denison in the Commons chamber when the leader of the House rose to say a few words with reference to the deceased. The speeches delivered by Sir Charles Tupper, Mr. Laurier, Mr. Cockburn and Mr. Coatsworth were in good taste, all speakers bearing tribute to the many excellent qualities of the late member for West Toronto.

Sir Charles Tupper said the mournful duty developed upon him of calling the attention of the House to the loss which the country had sustained by the death of Col. Denison. He referred to the splendid record of the service for Canada of the Denison family, since the greatgrandfather of deceased took up his residence in this country as one of the pioneers of Ontario over 100 years ago. Sir Charles then spoke of the excellent military service of deceased, both in the Red River expedition and on the Nile. As commandant of the Bisley team he (Sir Charles) knew from experience that no gentleman entrusted with the discharge of that important duty had conducted himself in a more satisfactory and admirable manner than had Col. Denison. Deceased, as a member of Parliament, had the respect and confidence of the gentlemen on both sides of the House, and he was sure that every member would join with him in deploring his untimely death. (Hear, hear.)

Mr. Laurier said Col. Denison did his duty as a soldier whether in the forest and prairies of the Canadian Northwest or in the classical land of the Pharaohs. As a member of the House, while he had opponents he had no enemies. He was a man of few words but of strong convictions. He was thorough and sincere and whatever he said carried weight. The demise of such a man was always to be mourned and it was a satisfaction to those engaged in contests which were sometimes very bitter to know that when they met men of a character like Col. Denison they could always rely on that whatever they did or said was from the bottom of their hearts and their consciences. In this way Col. Denison would be an example to all those who had the privilege of being associated with him in his Parliamentary career. Fitting allusion was made to the deceased by his two colleagues—Messrs. Cockburn and Coatsworth.

The Minister of Justice introduced a bill making important changes in the criminal code. Sections 107-9, respecting the sale of obscene books, is amended by including "manufacture" as well as sale, it being found that a considerable traffic was springing up in the printing of these books which needs treatment. The law is also made more explicit and stringent in regard to the transmission of obscene and immoral books through the post. Section 1083 regarding seduction by employers is repealed and re-enacted to include women and girls employed in shops and stores as well as in factories.

The sections regulating betting on race tracks are amended to remove an anomaly in the present law, which recognizes betting on bona fide race tracks during the progress of a race meeting, but makes illegal the booth in which the bets are made.

Another amendment will prevent continuous racing in Canada which, as in the case of the Windsor meeting, lasting throughout the whole season, has degenerated into a mere gambling concern. To effect this reform without interfering with legitimate horse racing, race meetings are to be confined to two of ten days each with an interval of 40 days. This practically gives a ten day meeting in the spring and fall.

The section dealing with the distribution of works of art by lottery is also amended by the bill. When the bill was previously before the House a subsection was inserted in the section prohibiting lotteries to meet a case of a legitimate art enterprise, that point having been strongly pressed upon the attention of the members. It was put in against the judgment of a great may members who thought it was liable to abuse. That anticipation had been realized, the Minister said, the exception had been abused. After trying the best he could to make some provision that would allow legitimate practices of the kind mentioned, without running the risk of abuse, he found it was impossible to recommend a continuance of the exception, and he therefore proposed the repeal of the subsection.

An amendment is made to the 520th section, regarding combinations in restraint of trade, to render it clear that its provisions do not interfere with trade and labor unions.

Mr. Dickey also introduced a bill to amend the Penitentiary Act, the object of which is to enable the governor in council to alter the territorial areas for which penitentiaries are established. The bill also gives power to the Government to transfer penitentiary officers from one penitentiary to another.

Replying to Dr. Landerkin, Mr. Dickey said Col. Powell, adjutant general, who was superannuated on Jan. 1, did not consent to his superannuation. Col. Aylmer had been recommended to the Minister for the vacant office.

Mr. Dickey told Dr. Landerkin the Government intended to appeal to the Judicial Committee from the Supreme Court judgment awarding Emanuel St. Louis $60,000 on his Curran bridge contract.

Mr. Haggart informed Mr. Cameron (Huron) that W. J. Poupore had filed an assignment of his contract on the Rapid Plat and Soulanges canal contracts, but no action had yet been taken thereon.

Mr. Wood informed Mr. Somerville that N. B. Colcook of Brockville had been appointed preventive officer of customs.

Mr. Dickey told Mr. McGillivray that the maximum of non-commissioned officers and men who may be admitted to the schools of infantry was 20. It was not advisable to restrict the number from any one battalion as that might have the effect of preventing the full complement of men being obtained for schools.

On motion to go into Committee of Supply, Mr. Davies rose to call attention to the Soulanges canal papers recently brought down and which deal particularly with the contracts of Geo. Goodwin of Ottawa on sections 4, 5, 6, 7 and 12, which he has surrendered. His claim for extras amounts to $238,000 for an embankment built behind the watertight embankment. All the Government engineers, said Mr. Davies, had reported against Mr. Goodwin's claim, the papers showing that Mr. Goodwin had done the easy work and had scamped or skinned over the hard work and that he had thrown up his contract when he found that it would not pay him. The Department of Justice had given the decision that Mr. Goodwin was not entitled to this extra money, but subsequently this decision was reversed by Sir C. H. Tupper. Mr. Davies protested against the payment of the sum of $238,000 or of any amount for extras in view of the engineers' report.

Mr. Davies, in conclusion, argued that the papers disclosed a scheme for plundering the public treasury, contrary to the decision of law officers of the Crown.

Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper made a complete reply, going fully into the whole case. As for Mr. Davies' concluding statement, it was not in consonance with the facts, nor had Mr. Davies abstained from taking liberties with the facts all through his speech, which purported to be based upon the papers. Mr. Davies' attention was drawn to the fact that no money had been paid. The question really before the House was whether this claim of Contractor Goodwin should be paid, and what was the meaning of a watertight embankment in the contract between Mr. Goodwin and the Crown. Sir Charles pointed out also that he had not even been accorded the courtesy of a notice that this question was to be brought up. He must refuse to accept the opinion of Munroe, the engineer, who prepared the specifications as to the legal interpretation of the contracts. Undoubtedly the engineer, in drawing up the contract, intended it to bear the interpretation which is now placed upon it, but the legal construction was at variance with the intention in this case. The departmental report stated that the earth was to be deposited behind the embankment, and for which he had decided in favor of Goodwin's claim for 15 cents per yard extra, was not necessary. If that were a fact Goodwin had no claim, but the claim did not include any earth not in the watertight embankment itself. Under examination by Mr. Goodwin, the departmental engineers had made admissions as to work which greatly strengthened the claim. Sir Charles Tupper read the contract which he held meant what the original plan would indicate was intended, namely, that the watertight banks should be alongside that portion of the canal when the water was above the margin of the canal, and the rough embankments alongside the part when the margin was above the water level. He added in conclusion his decision had not been influenced in the slightest by any consideration of how much it was going to cost the Crown. His decision was based upon his judgment formed after a full and careful investigation of the facts and he assumed all responsibility for it.

After Mr. Edgar had spoken in condemnation of Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper's course, Mr. McCarthy followed, declaring that there was no question of law involved at all, but a clear question of facts. He contended that the bounden duty of the department was to have the case referred to the Exchequer Court.

Mr. Dickey defended Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper against the imputation of wrong doing. The most that could be urged against him was that he had been mistaken in his law. For himself, without making any promise, he believed he would, with two conflicting opinions by his predecessors before him, rather than decide the payment of $30,000 by the Crown, refer the case to the courts.

Mr. Gibson moved the adjournment of the debate.

The House adjourned shortly after midnight.

KENT CONSERVATIVES

Nominate Mr. William Ball of Chatham as Their Standard-Bearer.

Blenheim, April 16.—The Conservative convention assembled here to-day consisted of 205 delegates. President C. J. O'Neil, presided. D. B. O'Dette, Conservative candidate in North Essex, and A. F. Campbell, ex-M.P., Brampton, were the outsiders. The president and several candidates were preliminarily nominated, but the issue was between Dr. William R. Hall and William Ball, both of the town of Chatham. The final ballot resulted in 146 votes for Mr. Ball and 59 for Dr. Hall. Mr. Ball was declared the unanimous choice of the convention.

FOUGHT LIKE A DEMON.

A Buffalo Prisoner, Madly Insane, Maims a Policeman.

Buffalo, N.Y., April 16.—John B. Garrity, confined in No. 1 Police Station, went furiously crazy this morning and began tearing up the plumbing in his cell. Policeman Hess went into the cell-room to quiet him and was knocked down with a heavy piece of iron which laid his scalp open for four inches. Another blow stunned him and he sank to the floor with an inarticulate moan for help. Instantly every man in the reserve room jumped to his rescue, and none too soon, for Garrity was aiming a third blow which would have crushed the skull of his victim. He fought like a demon.

POSITION OF WORKING CLASSES

Never Was So Satisfactory as at Present, Says Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, Chancellor of the Exchequer—Great Champagne Drinkers are Englishmen.

London, April 16.—At 4.52 o'clock Sir Michael Hicks Beach, Chancellor of the Exchequer, rose amid Conservative cheers to deliver the speech introducing the budget. He began by saying that despite the fact that the expenditure of the last fiscal year had been larger than that of any year since the last great war, the surplus in the Treasury was the largest that had ever been known and the credit of the country was never so high. The yield of consols to the purchaser, he said, was just about half what it was a century ago and a larger sum had been applied to the reduction of the national debt than had ever before been applied to that end within a similar period.

The deposits in savings banks and permanent accounts in ordinary banks had amounted to an unprecedented point and the production of gold throughout the world had been the highest ever known. The amount of bullion in the Bank of England was £49,000,000 and the reserve fund in the bank in proportion to its liabilities was the highest on record.

Contiuing, Sir Michael said that the position of the working classes had never been so satisfactory and the issue of produce stamps supplied the best possible measure of ascertaining that business transactions had never reached so great a volume. Altogether, he said, the past year had been a wonderful one. The great triumph of a Chancellor of the Exchequer, he said, was when receipts and estimates equal. The figures of this year were remarkable in that the receipts exceeded the estimates. Everything, he declared, had had an upward tendency, especially during the latter half of '95. The increase in the value of exports, imports, railway earnings and bankers' and Clearing House returns show a continuous expansion of trade.

The revenue for the fiscal year had been £101,974,000, while for the year '94-'95 the revenue had been only £94,684,000, showing an increase of £7,290,000 and making an excess of £5,812,000 over the estimates. A great feature had been in the increase of the revenue from tobacco, wine and tea, the latter having steadily driven coffee out of the market. British and Irish spirits had also driven foreign spirits out of the market. The import of spirits had declined 19 per cent. and the popular taste for rum was greatly lessening. Tea had yielded £120,000 over the estimates, implying an increased consumption of 10,000,000 lbs of that commodity. In connection with this, he added, there was a large and welcome transfer of the tea trade from China to British India and Ceylon. (Cheers.)

The receipts from wines, he said, had been £1,256,000. This seemed to be largely due to an increased consumption of vinous liquors by members of the Stock Exchange and speculators, who, it appeared, consoled themselves in non-success and rejoiced in success in the consumption of champagne. In this way, he accounted for the dealings in 1,200,000 extra bottles of champagne.

After referring to the great increase in the excise and death duties, the Chancellor turned to the expenditures of the Government, which, he said, had reached the total sum of £97,764,000, leaving a surplus of £4,208,000, which would be applied to the national defences, as explained in the naval works bill.

During the year, he continued, the national debt had been reduced £8,134,000, the largest reduction on record with the exception of the reduction during the year '94-'95. The unfunded debt stood at the lowest point it had reached in 21 years and the funded debt had not materially increased since the Crimean war. In 39 years, he explained, £190,000,000 of debt had been paid off—£100,000,000 of which had been paid in the last 13 years. (Cheers.)

Some persons, he said, had denied the wisdom of this, but it was his own opinion that by this self-denying course the country had raised up a reserve of incalculable importance. If a time of need should come when the country would again have to fight for its life the reserve would enable it without imposing a penny of taxation to raise £200,000,000 for defence without imposing an atom more debt upon the people than the nation had borne in 1857, without a murmur. (Cheers.)

Prof. Roentgen's View.

Baden-Baden, April 16.—Professor Roentgen, en route from the Riviera to Stuttgart, interviewed here, stated that he was much interested in the results of the Chicago experiments. He knew Prof. Pratt professionally for a long time.

Asked if he expected such rapid and beneficial results from the X rays, he said: "The information as such does not astonish me. I fully expected as much when I had perfected my invention. Its immediate benefit to surgery was obvious enough, but I thought it promised far more. I had sanguine hopes that the bacilli of diphtheria and cholera and other dangerous growths in the animal body would eventually and indirectly be destroyed by the influence of the X rays."

WASTE AND ITS REMEDY.

As a specimen brick of the reckless manner the public money is wasted it may be pointed out that in six different contracts performed under the Dominion Government, there was spent $2,324,873 in excess of the actual cost, not including $295,000 which insatiate contractors still claim is due them. These works were the Wellington bridge, Ottawa, the Langevin Block, Ottawa, the Little Rapids Lock, the St. Charles branch Railway (right of way), and the Galops Rapids works (not now in use). The total estimated cost of these several works was $1,479,200, while there has actually been paid the enormous sum of $3,804,073, or with the claims still made by contractors—$295,000—added, a total of $4,099,073, or a total of $3,619,873 in excess of the actual cost of the works. Where did the excess go? Why of course into the pockets of contractors. It will not be said that the Government directly benefitted by this wanton and wicked waste of the public funds, but we know that, judging by proven instances, contractors were and are expected to be liberal contributors to Conservative election funds. With stolen profits of over three millions and a half, contractors, who, by lax government methods of supervision, if not by actual connivance, were permitted to do this stealing would be likely to "sate up" pretty liberally. The government is saddled with the responsible guilt of this monstrous waste and what is worse their share of the spoil is to be used to retain them in office, that they may have further opportunity of repeating the game. And the instances given are only samples of the corrupt waste and misappropriation of the public money that honey-combs every department of the Government. Now there are persons who argue that we can have no reduction of taxation, no lessening of the burdens of the people, because, indeed, the necessities of the public service demand that taxes must be imposed great enough to raise a revenue to meet the public expenditures. Does it not appear, judging by the specimen brick produced above, that our expenditures on public works could be cut in halves, and with honest administration, without any failure in efficiency? The works enumerated, through Government incapacity, carelessness and connivance, cost three times as much as they should have done. The spending departments of the Government especially demand a return to honest methods. Do the people think for a moment that if the present government buys its way back to power that there will be any improvement, especially with Sir Charles Tupper, the great stretcher, the ventose boomster, "the high priest of corruption," the man of magnificent schemes at the country's expense, at the helm of affairs? If the people wish a return to honest methods the return of the present government to power is not the return desired. These may be plain words but they are what express the situation succinctly—turn the rascals out.

THE PEOPLE'S POLICY—THE LIBERAL PLATFORM.

At the great National Convention of the Liberal party, held at Ottawa in June, 1893, the policy of the party was expressed in a series of resolutions, of which the following is the first plank:

We, the Liberal party of Canada, in convention assembled, declare:

That the customs tariff of the Dominion should be based not as it is now upon the protective principle, but upon the requirements of the public service; that the existing tariff, founded upon an unsound principle, and used as it has been by the Government as a corrupting agency wherewith to keep themselves in office, has developed monopolies, trusts and combinations; it has decreased the value of farm and other landed property; it has oppressed the masses to the enrichment of a few; it has checked immigration; it has caused great loss of population; it has impeded commerce; it has discriminated against Great Britain. In these and many other ways it has occasioned great public and private injury, all of which evils must continue to grow in intensity as long as the present tariff system remains in force.

That the highest interests of Canada demand a removal of this obstacle to our country's progress by the adoption of a sound fiscal policy, which, while not doing injustice to any class, will promote domestic and foreign trade, and hasten the return of prosperity to our people; that to that end the tariff should be reduced to the needs of honest, economical and efficient government; that it should be so adjusted as to make free, or to bear as lightly as possible upon, the necessaries of life, and should be so arranged as to promote freer trade with the whole world, more particularly with Great Britain and the United States.

We believe that the results of the protective system have grievously disappointed thousands of persons who honestly supported it, and that the country in the light of experience, is now prepared to declare for a sound fiscal policy. The issue between the two political parties on this question is now clearly defined. The Government themselves admit the failure of their fiscal policy, and now profess their willingness to make some changes; but they say that such changes must be based only on the principle of protection. We denounce the principle of protection as radically unsound, and unjust to the masses of the people, and we declare our conviction that any tariff changes based on that principle must fail to afford any substantial relief from the burdens under which the country labours. This issue we are unhesitatingly accept, and upon it we await with the fullest confidence the verdict of the electors of Canada.

No one interested in the industries of the country and sincerely desirous of their establishment on a stable basis, and of seeing them strengthened by a prosperity, founded on sound economical principles, will see any danger to their interests, by the application of the above proposal as a part of the policy of a Liberal Government. A tariff readjustment does not involve any injury to industries; rationally and temperately made, and with an intelligent regard for the existing conditions, it will not injure, but help, the industries of this country. The aim will be to remove the burdens under which the manufacturer labours and to make labour more remunerative. In all respects sympathetic, reasonable and intelligent consideration will be given the interests of both employer and employed. The aim will be to remove hampering restrictions and to stimulate the operations that tend to develop the natural resources of the country, to give a freer hand to our great agricultural industry. The motto of the Liberal party is "Canada for the Canadians"—to legislate for the interests of the people of Canada as a whole on business principles. In a word the "one object will be to promote freer trade, to give new life to commercial enterprises, to steady and not to convulse commercial opinion, to do justice to the farmer and the general taxpayer, and to effect the maximum of reform with the minimum of disturbance." We need the reform and do not need the disturbance and tariff tinkering that have made our commercial condition one of vexations, flux and conflict of interests that should, with proper treatment, be harmonized.

Mr. H. E. Hudson, Combermere, Severely Injured—Protruding Knot Entered the Body — Cured by One Box of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Combermere, April 13, (Special)—Mr. H. E. Hudson, trapper, hunter and lumberman, was injured by falling on a knot which entered his body from beneath and injured the bladder and kidneys. He says:—"I was confined to my bed for six weeks and was rarely able to work, feeling too weak since the injury over eight years ago. I have taken one box of Dodd's Kidney Pills and am perfectly cured and as able-bodied as ever before in my life. One box was worth one hundred dollars to me, if it is possible to estimate such a benefit in dollars."

GENERAL MONTREAL TOPICS.

A Citizen's Interesting Visit to the Mines of British Columbia—Liberal Campaign in Commercial Metropolis.

Montreal, April 16.—(Special)—Mr. C. G. Labrie arrived here to-day after spending some days at Rossland, B.C., which, he says, has grown from a few hundred to 5000 and will reach 10,000 by the end of the year. The owners of the famous Leroy Mine have been offered $4,500,000 for the property, and refused, for the reason that they are receiving every month a dividend of $25,000, and expect to double their profits now that a smelter has been established at Trail, only seven miles away. The War Eagle is also paying $25,000 dividends monthly, and will increase it soon. Close by is the Josie, a mine owned by R. H. Pope, M.P. for Compton, Hon. A. W. Morris of Montreal, and other Canadians, and their first dividend will soon be declared. It is also said it will be a fat one. Some 1500 men are employed in the mines about Rossland, and Mr. Labrie states that the number will be increased to 5000 by the fall. The miners get $3.50 per day.

Hon. Mr. Laurier and his friends are about to open the campaign in this cit the leader himself promising to speak in Alderman Penny's interest on Monday evening next.

Alderman Prefontaine, the present M.P. for Chambly, which is merged into Vercheres by the last redistribution, was nominated to-day for Maisonneuve and will probably accept.

On Saturday next the Liberals will start a new evening paper here for campaign purposes, to be called Le Soir. Messrs. Geoffrion, Choquette, Brodeur, M.P.'s, and others are interested.

The meeting of the house of bishops of the ecclesiastical province of Canada took place to-day, all being present but the bishops of Algoma and Quebec. The question of permitting Bishop Hamilton's translation from Niagara to Ottawa was discussed, but no decision was reached, and the matter will be taken up again to-morrow.

The water has fallen several feet in the river since 6 o'clock and all danger of a flood is past.

Angus Thom, a well-known railway contractor, and connected with the firm of Cooper, Fairman & Co., died to-day of consumption.

The Dominion liner Vancouver left Liverpool for Montreal this morning, being the first boat of the season.

ITALIANS WHO ARE NOT WANTED.

Uncle Sam May Have a Lively Time at Ellis Island, N.Y., Before Many Days.

Washington, April 16.—Herman Stump, the Commissioner-General of Immigration, visited the War Department to-day with a view to determining how far the army might be depended on to suppress and riot among the Italians in the detention pen at Ellis' Island, New York. Trouble is anticipated, and recent revolts have made the authorities here apprehensive of serious difficulty, with which the guards at the island may be unable to cope. Mr. Stump saw some of the army officials, and it is probable that instructions will be sent to Major-General Ruger at New York to furnish any military aid that may be required in the event of an outbreak.

Not That Kind.

Scott's Emulsion does not debilitate the stomach as other cough medicines do; but on the contrary, it improves digestion and strengthens the stomach. Its effects are immediate and pronounced.

NOW NEARING THE END

Surmising as to the Date of the Elections.

JUNE 18 IS PROBABLY THE DATE

Ministerial Reconstruction is the Talk, But the Question is: Who Will be Premier?—Matters in an Unsettled State—General Topics From the Capital.

Ottawa, April 16.—(Special.)—A good deal of interest attaches to hte political situation, and there are many rumors afloat as to what may happen during the next few days. Parliament will be prorogued next Thursday, and formal dissolution will take place the following day. It is quite within the competency of the Government to allow Parliament to die by effluxe of time, but this will not be done. The proclamation of dissolution will naturally call for the fixing of the date for the elections, and the general impression is that nominations will take place about June 11 and polling a week later. Some members of the Government favor the week immediately after the 24th of May, but the members of the House are protesting against the inconvenience to which the farming community will be put at that season. The dates mentioned are held to be the most convenient, as they fall between seed time and haying.

As regards ministerial reconstruction, nothing of a definite character can be said. Sir Mackenzie Bowell may go to England as Premier, or he may not. There is, however, the most cordial feeling between Sir Charles Tupper and himself.

Mr. E. A. Kemp, oyster expert of the Fisheries Department, has left for the Maritime Provinces, to commence his season's work. He will spend some time on the shores of Northumberland Straits, and afterwards decide upon a location of oyster culture beds in the Bay of Fundy and have these prepared.

Mr. Grayson, agent at Sydney, N.S.W., of the Canadian-Australian steamship line, is in the city to interview the Finance Minister and Minister of Trade and Commerce, on matters in connection with the company's contract. He reports that business from Canada is continually on the increase.

The Government's program is to have morning sittings for the remainder of the session. During next week the House will meet at 10.30 a.m. and sit until 6, resuming at 7.30 p.m., Government business to have precedence, with one hour after dinner on Monday and Wednesday for private bills.

Canada will be represented at Bisley this year by about the strongest team that has ever crossed the water to maintain the prestige of the Dominion among the best marksmen of the world. All preliminary arrangements for transport and accommodation of the team were made at a meeting of the D.R.A. executive held last night. The team will sail for England by the Parisian on the 27th of June and will thus be able to have a few days' practice on the Runymede ranges before the matches commence at Bisley on the 14th of July. As nothing has been accomplished towards erecting permanent accommodation at Bisley for the Canadian contingent, the team will again occupy quarters under canvas. Col. Bacon reported that in response to enquiries from the first 25 men on the list, 20 had signified their readiness to accept positions upon the team if chosen.

The executive also appointed a committee to draft a program for the D.R.A. matches here, which commence on the 31st of August. It is hoped to have the programs ready for distribution by the 1st of June.

No decision has been reached by the Government in the matter of the grant to the proposed Dominion Exhibition in Toronto next year. The question has been greatly complicated by competition from Montreal. That city is to send up to Ottawa a big delegation on Saturday with big aspirations for a quarter of a million of dollars. When this request has been formally made the council will consider the applications of the two cities on their merits. Many members of Parliament express regret that Montreal should have decided upon holding their exhibition next year. Toronto gave the big Quebec city a fair field this year and when the Montreal fair of '96 fizzled out it is thought the promoters of the exhibition in that city might have deferred their scheme until 1898. The size of the Montreal delegation may be gauged by the fact that they are coming up on free passes supplied by the C.P.R. and G.T.R.

Col. Hamilton of the Queen's Own Rifles is in the city. He had an interview with Gen. Gascoigne to-day, when he protested against his removal from the command of the regiment. It is said the General explained to Col. Hamilton that if he had remained in command it might have led to the practical ruination of the corps, and that having lost the confidence of his brother officers the question was which should go, the commandant or all the officers. Following the English practice it was felt in the interests of this fine corps that it would be better for the Colonel to retire. This involved no reflection upon him, but was held to be the wisest course to pursue. Col. Hamilton, however, still claims that he has not been fairly treated.

The Minister of Railways has brought down the railway resolutions. They are all revotes of the subsidies granted during the past six years and unclaimed, amounting in the aggregate to $2,700,000. Among the subsidies of local interest are: To the Kingston Smith's Falls & Ottawa, 56 miles, interest at 3 per cent. on $178,000 for 21 years; to the Nipissing & James Bay Railway, $217,000; Thousand Islands Railway, balance of $30,000; to the Irondale & Bancroft Railway, 50 miles, $145,000; to the Ontario & Pacific, for 58 miles, between Cornwall and Ottawa, $172,000; Ontario & Belmont, $32,000; Cobourg & Pacific, $157,000; Lindsay, Bobcaygeon & Pontypool, $162,000; Brockville, Westport & Sco, $88,000; Bracebridge & Baysville, $43,000; South Ontario Pacific, $153,000; Strathroy & Western Counties, $80,000; Central Ontario, $64,000; Manitoulin & North Shore, $115,000; Kingston & Western, $60,000.

Mr. Benjamin Suite, one of the Ontario representatives on the committee appointed from the different provinces to adjudicate on the public competition to decide which is to be the future school history of Canada, states that the successful history has been chosen, but it is not known who the author is. His nom de plume is "Sit Lux." (Let there be light.) Mr. Suite has written to Mr. Wallace of the Royal Arthur College, Montreal, secretary of the committee, with a view to having the identity of the successful historian made known.

The Queen's Printer states that the blue books for the year have all been struck off, the sessional printing is well advanced, and the indications are that a large part of the extra staff will be laid off in a few days.

Archbishop Langevin of Winnipeg arrived here again and is the guest of Archbishop Duhamel. He states that no arrangements have been made, as was rumored, for any conference between himself, the Government and Premier Greenway.

The Senate had a short session to-day. The Government Bill to allow net fishing for salmon was dropped, owing to the strong opposition to it.

The Civic Finance Committee to-night opened tenders for $15,000 worth of 37 year debentures at 4 1-2 per cent. Several Toronto firms tendered, the successful one being O'Hara & Co., Toronto, who offered $114.21 for each hundred dollars.

The Opposition obstruction to-day prevented the Government from getting a single item through supply. Indeed, the committee stage has not been reached, and the report is current to-night that it will not be this session.

ASSAULTED THE WRONG WOMAN

An Infuriated Mob of Females by Mistake Attack an American Woman in Portsmouth, England

New York, April 16.—A London special says: A sensational experience, which almost ended tragically, has just befallen a young American lady at Portsmouth.

A few days since a little girl, 8 years old, named Elsie Matthews, was found dead in a field on the outskirts of Plymouth, evidently strangled. The father was arrested, and it then transpired that he recently eloped from his wife with a young woman named Charlotte Maloney. Public feeling locally ran high over this atrocious crime, and when the victim was interred yesterday in Kingston Cemetery, Portsmouth, over 10,000 persons were present.

A rumor was current that Charlotte Maloney, who was said to be dressed in brown and wore gold-rimmed eyeglasses, would be there. Accordingly a sharp lookout was kept by the excited crowd, who were mostly women, and soon a lady was noticed near the cemetery lodge gates who was dressed in brown and wore glasses. Unfortunately, this was Mrs. Adelaide Harriet Prout, an American lady, born in Baltimore, near which place her father and mother have a farm. She has been in England before, when she resided in Plymouth, but on the present occasion has only been here ten months. Her husband is a steward on board the merchantman Powderham, which his brother, Capt. J. C. Prout, commands. Mrs. Prout had simply been attracted to the spot by the abnormal traffic, and knew nothing about the funeral. Suddenly someone exclaimed, "There she is," and a number of excited females rushed at her, beat her with sticks and umbrellas, threw mud and stones at her, while others, eventually seized her with the avowed intention of tearing her limb from limb.

At the moment, however, she was being trampled under foot, the police, headed by a detective, charged on and fought their way through the crowd and rescued the poor woman. The efforts of the police to assure the mob they had made a mistake were all in vain, and an attempt was made to wrest Mrs. Prout from the officers, who escorted her away by sheer force and with great difficulty to the lodge-keeper's house, which hundreds of people besieged. Fortunately the lady was not dangerously injured, but has suffered terribly from the shock, though after an hour and a half she was able to be taken home.

ELECTRICITY

Its marvellous advances.

An interview with a prominent electrician and inventor.

Mr. D. C. L. Ferguson, of the Eclipse Electric and Manufacturing Co'y, 211 Church st., Toronto, consented to be interviewed by our representative the other day. Mr. Ferguson said: "To see me now you would not fancy that I had undergone severe hardships and battled with disease, yet such is the case, and were it not for the events I am about to relate I would not now be able to prosecute further scientific researches.

"I have been troubled with my kidneys and liver for the past 10 years. During the last 4 years I have been growing worse rapidly, until I was almost unable to work. I have been treated by doctors and taken a large variety of medicine without benefit. I had constant pain across my back, at times almost unbearable, especially at night. My urine was wine color as if mixed with blood, and with much sediment, burning sensation when vesting. I felt tired and dragged, and it was with the utmost effort I was able to work at all. Seeing the Doan Kidney Pill Co. advertisement, I thought I would try one box of their pills on the principle that it would do no harm to try again, so I got one from W. S. Robinson, Druggist, 832 Yonge st. I have not quite finished that first box, but am happy to say it has proved the best experiment of my life. I improved from the start and there has been a rapid improvement daily, until I am to-day a well man. Pain all gone. Urine natural in color, no sediment. I am stronger, and able to work as well as ever I did. I cannot be too thankful for the result of my trial of Doan's Kidney Pills. I would be glad to tell anyone who suffers as I have done, how I was before, and how I am after taking Doan's Kidney Pills, if they will call at my place."

HAMILTON FELL DOWN STAIRS.

A Niagara Falls Hotel Clerk Sustained Fatal Injuries Yesterday Morning.

Niagara Falls, April 16.—About 9.30 this morning, George Hamilton, clerk at the Windsor House, was going down the steps leading to the cellar. He overstepped one step and stumbled, turning round to catch the door jamb but missed it, falling backwards down the steps, striking the back of his head on the asphalt floor below, with such terrific force that blood spurted out of his ears and nose. When taken up he was found to be unconscious, one side being paralyzed. Doctors were called and pronounced the fall had caused internal fracture at the base of the skull, and hold out no hopes for his recovery. He has remained unconscious all day.

We Do Not Advertise Our Flour

By telling the public that our 2nd grade is equal to the best Flour made by any other mill. "Such statements are somewhat presumptuous."

We do say, however, that our leading brand, "CALLA LILY," is Equal to Any Other leading brand in the market, and our 2nd grade, "VICTORY," is Equal to Any Other 2nd grade made by any other mills. The High Water.

The Rob Roy cannot get under the C. P. R. bridge unless the smokestack and awning deck are removed, owing to the high water. Mr. Roy should have had her in the lake before the water commenced rising.

Out at Chemong.

Mr. Fobert telephones in from Chemong that the water in Mud Lake rose 14 inches last night and that it is now 24 inches over the steamboat wharf, whilst the boathouse island is completely submerged. If the water rises any higher damage along the shore is expected. The park grounds are fine and dry already.

An Attractive Window.

Mr. A. Clegg's window to-day displays a very handsome bedroom suite with tables, chairs, etc., and a very pretty secretary, all in native birch. The panels and prominent parts are of selected wood, and the effect is very artistic and pleasing. The style of the furniture, especially the bedstead, is quite new.

Helen Beach Yaw Will Sing in Peterborough.

Arrangements have at last been concluded for the positive appearance of Miss Yaw at Bradburn's Opera House on the night of April 21st. Here is a chance of a life-time for the citizens of Peterborough and vicinity to hear a voice heard but once in a century. The New York Musical Courier thus aptly describes Miss Yaw's wonderful performance:—"When it is remembered that Cassie Ranz only touched G on the fourth, Di Murska F above the third, Christine Nilsson F sharp, and Patti G on the fourth, Miss Yaw's voice will be better appreciated by musicians. When Nilsson sang the high F sharp in Mozart's "Magic Flute," her listeners fairly laboured between rapture and hysteria. Miss Yaw sings high F sharp without the slightest effort, and sustains the note with the sweetest quality.

A Musical Curiosity at Grafton's.

A novelty is now on exhibition at Grafton & Co's store, George street, which is creating quite an attraction. It is a real pretty show of automatic figures in which a French singing bird, a very pretty Swiss girl (and an Italian drummer boy are the actors. Seems the cutest thing imaginable to see this musical bird in red and black plumage, warbling some of the sweetest notes of the natural songster of the forest. It thrills away on its little perch, enclosed in a handsome brass cage, as if it had a contract to amuse the happy customers who crowd in and out, saving that 25 per cent on Grafton & Co's hand-cut and tailor-made clothing. The little Swiss girl and Italian drummer boy are each mounted on red plush covered music boxes, dressed in juveniles gayest attire. While the lady beats time with a pair of cymbals, her partner beats the drum and skillfully manipulates a horn at the same time. This is a fall show, just arrived from France, and we may expect to see crowded houses at Grafton's for the next week. Boys, big and little, in search of nobby suits, and accompanied by their mothers, admitted into the reserved seats.

ST. LUKE'S GIRL'S GUILD ANNUAL ENTERTAINMENT.

The Ashburnham Town Hall is Filled to the Doors—A Splendid Programme.

St. Luke's Girl's Guild Easter concerts are beginning to be looked forward to every year with the greatest pleasure, as they invariably prove most enjoyable and are always liberally patronized by the townspeople as well as the villagers.

Last evening's entertainment proved no exception to the rule, and the programme which was presented, surpassed, if anything, that of last year. The audience was only limited by the size of the Ashburnham town hall.

To Miss Maggie Calcutt, assisted by the members of the Girl's Guild, is the public indebted for the creditable manner in which the whole affair passed off.

The programme was opened with an overture by Butcher's Orchestra, after which the Mother Goose reception and drill, by a score or so of bright little ones, took place. The part of Mother Goose was taken by Miss Gwendoline Mead, and one by one all the well-known characters in the nursery rhymes, stepped forth and recited the lines fixing their identity. The differerent parts were assumed as appended:

Little Boy Blue	Harry Rogers
Little Bo-peep	Bertha Symonds
King Cole	Claude Rogers
Queen of Hearts	Emma Payne
Tommy Tucker	Frank Eden
The old woman who lived in a shoe	Bertha Bennett
The old woman who lived under the hill	Maud Scott
Miss Muffet	Laura Cragg
Tom, the Piper's Son	Sidney Fairclrn
Dame Trot	Jessie Cassels
The boy who lived by himself	Sidney Tivey
His wife	Eva Moore
Miss from Primrose Hill	Gertie McCabe
The Milking Maid	Jessie Crane
Jack	Robbie Long
Jill	Maudie Long
Cinderella	Florence Scott
Little Red Riding Hood	Alice Scott
Mother Hubbard	Molly Bloise
Jack Horner	Sidney Gibbs
Peter, the Pumpkin Eater	George Rogers

The fairy drama, Beauty and the Beast, was then enacted in a manner which reflected great credit indeed, upon those participating. Miss Bysh took the part of Beauty in a way which won for her the admiration of all, while the moods and caprices of her two sisters were capitally portrayed by Misses Bell and Minne Armstrong. Mr. Harry Neill as the merchant was of course perfect, his familiarity with the stage being acquired from long practice. Harry is generally the leading spirit in all affairs of this nature. His partner last night was Mr. Will Armstrong whilst Percy Bysh made a clever wizard. Mr. Jack Turner played the difficult part of the "Beast" to perfection, and the audience was charmed with the pretty manouvres of the three cute little fairies, Misses Florence Butcher, Maudie Long and Jennie Moore.

Miss Daisy Eyre, of Cobourg, who is at present the guest of the Misses Calcutt, then varied the proceedings by rendering a vocal solo in a voice surpassingly sweet, which found great favour with the audience.

The Doll Drill was an interesting part of the programme, consisting of twelve little tots coming upon the platform with their dolls and crooning them to sleep with a pretty lullaby song. Those participating were Misses Florence Butcher, Maudie Long, Jennie Moore, Lulu Scott, Constance Grassett, Ada Pogue, Rosie Bennett, Edna and Lillie Rogers, Bella and Katie Long and Madeline Stone. Afterwards came the Parasol Drill, which was very cute, indeed, the little girls who took part singing as they marched and flourishing their pretty sunshades. Those assisting were Misses Maude Long, Florence Butcher, Jennie Moore, Edna Rogers, Lulu Scott, Greta Symonds, Madeline Stone and Bella Long.

In the farce, "Two Heads are Better Than One," the caste was as follows:—

Mr. Strange, a short-sighted old gentleman, an enthusiast for restoring pictures —Mr. Harry Neil.

Chas. Conquest, in love with Ellen—Mr. Will Armstrong.

Mr. MaxWelton, an old gentleman of fortune, friend of Strange — Mr. Ed. Armstrong.

Sammy MaxWelton, his son, a silly young man—Mr. J. Turner.

Ellen Strange, the nurse—Miss Belle Armstrong.

The farce was well put on and all the characters were most admirably assumed, far excelling the worth of the usual amateur performance.

The attendance last evening was so large that it has been decided to again present the entertainment on Tuesday evening next in the same place.

NEWS NUGGETS.

Paragraphs Picked Up and Pencilled for Public Perusal.

—The town streets are now in fairly good shape.

—The ice has not entirely disappeared from Hunter street yet.

—The Ashburnham town hall needs a better system of ventilation.

—The Property and Health Committees of the town council meet to-night.

—Telephone conversations are rendered more difficult since the street cars have recommenced running. The difference is more noticeable on account of the stoppage during the winter.

—Mr. D. L. Ritchie, foreman for Howry & Sons, Fenelon Falls, will go north tomorrow with a gang of fifty or sixty men, hired in Lindsay and Peterborough, to work on the drives.

—It is estimated that ten thousand horses will be required for the British army this year. A large contingent will be bought in Canada, but not those which have been a drug on the Peterborough market at $2.75 a piece.

—A frightful accident happened yesterday afternoon to Contractor W. White, of Lindsay. While helping to hoist a safe into the second storey of Hamilton's block the tackle broke and the safe fell on him, crushing him terribly. He is not expected to live.

—A New York state legislator proposes to license undertakers with a fee of $10, all intending to enter the business to pass examination by a board of undertakers and the state regents. The general impression seems to be the undertakers have efficient license already. Have you seen their bills?

—The tremenduous shipment of whiskies which Mr. Alex Elliott received yesterday attracted unusual attention. Fifty fine barrels and one hundred cases were received direct from the Seagram Distillery, Waterloo. Amongst the latter lot were some goods 13 years old and 50 cases of Seagram's popular "83" brand. Mr. Elliott has already disposed of 21 barrels and 31 cases of the shipment.

—Watertown had a hankering after a professional audit, to discover whether the the treasurers for several years past had really absorbed yearly, cash surpluses as a steady diet. The experts have reported a discrepancy of $1,700 several years old and irreseverable; have condemned the loose system of management, and have enforced the propriety of avoiding audits for the future by a bill of $9,300 for their services.

Accident.

On Tuesday morning last, Mrs. Thos. Cox, sr., of Lakefield, met with a serious accident. It appears she had walked into the kitchen with a pail of water, and in setting it down, did not know that the trap door of the cellar was open, and stepping into it fell to the bottom of the cellar. The fall rendered her unconscious and it was some time before she recovered, and assistance came. A doctor was summoned and on examination it was found that her spine was seriously injured and she was badly shaken up besides. As Mrs. Cox is well up in years, the accident was a very serious one, and she may be disabled for life.

Tuesday Evening, 7.30.—Conference of the Board, comprising the thirty-six Managers and Presbyterial, Auxiliary, and Mission Band Presidents and Presbyterial Secretaries and Treasurers (or their substitutes.) A pink badge will be provided for substitutes. Presidents' substitutes are not entitled to vote in the election of officers.

Wednesday, 10 a. m.—Praise.—Reading of Scripture.—Prayer: Adoration and Invocation of the Holy Spirit.—President's Address.—Praise.—Presentation of annual Reports; Board of Management; Foreign; Home.—Praise.—Supply; Publications; Financial Statement.—Reception and adoption of Reports.—Praise.—Letters of greeting.—Reception of Delegates from Sister Societies.—Prayer: For Foreign Work and Workers.

Wednesday afternoon, 2.30.—Praise.—Prayer: For the suffering Christians in Armenia; for all who are enduring persecution for the sake of the Gospel; for Nations and Rulers, and that peace may prevail in all lands.—Report of Nominating Committee.—Business from last year.—Solo.—Address.—Praise.—Prayer: Thanksgiving for our Colleges, Schools Hospitals, and for native Christians, that they may be established in the faith and that the Holy Spirit may prepare all hearts for the reception of the truth.—Conference of Presbyterial Secretaries of Supplies, or those acting for them, with Mrs. Jeffrey at the close of this meeting.

Wednesday evening, 8 o'clock—Public meeting in St. Paul's church.—Addresses.

[It is expected that the Rev. E. M. Wherry, D.D., now resident in Chicago, for many years missionary of the American Presbyterian church in India, and for some time principal of a missionary college there, will address the public meeting on Wednesday evening. Miss Sinclair will address the society on Wednesday afternoon.]

In the list of delegates published in the EXAMINER yesterday a few typographical errors were made. It should have been stated that Mrs. W. B. McMurrich, of Toronto, would be the guest of Mrs. J. F. Dennistoun; Miss Parsons, Toronto, of Mrs. J. I. Davidson; Mrs. Hamilton Cassels, Toronto, of Mrs. J.F. Dennistoun; Mrs. McNachtan, Cobourg, of Mr. J. H. Roper; Mrs. and Miss Gilchrist, Baltimore, of Mr. Peter Hamilton.

No more names have been received since the publication of the list yesterday and it is probably it is as well that such is the case as the resources of the billeting committee have been taxed to the utmost. Over 350 delegates have had to be placed and as it was not thought the attendance would be so large, it has kept the billeting committee busy looking for additional accommodation.

THE CANAL.

The Route Will Not be Changed Through the Village—A Swing Bridge Will Be Put In.

A great deal of difference of opinion has existed among the ratepayers, says the Lakefield News, as to what route the canal should take through the village, some advocating it going down the raceway and others in favour of it remaining where it is. As a result two petitions were sent to the Government in connection with the matter, one to let it remain where it is and to put a swing bridge instead of a high level bridge, and the other to change it to the mill race. Both were largely signed. The following letter from the Minister of Railways and Canals to Mr. John Burnham, M.P., with reference to the matter, will settle the question:—

MR. BURNHAM,—Referring to the petition transmitted through you by certain residents of Lakefield, expressing themselves as satisfied with the present route of the Trent Valley Canal, but favouring a swing bridge instead of a high level bridge, I would say that as the cost of building a swing bridge is about the same as for a high level bridge, it is immaterial to the Department as to which shall be adopted.

With regard to the location of the canal, the matter having been fully considered, it is not desirable nor is it the intention to depart from the route selected.

Yours truly,
JOHN HAGGART.

JOHN BURNHAM, Esq., M. P.,
House of Commons, Ottawa.

That the work will be commenced on the village section of the canal this spring is now an established fact. The parties who reside on the route of the canal have received notice from the superintending engineer, Mr. R. B. Rogers, to have their buildings removed immediately.

Weak, Tired, Nervous

Women, who seem to be all worn out, will find in purified blood, made rich and healthy by Hood's Sarsaparilla, permanent relief and strength. The following is from a well known nurse:

"I have suffered for years with female complaints and kidney troubles and I have had a great deal of medical advice during that time, but have received little or no benefit. A friend advised me to take Hood's Sarsaparilla and I began to use it, together with Hood's Pills. I have realized more benefit from these medicines than from anything else I have ever taken. From my personal experience I believe Hood's Sarsaparilla to be a most complete blood purifier." MRS. C. CROMPTON, 71 Cumberland St., Toronto, Ontario.

Friday, April 17th.

It should not seem to be so very wonderful a thing that men could attain to the ability to say: "I am willing to die." It seems to me a much better, grander and nobler thing to say: "I am willing and ready to live, right here, to-day, in my circumstances; ready to take up my burden, to carry my load, to do my work, to wait God's time."

Didn't Know it was Loaded.

The other evening while two of Mr. A. Robinson's children were playing in their home at Montreal one of them—a lad about 12 years of age—picked up a gun which was lying on the bed and went to show his little sister some military manœuvres. He "didn't know it was loaded" and pulled the trigger. The weapon went off and an iron ramrod, which was left in the gun, struck the little girl under the lower jaw, inflicting a painful—though not serious—wound.

No Second Class There.

Justice Falconbridge has delivered a judgment that will prove of interest. W. Linton, a commercial traveller of Ottawa, brought suit against the C. P. R. for $2,000 damages, because the railway officials refused to allow him to ride on a second-class ticket, though he was of course, willing to pay the extra sleeping car charges. The court has upheld the railway in the enforcement of its rules, which state that a passenger must hold a first class ticket before he may ride in a Pullman. Linton, therefore, loses his suit.

The Three Graces.

Rosy cheeks, laughing eyes and teeth of pearly whiteness. Bright smiles with a background of teeth not resplendant of whiteness and purity—impossible. Beauty may be found hidden in a bottle of foaming Ivorine, the newest, best and most fragrant preparation for the teeth. Ivorine is so nice to use—fragrant, refreshing. It purifies the breath, which it renders sweet, and to the teeth it imparts both whiteness and brilliancy.

A Winnipeg Wedding.

The C. P. R. local which left here on Monday morning, 6th inst, had on board a lady passenger from this vicinity bound for far away Dakota. Her mission was a pleasant one, for she was going there to be the wife of a young farmer who left here some years ago to seek his fortune in the prairie country. The young lady referred to was Miss Katharine Bonar, of Asphodel. She arrived at Winnipeg on the 8th inst, where she was met by Mr. Samuel Russell, formerly of Belmont, (son of Mr. Robert Russell, of the 3rd con. of Belmont) and at 7.30 that evening became his wife. The nuptial knot was tied by the Rev. C. A. Pitblado, Presbyterian minister, in the parlour of the Queen's Hotel, and next day the happy young couple took their departure for North Dakota, where Mr. Russell and his brother have a large farm. Their many friends here wish them a long, happy and prosperous life.

RE GEORGE STREET AND GEORGE STREET BRIDGE.

Ratepayer Thinks the Subject Should Be Discussed.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

DEAR SIR,—Would it not be well, in the interests of the ratepayers, to ask the Mayor to call a public meeting to discuss the causes of the failure of the new George street bridge and also to discuss the propriety of having gravel placed on two feet of snow, thereby preventing our street railway from being opened up again until the middle of summer.

There appears to be every prospect that the street will not be passable for traffic or railway for most of the summer, to the great disadvantage of the public. It is generally discussed on the street as to who is to blame for the failure of the bridge and the unwarrantable condition of the street, and the effect of the meeting would be to place the fault on the right parties in order to guard against such incorrigible mistakes, for which the taxpayer pays roundly.

It is self-evident that the width of the span of the bridge is too small, also that the design is inadequate, that the mechanical work and material were defective, and we consequently have a wreck that will have to be removed and built over again.

George street will not thaw out for months with the covering that is on it, consequently the railway cannot be operated and the public will have a soft street to drive on for half the season.

Yours, etc.,
RATEPAYER.

THE LATE MRS. S. B. GIRVEN.

A Faithful Member of the Methodist Church.

Norwood Register.

It is with feelings of sadness that we chronicle the death of Mrs. Samuel B. Girven, of Norwood, which occurred on Saturday morning last. Deceased was the second daughter of Mr. John Finlay, reeve of Norwood. She was possessed of a cheerful disposition and made many sincere friends, who deeply mourn her early demise. She was a faithful member of the Methodist church and was possessed of a rich soprano voice which she cheerfully and faithfully employed for several years in the choir in singing the songs of Zion. She leaves a fond and deeply distressed husband, a kind father and three affectionate sisters and two brothers to mourn her loss. The funeral which took place on Monday afternoon, was largely attended, the Methodist and Presbyterian church choirs marching ahead of the remains. The floral offerings, the crowded church, all testified to the esteem in which she was held. An appropriate discourse was delivered in the Methodist church by the pastor, Rev. J. A. McCamus—the Rev. J. F. Somerville assisting in the services—after which the remains were conveyed to the cemetery where the burial service was read and a suitable hymn was sung by the united choirs. The pall bearers were:—Messrs. W. A. Richardson, C. W. Waters, P. W. Stephenson, John Walker, W. C. Doughty and W. H. Hunter. The sorrowing husband and relative have the heartfelt sympathy of the whole community in their sad bereavement.

THE PETER HAMILTON AGRICULTURAL IMPLEMENTS.

Appreciated Abroad as Well as at Home—Extensive Orders Coming From All Parts of Ontario, Especially the West—Merit Means Success.

The splendid agricultural machinery and implements produced by the Peter Hamilton Manufacturing Company are taking the well-known advice of Horace Greely and "going west." On Thursday this enterprising establishment shipped to Palmerston, Wellington County, three mixed cars of agricultural implements, consisting of seeders, binders, mowers, ploughs and spring tooth cultivators. It is very gratifying that the products of the Peter Hamilton Company are making their way to every part of the province, and especially the west, from which orders are coming in rapidly. By sheer force of this merit the products of this firm are making steady and stable progress in the good opinions of the farmers of Canada. The good name borne in this district is having its yearly widening influence, and the orders for it west, noted, above is only the advance guard of others that are sure to follow from any district where the Peter Hamilton farm machinery and implements are once used.

KEENE.

A Great Night With the Independent Foresters—A Hard Road to Travel.

Last night was, to use an Hiberniciam, a "red letter day" for Keene, and especially to the Independent Foresters. A fine entertainment was given in the town hall by the Foresters, and the building was crowded to the doors. The entertainment was the celebration of the occasion when the court arrived at the numerical strength—36 members—to claim the fulfilment of the promise of the High Chief Ranger, Rev. Mr. McNair, Carlston Place, to present the court with a set of officers badges, when the members of the court reached the figure mentioned. Dr. Shaw, Chief Ranger, occupied the chair, and on the platform were several ministers, and professional gentlemen. A splendid programme of music was presented, which was very cordially received. Addresses were given by Rev. Mr. McNair, High Chief Ranger, Rev. Mr. Thompson, Hastings; Supreme Treasurer A. H. Collins, C. C. Whale, High Inspector and others. During the evening the presentation of badges took place amidst much enthusiasm. Refreshments were served in the court hall, next the town hall.

A delightful evening was spent and Court Otonabee, No. 1300 may well be proud of the success they have achieved, and the prosperity they enjoy.

The party that drove to Keene from Peterborough, consisting of Messrs. A. H. Collins, S. T., C. C. Whale, H. I., W. H. Meldrum and W. Brabin, had a thrilling experience en route. They left Keene at 12 o'clock and it was 4 o'clock before they reached the town. The roads are described as being in a horrible condition—in some places snow belly-deep to the horses, and in others, particularly at Mather's Corners, a similar depth of water on the roadbed, with water ten feet deep in the ditches alongside. Going down by daylight the party narrowly escaped being dumped into the ditch, but coming back in the dense darkness, the quartette was a very solemn one, and it was only by a young man of the neighbourhood, who was returning from Keene, slipping off his clothes and wading through the water to show the roadway, with a lantern held aloft, that the flood was crossed in safety, and the party in the carriage felt cold chills promenading up and down their spines—and the chills did not come from the cold water directly, either.

A REAL APRIL FOOL.

Why Deacon Brown Will Hereafter Be an Easy Victim.

'Twas April first and Deacon Brown
Put on his hat to go to town;
"Good-bye," exclaimed his thoughtful mate,
"Be sure you don't forget the date."
"Not much," he laughed, "the Boys will see
They can't play April-fool on me,
But, ha, ha, ha, in case they do,
I'll give a satin dress to you."

As sly and cautious as a fox
He walked along the city blocks,
Avoiding every trickster's art,
To catch the man who wasn't smart,
High hats, which hid each one a brick,
He left for bigger fools to kick,
And hot or mulled-down quarters bright
He stepped right over with delight;
Fat pocketbooks with strings attached
He spurned with honesty unmatched,
And bundles in his pathway han
He wisely suffered to remain,
All day he had no end of joys
In fooling all the other Boys,
While not the smartest one in town
Could get the laugh on Deacon Brown.

At last, proud of his record great,
He started home to catch his mate,
When almost at his door a shout:
"Hey, mister!" made him turn about;
A lad with something in his hand
Came running to the deacon and—
"You dropped your wallet, sir!" he cried,
Quite out of breath with honest pride,
The deacon gave a knowing wink—
"Get out!" he said, "You needn't think
I'm green. You can't fool me a bit.
Keep your old pocketbook and—git!"
The small boy "got" and Deacon B.
Walked in the house and told with glee
How he had fooled the other who Had tried in vain to fool him, too,

"Why, wife," he grinned, "a small boy tried
To April-fool me just outside;
He yelled, "Hey mister!" when I stopped,
Said he: "This pocketbook you dropped;
And, ha, ha, ha, I told the wit
To keep his pocketbook and git."
"Did you," the bright wife asked, "first look
To see you had your pocketbook?"
"Of course not," laughed smart Deacon B.,
"No boy can make a fool of me."
"Suppose you feel your pockets now."
The wife said with an anxious brow,
"Why, what's the use? Well, then, I will,"
He laughed again, "to keep you still."

The deacon felt one pocket, while
His loud "Ha, ha," turned to a smile;
He felt another mighty quick,
And soon his fading smile was sick;
Then, trying to look unconcerned,
His other pockets out he turned,
"It must be in my overcoat,"
He gasped, with something in his throat;
While he in vain the coat explored,
Cold perspiration from him poured.
"Confound that boy," the good man thought,
"I'll kill him if he's ever caught,"
And then, with face of white despair,
He tumbled, helpless, in a chair.

"Just as I thought," exclaimed his wife,
"You've been a fool, sir, all your life;
And now, to make you wise, I guess
I'll let you buy that satin dress."
"I will, I will," groaned Deacon Brown
"But please don't tell the Boys in town,"
And soon he sneaked to bed and tossed,
A-thinking how the money lost
Would keep his wonder of a wife
In satin dresses all her life;
And vowing that in future he
An easy April fool would be.

Was Absent-Minded.

"I have been told," said Major Dubois, watching the steam-hammer in the rolling mill, "that a good hammerman can break the crystal of a watch with that twenty-ton hammer."

"Yes," said the hammerman, "it can be done."

"I should like to see it," said Mr. Dubois, eagerly, feeling in his watch pocket.

"I can do it, sir," said the man.

"And will you?" replied Mr. Dubois, drawing out his watch. "Come, I am anxious to see it tried."

He laid his watch on the great anvil-plate. The hammer rose to its full height and the next instant all its ponderous weight, with a crushing force which shook the ground for an acre around, came down on the watch.

"There, sir," said the man, "if you don't believe that crystal is broken just step down and you can see it sticking to the hammer."

Mr. Dubois swallowed a whole mouthful of lumps and gasped before he could speak.

"But I forgot to say," he exclaimed, "that it was to break the crystal without injuring the watch."

"Oh, yes," said the hammerman. "Yes, I know. I have heard that rubbish myself."—London Tit-Bits.

WILL X RAYS DO IT?

Interesting Investigations Now In Progress.

CAN DISEASE GERMS BE KILLED

By Means of Radiant Energy?—British Scientists Now at Work With the Roentgen Rays on Diphtheria Bacilli—The Germs Seemed to Thrive.

New York, April 15.—Julian Ralph cables from London: News from Chicago respecting the germicidal properties of the Roentgen, or X rays, occasioned much interest here, although English scientists are not nearly so advanced with experiments of this nature as the Americans.

Certainly no one has as yet ascertained that the mysterious rays possess the property of destroying bacteria, and opinion is divided as to the likelihood of such being the case.

The Lancet recently published some interesting letters from Dr. T. Glover Lyon, senior assistant physician of the Victoria Park Chest Hospital. Dr. Lyon, using the Crookes tube, with an electric current, at a voltage of 25,000, thus described in The Lancet the result of his work:

"My experiments in this direction proved, so far as they went, a negative, which was almost a foregone conclusion. An impure cultivation of the diphtheritic bacilli was exposed in a test tube in an incubator, at 35 degrees centigrade, for 12 hours to Roentgen rays, produced by the apparatus described above.

"Considerable growth took place during these 12 hours, and continued on further incubation. The exposure to the Roentgen rays had failed to influence the growth of the bacilli to any appreciable extent.

"A pure cultivation of the tubercle bacilli exposed at the same time showed a vigorous power of growth afterward.

"During these exposures, on account of the escape of electricity in one way and another, an intense odor of ozone was perceptible in the incubator and around it. The ozone, apparently, however, was unable to penetrate the cotton and wool plug of the tube and affect the germs.

"A somewhat interesting result was obtained by photographing by the Roentgen ray a cultivation of diphtheritic bacilli sideways. The turbid blood of the serum gave a faint shadow, but to the eye the opaque colony of germs, over a quarter of an inch thick, gave no signs of existence. The rays passed through them as light through glass.

'Experiments like these are not, of course, final, but on the whole one is forced to the conclusion that with our present methods the radiant ethereal energy is powerless against pathogenic organism. At the same time increased knowledge and improved apparatus may place the cure of disease by radiant energy within the possibilities of the future."

The British Medical Journal has also published long speculative communications on the subject. Dr. Willoughby Wade, in its columns, first urged the desirability of determining definitely whether the new radiant had or had not sterilizing effect upon the tubercle bacillus. Dr. Spencer Watson considered it most important, in view of the known effect of ordinary light, to ascertain whether there is any reaction between X rays and bactericidal rays, already assumed to be part and parcel of the sun's light.

Many other British scientists hold the view that the X rays are modifications only of ordinary light, but as far as known, the sole direct experiments were undertaken by Prof. Schuster, who, at a recent meeting of the Manchester Medical Society, said the results were altogether negative, the bacteria thriving as well in Roentgen rays as out of them.

Scientists here are decidedly sceptical as to the germicidal properties of the X rays, though they are not prepared to deny the reported discovery in Chicago. They want details, however, before believing it.

A CASE OF "GET THERE FIRST."

British Guiana Colonists are Establishing Stations Beyond the Schomburgk Line to Head off Settlement.

Kingston, Ja., April 15.—Private advices from Demerara tend to confirm the report, which was subsequently denied, that an expedition had left Georgetown with the object of establishing stations beyond the Schomburgk line, to head off settlements in the disputed territory to be made under the grants to Americans by Venezuela.

The colonial authorities are beginning to take an active hand in the matter on their own behalf on the grounds of the Imperial Government's stand that it cannot submit to arbitration the political destinies of those regions already occupied by British colonists. The idea is to have as much territory de facto "occupied" as can be grabbed before the whole question goes to arbitration. The determination has been hastened by Venezuela's latest move in refusing to pay the Uruan indemnity, unless the words "disputed territory" be substituted for "British soil," in the description of the locality.

The colonists appear to consider that the solution of the question will largely depend on actual occupation prior to the submission of the matter to arbitration. England's conduct gives some color to the assumption and the Colonial Governor is not slow in taking advantage of this. That such an expedition as that which is now stated to have left Georgetown was in contemplation is well known. It was common talk that if the Americans could occupy the disputed territory under Venezuelan grants, the colonists ought to see to it that they themselves occupied the best positions beforehand.

HAS A SHIP FOUNDERED?

Supposed to Be Some Ship Plying Between the West Indies and New York or Halifax.

Boston, April 15.—From the description of the wreckage passed off Barnegat Light by the schooner William K. Park, Captain Lake, who arrived at Portsmouth, N.H., it is feared some steamer plying to the West Indies, either from New York, or Halifax, N. S., has foundered. Mate Jameson of the Park stated that on the afternoon of the 11th, when the vessel was ten miles northeast of Barnegat, wreckage, including 15 or 20 cases of goods and a large number of broken bill boxes were passed. The cases floated lightly in the water, and it was at first supposed they were empty, but one of them was hauled on board and opened. The case is four feet square and the marks, which are very distinct, are as follows: The letter "D," with the figures "41" underneath, inclosed in a diamond. Underneath the diamond the figures "120," and underneath the figures appear, "Falmouth, Ja." These constitute the private marks of the consignee of the goods at Falmouth, and will doubtless lead to the identification of the vessel on which the goods were shipped. On being opened the case was found to contain infants' clothing, caps, and ladies' straw hats. The contents were thoroughly soaked with water.

Mate Jameson states that this sort of cargo would not be carried on a vessel's deck, so that the theory that the cases might have been swept over from the deck of some steamer is not plausible. The only conclusion that can be arrived at is that some steamer has gone down. No steamers have been reported missing.

Mrs. Ingram is very weak, but looks well in the face. She is greatly reduced in flesh.

Napanee, April 15.—A team of horses owned by Arthur Phippen ran away to-day noon, jumping through the large plate glass window of the Paisley House dining room. The horses were badly cut by the glass and Mr. Phippen had a narrow escape. Fortunately the team was stopped without doing any further damage.

HOW THE SUN LIFE

FULFILS ITS PROMISES.

A Matured 10 Year Endowment.

Profits Paid by the SUN 21 per. cent more than the Estimates.

The following letter, which speaks for itself, was received by the undersigned this morning from a gentleman in Brockville, whose ten year endowment which he held in the Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada matured last week and was paid him. The Sun is modest in promises but UNEQUALLED IN RESULTS. The public are benefited by results, not by promises unfulfilled

BROCKVILLE, November 7th, 1895.

W. H. HILL, Mgr. Central Ontario Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada, Peterborough, Ontario:—

DEAR SIR,—I should have acknowledged the receipt of yours enclosing cheque for endowment policy No. 12,871 before, only I wanted to write something more than a mere receipt. I am pleased to hear of the continued prosperity of the "SUN" and it speaks well for your Company when the profits are greater (by 21 per cent.) than you as the Company's representative promised or rather estimated, as was the case with this policy.

I hope your Company will continue to prosper and I often regret that I do not carry more Insurance than I am doing. I might have carried twice as much as I do when at Minden without any great effort, still what little I do carry I feel is perfectly safe being in the "SUN."

I must thank you for your promptness and kindness regarding this policy just settled. I hope we will both be alive and well when the new one I now hold will be due in 1905 and assuring you of very best wishes, I remain,

Yours Sincerely,
(Signed) F. R. C.

☞ The above voluntary testimonial is significant and shows in a most practical way the SUN'S standing as a profit paying institution.

A mirror could not lie if it wanted to. The glass has nothing to gain by flattery. If the roses of health and plumpness of beauty are leaving your face, your mirror will tell you so. You can see for yourself you are in danger of losing the admiration which is every woman's due. You may not really realize it, but health is the greatest beautifier in the world. Lotions, plasters, creams and cosmetics cannot make as good a complexion as health can. They cannot hide the story of ill-health. They merely emphasize it. Health shows in clearness of eyes and skin, in redness of lips and vivacity of manner and expression. Disease is proved positively by the absence of these things. When a woman sees the indications of ill-health in the face, she may with almost absolute certainty look for the cause in one or both of two conditions—constipation, and derangement of the organs distinctly feminine. These things in themselves are in some degree related, and nine-tenths of all the sickness of women come from them. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription will cure permanently and positively any so-called "female complaint." Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets will cure constipation. There is no reason in the world why a woman should not be perfectly healthy. It rests with herself. If she will take these truly wonderful remedies, and follow a few hygienic measures, she may become perfectly strong and healthy in all ways. She will gain in health, strength and flesh. Hollows and angles will give place to fullness and grace. She will be that noblest and most beautiful of all creation—a perfect woman. All druggists sell Dr. Pierce's medicines, but if you care to know more about them and to know all of the grandest medical truths, send 21 one-cent stamps to cover customs and mailing only, and a complete copy of Dr. Pierce's 1008 page book, "The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser" will be sent post-paid. It is a veritable medical library, complete in one volume. Several finely illustrated chapters are devoted to the consideration of diseases of women and their successful home-treatment. AN INSULT.

Man's Desire to Deceive Shows Itself in an Unusual Way.

In one of the down-town restaurants yesterday a man laboring apparently under the impression of righteous indignation stepped up to the cashier and slapped a 10-cent check down in front of her,

"Didn't the long, slim, consumptive-looking fellow that went out of here a minute ago pay you half a dollar?" he demanded.

"Yes, sir," said the cashier.

"That was what his check called for, wasn't it?"

"Certainly."

"Didn't make any kick about its being too much, did he?"

"Not at all."

"Didn't say your prices were higher than anywhere else in town?"

"He did not."

"It's just as I thought!" he rejoined, "He took my check and left his in its place. All he had was a slice of toast and a cup of tea, and I had a sirloin steak with trimmings. That man," he went on, with increasing energy and in a louder voice, "couldn't have eaten the meal I did to save his life. He wanted you to think he could. He changed checks with me on purpose. He's nothing but a dyspeptic putting on airs. It's a mean, sneaking insult and I won't submit to it without exposing his contemptible little trick. I'll pay his check, but I want you to understand I'm the man that had the square meal!"

He threw down a dime and walked out of the restaurant with his hat on one side of his head, leaving a cashier in a state of utter collapse.—Chicago Tribune.

One Way Out.

Mrs. Bowers—I do wish you would go to church with me occasionally. How are people to know that I am married, if they never see you with me?

Mrs. Bowers—Easy! Take the children with you.

In Church Circles.

"I observed, Brother Rocksworthy," said the Rev. Dr. Fourthly, "that when I spoke in my sermon yesterday of the evils of gambling in stocks and expressed the hope that no member of my congregation ever frequented places where such gambling was made a business you slapped your thigh emphatically. I am glad if the sentiment met your approval."

"Why—aw—the fact is, doctor," replied Brother Rocksworthy, "I—I suddenly remembered where I had left my umbrella."—Chicago Tribune.

A Good Definition.

Aunt (to little Oscar)—What dress had your mother on when she drove off to the party this evening?

Oscar—A long, white, short dress.

"Nonsense, it could not be long and short at the same time."

"Yes, aunty. It was long at the bottom and short at the top.—Philadelphia Enquirer.

WHOLESALE MURDER OF BABIES.

This Accused Woman is Said to Have Deprived Between Thirty and Forty Infants of Life.

New York, April 14.—A special despatch to The Journal from London says: The alleged baby murderess with the suggestive name of Dyer attempted to commit suicide at Reading yesterday. She tried to strangle herself with her shoelaces, tying them into the same knot and putting it under the left ear, precisely as in the case of each strangled infant found in the Thames. The woman is now watched so closely that suicide is impossible. It is further learned that the murderess formerly attempted suicide by drowning at Bristol, where she was committed as an insane person. She met the old woman nicknamed "Grannie," her accomplice, while in the Bristol Infirmary. The two went to Reading, where "Grannie" is now assisting the police in their investigation.

According to the latest rumors, perhaps thirty or forty babies were murdered during the course of her business career in Reading. The baby clothes found in the house weigh nearly three hundred pounds. A box has also been found, which emits a horrible stench. It evidently had contained an infant's body, which afterwards was conveyed to the Thames.

Slowly but surely the police are weaving a strong net around Mrs. Dyer, while the constables are still combing the bed of the river others work every loose end of the threads. Thus far they have secured a brown paper in which one baby was wrapped, which has been identified by a railway clerk, who swears that it was the covering of a parcel delivered to the prisoner. Proof has also been obtained of one journey of Mrs Dyer, which began with a baby and a carpet bag, and which ended with the bag, minus the baby, which was presumably disposed of in the Thames. In every case she exacted from the mothers a lump sum down.

Thirty to forty bodies of infants have been found in the Thames within London limits, all undoubtedly having been murdered, perhaps not all by Mrs. Dyer and her male accomplice.

The editor of The St. James' Gazette says that it is clearly time that somebody was waking up about this matters, that it is not pleasant to think that wholesale child murder on a Herodian scale is going on right in our midst, without public attention being called to it or without the police apparently thinking it worth a special report.

IT DIDN'T HIT HIM.

Why the Terrified Tramp Visited the Newspaper Office.

"I saw an article in your paper the other day," said the tramp as he reached the editorial floor—"an article about the verbose tramp. I want an explanation. How did this tramp look?"

"It was some reporter who wrote the article."

"Well, does verbose mean that he was a hustler?"

"Hardly."

"Was he languid?"

"Not that either."

"Does verbose mean that he had lost his appetite?"

"No."

"Run down in flesh?"

"No. Verbose is verbose. It's a sort of demeanor and look hard to describe."

"Am I verbose?"

"No."

"Is it anything against the purfeshun?"

"No."

"Won't discourage women from passing out cold victuals and old clothes?"

"Not a bit."

"Then I'm satisfied. I didn't know but it was some new thing—something to work again us, and I wanted to know. Couldn't many of the boys be verbose if they wanted to, could they?"

"No."

"Then it won't spread?"

"On, no."

"All right—that's all. I've dodged most everything for twenty-two years past, and am glad I don't have to worry over this. No verbosity here, thank you. May be all right, but unction has carried me safely through thus far."—M. Quad, in Detroit Free Press.

CHOSE A SAFE PLACE.

He Skipped for the Spot Where the Generals Were.

Gen. Lee told an amusing story to a Charlottesville Chronicle reporter. When he was about to deliver an address at the Confederate reunion in Craig County recently, some one came to him and asked him if he would speak to an old colored man who wished to speak to him. The General consented, and the old negro, whose name was Sam, and who had fought throughout the war, came and received the proffered hand. Gen. Lee at once began to put questions to the old fellow, who answered with wonderful skill. The General then asked him where he had seen the best time during the war.

"At Chickamauga," at once replied the darkey, "because I run as soon as the firing began."

"But how did you know in which way to run in such a hot battle?" asked Gen. Lee, with a merry twinkle in his eye.

"I went directly to the safest place, and the first I could find," answered Sam, coming to his climax.

Again he was asked how he could tell which place was safe.

"I knowed it was safe," answered Sam, "cause I skipped for de place whar de Ginirils was."—Charlottesville Chronicle.

TORTURES OF RHEUMATISM.

The pains of rheumatism are removed and the disease driven from the system by the use of Burdock Blood Bitters, the conqueror of thousands of the severest cases.

Mrs. J. M. Monkman, of Arkwright, Ont., says:—I took inflammatory rheumatism in February, 1894, and doctored for it some weeks, but found I was getting worse. All my joints were swollen very much and I was not able to leave my bed and could get neither sleep or rest. Hearing from a neighbour that she got your Burdock Blood Bitters for her daughter, who had the same disease and it cured her, I purchased a bottle and, after taking about one half of it I found myself recovering and after continuing it for some time I recovered but when the cold weather set in I found it returning again. So I commenced to take the B. B. B. again, when I found, after taking it about a week, that all pain and swelling of the joints had disappeared and I consider that I am entirely cured.

AN EGGS-TATIC MAIDEN.

O, thou ovoidal maiden fair,
Whose soul is filled with egg-tacy—
Egg-sulted o'er thy book of prayer—
Egg-tend, I pray, one glance to me.

Thy rare egg-uberance doth tempt
My admiration and egg-cite
Me to egg-plain I'm not egg-empt
From such ovicular delight.

My case I don't egg-aggerate—
My heart's egg-low—with love on fire;
Egg-lie me not by scorn or hate,
For fear that I in grief egg-pire.

Whence comest thou? What eggery
Is thine in form so well egg-pressed?
I fain would now thy egg'er be,
And build for thee a cosy nest—

A cottage, not of great egg-pense,
But one egg-quisite—sweetly clean,
While far egg-ploring house and fence
Should run the lovely egg-landine.

Eggs-emplary has been my life—
Pray deem me not an egg-otist—
And now egg-cept thou'lt be my wife,
I care not longer to egg-ist.

In vain shalt thou egg-postulate,
In vain egg-haust both pro and con,
And, e'en shouldst thou egg-hibit hate,
I think it would but egg me on.

Consent at last, I do egg-tract—
Egg-sultant now, I'm filled with pride,
To think I may, at noon egg-act,
Egg-pect to have an Easter bride.

Mr. Chas. Smith, Dawn Mills, says:—"For several years I was troubled with pains in my limbs, which continued getting worse until I thought I would have to quit work. Granby Rubbers

It is no wonder that rubbers, which are not the same shape as the boot, should be uncomfortable. It costs money to employ skilled pattern makers but the result is a satisfactory fit. Each year new patterns are added, to fit all the latest shoe-shapes, and Granby Rubbers are always "up-to-date." They are honestly made of pure rubber, thin, light, elastic, durable, extra thick at ball and heel.

THE AGNEW MURDER.

Further Developments Which are Not Favorable to Young Kearney.

Lindsay, April 16.—Another empty 32-calibre shell has been found on the road leading past the house of the murdered Jno. Agnew, and it is thought this may be the shell from which the fatal bullet was discharged. On the same road remnants of some rubber-tipped lead pencils have been found, similar to those taken from the office of Cowdry's warehouse when it was broken into. The pencils had been whittled into bits and thrown away. This leads to the inference that the Cowdry burglar and the Agnew murderer may be the same person.

It is found that the knife found on John Kearney, who is now awaiting trial, was the property of Miss Rogers, typewriter at the Sadler, Dundas & Flavelle Company's mill. Miss Rogers always left the knife in the office, and missed it the morning after the burglary. The fact that Kearney had the knife is considered good evidence that he had connection with the burglary. The authorities are still searching for the watch formerly carried by John Kearney.

THE PROCTOR MEMORIAL.

Largest Astronomical Observatory Will Have Largest Telescope.

Chicago, April 16.—A. H. Isham of San Francisco, second vice-president of the World's Proctor Memorial Association, is on his way to Belfast, Ireland, to confer with Mrs. Proctor, widow of the astronomer, Richard A. Proctor, in the interest of the great project of erecting the largest astronomical observatory in the world on the summit of Mount San Miguel, near San Diego, Cal.

The observatory is to be fitted out with the largest telescopes that have ever been constructed and they are two in number.

The first is to have a lense five times the size of that of the Lick and four times the size of the Yerkes.

Ever since the death of the great astronomer, Sir Richard A. Proctor, Mrs. Proctor has been desirous of founding a memorial in his honor. In seeking a site for the proposed memorial, she went to California, and her desire met a response in A. H. Isham, who owned the peak of Mount San Miguel. Mr. Isham donated this to the great memorial. The big telescope is for this memorial.

A SCARE OVER HORSES NOW.

Liverpool Health Authorities Will Thoroughly Inspect Imported Animals.

London, April 16.—In consequence of the report of the Liverpool Health Committee representing that the spread of glanders in horses in that city is due to the importation of Canadian horses, the Government will probably order the inspection of horses upon their landing at Liverpool and the disinfection of vessels upon which they arrive, but will not otherwise hamper the trade in imported horses. Inquiries on the part of the authorities, show that glanders have always been prevalent, upon which the Health Committee's action was taken. They allege that Canadian horses arriving at Liverpool are often afflicted with pulmonary influenza, which weakens the English horses by contact with them, and renders them more liable to attacks of influenza.

A HEAVY SAFE FELL ON HIM.

The Accident Which Befel Mr. W. A. White, a Lindsay Contractor.

Lindsay, April 16.—This afternoon while hoisting a heavy safe to the offices of the Victoria Loan and Savings Co. Mr. W. A. White, contractor, was badly injured. It appears that Mr. White was following the safe up stairs and guiding it with a crowbar while some 15 men were pulling on a rope. A plank on which it rested broke and the heavy iron safe rolled down stairs on top of White. It was some minutes before the safe was lifted off White. Strange to say no bones were broken and if he is not injured internally he may recover.

WILL BE SHOT THIS MORNING.

Three Cuban Prisoners to Meet Their Doom in the Cabanas Fortress.

Havana, April 16.—Gregorio Borgas, Jose Bacallao and Esteban Fernandes will be shot to-morrow in the Cabanas fortress. They were accused of the crime of rebellion, tried by a court martial and sentenced to death.

Thirty-two political prisoners have been arrested and placed in Morro Castle.

Nineteen persons, mostly women and children, belonging to the family of Periquito Peres, have been taken to Santiago de Cuba and placed in jail there.

Maceo, the rebel commander, still remains west of the Trocha. Slight attacks at different points are reported.

Presbyterian Synod at Collingwood.

Montreal, April 16.—Receipts of cattle at the markets this morning were only moderate, while small meats were in heavier supply. SKIN FOOD.

Proper Diet and Correct Nourishment Needed for the Skin's Health.

A dry, scaly skin is a sure indication of a blood disturbance, and frequently accompanies dyspepsia. The best treatment for it is a careful diet, an avoidance of all highly seasoned food, coffee, tea and alcoholic stumulants. Great attention should be patiently given to diet and general hygiene. Frequent bathing in warm, soft water, and the annointing of the face several times each day and before retiring with the following lotion, will sometimes quite cure the dry condition, and always temporarily allay the itching, which is one of the disagreeable features of this annoying facial condition:

Glycerine (pure)	8 ounces
Cologne	2 ounces
Borax (pulverized)	2 ounces
Alcohol	2 ounces
Camphor water (not spirits of camphor)	16 ounces

Sometimes a dry skin is the result of a long illnes where fever has literally burned the cuticle so that it is parchment. In such case a skin food is better than a lotion.

The skin food which nourishes and builds up the skin tissues and supplies the oils that have been exhausted by heat is most efficacious if applied at night after a warm bath. It is well to rub it thoroughly into the skin. Massage is excellent in connection with this treatment.

Melt in a water bath three ounces of spermaceti, eight ounces of oil of almonds, four of lanoline, and two ounces of cocoanut oil. Stir briskly until cold; then add, drop by drop, one ounce of orange flower water and ten drops of oil of jasmin. Keep sealed, except when using.—New York Journal

Can Heart Failure be Prevented?

Startling and brief the announcement, "Sudden Death Caused by Heart Failure." Such is the stereotyped announcement of coroners, juries, and reporters arousing the forebodings of those victims of indigestion and mal-nutrition, who so frequently disturb themselves upon the manifestation in palpitation or fluttering, of functional disturbance of the heart; symptoms which they are foolishly prone to accept as the signs of an incurable and speedily fatal malady. Maltine with Coca Wine is potent in restoring conditions that no longer render possible such alarmingly disturbing symptoms. Maltine with Coca Wine, through its remedial influence upon the nervous system, soothes into calmness the disorganized nerves. The heart, in response to increased nerve force, no longer plunges and beats as if determined to break.

Maltine with Coca Wine has long been recognized as the most pleasant and efficient remedy for all those functional derangements that find manifestation in lassitude, sleeplessness, despondency, and loss of appetite and digestive power. A nerve tonic, a body-builder, a nutrient and digestive agent of inestimable value. All druggists sell it.

To remove worms of all kinds from children or adults Dr. Low's Worm Syrup is a safe and sure remedy.

FRENCH TRADE ON THE INCREASE

Mr. Laurier Makes Some Wise Suggestions —No French Port Included in the Proposed Fast Atlantic Service With Great Britain - Gossip of the Capital.

Ottawa, April 17.—(Special.)—Mr. Charlton's Armenian resolution was taken up early this afternoon in the House, and passed without discussion. Sir Charles Tupper seconded it, and expressed his hearty sympathy with it. The resolution reads "that this House expresses its deep sympathy with the sufferings of the Christian population in Asiatic Turkey, but trusts that further endeavors will be made to ameliorate their lot, and that for this purpose concurrent action by the Christian powers of the world, including the United States of America, may be secured."

Mr. McCarthy was anxious that the Government should allow consideration of his bill to amend the Elections Act in the matter of the issue of writs for by-elections, but Mr. Dickey was unable to accede to the proposition, in view of the nearness of prorogation, and the controversial character of the bill

The resolution of Controller Wood respecting the rearrangement of salaries in the Customs Department and increasing the salary of the Commissioner to $4000 was dropped.

The House went into committee on the bill to provide for the non-revision of the lists in 1896, and for nearly two hours the prolific subject of Dominion franchise was debated, the bill being reported just at 6 oclock.

The hour apportioned for private bills after recess was taken up in discussing the Manitoba and Nelson Valley Railway Bill. Evidently the talk was carried on to prevent the Chignecto Ship Railway Bill being reached, and this was successfully accomplished.

A resolution authorizing the Minister of Finance to close up certain financial transactions with the Montreal Turnpike trust was reported.

On Mr. Ives' motion the House considered the motion declaring that it was expedient to provide that the Governor in Council may enter into a contract for a term not exceeding five years for the performance of a fortnightly steamship service between a port or ports in Canada and ports in France and Belgium for a subsidy not exceeding $50,000 per annum. Mr. Ives explained that a considerable trade having sprung up under the French treaty, and in view of the French surtax the Government proposed by this measure to obtain a fortnightly direct service between Canada and Antwerp, Boulogne and Havre. Vessels are to be of 2400 tons and fitted with cold storage and passenger accommodation, with a speed of 10 1-2 knots. The Canadian ports are to be Montreal in summer and St. John and Halifax in winter.

In reply to Mr. Mills (Bothwell) Mr. Ives said the increase under the French treaty had been in the exportation of lumber and dried fish.

Sir Richard Cartwright—What is it expected to export by means of cold storage?

Mr. Ives—Principally fresh meats, fruits, butter and cheese.

Sir Richard Cartwright—But it strikes me that France and Belgium are large exporters of cheese.

Mr. Ives—Yes, but French cheese is an expensive product, while ours goes into consumption largely among the poorer classes.

Mr. Laurier agreed that under proper conditions and with a good class of steamships subsidized we might expect some tangible results of trade with France. Our efforts so far had not been very fruitful, most probably the drawback having been the inferior class of steamships engaged in the trade. He said, however, that he could testify to the fact that there had been a large increase in our exports of lumber to France, possibly as a result of the French treaty. (Sir Charles Tupper—Hear, hear.) He added that there was a prospect also of extending our trade in live cattle with France, which was an important point, considering that our cattle were scheduled in England. France now imported yearly 174,638 head of live cattle from Italy and Algeria.

Sir Richard Cartwright inquired if it was still intended to stipulate that the proposed fast Atlantic service between Canada and England should make a terminal port in France also.

Mr. Ives replied that it was proposed to strike out from the specification for the fast line the clause requiring steamers to visit a French port. As tenderers for the fast line would be freed from this condition, the Government hoped to obtain a proportionately better offer. Boulogne was proposed as the French terminal port of this line, because the company controlling the railway terminating there had taken a great interest in Canadian trade.

Mr. Mills (Bothwell) observed that all the same this was adding about $4,000,000 to the public debt, an observation which Sir Richard corrected by remarking that the net addition would be but one and a half millions.

Sir Charles Tupper said the object of having a direct line to France was to escape the surtax d'entrepot which was imposed on all goods arriving via an intermediate port, and which seriously hampered trade.

Mr. Laurier pointed out that, besides her imports of cattle, France also imported from Italy 1,993,987 head of sheep last year. He therefore hoped the live cattle accommodation on the Franco-Canadian steamers would be ample.

The resolution then carried.

Next Mr. Foster moved the House into Committee of Ways and Means. He had been urged, he said, to make numerous changes in the tariff, but owing to the shortness of the session he could not see his way clear to recommend any of them to the House. The only proposal he had to make was to extend for another year the privilege of admitting free into Canada such mining machinery as is of a class not manufactured in Canada. The resolution passed.

The debate was then resumed on Mr. Foster's motion to go into supply Mr. Gibson taking up the discussion of Mr. Davies' strictures upon the Goodwin claim in connection with the Soulanges Canal contract. Mr. Gibson criticized the ruling of the ex-Minister of Justice from the standpoint of a practical contractor.

Sir C. H. Tupper replied to Mr. Gibson, after which Mr. Campbell moved the adjournment of the debate.

The House then adjourned until 2 o'clock to-morrow.

Hon. Dr. Montague arrived from England to-day. He was met at the station by a number of his political friends, who escorted him to his home. To-night Mr. and Mrs. Montague, accompanied by Mr. Robert Birmingham, left for Dunnville, where the remains of their infant son will be interred to-morrow.

The general impression in military circles is that Col. Cole of Montreal Garrison Artillery will go to England this year in charge of the artillery team for Shoeburyness. The name of Capt. Bob Myles of the Toronto Field Battery is mentioned in connection with the adjutancy of the team.

The Railway Committee held its closing meeting to-day. Two electric railway bills—Toronto, Hamilton & Niagara Falls Electric Railway, and the Canadian Electric Railway & Power Company—were withdrawn and fees refunded. The Government holds that the incorporation of such companies comes properly within the view of the provincial authorities.

Mr. Casey's bill to require railway companies to make better protection for their employes was killed by the committee rising without reporting it. Messrs. Tait and Clark of the C.P.R. were present to watch the interests of the company. They claim that their road is adopting all reasonable precautions for the safety of passengers and employes.

A return brought down to-day contains an order in Council relating to the increased mail subsidy to the Canadian Pacific Railway, which went into effect on the 1st July last. In place of receiving $105 per mile on the total mileage of the company from St. John to Vancouver, a distance of 3392 miles, the increase is made to $130 per mile, or an increase per annum of $99,125. Recently (19th February) a number of increases were sanctioned on local lines of the C.P.R., totalling $14,118 per annum.

The statement of the unclaimed balances in the banks was brought down to-day. It shows that the total amount lying unclaimed in 1894 was $425,201. This had been reduced to $392,408 last year.

An application has been made to the Government for permission to use pound nets for sturgeon fishing in Lake Winnipeg, but the department has felt it impossible to grant the request. Indeed, so anxious are the fishing companies on Lake Winnipeg to conserve the fisheries that by mutual arrangement they are not using the quantity of nets which they are authorized to do under the license.

J. M. Macoun of the Geological Survey leaves for the Pribyloff Islands, in Behring Sea, in a few days, for the purpose of taking notes in regard to sealing operations carried on under the United States auspices on these rookeries.

According to the returns received at the Customs Department, there has been a steady increase in the imports from France since the French treaty went into effect. The returns for Toronto, Montreal, Hamilton and other cities all show this. With many importers the duty upon packages is a sore point, but there is no likelihood of the Government abolishing it.

The Premier this afternoon, in answer to a question by Senator Power, said he thought prorogation would take place on Wednesday or Thursday of next week.

On motion of Premier Bowell, it was decided that for the remainder of the session the Senate should have two distinct sessions each day, one from 3 o'clock until 6, and another from 8 in the evning until adjournment.

The Cabinet to-day had under consideration the granting of a number of new subsidies to railways.

The deposits in the Government Savings Banks for March exceeded withdrawals by $15,000, while in the post-office banks the withdrawals exceeded the deposits by $8000.

A deputation from Mr. Bergin's constituency is here to ask the Government to cause the removal of the dam on the Nation River near Chrysler.

J. J. Kingsmill, president of the Mining Institute of Ontario; Ewen Mackenzie, Henry O'Brien, James Gunn, George P. Magann, Alexander Fraser, George Gurd and Jacob Dolmage, all of Toronto, are seeking incorporation as the Anglo-Canadian Mining Exchange, limited, with headquarters at Toronto, and a capital of $50,000.

Certain Montrealers are seeking incorporation as the Standard Gas Co., with a capital of $100,000.

An order in council has been passed granting permission to change the name of the steamer Vera of Chatham to Comfort.

Culling fees, as applicable to the measuring of timber, have been revised by order in council.

Capt. Pearson of the Fisheries Protection Service on the great lakes, has been gazetted fishery officer, with full power to make seizures for violation of the law.

John Burns and Alfred McCandlish of Hamilton have been appointed clerks in the Customs service.

WILL AID IN SURGERY

Tesla Outdoes the Wizard at Orange, N.J.

THE HUMAN BODY TRANSPARENT

By X Rays One Can See Through Three Men in a Row—Internal Organs Clearly Visible by the Use of the Fluorescent Screen.

New York, April 17.—Nicola Tesla has done what all the other exploiters of the Roentgen rays has failed to do. He has succeeded in looking through the human body. He has gone farther and seen through the bodies of three of his assistants placed in a line with the rays.

Ever since the discovery of Edison that he could see the bones of the hand through a fluorescent screen experimenters with the X rays have been devoting their energies to trying to see throught the body. The living skeleton has been photographed many times by the use of the rays. But no development of the light was found sufficiently powerful to penetrate the trunk of the body.

Edison believed that he had almost solved the problem when he discovered the fluorescent screen. In this he used tungstate of calcium, which he believed to be six times more fluorescent than the platino-bario-cyanide, which Roentgen and most of his successors used.

Tesla, on the contrary, has persevered in using the platino-bario-cyanide for his fluorescent screen, after testing almost every known substance, and some few that were not recognized previously.

The neck, the upper part of the chest, the arms and legs were found by Edison to be amenable to the rays from a powerful tube and his fluorescent screen. But the trunk of the body resisted all his attacks. Then he set about trying exhaustively to perfect the tubes.

That is exactly the work to which Tesla has devoted his energies. Throughout all his experimenting, which has added so wonderfully to the application of electricity, his one aim has been to secure great power. So it has been in his work with the X rays. Whereas other scientists were using a voltage, reckoned in thousands, or even hundreds of thousands, Tesla handled millions. His great object was to secure vast power in the vacuum tubes, and onw he has succeeded.

The skeleton of one of his assistants who stood at a distance of five or six feet from the tube which was giving off the rays was plainly seen. Every bone stood out with perfect clearness. But that was not all.

Tesla has finally perfected the X ray tube to such an extent that he saw completely through the skeleton as well as flesh. One of his assistants, who was the subject experimented on, stood with his back to the vacuum tube where the X rays were better given off. He held a brass plate in front of his chest, moving it up and down.

The X rays had penetrated the body, and through the fluorescent screen Telsa could distinctly see the brass plate as it moved up and down.

"It is true that I have succeeded in seeing through the body," said Tesla to a reporter yesterday. "Not only that, but I have seen through three men standing in a row."

The effects of this recent discovery of the electrical wizard cannot be estimated lightly. It has been the belief of physicians and surgeons ever since scientists began to exploit the Roentgen theory that their work would be enormously benefited if it were possible to photograph the human organs. Now that they will be enabled to see them, the results should be many times more valuable.

In diagnosing a case the physician or surgeon will be enabled to see readily what is the matter with the patient. Fractures in bones can be seen instead of felt, and the bones reset with ease. In operating with the knife for the removal of foreign substances many a grievous error in locating the object will be done away with.

Tesla's wonderful discovery means that the internal organs can be inspected with perfect ease. It means that he has given to humanity a boon on a par with vaccination, anaesthetics and other marvelous discoveries in medicine.

TORONTO MEN IN TROUBLE.

A Buffalo Justice Sends Fred Stewart Down for Thirty Days.

Buffalo, N.Y., April 17.—Fred Stewart and John Hammond of Toronto, who were arrested by Headquarters Detectives Lynch and Reagan as suspicious characters, were arraigned before Judge King this morning. They were charged with being pickpockets, and the officers who arrested them produced in court a lot of curious coins and beads which were found in the possession of the prisoners when searched. The officers believed that the articles had been stolen. Hammond wept when arraigned, and begged so hard for mercy that Judge King released him on his promise of leaving town as quick as his legs could carry him. Stewart appeared bold and self-possessed, so the judge did not relent in his case, but sent him to the penitentiary for 30 days. Both men were, it is said, intimate with the gang of seven pickpockets who were railroaded to the penitentiary for six months by Judge King a few days ago.

PAIN IN THE BACK.

A Certain Indication of the Lodgement of Kidney Disease.

It is a mistake to suppose that pain in the back is a result only of a cold, and is more of a rheumatic trouble than anything else. It is evidence that disease has lodged itself in the kidneys, and the warning is plain, if further trouble is not to be taken on, that the pain must be quickly got rid of. There is no remedy we can so completely recommend as South American Kidney Cure. Knowing what it will do, there is nothing extravagant in the statement of Count de Dory, who wrote from Nepawa, Man. : "During my travels I was induced to try South American Kidney Cure, from which remedy I received instant relief. I do not think it has an equal." Sold by H. S. Macdonald.

THE PEOPLE'S POLICY — THE LIBERAL PLATFORM.

The following is the second resolution adopted at the National Convention of the Liberal party at Ottawa, June 1893:

Enlarged Markets Reciprocity.—That, having regard to the prosperity of Canada and the United States as adjoining countries, with many mutual interests, it is desirable that there should be the most friendly relations and liberal trade intercourse between them; that the interests alike of the Dominion and of the Empire would be materially advanced by the establishing of such relations; that the period of the old reciprocity treaty was one of marked prosperity to the British North American colonies; that the pretext under which the Government appealed to the country in 1891 respecting negotiation for a treaty with the United States was misleading and dishonest and intended to deceive the electorate; that no sincere effort has been made by them to obtain a treaty, but that, on the contrary, it is manifest that the present Government, controlled as they are by monopolies and combines, are not desirous of securing such a treaty; that the first step towards obtaining the end in view is to place a party in power who are sincerely desirous of promoting a treaty on terms honourable to both countries; that a fair and liberal reciprocity treaty would develop the great natural resources of Canada, would enormously increase the trade and commerce between the two peoples, would remove many causes which have in the past provoked irritation and trouble to the Governments of both countries, and would promote those kindly relations between the Empire and the Republic which afford the best guarantee for peace and prosperity; that the Liberal party is prepared to enter into negotiations with a view to obtaining such a treaty, including a well-considered list of manufactured articles, and we are satisfied that any treaty so arranged will receive the assent of her Majesty's Government, without whose approval no treaty can be made.

The apostles of trade restriction—the advocates of a protective policy—seek to develop trade by obstructing free intercourse between commercial communities. No one will seriously argue that a reciprocity treaty between this country and the United States, our nearest neighbours and best market for certain classes of our surplus products, would not be of the highest advantage to Canada. We all know that, under the old reciprocity treaty, trade with our neighbours flourished finely. That these reciprocal trade relations with the United States would be highly beneficial to Canada, is the general belief of the Canadian people, does not admit of a doubt. The Dominion Government felt this so strongly that in the general elections of 1891, that government appealed for popular support on the ground that they were negotiating a treaty of reciprocity with the United States. They must have strongly felt the popularity of the reciprocity idea when they stooped to "steal their opponents' thunder" for the sake of gaining favour with the electorate. But it was shown that they were deceiving the people, and that they were neither honest nor sincere in their claim of anxiety to secure reciprocal trade relations. And one can expect nothing in this direction from a party that is wedded to the policy of making the people rich by taxing them. Any mode of relief—any expansion of trade that would interfere with the manipulation of the tariff in the interests of the Government in the matter of maintaining a constant source of supply for campaign funds, will find no favour in their eyes. This expansion of trade facilities can only be brought about by replacing the present self-seeking Government by a party anxious to rule the country in the country's interests and not for the benefit of one section of the community at the expense of another—not, with all the wheat for the favoured, tariff-fattened producer and all the chaff for the consumer.

The National Policy was to create and maintain an adequate home market for the products of both factory and field. If it had done so, the county would not feel so keenly the effects of exclusion from our nearest market. But it has failed to provide such a home market—one adequate to the demands made upon it. To prosper we want population and if the policy of the government had been such as to fill with consumers the illimitable acres of our Northwest, there might have been some prospect of having an adequate home market. But their misgovernment, their abortive immigration policy, their mismanagement of our Northwest lands and their mischievious policy of burdensome taxation, the monstrous increase of the public debt, the extravagant inflation of the annual expenditure, have all conspired to decrease or leave stationary our population. Instead of millions of consumers in the Northwest demanding the manufactured products of the older provinces, we have a little 200,000 as the total population of a territory that is capable of affording happy homes for scores of millions, and which, with honest economical government, with a rational fiscal policy such as the Liberals advocate, would, with the rest of our great country, advance in development by leaps and bounds.

OBJECTION may fairly be urged to a three-cornered political contest on the ground that it cannot be a square fight.

WOULD it be wise or consistent for a Patron to vote for the candidate of a party whose fiscal policy is exactly contradictory to the chief plank of the Patrons' platform?

MONSTROUS CRUELTIES.

Men, Women and Children, Young, Old and Crippled, Slain for Being Cubans.

Havana, Cuba, April 17.—There are no words in any language, neither is there any pen mighty and eloquent enough to describe the awful cruelties and wholesale slaughter on the Island of Cuba.

Spain, realising that her grip on Cuba is rapidly loosening, has sent out here to quell the revolution one who is well known to the entire world for his harsh disposition. Not only during the 10 years' war did he make a hated record, but as Captain-General of the Philippine Islands he allowed so many cruelties to be perpetrated that the people in Spain entreated the Government to remove him.

The Spaniards here proudly say that had he remained much longer as Governor of the Philippine Islands he would only have left soldiers standing on their feet, and that here he will have to kill off at least 60 per cent. of the population to pacify Cuba.

Men, women and children, young, old and crippled, are being murdered every day in Cuba by the hundred, for no other reason than that they are native Cubans. The assassination of peaceful peasants is more horrible than can be described. As for prisoners of war, their fate is well known. Whenever Cuban rebels fall into the hands of Spanish troops not a single one is spared.

The Spanish merchants and politicians here pretend that the condition of the island has improved materially in the last month, and that the revolution is rapidly being quelled. There is nothing to justify this absurd supposition. Their mistaken ideas come from their ignorance of what is happening, since absolutely no news is allowed to be published, and the people are too much afraid to speak about events.

Antonio Maceo has recrossed the military trocha and is now once more in Havana Province. This important information has not yet been published officially, and will cause a sensation here when it becomes generally known. The military trocha between Majana and Mariel was supposed to be as solid as an iron wall. It is a bitter disappointment to the Spanish that Maceo so easily baffles them.

Gen. Weyler is very shrewd. His latest trick is appointing a special secretary of a diplomatic character for international complications. This is a blow aimed at the United States. By appointing this diplomatic secretary Gen. Weyler avoids personal interviews with Consul-General Williams, which he considers the most unsatisfactory part of his duties as Captain-General. Direct answers can now be easily avoided in the cunning, deceitful fashion characteristic of the Spanish race. Above all, time will thereby be gained, which is a very important item for the losing side.

TO COLONIZE ANTICOSTI.

Menier of Chocolate Fame Sends Fifty French Emigrants From Havre to Start the Experiment.

Havre, April 17.—The steamer Savoy freighted by Gaston Menier, of chocolate fame, for Anticosti, in the estuary of the St. Lawrence, where M. Menier intends to make an attempt at colonization, left here yesterday.

On this first voyage the Savoy carries a large quantity of material, agricultural implements and tools of all kinds, and 50 emigrants of different trades.

The Governor of the Island is M. Commettant, former commissioner of the Trans-Atlantic Company, whose salary is $5000. Another inhabitant of Havre, M. Landrieu, is associated with him in the work of administration. The cost of this attempt at colonization is estimated at $1,400,000.

"SALT RHEUM CURE."

A RETIRED BRITISH SOLDIER MAKES A SWORN DECLARATION.

Lingered for Sixteen Years and Unable to Occupy His Bed—Found Great Relief in 'Kootenay Cure," the Surest Known.

County Wentworth, Province of Ontario. To wit:

I, John Hughes, of the City of Hamilton, County of Wentworth, Province of Ontario, a retired British soldier, residence 126 West-avenue, N. D., solemnly declare: That after lingering for sixteen years with that terrible disease Salt Rheum in such form that I was unable to sleep or in fact to occupy my bed without suffering excruciating agony, I procured a bottle of "Ryckman's Kootenay Cure" and was so pleased with the result that I wrote Mr. Ryckman stating that I was benefitted and expected to be completely cured. I now desire to affirm that before finishing the third bottle I considered myself a "Salt Rheum Cure." I confidently recommend the medicine to all others suffering from the same disease as I believe it to be the surest cure yet known.

And I make this solemn declaration conscientiously believing it to be true and knowing that this is of the same force and effect as if made under oath and by virtue of the Canada Evidence Act.

(Signed.) JOHN HUGHES.

Declared before me at the City of Hamilton, in the County of Wentworth, this 19th day of February, A. D., 1896.

We Will Take Steps to Protect You.

We have the very best proof that certain dealers are endeavouring to induce their customers to take adulterated and imitation dyes when Diamond Dyes are asked for. In many cases dealers knowing that their persuasive powers will have a bad effect, stealthily wrap up poor dyes instead of the "Diamond," as looked for and expected by the public. This is gross and rank swindling, and richly deserves exposure.

We will thank the friends and users of Diamond Dyes if they will kindly send us the names of dealers who, for the sake of extra money profit, make attempts to defraud and deceive.

Diamond Dyes have gained a world-wide fame, and we do not propose to have the ladies put to loss, trouble and inconvenience by the dishonest acts of greedy dealers. Wells & Richardson Co., Montreal.

Mr. Chas. Smith, Dawn Mills, says:—"For several years I was troubled with pains in my limbs, which continued getting worse until I thought I would have to quit work. In fact the pains were so severe that I could not rest nights. I took one box of Miller's Compound Iron Pills and am perfectly cured." Although it is nearly a year since Mr. S. took the pills he has had no return of the pains, and feels splendid. Sold in Peterborough by Wm. Madill, Druggist.

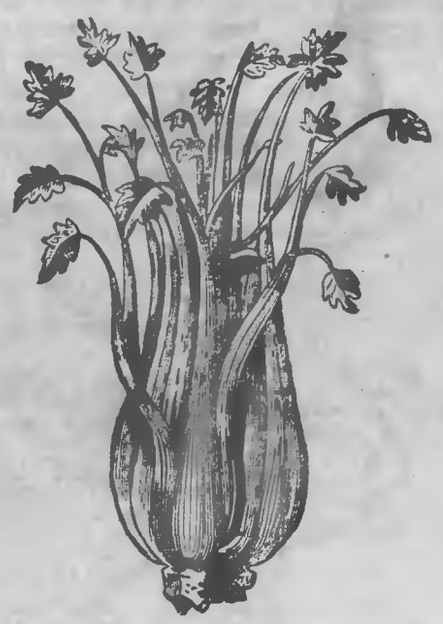
PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND.

THE BEST REMEDY IN THE WORLD---IT MAKES PEOPLE WELL.



There is one true specific for diseases arising from impure blood and a debilitated nervous system, and that is Paine's Celery Compound, so generally prescribed by physicians. It is probably the most remarkable remedy that the scientific research of this country has produced. Prof. Edward E. Phelps, M.D., LL.D., of Dartmouth College, first prescribed what is now known the world over as Paine's Celery Compound, a positive cure for dyspepsia, biliousness, liver complaint, neuralgia, rheumatism, all nervous diseases and kidney troubles. For the latter, Paine's Celery Compound has succeeded again and again where everything else has failed.

A WOMAN'S COURAGE

A Cuban Senora Faces Death to Save Her Husband.

CUTITO PIECES BY THE SPANIARDS

A Sensational Incident in the Cuban Insurrection—The Victims Fell Shouting "Viva Cuba Libre!" and 5000 Insurgent Soldiers Answered the Cry.

Havana April 17.—A correspondent who is with Maceo has forwarded the story of a tragic incident that occurred during the battle on Saturday, in which the Spaniards were so seriously defeated by the insurgents:

"As the Spaniards were retreating," he writes, "one woman was killed while performing an act of courage that has been without parallel among the women of war, and three men lost their lives while trying to save her. She was Senora Paquita Alvarez, one of the female company that Senora Hernandez organized.

"Senora Alvarez's husband was in the battle, and during the retreat he, with two Cubans, saw a chance to capture Lieut.-Col. Debos. The Spaniard had moved a little too far from the right flank of his command, and Alvarez and his companions made a dash for him. Debos saw the movement and ran for the shelter of his troops. The Cubans rashly pursued him too far and in a moment found themselves fighting for their lives with a score of the enemy.

"Senora Alvarez saw her husband's danger and rushed to the rescue, followed by two Cuban soldiers, who were determined that she should not be unprotected. Senora Alvarez fell on the Spaniards surrounding her husband with the ferocity of a tigress. He was fighting alone. The two other men who started to capture the Colonel with Alvarez were both dead. The quarters were too close to permit the use of rifles, so Senor and Senora Alvarez and the two Cubans who followed her were fighting with machetes. It was a battle against fearful odds.

"Suddenly Alvarez thought he saw a chance of flight through the line to safety. He called to his wife to follow and started off towards the rebel column through a living wall, but Senora Alvarez was too weak to cope with so many soldiers and the two men who formed her volunteer escort were not equal to the task of overcoming the numbers who closed in behind Alvarez.

"Senora Alvarez and her escort were cut to pieces in sight of their friends. As they fell shouting 'Viva Cuba Libre!' the 5000 rebel soldiers answered the cry. Even the Spaniards crossed themselves in recognition of such fanatical courage.

"Senor Alvarez did not know that his wife was not with him until he arrived inside the Cuban lines. When he learned what had happened, he put the muzzle of his pistol to his breast and fired.

"'Why did you do that?' asked Gen. Maceo when the battle was over.

"'So that it could not be said that I was a coward and deserted my wife to save myself,' replied the soldier.

"'Pray for death to come then, for if you live I shall hang you. We need men to be shot by the Spaniards. We cannot waste bullets on ourselves,' said Maceo.

"Alvarez joined his wife in eternity before dawn next day."

SIR JOHN MACDONALD'S OLD CONSTITUENCY.

Mr. J. H. Metcalfe, M. P. for Kingston, Talks of the Splendid Curative Character of Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder.

There is no small amount of talk in all parts of the country of the class of people who are proclaiming the remarkable results accomplished by Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder, for leading citizens in all parts of the Dominion are using it. Among others who tell of the effective nature of this medicine for catarrh, hay fever, or cold in the head, is Mr. J. H. Metcalfe, the popular M. P. for Kingston, the constituency represented for so many years by the late Sir John A. Macdonald. Beyond any doubt this remedy is a marvel, radical in its effects, it is at the same time simple and agreeable to take, which cannot be said of most catarrh medicines.

BISHOP OF HAMILTON GOES.

The House of Bishops Accepts His Lordship's Resignation.

Montreal, April 17.—(Special.)—The House of Bishops of the ecclesiastical province of Canada had a long discussion this afternoon over the question of translating the Bishop of Niagara to the Diocese of Ottawa, and not a few interesting speeches were made pro and con. A petition was received from the Niagara diocese praying the House of Bishops not to translate Bishop Hamilton to Ottawa, but the latter diocese made no move one way or another. A majority of the house held that Bishop Hamilton could go to Ottawa whether the House of Bishops liked or not, while the minority contended that a bishop could not be translated from one diocese to another. Precedents and church law were cited by the different speakers, but finally a compromise was reached. The resignation of His Lordship of Niagara was simply accepted, and no mention whatever was made as to the bishop's translation. This done, the House of Bishops immediately appointed May 1 as the date of the new Bishop of Ottawa's installation, and His Lordship will arrive in the Dominion capital the day previous.

ANOTHER EXPEDITION FOR PEARY.

The Arctic Explorer Does Not Remain in Civilization Very Long.

Washington, April 17.—The Navy Department is making a great mystery over its action in detaching Civil Engineer R. E. Peary from the Brooklyn Navy Yard and placing him on waiting orders. It was said yesterday that the order had been issued at Lieut. Peary's request and that he gave no reason in his application. Today, however, it was learned that Lieut. Peary contemplated another exploring expedition and had so informed the department, but for some reason it was desired to keep this information secret.

THE PIONEER

A SIMCOE COUNTY MAN WHO HAS AN INTERESTING HISTORY.

At 263 McCaul st., in this city, lives Mr. Samuel Kilgore, a vigorous specimen of those sturdy pioneers to whom the rapid development of this Province is mainly due. Mr. Kilgore relates, with pride, how he cleared the land on which Judge Gowan (now Senator Gowan), had his house built, and how himself and that honorable gentleman together laid the corner stone and deposited a box with various coins, etc., within the corner stone at the time. With his own hands also he cleared the land on which stands the Darrie High School, which numbers among its ex-pupils such names as Wm. Lount, Q.C., and D'Alton McCarthy, Q.C. Mr. Kilgore has served as reeve and councillor also in the township, and his sterling integrity and sound judgment give great force to his words. A few words from him will be sure to be of interest. Mr. Kilgore says:

"The dull aching pains around my loins and in the small of my back indicated to me several years ago that my kidneys were affected. I had to get up frequently at night and my rest was broken accordingly. I procured a box of Doan's Kidney Pills at Gilpin's drug store some time ago, and they did wonders for me. They gave me relief almost immediately. The annoying pains around my back fled. The trouble in urinating was felt no more. My stomach, though foul, became sweet, and my whole system became so regulated that I looked back, with pleasure, to my boyhood days when pains and aches were unknown to me. I am now over seventy-three years of age, and Doan's Kidney Pills are the most wonderful medicine I ever took. After having given them a fair trial I can heartily recommend them to any one with kidney or stomach troubles."

They Found Against Mr. Madill.

Paris, Ont., April 17.—The Western Congregational Association in convention here, yesterday afternoon discussed the case of Rev. J. C. Madill of Sarnia, who was charged before an ex parte council of the church with having expelled certain members of the church in a high-handed manner. The ex parte council brought in a finding against Rev. Mr. Madill, and the moderator of the council asked the association to investigate the matter and endorse the finding of the council.

A special committee consisting of Rev. J. Morton, Hamilton; Rev. J.W. Pedley, London; Mr. Henry Cox, Burford; Mr. John Brookbank, Paris; and Rev. E. D. Silcox of Paris, was appointed to try the case.

THE 18-OUNCE BABY DEAD.

For Nine Days Dennis McAuley Was the Smallest Living Human Being.

New York, April 17.—A midget was lost to the world at 4 o'clock yesterday because of the warm weather of the past few days. Dennis McAuley might have lived to be the Gen. Tom Thumb of his age but for a little spasm which drove the breath out of his 18-ounce body.

To-day the wee mite of a human being was laid away in a grave in Calvary Cemetery. There was no coffin in Greenpoint small enough for the body, and when the smallest obtainable was packed with cotton batting the tiny babe looked like a single egg in a large nest.

Dennis was born on the morning of April 7, at 214 Kent-street, and after enjoying for nine days the proud distinction of being the smallest human being on earth, died.

John A. McAuley and his wife, Annie, 23 and 26 years of age respectively, were the parents of the midget. McAuley weighs 123 pounds and is an amateur champion bantam wrestler. He is employed as an engineer in a tin factory at 230 Java-street. Both parents are American born of Irish descent, and were married four and a half years ago.

The baby was too small and delicate to handle as other babies, so it was placed in cotton batting in a cigar box. There was no possible way of feeding it other than by a small egg spoon, and with the usual food.

The head of Dennis would fit into a claret wine glass, and although he was perfectly formed, a woman's ring would fit loosely around the upper portion of the leg. A dime would cover the palm of the hand, and the entire length of the body was only seven and a half inches.

Going Back to Hayti.

Kingston, Ja., April 17.—A steamer especially chartered for the purpose of conveying back to their own country the Haytian refugees who desire to take advantage of President Simon Sam's amnesty proclamation, has arrived here. Seventy of them have availed themselves of the transportation offered and embarked on board the vessel.

An Attractive Window.

Mr. A. Clegg's window to-day displays a very handsome bedroom suite with tables, chairs, etc., and a very pretty secretary, all in native birch. The panels and prominent parts are of selected wood, and the effect is very artistic and pleasing. The style of the furniture, especially the bedstead, is quite new.

Boys in the Park.

The school boys have already begun to run across the Court House Park, much to the annoyance of Mr. Cobb, who states that the new grass is being considerably damaged by the youngsters. The police are anxious to get the names of a few of the transgressors in order to see if a night in the cells will not have a salutary effect.

Played the "Sympathy" Game.

The railway man at the C. P. R. station were somewhat surprised a few days ago to see an apparently lame tramp suddenly fling away his crutch and nimbly run after and board a freight train which was leaving the yard. Station Agent Bamford is preserving that crutch as a reminder of the fact that "things are not always what they seem."

A Distinguished Visitor.

Provost Welch, who lectures here next Friday on "George Eliot," came to Canada last August, having been chosen for his present position by the Archbishop of Canterbury. He had been for some years an associate of the great Bishop Lightfoot. Since his arrival the Provost has won high esteem, outside as well as inside the University, largely through his able lectures and his personal charm of manner.

Salvation Army.

Remember that Major Morris, the chief officer in Eastern Ontario, will be in town to-night and to-morrow, to give the local corps a helping hand and consequently the Salvation Army barracks will be besieged by people who like an extra good time. The brass and string bands will be in evidence, and not the least in the pile the Major's wonderful bag of whistles. He is a jolly, happy Salvationist, and those who know him want to see him again. So come along and have a good time.

A WEDDING IN THE VILLAGE.

It Ends in a Free Fight, in Which the Hostess Cleans out the Crowd.

Ashburnham had a wedding early in the week and when a resident of Ashburnham weds, the neighbours know it and remember the fact for a considerable length of time.

In the case of this particular wedding, the prospective bride's brothers were opposed to the match. They live down Norwood way, and when they heard that the affair was to come off in Ashburnham, they came up looking for trouble, and there was lots of it before they left.

Everything passed off peacefully enough until after the ceremony had been performed, but in someway the apple of discord was started rolling shortly afterwards, and within a very few minutes the fence was lined with neighbours, drawn thither to witness one of the prettiest fights which ever occurred in the village.

The hostess, who was the bride's sister, has the name of being as good with her fives as her brothers, but as long as the fighting was going on in the yard she did not mix herself up in the affair. The men, however, presently surged into the house, and started to break up the chairs and tables.

Patience may be a virtue, but it isn't one of those which is possessed by this particular family, and the little stock of it kept on hand by the hostess suddenly vanished when the stovepipes fell. By common report it took about a minute and a half to end the fight after this.

The stalwart hostess is said to have almost turned the groom inside out, and when she got through there wasn't a man in sight. Next morning the groom was eyeing the house from a distance, waiting for his bride to come forth in order that he might have the privilege of walking over to town with her as she came to work.

BUDDING SPRING.

Vegetation is Coming on With a Rush These Days.

The growth of vegetation last night after the rain fell was something wonderful. Lilac buds of which there were no signs during the day are out a good inch this morning and lilies have a crown out a couple of inches square.

One reason why the snow went off so quick is that there was very little frost in the ground, as there was no extremely cold weather until after several very heavy falls of snow which prevented the frost striking into earth to any great depth. Consequently the heat coming up from below, combined with the warmth generated by the sun, caused the snow to vanish with the celerity which attended its disappearance.

The heat in the ground was such that before the snow thawed Mr. J. H. Cobb noticed a garden heliotrope bleached perfectly white, trying to force its way up to the air through the snow and had grown to a height of about four inches.

Telfordian Temperature Topics.

Saturday, April 18—Although our fall of rain has been light, still it will do good in starting the growth of spring. There is not much change of temperature, for at this morning's observation the self-registering thermometer indicated 58 degrees above zero.

Have You Got It?

To cure cramps take Nerviline. To break up a cold nothing is as good as Nerviline If lumbago, neuralgia or rheumatism troubles, you resort to Nerviline. It never fails to give relief. Nerviline is a powerful penetrating substance, which goes at once to the bottom and speedily dislodges all pain. Nerviline is better, stronger, and more certain than any other pain remedy in the market.

The Deadly Catapult.

The boys attending the various schools in town indulge in the practice, between the hours of dismissal from school and dark, of slaughtering robins and other birds which have just returned from their southern sojourn. Catapults are used with deadly effect, not only in killing the birds but in breaking windows and making it dangerous for passing pedestrians. The robin should be protected and the catapult done away with. The children attending school should be cautioned by their teachers that they are likely to make an appearance before the Police Magistrate for having in their possession a weapon of this sort. In the meantime the police force should keep their eyes open and make an example of those caught with catapults in their possession.

Tuesday Night's Concert.

What yesterday's Belleville paper says of Miss Yaw:—A very select audience had the pleasure of listening to the lady whose phenomenal voice has already won for her world-wide celebrity. Many went to the concert as they would have gone to see any natural curiosity—something out of the ordinary line. These people, as well as the entire audience, were more than delighted. Indeed it is not too much to say that the Yaw concert yielded more delight and pleasure than the Albani entertainment. Miss Yaw has a pleasing face and graceful carriage—the lithographs do not do her justice. Her expression is charming. Miss Yaw has been most highly cultured. Her voice is of singular sweetness and purity. She takes her phenomenal notes with perfect ease. Her runs, thrills and warbling have never been surpassed, or indeed equalled, by any artist who has visited Belleville. She has not yet the volume of Albani but she exceeds her range, equals her in clearness and sweetness, and surpasses her in her florifiture. We predict for Miss Yaw the very topmost rung of the ladder in her profession. Too much praise cannot be given to Miss Lay and Mr. Dick. They are artists worthy to appear on the stage with Miss Yaw, and further praise would be superfluous.

LARGE LIBERAL GATHERING CONVENED LAST NIGHT.

PRELIMINARY CONFERENCE OF WORKING LIBERALS.

An Enthusiastic and Representative Assemblage of Workers—The Question of a Candidate Considered—Mr. Richard Hall's Name Unanimously Agreed Upon, Subject to the Endorsation of the Convention—He Accepts the Responsibility.

The largest, most representative and most enthusiastic preliminary gathering of Liberals ever convened in Peterborough assembled last night at the commodious law offices of Mr. G. M. Roger, secretary of the Reform Association of West Peterborough, to consider the political situation in this riding and in the country at large, and to deal with the question of suggesting the names of candidates to be submitted, with others, to the consideration of the convention called to meet in the Opera House on Wednesday, April 22nd, at 1.30 o'clock p.m. Mr. James Middleton, Warden of the county, and president of the West Riding Reform Association, occupied the chair. The meeting was composed of stalwart working members of the Liberal party and was animated by a spirit of confidence and enthusiasm. A full, free and informal expression of feeling and opinion was given, both in reference to the political situation in the country generally, and in this riding in particular. The names of several eligible candidates were canvassed and after full consideration the name of Richard Hall found favour with the meeting and was unanimously agreed upon to be submitted for the consideration of the convention to be held on Wednesday. Mr. Hall, arriving near the conclusion of the meeting, was made acquainted with the unanimity of feeling of those present in respect to his allowing his name to come before the convention, and said that if the convention accepted his name in the same spirit the meeting had done, he would accept the candidature and bend every honourable effort to accomplish the redemption of the riding. Mr. Hall's acceptance of the candidature, subject to the approval of the convention, was greeted with long continued applause and those present pledged themselves in the event of the convention accepting Mr. Hall as the Liberal candidate to give him their most united and hearty support, to which they were encouraged by the excellent prospect, with a good acceptable candidate like Mr. Hall, of redeeming West Peterborough to the cause of Liberalism.

MR. WM. PATTERSON, M.P., SOUTH BRANT.

Last night Mr. J. R. Stratton, M.P.P., went to Ottawa for the purpose of securing the services of some prominent Liberal member or members of the House of Commons to deliver an address on Wednesday.

A telegram was received this afternoon stating that Mr. William Patterson, M.P., South Brant, who has represented that constituency since 1872, will be present to address a mass meeting of the electors in the Opera House on Wednesday evening. The candidate selected at the afternoon convention and others will also give addresses. Mr. Patterson is a veteran in parliamentary service, and a foremost member among the many clever Liberal statesmen of Canada. He deals with public questions forcibly and logically and whatever he may say will be well worth the hearing of every elector who wishes to become possessed of a clear exposition of the present political situation. A cordial invitation is extended the electors to attend the great mass meeting Wednesday night next.

"Paddy" hopes that when the boys go up to play their annual game of lacrosse with Orillia they will give him a call.

The Gold Craze Exploded.

The Kingston News says: Mr. Madill, of Sands & Co., has received a letter and a paper from his brother, D. A. Madill, who is in Johannesburg, South Africa. The paper gives a graphic and illustrated account of the dynamite explosion which occurred there. Mr. Madill writes that the people who came to South Africa expecting to find plenty of gold have been disappointed. The gold craze has been exploded. There is no reality in it, and many people have been ruined on account of the fake. His advice to those intending to go to South Africa is to abandon the idea.

Can Heart Failure be Prevented?

Startling and brief the announcement, "Sudden Death Caused by Heart Failure." Such is the stereotyped announcement of coroners, juries, and reporters arousing the forebodings of those victims of indigestion and mal-nutrition, who so frequently disturb themselves upon the manifestation in palpitation or fluttering, of functional disturbance of the heart; symptoms which they are foolishly prone to accept as the signs of an incurable and speedily fatal malady. Maltine with Coca Wine is potent in restoring conditions that no longer render possible such alarmingly disturbing symptoms. Maltine with Coca Wine, through its remedial influence upon the nervous system, soothes into calmness the disorganized nerves. The heart, in response to increased nerve force, no longer plunges and beats as if determined to break.

Maltine with Coca Wine has long been recognised as the most pleasant and efficient remedy for all those functional derangements that find manifestation in lassitude, sleeplessness, despondency, and loss of appetite and digestive power. A nerve tonic, a body-builder, a nutrient and digestive agent of inestimable value. All druggists sell it.

Wilkinson, son-in-law of Mr. Stewart. A dog, lying at his feet was killed instantly. No other members of the family were injured. The injured man is recovering.

There are about 1,000 pieces in a high grade bicycle, some two 250 in the chain alone and nearly 200 steel balls on which the movable parts revolve. In one well-known wheel each wire spoke is tested until able to sustain a weight of 530 pounds. Now we know why Peterborough agents are proud of their wheels, and why each owner thinks his bike the finest thing on earth.

The Three Graces.

Rosy cheeks, laughing eyes and teeth of pearly whiteness. Bright smiles with a background of teeth not resplendant of whiteness and purity—impossible. Beauty may be found hidden in a bottle of foaming Ivorine, the newest, best and most fragrant preparation for the teeth. Ivorine is so nice to use—fragrant, refreshing. It purifies the breath, which it renders sweet, and to the teeth it imparts both whiteness and brilliancy.

The Lakes.

The water in the river, says the Bobcaygeon Independent, has risen very rapidly during the week and logs have been removed from the dam. The ice in the marsh is disappearing, and a considerable quantity from the upper lake has been going through. On Monday last Mr. Geo. Esson came over from Harvey with a horse, and that will probably be the last for the season, though a man walked across without difficulty on Wednesday, and reported the ice to be perfectly sound.

The Weather.

Smith's Planetary Almanac gives the following weather forecast for April:—"A fickle wayward month with alternate gleams of sunshine and cloudy weather, the latter predominating. The first and second weeks will likely prove very rainy but fairly warm, the third cool to cold with high winds, the fourth threatening and dark with abundance of rain and hail, the month closing with rapid changes and foggy, misty, squally weather." Smith is hitting it off very well so far. There was no rain during the early part of the month and it hasn't been cool to cold as yet.

CHRISTIAN SCIENTISTS AGAIN.

Prof. Mounteer is the Subject This Time

To-day's Globe contains the following account of the death of Prof. Mounteer, who was well known in Peterborough and conducted a class in elocution here:

Another case of alleged treatment by Christian Scientists, which has resulted in the death of the patient, is engaging the attention of the authorities and will form the subject of a coroner's inquiry.

The deceased is Mr. Albert C. Mounteer, a well-known teacher of elocution, and the death occurred late on Thursday evening at his home, 123 St. George street. It appears that during the month of February last his eldest boy, a lad of 11 years, fell ill with diphtheria, and Dr. B. Z. Milner, of Spadina avenue, was called in and treated the case successfully. At that time a Miss Race, who was visiting at the Mounteers, volunteered to nurse the little fellow and performed her duties to the physician's entire satisfaction, though he learned with surprise afterwards that she was a Christian Scientist.

Subsequently other members of the family are said to have had mild attacks of the disease, but they got along without medical care until a few days ago, when the head of the house was taken ill. Miss Race was again in attendance and also a young man named W. P. McKenzie, who is also a follower of the same cult. No physician was called in, and the disease rapidly ran its course with fatal results.

When death intervened McKenzie then called up a doctor with whom he was personally acquainted, and asked him to give a certificate, but this of course was promptly refused, and Dr. Milner was consulted. He was equally unable to act, not having seen deceased during his illness, and finally the City Health Officer was notified. The authorities there notified Coroner Powell, who issued his warrant for an inquest at the house this morning. Yesterday afternoon Drs. H. B. Anderson and John L. Davidson held an autopsy, the result of which will be made known at the inquest.

A very serious feature of the case, is that the lad who was first taken ill has been attending school during his father's illness, no notification having been given to the health authorities of the presence of diphtheria in the house since his recovery last month.

BOUNDING SPRING.

Wonderful Growth—Seeding Begun in Some Sections.

A gentleman from the country states that the snow has entirely disappeared, except in odd sheltered spots, and that the growth of grass and fall wheat is simply wonderful. This is a Godsend to the farmers, whose stock will be, in some cases, saved by access to grass. The fall wheat in South Bionsghan is looking splendid and several farmers have begun seeding operations. One farmer near Centreville has already seven acres of spring wheat sown on a high, well drained field. The outlook for the farmer seems to be promising.

His Sudden Demise in Chicago—The Remains to be Brought Home.

Mr. Robt. White, sr., of the White House, received a telegram this morning apprising him of the death of his second son, Robert.

The telegram asked for instructions as to the disposal of the remains, and a telegram was immediately sent asking for their shipment to Peterborough.

Robert White left Peterborough some twelve or fourteen years ago and went to the Northwest, where he became a member of the Mounted Police. After serving out his time he took up his residence in Chicago. He was unmarried.

THE VENERABLE GRUB SOCIETY.

A Member Finds a Bug and Furnishes its Biography.

A member of the Grub Society has made a "find." It is a big bug, two and a half inches long and one inch broad, grayish, brown in colour, flat in form, and having a general resemblance to the berry bug, familiar to boyish berry-pickers, by its smell, or more horrible still, its taste.

The following note which accompanied the specimen gives a brief description of the beast:—The insect belongs to the sub order Heteroptera, or true bugs. The members of the group are distinguished by the following characters:—They possess two pairs of wings, the uppermost of which are thicked at the base and filamentous towards the tips; the inner or hind wings are filamentous throughout. They have six legs, two antennæ, and a beak or proboscis, arising from the front part of the head. Some species live in the water and some on land. The aquatic groups, to which our specimen belongs, have the breathing apparatus modified to adapt it to their peculiar mode of life, the tracheal or breathing pores being so constructed as to strain from the water the intermingled particles of air. The name of the specimen is the giant water-bug (Belostoma Americanum). Like others of the same genus it breeds, lives and feeds in the water, but flies readily from pond to pond. During these noctural excursions it is frequently attracted to the electric lights, contatct with which usually brings it to grief. Indeed, previous to this invention coming in use, but few of these creatures were commonly observed. Hence the name of "Electric Light Bugs," by which the insect is known in some localities.—A notable characteristic of the genus is the apparent absence of antennæ, nevertheless these appendages are present in a rudimentary condition and situated in two small hollows just beneath the eyes.

Another member gives the following list of wild flowers he has collected, and which he claims are the first of the season: May flowers (Hepatica autoloba,) Trillium erectum, Yellow Adder's tongue (Erythronium Americanum,) Blood-root (Sanguinaria Canadensis,) and Witch-hazel (Hamamelis Virginica).

scrofula

Any doctor will tell you that Professor Hare, of Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia, is one of the highest authorities in the world on the action of drugs. In his last work, speaking of the treatment of scrofula, he says:

"It is hardly necessary to state that cod-liver oil is the best remedy of all. The oil should be given in emulsion, so prepared as to be palatable."

He also says that the hypophosphites should be combined with the oil.

Scott's Emulsion of cod-liver oil, with hypophosphites, is precisely such a preparation.

THE DOCTORS WERE WRONG.

THEY SAID MR. REUBEN PETCH WAS PERMANENTLY DISABLED.

They Apparently Had Good Grounds for Their Report and on the Strength of it He was Paid a $1,500 Disability Insurance—Another Case in Which Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Have Brought Health After all Other Means Failed.

From the Meaford Monitor.

Mr. Reuben Petch is a resident of Grierarville who has been known to the editor of the Monitor for a considerable number of years. For several years Mr. Petch has been in bad health, has been an intense sufferer and was declared incurable by a number of physicians, and was paid a disability insurance of $1,500. Lately, to the astonishment of those who had known that he was pronounced incurable, Mr. Petch has been brought back almost to his former health. This restoration he attributes to the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and knowing that his story would interest the readers of the Monitor, a reporter was sent to interview him. The following is Mr. Petch's narrative as given the reporter:

"I had been sick for some five years. I consulted in that time with no less than six of the best physicians I could find, but none seemed to help me so far as medicine was concerned. My limbs and body were puffed or bloated so I could not get my clothes on. I had lost the use of my limbs entirely. When I began taking Dr. William's Pink Pills I could not dress myself for two years previous. I could not even open my mouth enough to recieve any solid food, and I had to fed with a spoon. I seemed to have lockjaw. I could not get up or down the doorsteps, and if I fell down I had to lie there until I was helped up. I could not get around without a cane and a crutch. My flesh seemed to be dead. You might have made a pincushion of me and I would feel no hurt. The doctors told me I could never get better. They said I had palsy on one side, caused by spinal sclerosis, the effect of la grippe. You might roast me and I would not sweat. I was a member of the Mutual Aid Association of Toronto, and, as under their rules I was entitled to a disability insurance, I made application for it. I was examined by two doctors on behalf of the Association and pronounced permanently disabled, and was in due time paid my disability insurance of $1,500. This was about two years after I first took sick. Things went on in this way for a considerable period, and my helplessness was, if anything, on the increase. I was continually reading about the cures through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and at last determined to try them. After using four or five boxes there was a change. It first made itself manifest by by my beginning to sweat freely. I made up my mind to give them a thorough trial and to my surprise I have gained in health and strength ever since. I take no other medicine except Pink Pills. I began taking them when all other medicines and the doctors failed to do me any good. I could not get off my chair without help. I never expected to get better but Pink Pills have rescued me from a living death, and now I am happy to say I can work and walk and get around finely. I eat heartily, sleep soundly, and feel like a new man, and I ascribe the cause entirely to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I cannot say too much in their praise and recommend them highly to all similarly afflicted."

The above is Mr. Petch's ungarnished statement of his case, and we might add we know him to be a respectable and reliable gentleman, who has no interest in making the statement only to do good to others who might become afflicted as he was.

This strong testimony proves the claim made that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure where other medicines fail, and that they deserve to rank as the greatest discovery of modern medical science. The public should always be on their guard against imitations and substitutes, which some unscrupulous dealers for the sake of extra profits, urge upon purchasers. There is no other remedy "just the same as" or "just as good as" Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and the genuine always have the full trade mark, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, on the wrapper around every box.

IS IT CELESTIAL OR INFERNAL?

Parisian Scientists and Preachers are Studying the Remarkable Case of Mlle. Cousedon Who "Sees Things."

New York, April 17.—The Journal's Paris special says: The Society of Psychic Sciences, which is composed of 25 ecclesiastics and an equal number of medical men, under the presidency of Canon Brettes, met here yesterday to hear a report of an examining committee of three doctors—Messrs. Hacks, Encausse Papus and Le Merant Des Chesnais—on the case of Mlle. Henriette Cousedon, the alleged intermediary betwen the Angel Gabriel and the world.

Dr. Hacks affirmed in a long statement that the girl is not ill, but feigning and lying. He admitted that she had to a certain extent suggestionized herself, and actually had begun to believe that everything really happened as she stated in her ravings. The girl's adventure, according to the report, will end tragically either in suicide, homicide or insanity.

Dr. Encausse Papus, however, disagreed with his colleague and said it was beyond doubt that Mlle. Cousedon revealed to a certain number of persons in a very precise manner some of their innermost secrets; that she also made to others not less definite predictions which have since been realized.

Dr. Papus also maintains that the girl is neither ill nor feigning. During the first part of the seance the girl utters some vague generalities. Afterward she becomes more precise in her revelations, and at last she is transformed into a veritable prophetess.

Dr. Chesnais presented no report to the society.

A discussion followed the committee's communication, the clergy being more credulous than the scientists, but the majority opinion favored the girl. The society, however, only agreed that she is not ill and appointed a new commission to examine the girl, not from a medical but from a psychical point of view.

This new commission consists of four clergymen and two doctors. If these men admit that the girl speaks under the influence of a supernatural agent, a third commission will be appointed to ascertain whether the inspirer is celestial or infernal.

MORE SOLDIERS FOR CUBA.

Spain Preparing to Send 6000 More Men at the End of the Summer.

New York, April 17.—The Herald's Madrid correspondent says: Quiet reigns. It is only necessary for Mr. Cleveland to make friendly overtures in order to get a friendly reply in regard to the reforms to be granted to Cuba. The present Government has said as much. Laws have already been passed and are only awaiting the cessation of hostilities to be enforced. Spain will strain every nerve to suppress the insurrection, although the Government does not expect to succeed in this before the rainy season sets in. On the contrary, preparations are now under way to send 6000 more soldiers to Cuba at the end of the summer. That will make a total of 200,000 men sent to the island since the war began.

NO PAUPER IMMIGRANTS.

One Hundred Italians Did Not Average More Than 47 Cents.

New York, April 17.—On Monday night 953 persons slept on the floors on Ellis Island. The average amount of capital in their possession was 47 cents. Few of them will get ashore.

Emigration from all foreign countries except Italy has greatly decreased since 1893, owing to the rigid application of the law, and even with the present Italian influx the total number of immigrants of all nationalities, thus far in April, does not equal the number arriving during the corresponding periods in 1891, 1892 and 1893.

A woman's headaches may come from several causes. She may have a headache arising from nervousness, or from digestive disturbances. Nine cases in ten, her headaches come from disorders peculiar to her sex. It may show itself in the symptoms which are characteristic of a dozen disorders. Thousands of times women have been treated for the wrong disorders. Dr. Pierce's Favourite Prescription was compounded for the sole purpose of relieving womankind of these ills and pains. Thhusands of women have testified that after taking treatment from several physicians without benefit, the "Favourite Prescription cured them completely and quickly. It has been used for over thirty years, and has an unbroken record of success.

The woman who hesitates is invited to send 31 one-cent stamps to cover only the cost of mailing a copy of Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, which contains plain, clear information about all of the organs of the human body and their functions.

HOLMES TO DIE A CATHOLIC.

The Arch-Murderer of Modern Times Admitted to the Faith.

Philadelphia, April 17.—H. H. Holmes, the arch-murderer, has been admitted to the Roman Catholic faith through the rite of baptism. Father P. J. Dailey, his spiritual adviser, accompanied by Fathers D. C. Cantillon, Higgins and McCabe, visited the prison yesterday and performed the necessary ceremony. The condemned man went through the service solemnly, his eyes seldom wandering from Father Dailey's face. The baptism was made conditional, because Holmes had been previously immersed in the Protestant faith.

Father Dailey states that Holmes was, to all appearances, sincere in his professions of repentance, and that he is apparently resigned to his execution, which will take place on May 7.

Then Why Blame Canada?

London April 17.—In the House of Commons to day, Right Hon. Walter Long, President of the Board of Agriculture, in the course of his reply to questions asked by Mr. R. J. Price, member for East Norfolk admitted that two cases of pleuro-pneumonia discovered in cattle in Essex were traceable to animals brought from London. He had no doubt, he said, that these cases were entirely of local origin. No live cattle had been imported for four years.

HEART FLUTTERING AND SMOTHERING SPELLS.

Quickly and Permanently Banished by Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart.

One does not need to wait if wise until heart disease has developed to that degree that one hardly knows from hour to hour when he or she may drop dead. Those heart flutterings that a little excitement brings on, followed by smothering spells that seem as though they would prove fatal, are simply guide posts pointing to the grave, if ready and reliable measures to stem the disease are not taken. A safe remedy is always found in Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart. It gives relief immediately, and even without much of the medicine being taken, it completely removes disease. It is a heart specific, really wonderful in its results, but it cures heart disease only. Sold by H. S. Macdonald.

ELECRIC BELLS
W. C. MUDGE
I prepared to place Electric Bells in private residences at a very moderate rate. It costs but very little to have your front door and other rooms connected with kitchen, and you may have work done with or without annoyance. Repairing promptly executed.
Orders left at Lock Company office or at 297 Simcoe street attended to promptly. Drop a card in post office if you desire me to call upon you
W. C. MUDGE

A card on the outside of office door says: "Gone to lunch. Be back in ten minutes." And, the man will be there on time. That is, for some days, weeks or even months, he will. Then he will be at home occasionally for a day. He'll tell you he had a headache—a turn of cholera morbus, or maybe he'll say he had a lump in his stomach and felt too miserable to move. The lump was probably two or three ten-minute lunches condensed. They were hurried in, but they were taking their own time about getting out, or even "moving on." This is a great mistake, but as long as there's life there's a chance to rectify mistakes.

The man who "bolts" his lunches will find Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets the best friend he ever met. The "Pellets" may not hurry as much as the man does, but they will do the work for which they are intended—surely—promptly—effectually.

There is no case of biliousness, constipation, indigestion, "heart-burn," or any of the rest of the night-mare breeding brood, that these little "Pellets" will not cure.

They are not disagreeable to take, neither are the effects disagreeable. They are gentle laxatives. They cure permanently. There's no danger of forming a "Pellet habit." Therefore, you don't become a slave to their use.

Send 31 one-cent stamps to cover cost of customs and mailing only, and receive absolutely gratis, Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, and find out how to keep yourself and family healthy. The book contains 1008 pages, over 300 illustrations and over 680,000 copies have been sold at $1.50 each. The new edition of 500,000 copies is to be given away absolutely free. It is a veritable medical library, complete in one volume. Address, with stamps, World's Dispensary Medical Association, No. 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

VITALITY in MEN Restored

Failing Sexual Strength in Old or Young Men can be QUICKLY and PERMANENTLY cured by me to a healthy, vigorous state. Sufferers from

Nervous Debility
Weakness

and all wasting diseases, should write to me for advice.

I have been a close student for many years of the subject of weakness in men, the fact is, I was a sufferer myself. Too bashful to seek the aid of a doctor or reputable physicians, I investigated the subject deeply and discovered a simple but most remarkably successful Remedy that completely cured me, and fully enlarged me from a shrunken, stunted condition to natural size and strength. I want every young or old man to know about it. I take a personal interest in each case, and no one need hesitate to write me, as all communications are held strictly confidential. I send the recipe of this remedy absolutely free of cost. Do not put it off, but write me fully at once, you will always bless the day you did so. Address,

A CHARACTER.

He was always a-sayin': "It's all for the best;"
No matter what fortune was bringin'.
He did what he could—left to heaven the rest,
An' went on his pathway a-singin'!

By day and by night—in the dark, in the light,
You'll find him serene and contented;
The world, to his notion, was treatin' him right,
An' his way with his roses was scented.

His life was a lesson all comfortin'—sweet!
A life that was kind and forgivin'.
For who, when the sharp thorns are piercin' his feet,
Can thank the good Lord that he's livin'?

But sometimes I think when the heart in the breast
Is sick with its sorrow and grievin'.
If things never happen at all "for the best,"
We can make 'em the best by believin'!
—Frank L. Stanton in Atlanta Constitution.

LATIN.

How the Cobbler and His Stray Visitor Differed on a Dead Language.

"You understand Latin, of course?" he began, as he entered a cobbler's shop on an uptown street the other afternoon.

"Vhell?" queried the cobbler as he burnished at the heel of a shoe and glanced out of the window.

"I'm a bit rusty on my Latin and want a little assistance. One does grow rusty, you know, unless he has daily use of a language. You know what 'magnum bonum' is, of course?"

"You vhant some shoes fixed?" asked the cobbler, but without much interest in the query.

"Not to-day, my friend. While my shoes may seem to require repairs, I wear 'em this way for the sake of ventilation. Are you up on 'mors omnibus communis?'"

"Mebbe you like a pair of shoes to measure?"

"I may get new shoes later on in the season, and if so will remember your location. Just at present I am bothered with my Latin. If I should say to you: 'Nemo solis sapit,' what would be your reply?"

"Do you haf some peesness to-day?" asked the cobbler as he threw down the shoe.

"Not business in the technical sense of the word, but business in the general sense. Let me say to you, 'Omnia cum Deo.'"

"Vhell?"

"Does that strike a smypathetic chord in your heart, or must I exclaim 'Volo non valeo!'"

"Do you like sometings to-day?" asked the cobbler, as he paused in his work to look up.

"Certainly, I do. I want to ask you in Latin for ten cents to help me along."

"I speak some English."

"Then I ask you in English, Will you give a fellow-man ten cents?"

"I gif nobody ten cents."

"Neither in Latin nor English?"

"No, sir! You petter go oudt!"

"Then it's ne quid nimis, is it?"

"She vhas!"

"And you wont homo homini lupus?"

"No, sir."

"Then I suppose I'll have to hic finis fandi and take my E pluribus unum. Sorry we can't meet on a mutual plane, but no great harm done, and out I go. Farewell, O cobbler, and may you long continue to cob!"—M. Quad in Detroit Free Press.

A Bad Dream.

Wife—Oh, John, how do you like my new Easter bonnet? Isn't it a dream?"

John—Yes, dear, but I fear the bill will be a horrible nightmare."

Two Epochs.

In the honeymoon—Let me sit by you darling, while you pour the tea. I love to watch your white hands toying with the cups.

Next season—What does the maid mean by not putting another leaf in the table? We might as well be sitting in each other's laps," etc., etc.

He Wanted a Change.

Mrs. De Lisle had been to the hairdresser. "I see that Pompadour rolls are coming in again," she remarked to Mr. De Lisle the next morning at breakfast.

"Thank heaven for that!" retorted her husband. "Do get the recipe for our cook, for the rolls she gives us now are regular jaw breakers!"

Unterrified.

"These 'new women' are getting to look more and more like me," said Mrs. Mockton.

"Not in my eye,' replied Bluffs. "I ain't skeered a bit by this talk o' their takin' possession of the earth. Ez fur ez I kin see, they don't look like nothin' but jes' dudes!"—Washington Star.

TORTURES OF RHEUMATISM.

The pains of rheumatism are removed and the disease driven from the system by the use of Burdock Blood Bitters, the conqueror of thousands of the severest cases.

Mrs. J. M. Monkman, of Arkwright, Ont., says:—I took inflammatory rheumatism in February, 1894, and doctored for it some weeks, but found I was getting worse. All my joints were swollen very much and I was not able to leave my bed and could get neither sleep or rest. Hearing from a neighbour that she got your Burdock Blood Bitters for her daughter, who had the same disease and it cured her, I purchased a bottle and after taking about one half of it I found myself recovering and after continuing it for some time I recovered but when the cold weather set in I found it returning again. So I commenced to take the B. B. B. again, when I found, after taking it about a week, that all pain and swelling of the joints had disappeared and I consider that I am entirely cured.

What Makes the Piano Rattle.

Piano tuners sometimes are called upon to "tune" gas fixtures as well as pianos. Frequently the owner of a fine upright "grand" enters a vigorous complaint because "that piano rattles so." Then the piano tuner packs his few tools and some extra felt, glue and parts of the "action" into his long, slender valise, and proceeds to feel the pulse, pound the chest, examine the tongue and overhaul the internal economy of the offending piano. His experienced ear tells him that the piano is all right. His intimate knowledge of the mechanism and make-up of the piano assures him that nothing is the matter with the instrument, and he says so.

"But the piano does rattle," insisted the owner. "Now listen when I touch this key." And sure enough, a decided buzz and jingle are heard.

"It is not in the piano," replies the tuner firmly, and he touches the key again and again, at the same time glancing around the room. "There it is," he says at last, pointing to the glass globe around the gas jet; "there is the rattler," and the irritating noise is silenced when he removes the glass globe.

This is a common experience of piano tuners. Certain notes in the piano vibrate in harmony with a gas fixture, a picture frame, a china plaque hung against the wall, or the bric-a-brac which commonly litters the top of the sensitive instrument, and the innocent piano is blamed for the discordant jangle.—Philadelphia Press.

The Arab Belle.

This is how an Arab lady perfumes herself: In the floor of the tent or hut, as it may chance to be, a small hole is excavated, sufficiently large to contain a common champagne bottle. A fire of charcoal, or of simply glowing embers, is made within the hole, into which the woman about to be scented throws a handful of drugs. She then takes off the cloth, or "topa," which forms her dress, and crouches over the fumes, while she arranges her robe to fall as a mantle from her neck to the ground like a tent.

She now begins to perspire freely in the hot-air bath, and the pores of the skin being thus open and moist, the volatile oil from the smoke of the burning perfumes is immediately absorbed. By the time the fire has expired the scenting process is completed, and both her person and her robe are redolent with incense, with which they are so thoroughly impregnated that I have frequently smelt a party of women strongly at fully a hundred yards' distance when the wind has been blowing from that direction. —Pearson's Weekly.

The True Wife.

Oftentimes I have seen a tall ship glide by against the tide as if drawn by some invisible bowline, with a hundred strong arms pulling it. Her sails unfilled, her streamers drooping, she had neither side wheel nor stern wheel; still she moved on stately, in serene triumph, as with her own life. But I knew that on the other side of the ship, hidden beneath the great bulk that swam so majestically, there was a little toilsome steam tug, with a heart of fire and arms of iron, that was tugging it bravely on; and I knew that if the little steam tug untwined her arm and left the ship it would wallow and roll about and drift hither and thither and go off with the refluent tide, no man knows whither. And so I have found more than one genius, high-decked, full-freighted, idle-sailed, gay pennoned that but for the bare, toiling arms and brave, warm-beating heart of the faithful little wife that nestled close to him so that no wind or wave could part them, would have gone down with the stream, and have been heard of no more.—O. W. Holmes.

THE COMING COMET!

It is Expected to Strike and Smash the Earth.

That is if its Tail Doesn't Swing it Around in Another Direction—Not Due for Some Time Yet.

There is, according to the authorities, a comet coming straight for the earth. It is coming at the rate of several thousand miles an hour, and when it reaches here there will be more or less trouble, and something will have to break. The astronomers in question think the earth will get a trifle the worst of it and are accordingly feeling anxious. It is due here unless somebody turns a switch, and sidetracks it, in less than nine hundred years, so no wonder the discoverers of that comet are anxious. But more things than a comet are due to arrive here before long. With the hot weather will come sickness and death. Spring, deadly spring, will reap its fearful harvest. There will come

Malaria,
Typhoid,
Diphtheria,
Bilious Complaints.
Blood Troubles,
Blotches and Boils.
Pimples and Eruptions,
Ague and Chills,
Rheumatism.

And hundreds of other complaints common to the season. There will be many a gap left at the table. Many a little coffin will be carried to its last resting place; many a home will be filled with sadness.

Take no chances. Prepare for spring. If you or your children are not strong and healthy get strong and healthy. If you are not well get well. If you are well keep well.

Scott's Sarsaparilla is what you want. It is the greatest blood purifier and spring tonic of the age. There is nothing like it on the market. Don't confound it with other weak imitations. It is easily the leading blood medicine of the day, as the splendid testimonials published elsewhere show. Try it.

Scott's Sarsaparilla is unlike most patent medicines. It does not profess to cure every disease under the sun. But it will cure all those that have the same common origin in disorders of the blood, liver, stomach and nervous centers.

More about Scott's Sarsaparilla tomorrow.

A Short Study of "In Memoriam."

Of this poem the author thought so disparagingly that he writes

"These mortal lullabies of pain
May bind a book, may line a box
May serve to curl a maiden's locks."

And yet to it the consensus of modern opinion has paid the very highest tribute, and rightly so, for "In Memoriam" is a veritable mine of gold. The more one digs and delves beneath the surface, the richer is the ore, the more abundant is the output, until at last one realises that he has detruck a rich vein of precious metal which it is impossible to exhaust. In it, as well as in his poems written at this period of his life, we see that he is no mere songster, but a deep and serious student of the great problems of life. Take for example those well-known words from "Morte D'Arthur," so frequently quoted to-day:

"The old order changeth, yielding place to new,
And God fulfils Himself in many ways
Lest one good custom should corrupt the world."

Or again those two famous lines from the vision of "Lockaley Hall":

"Till the war-drum throbb'd no longer and the battle flags were furled,
In the Parliament of man "The Federation of the world."

The circumstances which called forth the poem which is the subject of this sketch, were these. During their undergraduate days at Cambridge, Tennyson and Arthur Henry Hallam (son of the famous historian of that name) became firm friends; but one year after he graduated Hallam, died. To commemorate that friendship and to perpetuate the memory of his friend, Tennyson wrote this poem

But "In Memoriam" is more than a simple elegy or memorial to one departed. "It stands inseparably related to what is deepest and most vital in the thought of its time." In it Tennyson is not only the poet but also the prophet. He seems to stand upon some lofty summit, and from his vantage ground has caught the first grey-dawning of the coming day, and his voice rings out clear and sharp to arouse his fellows still in the darkness of the valley beneath. In viewing the relation of this poem to its age, "It must be remembered," as a modern writer says, "that projects of radical social reform were in the air." To quote the language of John Morley, "a great wave of humanity, of benevolence, of desire for improvement—a great wave of social sentiment in short poured itself among all who had the faculty of large and disinterested thinking." Dr. Pusey and Dr. Newman, representatives of this vital movement in the direction of supernaturalism, were thinking and writing. Thomas Arnold and F. D. Maurice were trying to broaden the Church of England in the direction of human progress, so that it might embrace heaven and earth, faith and philosopy, creed and criticism. Carlyle was thundering against shams in religion and politics. Dickens was showing up the abuses, cruelties and irregularities of the established order. Kingsley was stirring up the cauldron of social discontent. The teaching of George ———— was heralded as an inspiration. Cobden was inaugurating a new era in industrial undertakings. The corn-law agitation was started. John Bright and Daniel O'Connell were busy at their work of destroying monopolies." Written under such conditions as these by a man whose mind was open to receive all that was truest and best in the movements of the day. "In Memoriam" could not fail but become "the spiritual mould of the deepest thoughts" of earnest men and women. In the general shifting of opinions caused by the philosophical and theological speculations of the Germans, by the publication of the "Tracts for the Times," there was manifested a tendency to "think out old truths in new terms, to re-interpret, as it were by methods of spiritual science ten deathless ideas of God and revelation and to discern not only by the deliverances of logic, but by the fine tactile instincts of the heart wherein they are true to God and true to man.

The meaning of the life of man on earth, the life beyond the grave, the relations of the one to the other, were the questions for the answers of which his age was groping and of which he in his own heart wrought out and gave to his generation. Yet "In Memoriam" is no theological treatise, for as Robertson, of Brighton, says: "The doubts which the poet's great bereavement suggested were answered, not as a philosopher would answer them, not as a theologian or a metaphysician, but as it is the duty of a poet to reply, by intuitive faculty in strains in which Imagination predominates over thought and memory."

The poem may be divided into four main divisions or cycles:

i. The Introductory Cycle.—I-XXVII.
ii. The Cycle of the Past.—XXVIII-LXXVII.
iii. The Cycle of the Present.—LXXVII-CII.
iv. The Cycle of the Future.—CIII-end.

Let us take our stand now with the poet in the first hour of his deep sorrow for the loss of his friend, a sorrow dull, hopeless, miserable, rebellious—

"O, heart, how fares it with thee now,
That thou shouldst fall from thy desire
Who scarcely darest to inquire
What is it makes me beat so low?
"Something it is which thou hast lost,
Some pleasure from thy early years."

To him there comes sure relief in the mechanical work of expressing his grief in words, this exercise acting

"Like dull narcotics numbing pain."

In affliction like his the fact that

"Loss is common to the race."

does not serve to alleviate his sorrow. Such a consolation

"is a common-place
And vacant chaff well meant for grain."

In his despair he wanders to the house where Hallam used to live and it seems so dark and lonely—nay all the familiar haunts where the friends used to wander together have lost their magic light—and just as to the lover returning to find the one he loves is gone—

"All the place is dark and all
The chambers empty of delight;
So find I every pleasant spot
In which we two were wont to meet,
The field, the chamber and the street,
For all is dark where thou art not.

From this canto till we reach the 18th the poet describes his feelings of anxiety for the welfare of the body of his friend, which is being brought from Italy, and not until it is laid

"Among familiar names to rest"

does the poet recover coolness enough to enable him to contemplate his loss with a composed mind. During this period of unrest two questions are suggested to the poet's mind—the one prompted by Calm and Storm in nature and the corresponding moods in the poet's heart:

"Can Calm despair and wild unrest
Be tenants of a single breast?"

The other, by the contrast between his "four sweet years" of friendship, and his present feelings of desolation—

"And was the day of my delight
As sure and perfect as I say?"

In the thought of the reality of his love for his friend he finds the answer to these questions. In reply to the latter he says:

"I know that this was life—the track
Whereon with equal feet we bared,
And then as now, the day prepared
The daily burden for the back.

But this it was that made one move
As light as carrier bird in air,
I loved the weight I had to bear
Because it needed help of love.

Nor could I weary heart or limb
When mighty love would cleave in twain
The lading of a single pain
And part it, giving half to him.

Moved by the thought of the continuance of this deep love for his friend even after his removal, the poet gives utterance to the supreme desire of "In Memoriam" in the words

"I long to prove
No lapse of morns can canker love
Whatever fickle tongues may say."

And he closes this introductory cycle with his well known words:

"I hold it true, whate'er befall,
I feel it when I sorrow most;
'Tis better to have loved and lost
Than never to have loved at all."

THAT IMPALING CASE.

Mr. H. E. Hudson, Combermere, Severely Injured—Protruding Knot Entered the Body — Cured by One Box of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Combermere, April 13, (Special)—Mr. H. E. Hudson, trapper, hunter and lumberman, was injured by falling on a knot which entered his body from beneath and injured the bladder and kidneys. He says:—"I was confined to my bed for six weeks and was rarely able to work, feeling too weak since the injury over eight years ago. I have taken one box of Dodd's Kidney Pills and am perfectly cured and as able-bodied as ever before in my life. One box was worth one hundred dollars to me, if it is possible to estimate such a benefit in dollars."

JUST AT THIS TIME.

A Few Valuable Hints to Those Who Are Quick to Take Advantage of Suggestions.

Can you afford to risk your life during this Spring?

How many people there are, just now, who complain of tired, worn out feelings. They feel listless, languid, have headaches, backaches and continually suffer from stomach troubles. Their symptoms plainly show that their liver and kidneys are out of order. Others are sufferers from dizziness, palpitation and pains near the heart. Their blood does not circulate properly and it needs purifying. Unless these things are attended to, the first cold or chill they catch is very apt to turn into pneumonia, consumption or some other dangerous malady. Can anyone afford to run these risks?

These dangers are not exaggerated. They actually exist, they must be faced, and it is a serious matter for people who have others depending on them. Such people cannot afford to be laid up with a severe illness, lose work and pay heavy doctors' bills. It is wiser to guard against the many dangers by toning up the system and putting every organ of the body in perfect condition. This is easily accomplished by the aid of Warner's Safe Cure, which for years has been recognized as the greatest and best remedy for renewing the strength and building up the health.

Every doctor knows this truth. Thousands of prominent people have proved its value in their own experience. Ask them and they will tell you they always make it a practice to take Warner's Safe Cure whenever any ill-health approaches. That is why they can face the most dangerous exposures without risk and always keep in perfect health. There are few people who can afford to ignore these suggestions, few who should fail to avail themselves of the valuable hints they contain.

Street Railway Mail Services.

Washington, April 17—In consequence of the success of the street railway mail service in New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington, Chicago and Cincinnati, Assistant Postmaster-General Neilson proposes to introduce it in other cities after July 1 as far as the limited appropriation at his disposal will allow.

Packing House Men Go Idle.

Kansas City, Mo., April 17.—A general reduction of the force in all departments at the Armour packing houses was made yesterday. About 15 per cent of the men were laid off. At headquarters it was said that the cut was made simply because there was nothing for the men to do. No time is set for their re-employment.

"I Took One-Half Bottle of South American Rheumatic Cure and Obtained Perfect Relief"—This Remedy Gives Relief in a Few Hours, and Usually Cures in One to Three Days.

J. H. Garrett, a prominent politician of Liverpool, N.S., makes, for the benefit of the public, the following statement: "I was greatly troubled with rheumatic pains for a number of years. On several occasions I could not walk, nor even put my feet to the floor. I tried everything, and all local physicians, but my suffering continued. At last I was prevailed upon to try South American Rheumatic Cure. I obtained perfect relief before I had taken half a bottle of the remedy, and to-day regard it the only radical cure for rheumatism." Sold by H. S. Macdonald.

WORKED THE HOTELS.

"Charles Risley" Caught at Brantford.

HOW BOGUS CHECKS WERE CASHED

By Hotel Proprietors in This Province—A Scheme That Was Successful on Many Occasions—It Went Well in Ottawa—A New York Confederate.

Brantford, April 18.—Charles Risley, said to be a traveler for a New York firm, was arrested here to-day at the Belmont Hotel. The warrant on which Risley was arrested was issued at Brockville, Ont. He drew a check to-day against Foulds & Co. of New York and got the proprietor of the Belmont Hotel here to endorse the check. The cash was drawn. In the meantime the proprietor of the Belmont opened his other eye and securing the amount drawn on the check returned it to the bank. Shortly afterwards the police came along and took charge of Risley. It is reported he is wanted in Brockville, Montreal, Boston and New York. The preliminary examination will be held at the Police Court on Monday.

The "Charles Risley" referred to in the foregoing despatch is particularly "wanted" by many hotel proprietors in Canada. Last Christmas Risley appeared in Montreal, where he worked his game on several of the leading hotels for sums ranging from $25 to $75. He then visited Ottawa and put up at the Windsor House in that city, and afterward went to Brockville. Risley had been in Ottawa previously and when he registered at the Windsor he referred to his previous visit. The next day, a Saturday, after bank hours, he called on the office manager, Mr. Robertson, and asked if there were any letters for him. Mr. Robertson looked over the mail and found one addressed to Risley, bearing a New York postmark. Risley, standing at the counter, opened the letter and a check dropped out. Risley smiled and said this was the very letter he was waiting for, his "expense account check." He endorsed the check, which had been made payable to Risley, and handed it to the office manager with a request that he let him have the cash as he was leaving town for Montreal that afternoon and was a little short. Mr. Robertson, not suspecting anything crooked, and from the appearance of the check certainly the keenest man on earth would have thought it all right, as it was made out as all checks of commercial and mercantile houses are; the name of the firm was waterlined in the check, the check was crossed good by an auditor and the amount was stamped on the margin, all of which tended to show authenticity. The Windsor House clerk, after handing the man the $75, the amount of the check, passed it through the bank in the regular way. About a week later the check was returned from New York with a protest, attached to which was an affidavit of a notary to the effect that there was no such firm as "Foulds & Co." in New York and there was no such account in the bank upon which the check had been drawn. The check, of course, was crossed "forgery." When this was discovered and the hotel officials had notified the police, it was found out that he had played the same game on hotels in Brockville, Prescott, Montreal, Toronto, and other cities.

Risley apparently works this game with a confederate in New York, with whom he keeps in close correspondence and with whom he arranges the exact dates upon which to mail letters containing these bogus checks to the different hotels which are singled out as likely to be caught by their game.

TEMPERANCE IN ENGLAND.

A New Movement on Foot to Regain Lost Ground.

New York, April 19.—A special cable despatch from London to The Sun says: The temperance party in England is at length beginning to recover from the drubbing which it received in the last general election, but it does not seem to have taken to heart the lesson taught by its tremendous defeat at the polls. It is undeniable that the electorate meant to express the country's disgust with the fanatical temperance policy which aimed at immediate and violent interference with deep seated social habits and customs of the people; but the temperance people cherish the delusion that their defeat was due to their weakly dallying with half measures instead of keeping absolute prohibition in the forefront of their movement.

Consequently, they propose to "Strengthen their program by penalizing the manufacture and sale of liquor," and one section will even go further and make drunkenness an offence punishable by fine and imprisonment. The latter have formed a new organization called "The Temperance Ironsides," and established a newspaper for the purpose, among others, of "Freeing the church from all complication with the liquor traffic." This is primarily aimed at certain sensible bishops and parsons who have publicly given in their adhesion to the movement for dealing with the evils of the liquor traffic by enforcing the Gothenburg system of municipal ownership and control.

Various temperance conferences will be held next month, and it will be seen whether the Ironsides in particular and the prohibitionists in general will obtain control of the anti-liquor movement. If they should do so they will not carry the bulk of the Liberal party with them, and the result will probably be a political schism not without importance.

THE FARMERS OF QUEBEC

Seem to Be Thriving—Presentation of Medals—The Laurier Banquet

Montreal, April 19.—(Special)—There was a very interesting gathering yesterday at Hersey's Hotel, Lachine, the occasion being the presentation of medals to the farmers of Jacques Cartier County by the Local Government. Mr. W. W. Ogilvie, the millionaire miller, presided, and at the table of honor were seated the Hon. Louis Beaubien, the Hon. Joseph Royal, the Hon. A. W. Morris and the Hon. Senator Ogilvie. The speeches of the Minister of Agriculture and others present were quite important. This year the Quebec Government will devote $20,000 to foster the butter industry. There are 95 young men in attendance at the agricultural schools, against 18 a short time ago. This Province has 1500 cheese and butter factories, or as Dr. McEachran put it, 180 more than in the Province of Ontario. There are likewise 556 farmers' clubs in the Province, and a Montreal seed merchant reported that 20,000 lbs. of clover seed had been sold this spring for the new country north of St. Jerome and $3000 worth to Chicoutimi, showing that very considerable progress in agriculture is being made in this Province.

The Liberals claim that the demonstration to be held here in honor of the Hon. Wilfrid Laurier will be a great success. No less than 80 members of the House of Commons have accepted invitations to attend, so say the promoters, but this number will no doubt be considerably diminished by Friday evening next, the date decided upon for the rally.

SUPERSTITION IN FRANCE.

Why Incredulous People Are Now Flocking to Tilly Sur Seulles.

Paris, April 19.—Examples of the strange revival of superstition and incredulity in France multiply rapidly, even the Society of Psychical Research is hopelessly divided upon the question of the supernatural nature of Mlle. Couesdon's prophecy.

Now comes a fresh story from Tilly Sur Seulles, a town in the Department of Calvados. One afternoon a little girl in the convent school suddenly exclaimed to her teacher: "Look out of the window. There is the good Virgin."

The nun and 50 pupils turned their eyes in that direction and declared that they beheld what appeared to be a statue of the Virgin, with the infant Jesus in her arms, at the foot of a tree, surrounded by a brilliant halo.

The story has sufficed to attract any number of pilgrims to this spot, not only from every corner of Calvados, but from the neighboring departments of Orne and Marne. On last Sunday upwards of 1200 credulous folk traveled to Tilly Sur Seulles for the purpose of visiting the spot, and every evening fully 50 persons gathered around the tree to pick off the bark for relics. In short, the whole country is in a state of excitement, as might have been expected. Reports have spread that miracles have been already wrought. The natural explanation of the phenomenon is to be attributed to the phosphorescent effects produced by the lime kilns, which are numerous there.

Is William of Germany Now Trying to Make Friends in Great Britain?

London, April 19.—In the realm of European politics, there is, perhaps, as much significance in certain of the Kaiser's social proceedings while in Italy as in any of the serious conventional developments of the week. His hatred of England is well known and was abundantly illustrated in his telegram to President Kruger. Yet, when at Syracuse during his visit to Italy, his first visit after his yacht came to anchor was not to the great Italian warship sent to greet him, but to a second-class English cruiser, apparently only happening to be there. Moreover, he wore the uniform of a British admiral, and at a subsequent luncheon on board the Imperial yacht, he placed the English captain at his right and the Italian admiral next to the Empress.

Sir Wemyss Reid in The Speaker today thus comments on the episode: "The fact is decidedly significant of his new attitude towards this country. Last January, at one of his interviews with the British Ambassador, he had his English admiral's uniform in the room in which the interview took place. "'How can I ever wear that again?' he demanded, after referring to the abuse to which he was being subjected in this country. At Syracuse he put on the uniform, boarded an English man-of-war and paid very marked attentions to its captain. This is a most unmistakable holding out of the olive branch."

From all of which it is evident that the possibility of an Anglo-German war of two months ago has faded into the limbo of impossibilities.

JOHN BULL MUST BE WELL FED.

A Commission of Chemists to Look Out For Adulterated Food.

New York, April 19.—A London special says: It is understood that the House of Commons committee appointed to inquire into the adulteration of food have virtually agreed upon a report which will cause much stir in the trading world. The majority propose the appointment of a Government Board of Chemists to establish and maintain a standard of purity for articles of food, home raised and imported, and that adulterators on their second conviction will be sent to prison as in ancient days. Certain parts of the report are directed against American food stuffs, including lard, and customs officers will be authorized to take samples at the port of entry. The British dairy interest managed to persuade the committee into a recommendation that oleomargarine only be imported and sold in its natural color, which, if enforced, will utterly ruin the sale of that commodity as a butter substitute, a business which has lately attained enormous proportions.

The Alleged Diamond Thieves.

Washington, April 18.—At the request of Gov. Morton of New York, the Department of State has requested Ambassador Bayard to secure the provisional detention of Dunlop and Turner, the alleged diamond thieves. Gov. Morton notified the department that immediate steps would be taken to file the papers

A TEN ACRE BLAZE.

The Old Pennsylvania Depot at Philadelphia

TOTALLY DESTROYED BY FIRE.

Two Firemen Were Killed by Falling Walls—Many Others Seriously Injured—Pullman and First-Class Passenger Cars Burned—The Fire Raged Six Hours.

Philadelphia, April 18.—The old Pennsylvania Railroad Depot at 32nd and Market-streets and the train shed, together with the freight, Pullman cars and eight passenger coaches, were totally destroyed by fire to-night. Two men were killed by falling walls and a dozen were injured. The loss is estimated at $35,000. The Pennsylvania Railway carries its own insurance.

The dead are William Stager, aged 57 years, assistant chief engineer of the Pennsylvania Fire Department, skull fractured, internal injuries and frightfully burned.

Hugh C. Granigan, 48 years, asistant foreman of truck I, badly crushed. The injured are George R. Preston, assistant foreman of truck A., fractured skull, legs and feet crushed and back injured; will die.

Samuel Sneyd, ladderman of truck A, fractured ribs and contused back and abdomen; condition critical.

Philip Salsberg, ladderman, truck I, scalp wounds, internal injuries and arms burned; condition serious.

William Bennett, assistant foeman of Engine Co. No. 43, legs dislocated and otherwise injured.

Patrick Curtin, 35 years, engineer of Co. No. 43, caught in falling wall and injured about legs.

George Jennings, ladderman, injured about the head and legs.

Charles W. Rau, ladderman, scalp, shoulders and back hurt by falling debris.

Harry Douglas, fireman, and Theodore C. Feltor, fireman, overcome by heat.

John Blee, foreman, injured by falling shed and overcome by heat.

Edward Rosenfello, fireman; John Hart, railroad employe, and W. H. Sturgis, 26 years, fireman, overcome by heat.

David Wellar Kard, fractured arm and ribs.

The fire started at 4.30 o'clock presumably from an explosion of gasoline in a coal bin, under the train shed, and it spread rapidly. The firemen, aided by 500 employes of the Pennsylvania Road shops near-by, fought the flames, but without effect. The fire raged for six hours, and it was not extinguished until midnight.

Shortly after 5 o'clock an iron portico in front of the building fell and four firemen were caught by the debris and badly injured. The most serious disaster occurred two hours later, when a two-story wing of the building fell without warning, burying half a dozen firemen under the mass of hot bricks. The men were rescued in a short time, but Stager and Granigan had sustained fatal injuries and they died in the hospital. Stager had been a fireman for 30 years.

The building was occupied by several officials of the Pennsylvania, and valuable plans and records were destroyed. The commissary department of the Pullman Co. was also located in this place. The structure was abandoned for passenger traffic in 1881, when the Broad-street Station was completed, after having been in use for 10 or 12 years. There were 16 tracks in the train shed, and these were filled with cars when the fire started. The building and train shed covered ten acres of ground.

THAT CATTLE BILL.

A Probability That Permanent Restriction on Canadian Cattle Will Be Postponed by Britain.

London, April 18.—Owing to the pressure of business in Parliament of a debatable nature it is now probable that the bill introduced in the House of Commons February 20 by Walter Long, President of the Board of Agriculture, amending the Diseases of Animals Act of 1894 by making permanent the restrictions placed upon the importation of cattle, instead of leaving them to the discretion of the Board of Agriculture, will be postponed until 1897.

IT LOOKS BAD AT BULUWAYO.

Matabeles are Nearing the Outskirts—A Dynamite Train Laid.

Buluwayo, April 19.—A mounted British force numbering 40 while reconnoitering in the outskirts Friday encountered a large advance party of Matabeles, whom it immediately engaged in battle. The natives were driven back, with the loss of 50 killed. The British had only one man wounded.

The anxiety of the residents of Buluwayo increases hourly. The relief column from Salisbury is now reported within 40 miles of Buluwayo and advancing steadily.

Cecil Rhodes, ex-Premier of the Cape Colony, who intended accompanying the column, is still at Salisbury, his health not having improved sufficiently to permit his leaving that place.

Cape Town, April 19.—A despatch from Buluwayo dated yesterday says that the number of rebellious Matabeles is increasing daily, and that they are massing closer to the town. A dynamite train that is arranged to be fired by electricity has been laid in the outskirts and along the streets. The mines are all connected with the Central Laager, and can be exploded separately. On Friday night some of the Matabeles changed their positions. It is believed that they moved southward to attempt to prevent the advance of 500 men from Mafeking, who are marching to the relief of Buluwayo.

London, April 19.—The Daily News will to-morrow say that President Kruger has claimed an indemnity of £1,500,000 from the British South African Company for the recent raid of Dr. Jameson into the Transvaal.

PRACTICAL ORATORY.

Sir Charles Tupper and hidebound partisan journals claim, that the Liberal members have been guilty of obstruction, and of wasting time in fruitless and irrelevant discussion, but it was shown in the house on Thursday, that Mr. L. H. Davies, in the course of a half hour speech, saved the taxpayers three quarters of a million of dollars. It was on this wise, Mr. George Goodwin, well known in Peterborough personally and as the builder of the fine double locks at Burleigh Falls, a favorite government contractor, laid his plans for getting $210 000 more than he was entitled to out of a contract on the Soulange's Canal, in the west of the Province of Quebec. The most careful reading of the conditions of the contract by the best lawyers, revealed no iota of right to this money. Such legal lights as L. H. Davies, Q. C., D'Alton McCarthy, Q.C., Mr. Lash, Q.C., and Mr. J. D. Edgar are of this opinion; and Sir John Thompson held that the claim was preposterous, yet Hon. John Haggart, Minister of Railways and Canals, on the advice of the cocky Sir Hibbert Tupper—what expensive fellows the Tuppers are!—ordered the payment of the claim. If this claim had been paid it would have "stuck" the country for the huge sum of $750,000, by forming a precedent for paying similar claims of other contractors on other sections of the same canal. But the Auditor-General refused to sign the cheque, and took the advice of a prominent lawyer, Mr. Z. A. Lash, Q.C., who held that Mr. Goodwin, the contractor, hadn't the ghost of a claim to the money.

Mr. Davis brought the matter up in the House on Thursday and made out so strong a case that it enlisted the acquiescence of the best lawyers in the House and practically forced the Government to promise to stop payment of the money till the matter had been submitted to the Exchequer Court Judge. This was satisfactory to Mr. Davies, who certainly can claim credit for having done a good day's work—saving the country three-quarters of a million of our hard earned money. This attempt to defraud the people must have been shown up pretty palpably and Mr. Davies must have made out an exceedingly strong case, for the government surrendered the spoils with the greatest reluctance. It is well known that the chief source of supply for corruption fund is the milking of complaisant contractors. If Mr. Goodwin's claim of $210,000 had been passed other contractors would have put in claims—that would have also been paid—amounting to $750,000. Now, even a Conservate percentage on this three-quarters of a million dollars of boodled money would have made a comfortable addition to th Government's boodle fund. The saving thus effected is only a sam ple of what would be gained by substituting an honest, business-like Liberal government for the present wasteful, reckless and trafficking aggregation, composed of a "nest of traitors" and of, what the bolters called imbeciles. Note what a prominent part a Tupper had in this attempted steal, and also add to that the ominous circumstance that another Tupper, with more brains, and consequently more power for evil, with greater experience in corrupt methods, is at the head of the present government, which is seeking to fasten its leech-like lips for another five years upon the already depleted body corporate. Let Sir Charles Tupper talk as he likes about Liberal obstruction. The little half hour's "obstruction" of Mr. Davies saved the country three quarters of a million of dollars, which would without the interference of the Liberals in the House, have gone into the p kets of contractors.

THE PEOPLE'S POLICY — THE LIBERAL PLATFORM.

The following is the third resolution adopted at the National Convention of the Liberal party at Ottawa, June 1893:

Purity of Administration—Condemn Corruption—That the Convention deplores the gross corruption in the management and expenditure of public moneys which for years past has existed under the rule of the Conservative party, and the revelations of which by the different Parliamentary committees of inquiry have brought disgrace upon the fair name of Canada. The Government which profitted politically by these expenditures of public moneys of which the people have been defrauded, and which, nevertheless, have never punished the guilty parties, must be held responsible for the wrongdoing. We arraign the Government for retaining in office a Minister of the crown proved to have accepted very large contributions of money for election purposes from the funds of a railway company, which, while paying the political contributions to him, a member of the Government, with one hand, was receiving Government subsidies with the other. The conduct of the Minister and the approval of his colleagues after the proof became known to them are calculated to degrade Canada in the estimation of the world and deserve the severe condemnation of the people.

It is hardly necessary to emphasize the vigorous indictment contained in the above resolution. Everybody knows—for it has long been a patent scandal—the manner in which the present Dominion Administration prostitutes and has prostituted every function of government, the machinery of every department, to corrupt expedients for the retention of power. The most sacred right of the people—the very foundation and corner-stone of efficient responsible government—the franchise, is manipulated and bedevilled in the interests of the party in power; money is wasted to to the tune of thousands in the annual revision, and the revision is, in the vast majority of cases, a sham and a snare. Thousands are disfranchised and thousands not fairly entitled to vote are placed upon the lists by partizan officials. The dignity of the bench is outraged by making judgeships the vehicle of bribery, and reward to members of parliament, in consideration of their supporting the government in indefensible courses. The public works of the country are made the prey of contractors, who in return for the favours given, are lavish contributors to cam. paign funds to be used to corrupt the weaker minded and unstable of the electorate. Ministers of the crown become the Judasses of the party and carry the bag, and one Minister of the Crown, Sir Adolphe Caron, caught red-handed as a distributor of corruption funds, openly boasted that he would do the same again if the opportunity offered. By taking Sir Adolphe into favour, the ministry condones and his offence and become participes criminis. In these and others ways the Government has shown that it is corrupt from premier to tail, and we can have no hope for purity of administration with the "high priest of corruption" at the head of an organization of political adventurers, which it is the most monstrous misnomer to call an administration; we can only expect and fear a repetition in an increased degree of the disgraceful corruption that has been sapping the energies of this lusty young country for nearly a score of years. The only way—the radical remedy—is to "turn the rascals out" and replace them with a clean-handed Liberal administration whose policy, as put on record, aims at the promotion of the best interests of the country—clean administration and government by honest methods.

SHOT WHILE OUT SHOOTING.

One of the Governor-General's Footmen Meets His Death by the Accidental Discharge of a Companion's Gun.

Ottawa, April 18.—Tom Taylor, a young man, 17 years of age, a footman to Lord Aberdeen, was shot dead this morning at Rideau Hall. Taylor had only been in Canada for a few months. He was a native of Derbyshire, England. This morning Taylor and John Cheney, a lad 14 years of age, were out shooting in the woods, which surround Government House, and on their way home Cheney's gun went off and shot Taylor dead. Taylor only lived a few seconds. Cheney is a son of the head coachman at Government House. A post-mortem and inquest was held this afternoon, when a verdict of accidental death was returned.

His Excellency has cabled fully to the young man's relatives, mentioning also that the funeral would be conducted with every mark of respect.

WHY HOME RULE IS OUT OF IT.

Mr. Harold Frederic Sends Some Outspoken Words to Irish Americans.

New York, April 10.—Mr. Harold Frederic cables from London to The Times: For a long time it has been becoming less and less necessary to include mention of Irish affairs in a survey of European doings Matters have reached a stage now which may well rejoice those who dislike Ireland most. It would be hard to exaggerate the amazement and disgust with which everybody in Parliament, outside a little group of two score tenth-rate bosses and their salaried heelers, regards the episode of Dillon's publicly forcing himself upon the Belfast and Derry Bills Committee in place of Healy, whose appointment had been unanimously asked for by those concerned. No politics whatever is involved in this request, but the Catholics of the two cities, who are opposing the bills wanted Healy on the committee simply because he is a clever lawyer, who knew the details of the case, and his presence would save them several thousand dollars in lawyers' bills. This view was presented to Dillon by influential people of both towns, but he was deaf to all arguments and insisted that he must be on the committee himself instead of Healy, although he is not a lawyer, and knows nothing whatever of the matters involved, and his appointment will necessitate retaining expensive counsel. As he insisted, the Liberals could do nothing but assent, though they had waived their right to a man on the committee at the request of the Derry Nationalists solely to make room for Healy.

I mention these details of a typical Dillon performance, so that Irishmen in America may comprehend why it is that the Home Rule movement, on which they spent millions of dollars, has become a pitiable laughing stock at home and abroad.

The Waterous Fire Engine Has the Mishap This Time.

Following closely after the recent mishap to the new Ronald fire engine the new Waterous met with an accident on Saturday morning. When driving to a small blaze at the kindergarten School, 82 Gladstone-avenue, the engine was overturned owing to a wheel catching in the car track. Driver Hughes was thrown, but was unhurt. The engine sustained some damage, but the firemen stated last night that it was all right.

The fires on Saturday were: Box 164, at 11.21 a.m., kindergarten school, Gladstone-avenue, damage $75, caused by defective chimney; box 157, 8 p.m., rubbish at rear of 21 Rolyat-street, damage trifling; still alarm at 8.35 p.m., fire at 22 Bay-street, caused by glue pot upsetting, damage trifling. On Sunday at noon a burning chimney at 69 Hackney-street gave the firemen a run, and at 6.54 p.m. they were called to the Sacred Heart Orphanage, where fire which had originated in a shaft caused $20 damage.

How European Correspondents Size Matters Up.

GREAT BRITAIN'S WARS ABROAD.

Did the Government Fool the People in Connection With Their Policy in the Soudan?—South African Troubles—Split in the Anglo-Armenian Ranks.

New York, April 19.—Mr. Harold Frederic cables from London to The Times:

The most warlike British jingo can no longer complain that things are dull. Each London paper has from four to six columns daily now from the headquarters of the British armies in the field or the points where British subjects are in hourly terror of their lives, and it is practically admitted by the Government at last that before autumn there will be more of the Queen's soldiers under arms in active service than before since the Sepoy mutiny was put down, nearly 40 years ago. Even without any European entanglement or rupture of peace, England has enough fighting on her hands for 1896 to make the year conspicuous in her records.

Now that it is known that 10,000 British troops, with three battalions of the Household Brigade and Redvers Buller in command, are to go up the Nile as soon as the floods render an ascent in force practicable, people are naturally angry at the wanton lies told and persisted in for weeks by the Ministers on this whole subject. The most charitable explanation is that there were sharp divisions in the Cabinet and that Salisbury, Balfour and Curzon were hoping against hope when they gave pacific assurances that they could hold their own against Chamberlain's aggressive jingoism.

At all events, no one is making headway against it to-day, and, now that blood has begun to flow, the chance of England's listening to the arguments of any peace party is hardly worth discussing. Only some overwhelming catastrophe in the desert campaign could work that miracle now, and the War Office is going to try all that caution, large preparations and unlimited force can do to avert this danger. It is generally understood that a big draft of native Indian troops will be employed later on, but the details are unknown. The news that the Egyptian soldiers acquitted themselves so well in the opening skirmishes with Osman Digna's men is made much of, but there are still grave doubts what they will be like when the Dervishes get really at them, hand to hand. Their very appearance in the field is regarded as an unpardonable insult by the Dervishes, whose contempt for the fellaheen is boundless, and they know that, if they fall into Dervish hands, their fate will be a thing to shudder at; hence they fight with terrible despair, if there be no way out, but there must be a powerful pushing force of British behind them all the while.

The Matabele rising furnishes for the moment a much more exciting theme, for there appears to be genuine danger that Buluwayo was sacked and put to fire and sword before help can reach it. The beleaguered garrison could hold the place against indefinite odds, so long as provisions and ammunition lasted, but these both are pretty short, and, worse still, hundreds of natives are inside the Laager whose loyalty is more than suspected. Every day brings bulletins of new massacres in the outlying mining territory of prospecting parties, and among the victims an exceptional proportion is of young men of well-known families.

Exciting as all this is, it is not unfamiliar experience to the English, and, in ordinary conditions, they would not dream of borrowing trouble about it; but it happens that something much more important than smashing a mutiny of savages is involved, and uncertainty of just what this is makes people nervous. The whole Transvaal problem is darkly mixed up with the Matabele difficulty, and all England's steps towards restoring order in Rhodesia have to be picked carefully, in order not to tread on Kruger's toes. This makes the Tories impatient here, and they are beginning to cry out to Chamberlain to go ahead, regardless of the Boers, and whip them, too, if they insist on being disagreeable. This is all reported at Pretoria, where pre-existing prejudice has been intensified to sombre rage by wholesale lies cabled to and from South Africa by agents, parasites of Johannesburg and goldfield syndicates. As a result, England is permanently increasing the garrison of regulars at Cape Town, and will probably find herself sending out still other forces as the summer advances.

The Times this morning says this doubling of strength at Cape Town is done because, if a European war occurred, the Suez Canal would be blocked and traffic would have to go round the Cape, and the security of this splendid British harbor and base of supplies would be an imperative necessity. If this be an authorized statement, it may well set Englishmen thinking. They can only reconcile themselves to the spectacle of their country wading waist deep into the African morass by taking it for granted that the peace of Europe has been provided for. Meanwhile, if this has not been done, and if England finds herself confronted suddenly by hostile continental combinations to her detriment, while she has her hands tied in Ethopia, I should not envy Lord Salisbury his experience with the British public."

THE BRITISH BUDGET.

Enormous Surpluses But the Elastic Expenditures Even Matters Up.

New York, April 19.—Mr. Isaac N. Ford cables from London to The Tribune: The budget speech disclosed at once the magnitude of English prosperity and the helplessness of the taxpayer. With revenues from every source exceeding the estimates, and with the largest surplus ever known, the taxpayers are allowed to stagger along with a beggarly measure of relief. A large part of the year's surplus is already disposed of in naval works, and the estimated surplus next year would be larger by $15,000,000 if the new naval program had not been adopted. What remains is devoted to easing the operation of the death duties, reducing the land tax from four shillings to one, and relieving the agricultural rates. The eight-penny income tax, which is virtually a war tax, still stands. Sir William Harcourt's so-called democratic budget, which was once condemned as a policy of confiscation, is retained with slight changes. The beer tax which the brewers denounced remains in force. Taxpayers are not relived, although the treasury receipts are the largest ever recorded in England.

This is because the expenditures are as elastic as the revenues. Even the fortunate Chancellor of the Exchequer, who has fallen heir to Sir William Harcourt's revenue-producing system, is inclined to take a serious view of the future, when the lean years follow the fat. Meanwhile, there are signs of unparalleled prosperity in luxurious living, and there are millions to spare for naval work. Revenues increase when times are good, because people use more tea, drink more beer, wine and spirits, smoke more tobacco, and gamble more on the stock exchange. Last year's returns are not, perhaps, conclusive on this point, but apparently the mortality among rich men is also greater in an era of prosperity. The revenue pours into the treasury, and the surplus is drawn off into the Admiralty, and the rapid payment of the national debt is deprecated as an unprofitable policy. The taxpayer, meanwhile, wonders what will be the income tax rate when the outbreak of a great war occurs, if eightpence to the pound be the rate in time of peace and prosperity. Punch hits off this inquisitive person this week as a donkey bending under a great load and murmuring: "I don't grumble, but I should like just a little taken off."

The Sun's London says: Something like a schism has occurred among the English friends of the unhappy Armenians. The immediate effect will be likely to be secessions from the Anglo-Armenian Committee, of which the Duke of Westminster and the Duke of Argyle are leading members. Several members of the committee are disheartened at the utter failure of the European powers to move the Sultan to humane methods of dealing with his Christian subjects. It was proposed that the committee should send a deputation to St. Petersburg to personally appeal to the young Czar to take the Armenians under his protection. Both the dukes and other influential committeemen emphatically declined to have anything to do with such a fantastic scheme. They saw that it was part of the Russian state policy to retain and improve the friendly relations between Russia and Turkey, and, that being so, no considerations of feeling would permit the Czar to interfere.

The World's Madrid correspondent cables: The Madrid Government, it has leaked out, is about to try to steal a march on President Cleveland. It is making preparations, which it pretends are voluntary, to put into force in the West Indies some scheme of colonial home rule, based upon the bill which passed the Cortes in January, 1895. The reforms will go into effect as soon as Gen. Weyler, guided by hints on the subject from the Spanish legation in Washington, deems it expedient.

Many telegrams and much correspondence on the subject have been passing between Governors Weyler and Marin and the Madrid Colonial Office, where Minister Castellanos and other officials are actively drafting the contemplated measures, which will be officially styled political and administrative reforms. They will be followed by tariff reforms and a promise of electoral reform, as circumstances suggest.

FOR TIRED FEELING.

Exhaustion is Waste—Overwork Means Shorter Life—Dodd's Kidney Pills Mean Rest for the Kidneys.

Overwork is what you do after common sense asks you to quit.

Overwork of any kind does more than tire, it exhausts you.

Just a little more after you ought to quit is the "too much" that uses you up.

The blood goes out to all parts faster than usual when you overwork.

If the kidneys are not in perfect filtering order, more poison is injected through them to all parts of the body than usual, and then work, to say nothing of overwork, is harmful.

As soon as your kidneys commence doing good work there is less and less poison in the blood every minute.

This explains why Dodd's Kidney Pills cure so promptly and permanently.

A Boy's Life Saved

"One day my little boy, aged 7, got a fall and hurt his knee. Inflammation of the knee joint set in and the decay of the bone of the leg rapidly followed. Doctors removed over a hundred pieces of decayed bone, but the process of decomposition continued. All attempts to stop it failed. The boy had but a few days' life before him according to all human expectations. Mr. Denham, druggist, Petrolia, advised me to try Scott's Sarsaparilla, I did so, and not only saved but completely cured my boy."—JOSEPH DUNCAN, farmer, Lambton County, Ont.

Deputy Minister Burgess Wants More Money For Immigration—Rev. Mr. Herridge Backs Up the M.P.'s.

Ottawa, April 19.—(Special)—Mr. Burgess, Deputy Minister of the Interior, gave to the Agricultural Committee yesterday a comprehensive statement of the operations of the immigration branch of his department. He said the annual appropriation was administered to the best possible advantage, but that it might be increased with great benefit to the country. This year only $130,000 had been available and he thought at least the sum of $200,000 should be voted.

The Rev. Mr. Herridge, Ottawa's Spurgeon, in the course of his sermon in St. Andrew's Church to-night strongly rebuked his clerical brethren who had slandered the House of Commons in their recent discourses.

The High Court sittings terminated yesterday, when Judge Robertson "socked" it to several prisoners in good shape. Jerry Couvrette, who shot an Ottawa man named Champagne, got ten years; A. Gauthier, who forged his father-in-law's name, five years, and Joseph Thibault, who raised a $1 bill, five years.

Mr. Haggart gives notice for the constructing of seven branch lines of railway in Prince Edward Island, representing a total of 110 miles.

St. George's Society and the Sons of England attended divine service in St. John's Church to-night, when the anniversary sermon of the society was preached by the Rev. Mr. Mackay, one of the chaplains of the society.

HOW THE SUN LIFE

FULFILS ITS PROMISES.

A Matured 10 Year Endowment.

Profits Paid by the SUN 21 per. cent more than the Estimates.

The following letter, which speaks for itself, was received by the undersigned this morning from a gentleman in Brockville, whose ten year endowment which he held in the Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada matured last week and was paid him. The Sun is modest in promises but UNEQUALLED IN RESULTS. The public are benefited by results, not by promises unfulfilled

BROCKVILLE, November 7th, 1895.

W. H. HILL, Mgr. Central Ontario Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada, Peterborough, Ontario:—

DEAR SIR.—I should have acknowledged the receipt of yours enclosing cheque for endowment policy No. 13,871 before, only I wanted to write something more than a mere receipt. I am pleased to hear of the continued prosperity of the "SUN" and it speaks well for your Company when the profits are greater (by 21 per cent.) than you as the Company's representative promised or rather estimated, as was the case with this policy.

I hope your Company will continue to prosper and I often regret that I do not carry more Insurance than I am doing. I might have carried twice as much as I do when at Minden without any great effort, still what little I do carry I feel is perfectly safe being in the "SUN."

I must thank you for your promptness and kindness regarding this policy just settled. I hope we will both be alive and well when the new one I now hold will be due in 1905 and assuring you of very best wishes, I remain,

Yours Sincerely,
(Signed) F. R. C.

The above voluntary testimonial is significant and shows in a most practical way the SUN'S standing as a profit paying institution.

Obituary.

As previously announced in The EXAMINER the remains of the late Robert White, jr., were brought from Chicago on Saturday night, accompanied by his brother, Mr. Fred. White, who has also been a resident of the great western Metropolis for some time. A number of friends of the family were at the station to meet the body, which was immediately conveyed to the White House. Robert was born on January 10th, 1857, and was therefore 29 years of age at the time of his death. The funeral will take place on Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock from St. Peter's Cathedral. Deceased had been sick for three weeks prior to his death, suffering from an attack of pneumonia. He passed away on Friday morning at about two o'clock.

SUMMER WEDDING BELLS.

Nuptials of Mr. Galvin Graham and Miss Anne Eliza Crowe.

On Wednesday, April 15th 1896, the home of Mr. Richard Crowe, deputy reeve of Dummer, was the scene of a pretty wedding, when his eldest daughter, Anne Eliza was united in marriage to Mr. Galvin Graham, of Asphodel. The ceremony was performed in the presence of about sixteen guests, immediate relatives of the contracting parties, by Rev. J. E. Robeson, Methodist minister. The bride was assisted by her sister, Miss Beatty Crowe, and the bridegroom's brother, Mr. Wm. Graham performed the duties of best man. The bride was handsomely gowned in fawn cashmere, with the traditional veil and orange blossoms. The large number of beautiful and valuable presents were an evidence of the high esteem in which the bride was held in the community where she had passed her life. After the ceremony, a sumptuous wedding supper was enjoyed by the guests, followed by an hour or two of delightful social intercourse. The same evening Mr. and Mrs. Graham left for their future home in Asphodel, followed by the hearty wishes of hosts of friends for a long life of wedded happiness.

A BULLET THROUGH HIS HIP.

George Bradley Accidentally Shot by His Brother Thomas.

On Saturday afternoon as George and Thos. Bradley were out shooting woodchucks on their father's farm in North Monaghan, about a mile out of town, the former was accidentally shot in the hip by his brother, with a bullet out of a pistol.

The injured lad was brought into the Nicholls Hospital, when it was found that the bullet had passed through the hip without touching a bone. The wound though a painful one, is not considered serious.

The accident happened in this wise: Both boys were creeping up a hill towards a ground hog, which started to run along the base of the fence. George had a gun and Tom a horse pistol. Both lads were creeping along the ground on all fours, when the woodchuck started, and Tom, who was in the rear, took a snap shot at it over his brother. He did not raise the point of his pistol high enough, and the result was that the bullet found the wrong billet, with the above mentioned result.

A High Wind Took it Backhorward This Morning—High Water Prevails.

Chemong Lake is clear of ice. A brisk southwest wind swept it out this morning in a couple of hours without doing any damage worth mentioning. The water in the lake is still high, about two feet above the ordinary high water. The Club boat-house island is under water, as are also the wharves along the park front. Chemong Park itself is dry and clean. The grass is starting beautifully, and this popular resort will soon be thronged with visitors—bicyclists and others—as the road between here and the park is drying up nicely. If the electric cars were running they would do a rushing business.

Mr. W. E. Palmer's Death.

In the death of Mr. Wm. E. Palmer last night at the Palmer House, Toronto and the Provin[illegible] Ontario loses one of its best-known [illegible] men. The deceased gentleman [illegible] in Waterloo, N.Y., in 1842, and came to this country in 1863, to join his brother, Mr. J. C. Palmer, who then kept the Anglo-American Hotel at Belleville. Since that time the two brothers have always been associated. Leaving Belleville in 1867, they went to Brantford, where they were, first, the proprietors of the Commercial House, and afterwards removed to Windsor, where they kept the International Hotel. In 1887 they removed to Toronto, Mr. J. C. Palmer becoming proprietor of the Palmer House. The deceased at that time retired from active management, and has resided with his brother ever since. He was one of the best known figures around that popular hostelry, and universally respected by the travelling public.

To-Morrow Night's Concert.

The Belleville Sun says: Yaw's appearance before a Belleville audience in the opera house last night was a most signal success, judged by the enthusiasm which she evoked. Although her audience was not to be compared with Albani's in point of numbers, it was even more appreciative and enthusiastic. Her voice is possibly less cultured than Albani's, but it is not less rich and sweet, and in her first number she entirely dispelled any impression which might have existed that her only claim to public approval is her marvellous compass. In all her numbers—she responded graciously to several encores—she displayed the marvellous range which has led to the universal opinion of her as the greatest musical phenomenon of the century, and she also established her claim to a place among the great, gifted and cultured singers of the day. Mr. Maximillian Dick's performances on the violin were very fine. He is a remarkably skilful musician and his renditions were delightful. Miss Georgiella Lay is an accomplished pianist. This lady introduced each part with exquisite selections, and accompanied Miss Yaw and Mr. Dick on the piano." Seats now on sale.

A SPECIAL SERMON TO THE LOCAL CURLERS.

REV. J. J. RAE DELIVERS AN APPROPRIATE ADDRESS.

The Curlers Assemble at the Rink and March in a Body to the Charlotte Street Methodist Church, Where They Were Spoken to by the Chaplain of the Thistles.

Last evening in the Charlotte street church a new and commendable departure was made in the history of the local curlers when they attended that edifice in a body to listen to a special sermon by Rev. J. J. Rae, the newly appointed chaplain of the Thistles.

The curlers assembled at the rink and marched up Charlotte street shortly before seven o'clock to the church, where the centre seats were reserved for them. Although the turn-out of the curlers did not exceed three score, yet the edifice was crowded to the doors, as the announcement of the special service proved a strong drawing card.

The pastor took as his text the verse, "And if a man also strive for masteries, yet is he not crowned, except he strive lawfully," II. Tim., ii. chap, 5th ver. Paul, the writer of the Epistle, he stated, was in prison at Rome, and was writing to

HIS YOUNG COMPANION,

Timothy, urging him to come to him. Paul fears that Timothy may not be able to come, and through the whole Epistle a strong exhortation is apparent by which Paul calls upon the lad to stand fast to his religion, and he makes reference to the games in illustrating many of the truths, which he wishes to point out and in the Epistle is also found Paul's recognition of the necessity of the development of the physical man.

There is, indeed, no sphere, continued the speaker, in which games are not legitimate and necessary. If we study the Old Testament we will find that the Jews, God's chosen people, were developed in the use of the bow and arrow. In times of war games were held between the great armies and the soldiers were skilled in the throwing of great stones and the game of ball. Coming to the New Testament times the great games of Greece and Rome are mentioned, in which the highest representative is found in the Olympian and in the Pythian games. The Isthmian and Nemean games, being not so important, are also mentioned and altogether form a most important chronological table as they recurred at regular intervals of the year. At these great gatherings the highest of man was observable in the contests of running, jumping, wrestling, etc. In Rome's degenerate day the games became degenerated, denoting that the physical and moral health was diseased and the Coliseum witnessed the lowest depths of human degredation. At this time Rome seemed to trend downward to the more degraded side of human nature, and cultivated that which pandered to the voluptuous—the base.

Paul had been a sympathetic witness of the games. He does not condemn them, but on the other hand constantly brings them before our notice.

Mr. Rae expressed the belief that the games of to-day also deserved the fair consideration of all men, and proceeded to speak of their possibilities and their dangers.

He stated that he was glad to welcome in the church the representatives of what was probably the most popular winter sport in the country. It originated in old Scotland, from which country had come some of the best things and some of the best men which the world had ever known. On their northern lakes the game had originated, being played with rough stones and heather besoms. The game came naturally to men who love

TRUE, BEAUTIFUL SPORT.

It was carried over to this country with its primitive ideas, levelling the same degree lord and peasant, sweeping away with it all distinctions of class and claiming for its support the best men in the country.

There came to every participant in an honest game an honest reward, continued the speaker.

Man is a trinity.

Some want to develop his moral nature only, and as a result we see a malformation.

Others are anxious to develop man's mental nature only, and others again would develop only his physical power.

One without the other two produces but a stunted personality. God never intended more to be simply a moral dreamer or an intellectual giant.

The speaker was not in favour of mechanical exercise. What a nature needed was to be enthralled and lead away from every-day pursuits. Something was needed whereby the cares and worries of human life might be eradicated from a man's mind for the time being. This would not be occasioned by the taking of long walks, but only in that which makes the participant, for the time being, a captive.

Then too the speaker thoroughly believed in the emulation which was engendered in the STRIFE OF MANLY SPORT.

Unless, continued he, you have a motive which is harmonious, you never can have a man that will do the best work and fill the best possible place.

If the crown of higher development shall rest upon the head of man it must be because he contends lawfully.

Man should live for pleasure, urged Mr. Rae. Down in the human heart God has placed a deep love of enjoyment, and He would have man swayed by a love of pleasure—to be anxious to rise higher and higher—to strengthen every energy and unite all his forces to the attainment of life's great end.

The moment a man stands content with himself that moment he is stricken with death.

God intended man to have self-control. It was never the Divine intention that man should be held captive by any power, not even by His own. Man stands before God urged, pressed and almost driven to self-control. "Choose ye this day whom ye will serve." God cannot help man successfully unless man has laid hold of the true problem of self-control.

The speaker then proceeded to mention a few of the illegal or unlawful things in sport, which if indulged in would debar one from the crown.

THAT WHICH WASTES

a man's energy is by that very demand condemned. The danger lies in excess—in a too strong demand upon strength, time, etc.

Another danger lies in the waste of money. The speaker had no sympathy with the all prevailing idea of professionalism. It was nothing but a curse to any honest game and robbed of real advantage that which might be helpful.

Then there was the waste of character. When a game descends to be the scene of a gambling contest it stands condemned. We cannot protect our games from the evil of gambling being connected with them, but the game which bids for gambling must be condemned.

There was also a waste of character in the sense of dissolute companionship. There is a tendency to-day in many games to pander to the false and sinful.

The speaker had once returned on a train with a party from a game, and he prayed that the youth of Peterborough might be preserved from the contamination of what he saw. The boys were following in the footsteps of their elders, and unless man declared for games pure and healthful, they need but blame themselves if their children fell into an

ABYSS OF SHAME.

Mr. Rae stated that he was thoroughly cognizant of the fact that the great game of which so many representatives were before him did not open the doors of possibility to things which degraded others. He urged the curlers to stand for truth, manhood, for good in the sphere of our living. It is not well, said he in conclusion, for us to forget that life is one great game and one great opportunity for development and self control, and none can conquer unless they contend lawfully. There is a victory for every patient toiler and a crown of laurel will crown him in the life hereafter. The speaker's highest hope and earnest prayer was that when the game was played and the drama of life enacted, we should pass from the scene of the game and from the stage to the high and holy vantage ground of eternal victory and eternal gladness.

In a few concluding remarks Mr. Rae expressed the pleasure of himself and the congregation at being honoured by the presence of the curlers in their church.

Upon their return to the rink parlours the curlers, on motion of Messrs. E. B. Edwards and R. B. McKee, passed a vote thanks to Rev. J. J. Rae for his excellent sermon, and to the management of the Charlotte street church.

Sour

Stomach, sometimes called waterbrash, and burning pain, distress, nausea, dyspepsia, are cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla. This it accomplishes because with its wonderful power as a blood purifier, Hood's Sarsaparilla gently tones and strengthens the stomach and digestive organs, invigorates the liver, creates an appetite, gives refreshing sleep; and raises the health tone. In cases of dyspepsia and indigestion it seems to have "a magic touch."

"For over 12 years I suffered from sour with severe pains across my shoulders, and great distress. I had violent nausea which would leave me very weak and faint, difficult to get my breath. These spells came oftener and more severe. I did not receive any lasting benefit from physicians, but found such happy effects from a trial of Hood's Sarsaparilla, that I took several bottles and mean to always keep it in the house. I am now able to do all my own work, which for six years I have been unable to do. My husband and son have also been greatly benefited by Hood's Sarsaparilla—for pains in the back, and after the grip. I gladly recommend this grand blood medicine." MRS. —A break in the water main was the cause of the water being shut off between Hunter and Brock streets to-day. It was fixed at noon.

—Mr. T. H. Hamilton met with a peculiar accident in Belleville on Saturday through which he lost a coat. It seems he was brushing the coat and the friction ignited some matches in the pocket with the result that the garment was destroyed.

—J. W. Moore & Co. received on Saturday a large order for cheese and dairy supplies for Chilliwack, B.C. Moore & Co., it is evident, are acquiring a celebrity more than local for the excellence of their stock of Dairy supplies.

—The Belleville Intelligencer says: "A number of the ex-members of the 15th Battalion want to take in the trip to Peterborough on May 24th, and if uniforms can be secured for them they will go. It would be a fitting time to make a display of the veteran strength of the corps."

—Word has been received in town that Gilmour & Co.'s drive of logs, now quartered at Lakefield, will be cut loose to-day. There are two blocks with thirty-five thousand logs in each. It is a question if some of the various dams between Peterborough and Lakefield are not shaken up on account of the high water now prevailing. The water now passes over the walk alongside of Mr. Faint's woollen mills at the Hunter street bridge.

—Those who attend the Yaw concert to-morrow night will have the opportunity of hearing one of Heintzman & Co's. celebrated Concert Grand Piano's specially selected by this phenomenal artist while on her tour through Canda. This magnificent instrument which is noted for its beautiful treble was chosen by Madame Albani while on her recent tour, and who was so delighted with the excellent tone and quality of the instrument. Also Mr. R. Watkin-Mills, the eminent English tenor, says the tone of the Heintzman & Co piano is sonorous; "the singing and sustaining quality is just what we vocalists appreciate."

WHEEL.

The following account of how Quebec secured the Meet is furnished Cycling by a member of the Q. A. A. A.:

Quebec has the Meet, "because, by gosh, we wanted it," as Van said, and he was pretty near the truth, about as near as it is possible for him to get. We wanted it so bad that we left no stone unturned to get it. We wheedled, cajoled; we argued and threatened; we advertised and bribed with drinks and cigars; we boomed and hustled, and in fact, we spent our money, and you made the choice—a wise choice, a happy choice, both for the C.W.A. and for yourselves, as time will show. The proof of the pie is in the eating and the after-results. You will eat our pie on July 1st (poem) and both quality and quantity will shall) satisfy you. The results will continue to show for years and years, and probably never can be accurately gauged. The ball set rolling last Friday by the C. W.A. will keep on rolling and growing while the ages run, till the river of time is lost in the sea of eternity (hem). The "hog town" cry should now be silenced forever. Toronto did nobly, and so did the whole of Ontario. Patriotism was the crucible in which the issue was tested, and I am quite sure that Canada to-day is a stronger and more united country from the action of the C.W.A. The strength of a country is its young men (and women) and when these live together in peace and unity there is nothing much wrong about it.

In the midst of our jubilation we have not forgotten our Peterborough opponents. The height of our elation, I presume, is the measure of their despondency, and in the brief, fleeting intervals of the chorus we sometimes pause to drop a gentle sympathetic tear.

"Oh! somewhere in this favoured land, the sun is shining bright,
And somewhere men are laughing, and somewhere hearts are light;
And somewhere bands are playing, and loud the drums they beat,
But the joy is not in Peterborough, Quebec has got the meet.

Peterborough, we extend the hand of friendship to you. We couldn't both win, and we are glad you were second, anyhow. You are all jolly good fellows, and those of you who visit us next 1st of July will be our honoured guests. If in the heat of the conflict we have offended you in any way, we ask pardon; if you have wronged us, we freely forgive.

I have been asked to chronicle the events of the Quebec excursion to Toronto, and I fain would do so, but I fear the task is too much for me. The fact is, I am not feeling very fit this morning. I have a hat two sizes too small for my head, I mean a head two sizes too large for my hat, and I get the leg on the other boot every time, eh? My chronology is all mixed up, and I should probably bring the party home before I got them started. However, I will essay a brief outline.

Now, this is the story of how "dose Frenchmans" from Quebec walked off with the Meet. The legions, headed by Van Felson and other amateur Hannibals, took the route for Toronto from the G.T.R. station at Levis on—er, on—upon my soul, I forget what day. It must have been—let me see, was it before the last snowstorm or after the next? Well, really, it does not matter; we got here, so, I presume, we started some time. We had not been started long when the Rules and Regulation Committee submitted the following report:

1st. Parade for inspection every morning at 8. Boots and shoes must positively be worn.

2nd. Church parade Sunday at 10 a.m. Clean collars are de riguer.

3rd. Regiment will skirmish on Thursday and go into action on Friday.

4th. Morning prayer, "Give us the Meet for '96."

5th. Sleep walking, especially in the vicinity of the "beer garden," strictly forbidden.

6th. A pistol shot in the night is no cause for alarm.

7th. Three knocks on your berth means there has been a murder, and you are wanted to attend the inquest.

8th. Snoring strictly prohibited.

9th. The Vigilance Committee will attend to anyone infringing these rules. Any impoliteness or inattention on their part should be promptly reported.

10th. And many others I forget now.

Next the Court of Uncommon Pleas was convened, and sat in judgment on the case of Peterborough vs. Quebec. Messrs. Van Felson and MacNaughton spoke nobly for the former, and Messrs. Carrel, Chambers and Stocking for Quebec. A jury was duly sworn in, and after hearing the argument on both sides, decided in favour of the "Ancient Capital," having first partaken very freely of "Brasserie," and other Quebec drinks. The Peterborough men objected very strongly to such tactics, but their objections were overruled by the judge, and so the case was settled. It was an immense relief to have it off our minds.

By this time we had reached a little town beside a mountain, either Montreal or Hamilton, it doesn't matter which. Here we opened another case, not a legal one this time, and the fun proceeded. The train was very late leaving this point, and no wonder, considering the load we had on board. We were very glad of this, as it gave us plenty of time to receive our friends. After a while we got out and helped to push off the car, and then we settled for the night.

At 1 a. m. the Vigilance Committee reported that Laliberte was sleeping peacefully. This proved a false report, as a few minutes later he was heard yelling, "Portaire, portaire, bring me one screw-cork."

At 3 a. m. the silent voices of the night were making a hideous racket.

Having mistaken Cobourg for Toronto, we rose at 6 a.m., and with our opening eyes we saw that Vice-President Hurst was on board. Where he dropped from I don't know. On discovering the mistake, he was highly indignant and began to yell for Peterborough. He was promptly suppressed.

Nothing of importance occurred till we reached Toronto. What happened there you all know. "We came, we saw, we conquered," sums it all up, though we had no brass band to play us on to victory. Our only music was Laliberte's bag-pipe. But it was quite as awe-inspiring as could be desired.

Our party is now scattered. Some are lost, others have strayed, and others again don't know where they are. Carbray, M.P.P., has not been seen since Friday night, but we had a wire from him this morning dated at Brantford, which said the walking was good.

Thank goodness, I still have my return ticket and 67 cents in cash, with which to get home on, for after all there is no place like home, especially a Quebec home.

Penetential psalms and Te Deums are running strangely through the elemental chaos of my brain; the result is something like this:—

The great fight is over,
We all know it well.
Peterborough did the best they could,
But Quebec gave them
Hallelujah!

A Glorious Age in Which We Live.

We ought, more frequently, to cast our thoughts upon the marvellous achievements of the age in which we live. In the department of medicine alone there has been an advance all along the line, securing to mankind ever increasing exemption from pain suffering.

Perhaps the discovery most important to that large class of sufferers known under the general designation of "Nervous"—those people all run down in nerve and muscular force—is embodied in the preparation known to doctors as "Maltine with Coca Wine."

A builder-up of nerve and muscular tissue is this—as of buoyancy and nerve—not, indeed, by a fitful galvanizing that speedily exhausts itself, leaving the last condition even more deplorable than the first. No! Maltine with Coca Wine gives the needed impetus to the flagging power of body and mind; strengthens the digestive organs; improves the assimilative functions, and sustains the vital forces until, by the improved conditions it brings about, the equilibrium of functions is restored and health is renewed. Maltine with Coca Wine is sold by all druggists.

A Woman Of Refinement

INSISTS THAT THINGS SHALL LOOK WELL

She certainly insists on a good tone as a first requisite in a Piano, but other things being equal she prefers a Piano that looks well to one that doesn't. As Mason & Risch Pianos sound well, last well and look well, they usually receive the preference in the homes of the cultured, where tone and design are both considered from the standpoint of art.

You can recognize a Mason & Risch Piano almost as soon as you enter a room by the quiet elegance of its appearance.

It is the pattern of the heel of the Granby Rubber and Overshoe. The next time you buy a pair of rubbers or overshoes ask for Granby's and look for this pattern on the heel. There is no need to take a Granby that is not the same shape as your boot, because they are made to fit every shape of shoe. A rubber that does not fit the boot will draw the foot. Granby Rubbers are thin, light, elastic and fit perfectly. They wear like Iron.

NEAT JOB PRINTING AND BOOKBINDING DONE CHEAP AT THE EXAMINER OFFICE

Seems as if consumption always picks out the brightest and best. Maybe it isn't so. Maybe it seems so because consumption is the most frequent of all diseases. Consumption kills more people than wars or Cholera or Yellow Fever. Fully one-sixth of all the deaths that occur in the world are caused by consumption. And consumption can be cured. Doctors used to say that it was incurable, but the doctors were merely mistaken. It would be strange if medical science did not make some progress. Many things were once considered impossible. The ocean steamer, the locomotive, the telegraph and telephone, the phonograph, the electric light—all these were once impossible, and once it was impossible to cure consumption. That was before the time of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Taken according to directions, this standard remedy will cure 98 per cent. of all cases of consumption. Consumption is a disease of the blood. It used to be considered a disease by itself. It is not. It is caused and fostered by impurity in the blood. Purify the blood and restore the healthy action to the various organs of the body and consumption will be cured. It is by weakness and loss of vitality in the blood. It is cured by purity and richness of the blood—surely, certainly cured. Those who have consumption or any lingering bronchial, throat or lung disease, and those who are on the road to them, have a positive remedy at hand. Any condition of the body that indicates weakness, any indication of impurity in the blood, should be attended to at once. Loss of appetite, loss of flesh, loss of vitality, nervousness, weakness and unnatural weariness, are indications that the body is running down. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery makes the appetite good, the digestion strong. It builds up solid, healthy flesh and vigorous strength. Thousands of people have testified that it has really saved their lives. Some of these testimonials, together with hundreds of things that everybody ought to know about health and sickness and medicine, have been embodied in Dr. Pierce's "Common Sense Medical Adviser." This 1008 page medical work, profusely illustrated, will be sent free on receipt of 31 one-cent stamps to cover customs and postage only. World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

WILL THERE BE A CONFLICT?

Hugh Sutherland Said to be on His Way to Resume M. R. Railway Operations.

Winnipeg, April 17.—(Special.)—It is announced that Hugh Sutherland is shortly to arrive here from Ottawa, to resume the operation of the Hudson Bay Railway. This seems to indicate that there may be some exciting scenes enacted in the vicinity of Gladstone before many weeks. Work on the Dauphin Railway is also expected to commence at that point in a few weeks, and this and Sutherland's road are intended to traverse the same territory. There may be a conflict, but as the Dauphin road is practically a C.P.R. branch, and will be backed by all the power of that corporation, many think it will mean the death and burial of Sutherland's Hudson Bay Railway scheme.

HER REVENGE.

The Ending of a Long and Romantic Courtship.

The fateful words had been spoken. They were spoken by the officiating clergyman.

He had pronounced George Ferguson and Laura Kajones husband and wife.

For eight long years George Ferguson had waited for this young woman with all the patience at his command. His stock of patience on hand was very small, and he had been able to command still less.

Perhaps he was not a good commander. But let that pass.

They were Mr. and Mrs. Ferguson now and had started on their wedding tour. Seated side by side in a palatial coach of the Blank, Dash and Soforth Railway, they were speeding eastward at the rate of umpty miles an hour, including stops, and a large and generous smile spread itself over George's countenance and warmed the atmosphere all about him.

"Laura," he said, "my darling! At last I—"

"I wish you had on a darker necktie, George. That lavender affair is attracting the attention of the other passengers."

"Hang the neoktie! Let it attract. I'd just as lief they knew the whole truth. I have a great mind to tell them, any way, how for eight weary years you kept the faithfulest lover on earth dangling at your heels—"

"I think you said elbow the other day."

"It was cruel, Laura. It was barbarous. Eight weary years! A whole year longer than Jacob served for Rachael!"

"They were not weary years for Jacob. As I remember the story, George, they seemed to him but a few days, for the love he bore her. You don't seem to show up very well by the side of Jacob."

"Jacob was a milksop! If your father had tried to play the Laban game on me and put me off with an older sister, somebody would have got hurt. That's the kind of Jacob I am. Jacob wasn't capable of the affection I—"

"Was my nose very cold, George?"

"Mrs. Ferguson, if you interrupt me in that way again when I am trying to express the depth of my feeling for you, I'll put my arm about you right here, regardless!"

She looked at him out of the corner of her eye.

"George," she said, "you remember you promised to instruct the preacher to leave the word 'obey' out of the marriage service, do you?"

"So I did! I forgot all about it."

"Well, I didn't. I found out in time you had neglected to send him word, and I did it myself. And, George!"

"Well?"

"I have taken full, complete and satisfactory vengeance on you for that oversight."

"Oh, you have, have you?"

"If you sneer at me again in that manner I'll call you Uncle Peter right before all these people. Yes, sir, I have! You remember I changed my mind at the last moment about the trip we were going to take?"

"Yes. What of that?"

"You remember that we had decided to travel by another line, but I chose this instead?"

"Yes. Where does your vengeance come in?"

"George," she said, in a hollow, sepulchral voice, "there isn't a tunnel on the road!"—Chicago Tribune.

An Easy Problem.

She (triumphantly)—And I paid only a dollar and a half a yard for that!

He—Is it possible? Why, it must be worth three dollars a yard!

She—Yes; but how did you know?

He—You paid a dollar and a half.—Judge.

Judge—Very good. It will pay for your board and lodgings for the next five years.—London Tit-Bits.

He Wanted to Ride.

"Wait a minute, mister, I want to wide up," said a toddling, ragged little codger to an elevator operator in the Monadnock building yesterday evening.

"Get in," replied the manipulator of levers and compressed air.

When they reached the thirteenth floor and the child had called no number the elevator man asked:

"Where do you want to go to, boy?"

"Way up to the top."

At the top he made no move to get out.

"Well, where did you want to go?"

"Down."

"How far down?"

"Way down to the bottom."

"Oh, you just wanted to ride?"

"Yeph! Didn't I say I wanted to wide?"—Chicago Daily News.

The Other Way.

"Well, sir, you look as though you had been prosperous in business, I suppose you started at the bottom and worked up?"

"No, sir, I did not, I am a well digger."—Philadelphia Press.

We Do Not Advertise Our Flour

By telling the public that our 2nd grade is equal to the best Flour made by any other mill. "Such statements are somewhat presumptuous."

We do say, however, that our leading brand, "CALLA LILY," is Equal to Any Other leading brand in the market, and our 2nd grade, "VICTORY," is Equal to Any Other 2nd grade made by any other mills. If the public finds our Flour better than the brands from other mills—that's all right—but WE never "run-down" goods manufactured by our competitors.

THE GAME OF "CRAPS"

THE ABSORBING MYSTERY OF 2, 3 OR 12 AS IT IS PLAYED.

The Odds are Against the Banker—The Only Game of Chance in Which the Player Has the Advantage—The Newsboys Addicted to It.

Not long since Police Magistrate Denison of Toronto fined a newsboy very heavily for playing "craps," and in doing so he remarked that he was determined to stamp out the game in the Queen City. Many people glibly use the word "craps," and the newspapers constantly comment upon the game, but it is probable that not one person in a hundred if he were asked, could explain how the game is played. It is only among newsboys and "dead game sports" that such erudite knowledge is found and they are not as a rule particularly willing to explain.

To begin with, the game is not of Ethiopian origin as is commonly supposed, but is a more or less degenerate form of the old English "hazard."

The outfit requisite consists of two dice, although the regular joints include a canvas covered table with a projecting ridge to keep the dice from rolling upon the floor. The correct form, according to local usage, is to shake the two dice in the right hand and throw them far out on the table. To attempt to make them slide is sufficient provocation for a fight. The dice should be thrown so as to roll over and over a number of times, and the experienced player will snap his fingers for luck as he throws.

There are two phases of the game, known respectively as "bankin'" and "fadin'." In the former the thrower is called the banker and is chosen by lot. When he loses he not only gives up his stake, but also quits his high position, which is taken by the rest of the players in turn. In the latter, he merely bets upon the other's throws.

After the bets have been made and stakes posted, the banker rattles the dice and throws. Should he throw 2, 3 or 12, he loses and it is called "craps." If, however, he should be fortunate enough to throw 7 or 11, he wins all the stakes. If he throws 4, 5, 6, 8, 9 or 10, he must throw the same number again in order to win. He can throw indefinitely as long as he doesn't get 7. Should this latter number, however, turn up his best friends hold him in derision and he loses everything.

One peculiar thing about "craps" that recommends it to the professional gambler is the fact that it is the only game of chance in which the odds are against the banker. That this, however, is the case is well understood and some ingenious mathematician has figured out the percentages as being exactly 753 to 732, or, approximately, 31 to 30.

In a little dark room, in the rear of a prosperous saloon not so far from the Toronto City Hall, the favored few who gain admittance can see a crowd of newsboys with bulging eyes and twitching eyebrows betting the profits of their whole day's work upon the elusive dice.

At the end of the table sits "Sheeny Mike," the presiding genius, and on his left another individual of a most pronounced Semitic caste, who is known as a "capper." It is his business to play and lose a little money whenever the game gets dull. In this game ten per cent. of all the bets go to the "house," so that it stands to win all the time.

In this dim light it is almost impossible to distinguish faces, but the dice are never wrongly read, and the table tender calls the throws in a dreary monotone, while the crowd bets, swears and quarrels.

The little raggedly clad specimen of humanity who goes by the name of "Tout" is the "shooter," while a number of others are "fading" or betting against him.

"Tout" throws a dime upon the table and says:

"Shake this tenpenny."

The "faders" cover the bet, and "Tout" throws the dice with a snap of his fingers like a pistol shot.

"Rolls six," drawls Sheeny Mike.

Again Tout shoots.

"Rolls nine," drones the tender.

"Rolls eight," he says, on the third attempt.

"Rolls six," chirps Tout, as a four spot and a deuce roll out, and throwing the percentage to Sheeny Mike, he leaves his stand and calls:

"Shakes fifty cents!"

As this is somewhat beyond the limit of most of the crowd, only one "fader" responds, and excitement runs high on the result.

On the first shot a deuce and ace rolled up.

"Crap," said Sheeny Mike, and "Tout" faded away into insignificance.

And we go out into the noisy streets, pushing our way through the throngs of newcomers who are hastening to Sheeny Mike's with their hard-earned coppers.

THE MASTER'S PEN.

In my collection famed of curios
I have, as every bookman knows,
A pen that Thackery once used.
To be amused,
I thought I'd "take that pen in hand"
And see what came of it—what grand
Inspired lines 'twould write,
One Sunday night.
I dipped it in the ink,
And tried to think.
"Just what shall I indite?"
And do you know, that pen went fairly mad;
A dreadful time with it I had.
It sputtered, spattered, scratched and blotted so,
I had to give it up, you know.
It really wouldn't work for me.
And so I put it down; but last night, after tea,
I took it up again,
And equally in vain.
The hours sped;
I went to bed,
And in my dreams the pen came up to me and said:
"Here is the list of Asses who have tried
To take up pens the master laid aside:
Look thou!" I looked, and lo!—perhaps you've guessed—
My name, like Aaron Burr's, led all the rest.

HE COULD FIGHT.

One Blow Secured a School for the Pale, Thin Young Man.

In the mountains of the South the schools are still maintained upon the subscription plan. A traveling man just returned from that section gave the following account of an examination of an applicant for a school:

"I was stopping at a cabin all night," said he, "and a pale, slender young man came during the evening to talk with my host."

"I am thinking of starting a school here,' he said, 'and I wanted to see if you would subscribe.'

"'Kin yo' read?'

"'Yes.'

"'Kin yo' write?'

"'Certainly.'

"'Kin yo' figger?'

"'Of course.'

"'Air yo' married?'

"'No.'

"'Wall, we did want a married man nex' time. The last three teachers has run off with gals, an' thar ain't enuff gals in this hyar neighborhood now. But I don't s'pose none of 'em would want a lean feller like yo'. I don't reckon yo' not being married 'll make much diff'rence. Couldn't expect sich a po'ly feller ter be married. Then thar's one thing. Me an' Bill Simpkins an' Alf Toney is all gwine ter school an' larn ter read an' write. I done licked Bill, an' he done licked Alf, so I reckon the only one ter settle with is me. Kin yer fout?'

"'I studied boxing,' said the stranger.

"'Don't know nothin' 'bout thet. Does makin' boxes make muscle?'

"'Try one and see,' was the cool rejoinder.

"The big mountaineer hit at the little man, and when he regained consciousness had his head in the wood box and his feet sticking up in the air.

"Looking about him with a dazed expression he said:

"'Young feller, shake. I'll go with yo' some day an' we'll git thet school. An', say, young feller, set me ter work on them boxes, will yo'?'"—Washington Star.

A woman's headaches may come from several causes. She may have a headache arising from nervousness, or from digestive disturbances. Nine cases in ten, her headaches come from disorders peculiar to her sex. It may show itself in the symptoms which are characteristic of a dozen disorders. Thousands of times women have been treated for the wrong disorders. Dr. Pierce's Favourite Prescription was compounded for the sole purpose of relieving womankind of these ills and pains. Thousands of women have testified that after taking treatment from several physicians without benefit, the "Favourite Prescription cured them completely and quickly. It has been used for over thirty years, and has an unbroken record of success.

The woman who hesitates is invited to send 31 one-cent stamps to cover only the cost of mailing a copy of Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, which contains plain, clear information about all of the organs of the human body and their functions.

He Was Still Ahead.

We were riding over a plantation owned and managed by a colored man, and were inspecting some of the buildings when a woman came to draw rations of bacon.

For scales the man had a stick in a balance with flat boards at either end. He put a stone on one board and the meat on the other, and cut from the meat until he got an even tip.

"How much meat did you give her?" was asked as she went away.

"Fo' pounds, sah."

"But that stone weighs over four pounds."

"Reckon not, sah. I didn't dun weigh it, but I figgered on 'bout three and a half."

One of the gentlemen had a pocket balance with him, and when the stone was held up it pulled down exactly five pounds.

"Lands o' massey! but no wonder dese yere pussons been a gittin lazy!" gasped the man. "I has dun been cheated outer mo' dan fo' hundred pounds o' meat by dat stone."

"You'll have to charge it up."

"Dey wouldn't stand dat, boss; but I shan't lose anything. I'se already done toled my gang dat dere was only forty Sundays and no Fo'th o' July in dis y'ar, an' so I'll git thirteen days work outer 'em. Now I'll dun heave dat rock away an' work in a three pound one!"—Detroit Free Press.

TORTURES OF RHEUMATISM.

The pains of rheumatism are removed and the disease driven from the system by the use of Burdock Blood Bitters, the conqueror of thousands of the severest cases.

Mrs. J. M. Monkman, of Arkwright, Ont., says:—I took inflammatory rheumatism in February, 1894, and doctored for it some weeks, but found I was getting worse. All my joints were swollen very much and I was not able to leave my bed and could get neither sleep or rest. Hearing from a neighbour that she got your Burdock Blood Bitters for her daughter, who had the same disease and it cured her, I purchased a bottle and after taking about one half of it I found myself recovering and after continuing it for some time I recovered but when the cold weather set in I found it returning again. So I commenced to take the B. B. B. again, when I found, after taking it about a week, that all pain and swelling of the joints had disappeared and I consider that I am entirely cured.

Coughs and colds lead to consumption if neglected. Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup cures quickly and is pleasant to take. It is nature's remedy for all throat and lung troubles.

Mr. C., a leading politician, says: "Miller's Compound Iron Pills have cured me of nervousness and wakefulness." Sold in Peterborough by Wm. Madill, Druggist.

THEY COUNT BY THE SCORE

Yea, By the Hundreds, Those Who Have Been Cured of Dire Disease By South American Nervine.

A Remedy Widespread and Universal in Its Application.

Where Other Medicines Have Failed and Doctors Have Pronounced the Cases Beyond Cure, This Great Discovery Has Proven a Genuine Elixir of Life.

The Same Verdict Comes From Old and Young, Male and Female, Rich and Poor, and From All Corners of the Dominion.

If it is the case that he who makes two blades of grass grow where only one had grown before is a benefactor of the race, what is the position to be accorded that man who by his knowledge of the laws of life and health gives energy and strength where languor, weakness and anticipation of an early death had before prevailed? Is not he also a public benefactor? Let those who have been down and are now up through the use of South American Nervine give their opinions on this subject. John Boyer, banker, of Kincardine, Ont., had made himself a hopeless invalid through years of overwork. At least he felt his case was hopeless, for the best physicians had failed to do him good. He tried Nervine, and these are his words: "I gladly say it: Nervine cured me and I am to-day as strong and well as ever." Samuel Elva, of Meaford, was cured of neuralgia of the stomach and bowels by three bottles of this medicine. Jas. Sherwood, of Windsor, at 70 years of age, suffered from an attack of paralysis. His life, at that age, was despaired of. But four bottles of Nervine gave him back his natural strength. A victim of indigestion, W. F. Bolger, of Renfrew, says: "Nervine cured me of my suffering, which seemed incurable, and had baffled all former methods and efforts." Peter Esson, of Paisley, lost flesh and rarely had a good night's sleep, because of stomach trouble. He says: "Nervine stopped the agonizing pains in my stomach the first day I used it. I have now taken two bottles and I feel entirely relieved and can sleep like a top." A representative farmer, of Western Ontario, is Mr. C. J. Curtis, residing near Windsor. His health was seemingly completely destroyed through la grippe. No medicine did him any good. "To three bottles of Nervine," he says, 'I attribute my restoration to health and strength." Neither man or woman can enjoy life when troubled with liver complaint. This was the sentiment and feeling of W. J. Hill, the well-known bailiff of Bracebridge. "I was so bad," says he, "that one of my medical attendants said that I was dying, but, thank God, I am not dead yet. From the first few doses I took of Nervine I commenced to feel better, and am to-day restored completely to my usual health." A resident of the Maritime Provinces, in the person of S. Jones, of Sussex, N.B., says: "For twelve years I was a martyr to indigestion, constipation and headache. The treatment of several physicians did not help me. I have taken a few bottles of Nervine, and can truthfully say that I am a new man."

A shrewd observer of human nature has said: "The hand that rocks the cradle moves the world." How important it is, then, that health and strength should be made the lot of the mothers of this country. The women of Canada are ready by scores to tell of the benefits that have come to them through the use of South American Nervine. Mrs. R. Armstrong, of Orillia, wife of the colporteur, of the Bible Society of that town, suffered for six years from nervous prostration. Medical assistance did not help. "In all," she says, "I have taken six bottles of Nervine, and can truthfully say this is the one medicine that has effected a cure in my case." Mrs. John Dinwoody has been for 40 years a resident of Plesherton, and has reached the allotted three-score years and ten. Three years ago her system sustained a severe shock through the death of a daughter. Nervine was recommended. She perseveringly took 12 bottles of medicine, with the result that she is today again strong and hearty. Hundreds of women suffer from impoverished blood and weakened nerves. "All vitality," says Mrs. J. Ballis, of Brampton, "seemed to have forsaken my system. I was unable to get relief from any source until I commenced taking South American Nervine. The results are most satisfactory—greater far than I could have hoped for." It came within the way of Mrs. H. Stapleton, of Wingham, to treat under the best physicians, both in Canada and England, for heart disease and nervous debility, but she failed to get any relief. "I was advised," she says, "to take South American Nervine, and must say I do believe that if I had not done so I would not be alive to-day."

Newspaper space is too valuable to permit of further additions to these earnest words of testimony from those who know just what they are talking about. In the common language of the day, they have been there, and are speaking from the heart. The dozen or more witnesses that here speak have their counterparts by the hundreds, not only in the province of Ontario, but in every other section of the Dominion. South American Nervine is based on a scientific principle that makes a cure a certainty, no matter how desperate the case may be. It strikes at the nerve centers from which flows the life blood of the whole system. It is not a medicine of patchwork, but is complete and comprehensive in its application.

CHURCH CHIMES.

The well-rendered morning anthem in St. Paul's yesterday was entitled "Love Divine."

The morning anthem in the Charlotte street church was entitled "Incline Thine Ear."

In the Charlotte street church last night the choir sang "Sun, of my Soul" as an anthem, Miss Hendren and Mr. John Miller taking the solos.

During the offertory in the Charlotte street church last night Miss Hendren and Mr. A. L. Davis sang a particularly pretty duet, their voices blending most harmonously.

Rev. Carl Smith conducted both services in St. John's South Ward Mission yesterday. Mrs. Smith sang a particularly beautiful solo in the evening.

The Wardens of the South Ward Mission are open for suggestions as to a suitable name for the Mission. All Saints' Chapel has been suggested.

"Oh, Lord, how Manifold," was the title of the evening anthem in St. Paul's church last evening. It was most harmoniously given by an unusually large choir.

The special services which have been held during the week in the Park street Baptist church have been attended with such good results that Evangelist Moore will remain another week and continue the services, assisted by Rev. P. C. Parker.

Both the morning and evening sermons in the Park street Baptist church were conducted by Rev. Mr. Moore, the evangelist. The sermons were preached by Rev. P. Clifton Parker, of the First avenue Baptist church, Toronto. In the afternoon both divines addressed the Sunday School.

The anniversary services in connection with St. Paul's church will be held on Sunday, May 11th, and will be conducted by Rev. Wm. Hossack, of Toronto. On the Monday evening following the choir will give their annual service of praise, assisted by Miss Smith, elocutionist, of Toronto, and Miss Howson, soprano soloist, of Oshawa.

SEVEN MEN WERE KILLED

And Six Seriously Injured in a Terrific Dynamite Explosion at Neihart, Mont.

Butte, Mont., April 18.—The Broad Water Mine at Neihart was the scene of a terrible explosion early this morning, resulting in the death of seven men and injury of six others, some of whom cannot recover. The dead are: Frank Doran, Jim Morrison, Hugh McKenzie, Dan O'Leary, Dan Ross, John Kerns and Joe Dearborn.

The wounded are: Mike Ward, Jas. Comith, Mike Coburn, Charles Schmidt, James Gallagher and Joe Doran.

Of the men killed all were single except Frank Doran. At last accounts James Gallagher was dying. It is feared that three others will die.

There are several stories as to the cause of the disaster, the most reasonable one being that the magazine exploded just as the men were returning from lunch at 1 o'clock this morning. One of the men was thawing powder with the result that all the powder in the magazine, some 30 sticks, exploded. The explosion set off a box of dynamite and scattered in among the men who happened to be passing at that time.

Choked to Death

Moncton, N.B., April 19.—At noon today the 6-year-old son of James F. Elliott took a piece of raw turnip which his mother was preparing for dinner, and commenced to eat it. The little fellow swallowed too large a piece and the hard substance stuck in his throat too far down for unprofessional assistance to remove. A doctor was summoned, but the child breathed his last as the former entered the door.

Mrs. M. says: "My daughter was pale, languid and unable to stand any exertion. Miller's Compound Iron Pills made her strong and gave her colour. 50 doses, 25 cents. Sold in Peterborough by Wm. Madill, druggist.

A TORONTO WOMAN ROBBED.

Mrs. Booth, Milliner, Loses $200 From Her Apartments at Hamilton.

Hamilton, April 19.—(Special)—Mrs. Booth, milliner, 8 James-street north, reported to the police that while she was at a restaurant getting dinner today her living apartments were entered and over $200 in cash and a gold watch were stolen. The thief must have entered the place with a duplicate key, as there are no marks on the doors. Part of the money was in the bureau drawer and the rest in a cash box in a trunk. Mrs. Booth came here from Toronto about three weeks ago.

Prince Ferdinand and the Czar.

St. Petersburg, April 19.—Prince Ferdinand of Bulgaria has arrived in this city from Constantinople. This evening the Czar gave a banquet in his honor at the Winter Palace.

WHOSE MEDIUM IS SAM HUGHES?

He Appears at Montreal in the Guise of a Prophet of Old.

Montreal, April 18.—(Special)—Major Sam Hughes, who was in the city today, told your correspondent that the Conservative majority from Ontario in the next Parliament would be ten more than at the present time. He says Messrs. Laurier and McCarthy played a desperate game and as their political future depended upon its success, their defeat in the House at the hands of the Government brought ruin to both. Major Hughes also declares that if certain bolters do not make their peace with the party they will not be able to carry their constituencies at the coming election.

The Hon. Thomas Greenway is here to-day. He says the school question is a tabooed subject, but he thinks Manitoba will get more immigrants this year than last. The Government immigration agent, Mr. McMillan, had just arrived in Winnipeg with 300 new settlers, which he had accompanied from London. The Premier states that there is a great demand just now in the Province for farm hands and that these people will find immediate employment. A delegation has also been sent to Russia in order to get more Mennonites to settle in Manitoba. The Hon. Mr. Greenway will meet Mr. McMillan here Tuesday and go west the following day.

"JIM" HILL AND HIS BIG ROAD.

There's More Money in Railroading Than in Chopping Cordwood in Guelph.

Montreal, April 19.—(Special)—President Jim Hill, the famous Northwestern railway magnate, is in the city, on his way home from Europe. Mr. Hill, who left Guelph, Ont., 40 years ago yesterday, and has become president of the Great Northern, told your correspondent to-day that his road would carry 16,000,000 bushels more grain this year than last, and that passenger and freight receipts would be $3,500,000 in excess, so he believed that things were on the steady mend. He denied that there was any probability of his company establishing a line of steamers to China and Japan in the near future. President Hill, who is the guest of his old friend, Sir Donald Smith, will go west to-morrow night.

HE WANTS OTHERS TO KNOW.

DEAR EDITOR:—Please state in your journal, that if any sufferer from Nervous Debility, Seminal Weakness, Lack of Energy and Ambition, Lost Manhood, Night Losses, etc., will write me in confidence, I will inform him by sealed letter, free of charge, how to obtain a perfect cure. I ask for no money, having nothing to sell. I know how to sympathize with these sufferers and am only too glad to be able to assist them. I promise everyone absolute secrecy and as I do not, of course, wish to expose myself either, I do not give my name. If you desire to get well, send stamp and address simply: P. O. ALL PARIS IS AGOG

Over the Prophecies of This Young Girl.

TALKS FOR THE ANGEL GABRIEL

So Henriette Couedon Says—Fearful Calamities Are to Fall on England and France—Crowds Stand in Line For an Audience With Her.

Paris, April 20.—Dr. Charcot said a short time before his death: "In 50 years you will see trials for sorcery reappear under another name."

The prophecy of the great scientist is brought to mind the past week by reason of a curious manifestation, the details of which have occupied many journalistic pens.

The Angel Gabriel is among us, it appears. His mouthpiece is by name Mlle. Couedon. She inhabits a small apartment in the Rue Paradis—prophetically named, it would seem.

By the lips of this strange young person Gabriel has said many things to many people, for thousands have flocked to the Rue Paradis and threaded the narrow corridors and stairways that conduct to this modern sybil.

He has spoken with the tongue of phophecy. He predicts that the Bourgeois Ministry will fall; that a great European war will result from events in Egypt; that France is to be punished; that England is to receive a heavy blow, her population decimated, her pride crushed, her wealth destroyed; that a leader will arise for France, not from the side of the Orleans nor yet from the Bonapartes, but a new person, now in other lands, and unknown, who is to govern France; also that the clergy will be punished because of its pride and want of charity.

Opinions of the strangest kind are ventured, even that the whole matter is a worked-up scheme on the part of the Boulangist party in furtherance of their plans.

All of which goes to show that even if science is bankrupt—as Brunetiere declared some months ago—mysticism, at least, is solvent.

Satanism, magic, mysterious doctrines, chiromancy, religious delirium are in the air.

The mild indications are found in the Bossuet sermons at the Badiniere, in the religious program elsewhere, in Huysmans turned Trappist, in ex-Minister Turquet distributing half-worn shoes among the poor, in the three-sided Paul Verlaine.

The formidable side is seen in the popularity of Mme. de Thebes and in the 5-o'clocks of the Angel Gabriel at the Rue Paradis.

The French reporters have had some amusing adventures in their efforts to get into the presence of Mlle. Couedon, after it was determined by her family, for prudential reasons, that she should for the present give no more audiences to the general public.

But it will be interesting, no doubt, to American readers to acquaint themselves with the beginning, as well as with the progress, of this odd attempt to exploit human credulity, which has in its favor not even the basis of suggestive scientific truth, which has been conceded to Mesmer, whose pretended occult gift inflamed the whole of France in the eighteenth century.

On March 4 last the monthly meeting of the Society of the Psychic Sciences, in the Rue Serpente, was made notable by the presentation of an interesting subject, a girl of 20 years. It was announced as a case of illuminism, or, in other words, of saintly inspiration. The young woman was Mlle. Henriette Couedon.

It remains to this day unknown what were the conclusions arrived at by the learned society, whose president is Abbe Brettes, a canon of the Cathedral of Notre Dame, as to the merits or demerits of Mlle. Couedon's pretensions. A whisper of the fact that she had appeared before the society got to the press and materialized in the form of a little paragraph in the column of "Faits Divers" (Varied Facts), as what you call "City Items" are styled in the French journals. From this seed grew a tremendous crop of curiosity, fertilized and cultivated by the publication of larger and larger items, day by day, until the subject took up columns upon columns of the Parisian press.

It was thus that millions of readers speedily became aware of the existence, the pretensions and the whereabouts of this modern witch of Endor, far removed as she is in dignity and power from the creature who frightened old King Saul almost out of his whole skin. Mlle. Couedon does not raise visions direct from the abode of the dead. She simply serves as the receiver of an invisible telephone, as it were, connected by a special wire with the Seventh Heaven, where the Angel Gabriel may be supposed to occupy one of the Cabinet offices of the Most High, and whence he deigns to communicate by this means with this mortal world.

It is cited as one thing in favor of Mlle. Couedon's prophetic faculty that she announced beforehand the forced resignation of Berthelot, the chemist-minister. But the most striking thing of all, perhaps, about the amiable correspondence of the Angel Gabriel with the children of men is his condescension to matters of small individual import. He may be said to have made it his mission, for a limited engagement only though it be, to give opportune warnings to human kind against specific designs of the Spirit of Evil. The better to attest the origin of these communications, Mlle. Couedon utters them in a loud voice, modulated after the fashion of one reciting poetry on the stage, and with metrical division of poetic feet and more or less successful efforts at rhyming. In this wise, one at least of the traditions of sybilline prophecy is observed in the spirit, if not absolutely in the letter.

All sorts of "isms" concern themselves with Mlle. Couedon's manifestations. Spiritualists, of course, as they always do in regard to any new thing of the sort, claim them as fresh proof of the truth of their belief. Theosophists pronounce them a phase of occultism. Crowds of the most mixed composition imaginable have gone to 40 Rue Paradis, and stood for hours about the portals or encumbered the vestibule and stairway of the house in which, in the fourth storey thereof, Mlle. Couedon and her parents live.

The sexes, the professions, the social classes were confounded in a jumble of seekers after the latest sensation. Mocking incredulity rubbed elbows with meditative doubt and fervent belief. The curiosity-seekers stood in line as people do at a theatre, when anxious about the purchase of seats, and each one took a number from the concierge, as they do here at the omnibus stations at the hours when the omnibuses are apt to be overcrowded. Even persons of some distinction were seen in this crowd, gentlemen wearing the decoration of the Legion of Honor mounting guard on the door mat, seating themselves on the steps of the staircase and munching sandwiches, in the midst of the crush, so that the demands of hunger might not compel them to lose their places.

But success and renown have their reverse side. The Couedon family, who had become so celebrated in one day, were about to learn this at their expense. At the moment when the tide of visitors mounted the highest the neighbors of the Couedons complained bitterly that the entrance to the house was obstructed by a mob, and the landlord declared his irritation that the reputation of his property for quietude and proper maintenance should be destroyed, while the concierge, or janitor, was transformed perforce into an usher for the little chapel of miracles in the fourth storey.

Then came to Mr. Couedon the notification that his lease was revoked and he must find new quarters after a certain date. The police also sent him notice that he and his must cease to do things that would cause the obstruction of the porte-cochere and prevent the free passage of the public along the sidewalk in front of the house. In other words, the authorities, if they had thought of it, might have hung up this sign;

MIRACLE WORKING IS STRICTLY FORBIDDEN HERE: UNDER PENALTY OF THE LAW.

There were other disagreeable things about the sudden notoriety of the Couedons. Mlle. Henriette was visited by a clairvoyant calling herself a somnambulist of extra penetrative powers, a "true pupil of the celebrated Mlle. Lenormand," who upbraided her with carrying on a disloyal competition, and thus "spoiling the trade," in that she gave audiences for nothing.

Mr. Couedon, the father of the sybil, seems to have fallen readily into the role of business manager for the supernatural circus, which developed on his hands over night, as it were. He wisely determined to suspend the season until he should have obtained new quarters. A rich gentleman, who apparently has taken a profound interest in the new cult, offered to the father of the propheteas the ground floor and first story of a large mansion for the purposes of the show. It will not be altogether surprising, after its removal thither, always supposing that the popular interest in it continues, if a moderate admission fee is charged, and if Mlle. Couedon shall rival the famous Fox sisters of table-rapping fame in money-making talent.

It so happened that the order to exclude the generality of callers, newspaper men in particular, went forth just before one of the most important illustrated journals in France had got ready in its typically methodical way to send for a picture of Mlle. Couedon. One representative of the journal was rebuffed, but another succeeded him in the mission, and took with him to the besieged Cumaean sanctuary a snapshot camera. He chanced to reach the porte-cochere just as a party of grave gentlemen, in black coats and white neckties, filed in. They evidently had come by special appointment, being for some reason excepted from the general prohibition. Very gravely the artist-reporter fell into line with them, profited by their "Open Sesame!" at the threshold of the temple, and followed them silently. At an inquisitive glance from Mr. Couedon, one of the white-necktied group said offhand and without special attention: "This gentleman is with us," which certainly was undeniable.

The temple is a little lower-middle class parlor, with low ceiling, furnished in a style neither vulgar nor tasteful, with colored prints on the walls.

The propheteas "performed." Previously, however, she said that she was acting simply as the mouthpiece of the Angel Gabriel, who sought through her, to save as many souls as possible. She was not conscious, she said, of what the Angel Gabriel said by her lips, but she had been told by her friends that he had declared through her that the reason why he thus manifested himself at the present time was that great catastrophes were impending. They had heard him declare that a great portion of the globe would shortly be annihilated by a visitation from Heaven, and that France would be reduced to half its present size, after a revolution compared with which that of the Commune would be as nothing.

Hamilton's Market Committee.

Hamilton, April 20.—(Special.)—At the meeting of the Markets Committee to-night City Solicitor Mackelcan was instructed to prepare a draft by-law to prevent the obstruction of passageways in public buildings. In discussing the question of market shelter, Ald. Teetzel proposed that a brick building 75 by 40 be erected north of the City Hall for the accommodation of women selling butter, eggs and poultry, but no action was taken. It was decided to advertise for 1800 dog tags. It was decided that no animal less than three weeks old should be sold on the market, and quarters of mutton, lamb or veal sold must have nine or ten ribs and hindquarters contain no more than four ribs.

INDIANS FEEL SORE

Because the Potlach Dance Was Made Illegal

STRANGE PETITION TO COMMONS.

The Redmen of Naas River, British Columbia, Contrast Their Customs With Those of Their White Neighbors—Rumors About the Premiership.

Ottawa, April 20.—(Special.)—One of the most curious petitions ever presented to the Canadian Parliament was that which was handed in by Col. Prior this afternoon. It is from the Indians of Naas River, B.C., protesting against the clause in the criminal code prohibiting the celebration of potlach. The petition states that the Indians of Naas have been educated in the manners and customs of their ancestors, which they hold sacred. These laws and customs they desire to enjoy as their inheritance. In cities where civilization is supposed to exist churches are numerous, theatres are placed in various locations of those cities, while saloons multiply in numbers. The petition says: "We respectfully submit that if the law permits the existence of these, the rights of man leading to heaven and hell, exactly in opposite directions, the law with regard to potlach should be repealed."

The petition goes on to say that the white man celebrates July 1, May 24, and other holidays, without interference, when money is squandered in profusion without any corresponding benefit to the poor. When the Indian goes to the white man's theatre or other public entertainment, he pays for the privilege. On the contrary, when the Indian gives a dance, all guests are welcomed and given a present in token of good will. The Indian lands and fishing grounds have been handed over to others, and yet the Indian does not object. He buys a license to fish, a right which he previously enjoyed unmolested. Over the white man's grave monuments of white marble and granite are erected. These cost money. When an Indian dies his friends raise a large pole over his grave and distribute his personal property in token of sympathy and good will. This is what is termed a potlach, a privilege now denied the Indians. The petitioners say that the chief and the only opponents of the Indian customs are the missionaries, "who, in endeavoring to teach us, are very eager for us to give them our all for their benefit, and force us to buy all the goods which the Indians want from their stores, whereby they are greatly enriched."

The petition concludes by saying that under the terms of the union, the British Columbia Indians were guaranteed their rights, and they, therefore, ask for the repeal of the prohibition of the potlach.

The report gained great currency round the lobbies to-night that Premier Bowell had actually resigned the Premiership and that Sir Charles Tupper had been entrusted with the task of forming a Ministry. While official confirmation to the report is lacking, Sir Mackenzie Bowell neither denying nor confirming it, the general belief this evening is that the rumor simply anticipates that which is not likely to be delayed more than a day or two at the very outside.

Sir Charles Tupper received a cable message from the High Commissioner's office to-day, stating that the Congress of Chambers of Commerce of the Empire will meet in London on June 8, instead of June 15, as previously announced. Delegates from the different Boards of Trade in Canada will do well to make a note of this fact. The Allan and Dominion Lines have promised a reduction of one-third on the ordinary first-class fares to properly accredited representatives.

A deputation of Maritime Province members, which included McAllister, Cameron, Powell and others, along with three telegraphers of the Intercolonial Railway from Sussex, Levis and Causoposcal, waited upon Mr. Haggart to-day and urged an increase in the rate of pay which telegraphers receive. It was represented that the maximum amount now is but $37.50 per month, or less than received by brakeman and switchmen. Mr. Haggart promised careful consideration of the request.

Lieut.-Col. G. T. Denison has sent the following letter to Mr. Taylor, chief Government whip:

"My Dear Mr. Taylor:

"My sister-in-law, Mrs. F. C. Denison, wishes me to express to you, and through you to the Conservative members of the House her sincere appreciation of the warm sympathy contained in your telegram to her, and to thank you all for the mark of esteem shown towards her late husband by sending a beautiful wreath and by placing one on his desk. Our family feel deeply the kindness shown."

Sir Charles Tupper gave a dinner at the Rideau Club to-night to President Whitney of the Dominion Coal Co. Senator McKeen and a large contingent of Maritime members were present.

Mr. Haggart gives notice of a resolution to-night to loan to the Canadian Pacific Railway $20,000 per mile for the railway from Lethbridge to Nelson to be repayable July 1, 1916, with interest at 3 1-2 per cent.

Messrs. Foster and Laurier had a conference to-day regarding the state of public business. Mr. Foster stated that the supplementary estimates and some bills were yet to come down. Mr. Laurier said when all the business was before the House Mr. Foster and he could have a conference to decide which should go through.

Mr. C. C. Robinson and ex-Ald. John Shaw had an interview with Premier Bowell to-day and urged the transfer of the foreshores of Toronto Island to the city corporation.

The installation of the new Bishop of Ottawa takes place on the 30th inst. The Anglican community of the city promise His Lordship a hearty welcome.

Mr. Devlin, M.P., was sufficiently recovered from his late illness as to be able to be around the House to-day.

Customs Inspector Alfred Boultbee is in the city.

The eight hour day in the Government Printing Bureau goes into effect on the 1st of May.

Dr. Montague took his seat in the Commons this afternoon on his return from England. He was warmly applauded.

THE PEOPLE'S POLICY — THE LIBERAL PLATFORM.

The following is the fourth resolution adopted at the national Convention of the Liberal party at Ottawa, June 1893, which demands:

Strictest economy—Decreased expenditure. We cannot but view with alarm the increase of the public debt and of the controllable annual expenditure of the Dominion and the consequent undue taxation of the people under the Governments that have been continuously in power since 1878, and we demand the strictest economy in the administration of the government of the country.

How much intelligent elector, do you think our annual expenditures have increased in the past eighteen years the present government has been in power? In 1878 when, in response to the seductive wiles of politicians whose magnificent promises has produced only magnificent failures, the people of Canada dismissed an economical and capable Liberal government, the total annual expenditures under that government amounted to $23,503,158; fifteen years later the annual expenditure had increased under Conservative rule to $36,814,052, an increase of over thirteen millions, a year. Of course, with this enormous increase of expenditure, there has been a corresponding increase of the public debt. When Hon. Alex. Mackenzie retired from office in 1878, the net public debt of the Dominion was $140,000,000. Since that time it has increased to the enormous figure of $250,000,000. The increase for '95 was four and a half millions, and for the following year about double that, or nine millions. In 1878 the net debt per head of population was $35, while it is now over $50 per head. It requires a third of our gross revenue, and one-half of our revenue from customs duties, to pay the interest on the national debt of Canada. Would a farmer think that his affairs were in a thrifty and wholesome condition if it took nearly half the entire produce of his farm to pay the interest on his mortgage? If our enormous annual expenditure and our huge debt represented corresponding solid assets; represented corresponding development of our natural resources; if it represented increased national prosperity, if it was warranted by an increase in demand, arising from an increase of population, it would not be so bad, but when both are the direct results to a very large extent of corrupt expenditure of wasteful extravagance, of iniquitous malversation of the public funds, it is high time to cry a halt and to make a change. The people will have a chance within the next month or six weeks to make the change that the interests of the country imperatively demand.

THE Sherbrooke Gazette calls the Government's charge against the Opposition of obstruction, baby talk. The ministers are babies in everything but innocence.

DUTY on coal oil 90 per cent.; on champagne 35 per cent. Duty on rolled steel for manufacturers, 5 per cent; on shovels for labourers and farmers 35 per cent. Duty on steel rails, nothing, on sewing thread 25 per cent.

THE manufacturer and capitalist are protected by an average tariff of about 30 per cent. The working man is protected by nothing—there is no tax on cheap foreign labour. But stay, the working man is protected—from overworking himself—if a combine finds its stock accumulating too rapidly, it can close up two or three factories in the ring, thus giving workmen and operatives a chance to take a rest Or if over-production gluts our "home market" a factory can shut down or work half time and the workman and operatives can go fishing. Under this delicate system of consideration for the workingman's health, the capitalist owning such establishments, keeps up prices and coins money, but the workingman's "time" is confined to the good "time" he can enjoy in enforced idleness with his cupboard bare and his children crying for bread.

ONTARIO ROAD COMMISSIONER.

Sir Oliver Mowat has written the following reply to a letter asking him for information as to the duties of the new Roads Commissioner:—"The proposition entertained by the Government does not contemplate the expenditure of any money whatever by the municipalities. The work of the commissioner will be entirely educative in its character. It is proposed that during certain months of the year he shall collect in this country and in foreign countries such information as shall be available regarding what is being done elsewhere for the improvement of highways. He will also prepare any literature which it may be considered desirable to distribute in reference to this subject. In addition to this it is proposed that the Commissioner shall meet personally with road overseers and with the members of township, town and village councils with the view of discussing the best methods of improving the ordinary highways. It is also proposed that wherever an opportunity is afforded he shall superintend a section of a road as a sort of pattern or ideal towards which overseers may work. The Minister of Agriculture has always firmly refused to entertain the idea of making any radical changes in legislation as to the labour employed on the roads, or to give countenance to any scheme of taxation such as has been proposed by some who have discussed the matter. The theory of the Government is that we ought at present to work along the lines of educating the people as to how they may, through the present system, better utilise the labour now employed in road-making."

DID SHE KILL HER HUSBAND.

A Horrible Murder Unearthed at Holland, Mich. Man Found in the Black River Gagged and Thrown in.

Holland, Mich., April 20.—At 4 p.m. today while Fred Noble, a carver employed by the Holland Furniture Co., was rowing on Black river with his wife and a lady friend, he discovered the bare foot of a human being protruding from the muddy water, almost under the bridge on River street within the north city limits. Summoning a number of fishermen and persons who were passing from church the body was towed to the south bank, where, with the aid of the bystanders, he placed it on the bank. The entire head seemed to be bound up in a heavy coat. This was gathered about the neck with a quarter inch manilla rope. To the short end of the rope at the neck were attacked about 60 pounds of castings and scrap iron from old farm implements. The other end of the rope was fastened about the body at the elbows and again at the knees and tied fast and once more at the ankles, where it ended.

The rope cut and the coat which completely enveloped the head pulled away, a horribly disfigured face was revealed. A deep ragged hole through the scalp into the brain was first noted, next the bruised and blackened temple and cheek on the left side. A strap about two feet long and an inch wide, had been used as a gag and buckled into the mouth and around the back of the neck, so as to spread the mouth open to an awful degree. In fact, it was next to impossible to unbuckle it.

The shirt being opened at the throat, a stab wound about one inch wide and very deep was revealed, also bad bruises about the entire throat. When the mud had been washed away and the excited crowd calmed down, several began to positively identify the body as that of Enos Lawrence, a machine man recently employed at the Holland Furniture Factory. It is said that his wife about two weeks ago auctioned off everything she had, even to clothing, and left the county.

Deputy Varny started at once for Grand Rapids and will arrest the wife and her brother at Howard City, where they have been located.

FOUR PERSONS KILL

The Serious Smash of an Immigrant Special on the C. P. R. Near Lowelltown, Que.—Three Boys From Norway.

Montreal, April 20.—(Special)—Rather a serious accident took place on the Canadian Pacific to-day. Beaton's immigrant special from Halifax went into a culvert west of Bridge 203, near Lowelltown. The culvert had been undermined by water. The engine left the rails at the culvert, but she pulled box, baggage and two colonist cars over. The west end of the third colonist car is hanging over the culvert. The report states that the water was very high and the opening is about 60 feet. The train, in fact, is hanging open; it being all coupled except the sleeper, which was uncoupled and moved safely to the rear. Three boys, who were standing on the platform when the accident happened, were killed and their bodies were fastened between the platform of the second and third colonist coach. Their names are Kund Hawarson, 10 years old, going to Fisher, Minn., and R. Aifon, 20 years of age, going to Halton, Dakota, and both are from Bergen, Norway. There was also a man killed, who is supposed to be from Norway, but the name cannot be ascertained. Mrs. Moody from London, England, and bound for Toronto, was somewhat shaken up, but no bones were broken. Baggageman Sears is also badly injured. The passengers were transferred and will arrive here early to-morrow morning. Lowelltown is about 40 miles from Megantic.

MR. HERBERT WALLIS QUITS.

Another American Will Get a Foothold on the Canadian Grand Trunk.

Montreal, April 20.—(Special)—As predicted six weeks ago, the resignation of Mr. Herbert Wallis, mechanical superintendent of the Grand Trunk Railway, is announced, said resignation to take effect on the 1st of May next. Mr. Wallis will be succeeded by Mr. F. W. Morse, for the past seven years master mechanic of the Eastern Division of the Wabash Railway, with headquarters at Ft. Wayne, Ind. The retiring officer has been connected with the Grand Trunk for a quarter of a century.

Mrs. Humphrey, who was arrested on Thursday last, on a warrant charging her with having attempted to kill her little 2-year-old baby girl, was discharged from custody by Judge Dugas, presiding in the Magistrate's Court this morning, owing to the fact that the testimony of the witnesses called by the Court failed to bear out the statements contained in the affidavit sworn to by Mr. Marshall of the S.P.W.C.

FOR TIRED FEELING.

Exhaustion is Waste—Overwork Means Shorter Life — Dodd's Kidney Pills Mean Rest for the Kidneys.

Overwork is what you do after common sense asks you to quit.

Overwork of any kind does more than tire, it exhausts you.

Just a little more after you ought to quit is the "too much" that uses you up.

The blood goes out to all parts faster than usual when you overwork.

If the kidneys are not in perfect filtering order, more poison is injected through them to all parts of the body than usual, and then work, to say nothing of overwork, is harmful.

As soon as your kidneys commence doing good work there is less and less poison in the blood every minute.

This explains why Dodd's Kidney Pills cure so promptly and permanently.

FIRST GREAT REQUISITE!

Pure Blood and Strong Nerves.

PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND GIVES THESE BLESSINGS TO EVERY SUFFERER.

The Only Medicine that Thoroughly Banishes Disease.

AN ONTARIO LADY'S EXPERIENCE.

The first great requisite for a condition of perfect health for every man, woman and child at this season, is pure blood and strong, healthy nerves. They give us the health, strength, vim and activity that we are so eager to possess, so that we may be fortified to meet the enervating weather of our hot summers.

Three-fourths of our people rush into the portals of summer with systems charged with deadly impurities and poisons. The blood is foul and stagnant; the liver and kidneys work imperfectly, and are very often diseased. With many, rheumatism, dyspepsia and indigestion are daily tormentors. Constipation, headache, dull head and heavy brains, weak and tired feelings and sleeplessness, make life a misery for thousands.

Life is not safe when such symptoms and diseases are permitted to run unchecked. If you, reader, happen to be one of the many suffering from any of the forms of disease just referred to, do not fail to give Paine's Celery Compound a trial at once. It is your only safety—your only true and certain deliverer from perils that end in death.

Paine's Celery Compound is an absolute and certain specific for the troubles that threaten your life; it has cured thousands, and will do the same good work for you. One bottle will cost you less than a visit to a physician, and will convince of its power to cure.

Mrs. C. Ferguson, of Brockville, Ont., says:

"For eight years I was sorely troubled with neuralgia, nervous debility and indigestion, for which I tried various advertised medicines, and was treated by five doctors. I did not recieve any good results from any source until I was recommended to use Paine's Celery Compound. Before I had used one bottle of the Compound I found myself much better. After using four bottles, I am now almost as well as ever before in my life. I sleep well, appetite is good, and I feel renewed and strengthened.

A BRITISH BANK SUSPENDS.

The London and Universal With a Capital of a Million Goes up.

London, April 20.—The suspension is announced of the London and Universal Bank, limited. The solicitors of the concern write to the newspapers that the creditors will be paid in full. The amount of the liabilities is not stated. The bank was established in 1867. The authorized capital was £1,-000,000. Of this amount £300,000 was subscribed and £150,000 paid up. The reserve fund and uncalled capital were £150,000. In addition to a regular banking business, stocks and shares were purchased and sold.

THAT IMPALING CASE.

Mr. E. H. Hudson, Combermere, Severely Injured—Protruding Knot Entered the Body — Cured by One Box of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Combermere, April 13, (Special)—Mr. H. E. Hudson, trapper, hunter and lumberman, was injured by falling on a knot which entered his body from beneath and injured the bladder and kidneys. He says:—"I was confined to my bed for six weeks and was rarely able to work, feeling too weak since the injury over eight years ago. I have taken one box of Dodd's Kidney Pills and am perfectly cured and as able-bodied as ever before in my life. One box was worth one hundred dollars to me, if it is possible to estimate such a benefit in dollars."

NEARING HER DOOM.

Mrs. Dyer, the Baby Farmer, is Losing Her Nerve.

SHE WAS IN AN AWFUL BUSINESS.

How She Made a Good Living Out of Unfortunate Mothers Who Were Unable to Keep Their Children With Them—Palmer's Chances Are Also Slim.

London, April 20.—The police are slowly but deftly weaving a close net around Mrs. Dyer, the baby farmer. They promise complete evidence in two cases of baby murder, and intimate they will possibly connect her with the wholesale drowning of babies near London as well as at Reading. The woman has escaped punishment on four previous accusations. Now she sees the gallows near at hand. Her nerve has apparently gone. She made a dejected hang-dog exhibition in the dock on Saturday, and in the prison since then has shown every sign of despair.

One mother positively identifies one of the babies raked up from the river bottom, and the court was informed and another mother was ready to identify her drowned baby next week. The case will prove that the extraordinary beyond belief murderess in a calm and deliberate manner procured infants, and as is suspected often despatched them within a few hours after adopting them and promising to perform the part of a loving mother to them. It is supposed that she gained a handsome income during the last ten years for herself and son-in-law, exacting from $50 to $500 for each baby. Then she made more money by pawning the clothes of the babies. She would advertise a desire to adopt a young child and get into correspondence with single women in trouble, or servants and working women who were unable to take proper care of their babies. To these she would write that she was glad to have a dear little baby to bring up and call her own, not for money's sake, but for company. She was dearly fond of children, she belonged to the Church of England, had a good home and would give the child a mother's love. Mrs. Dyer would promise to "Take the child entirely," which was the truest words her pen indited.

Mothers who read of her piety, of the lovely orchard and playground before the house, of the childless, lonely man and wife, were never able to again see their offspring. They were always put off from coming to the Dyers' house by one excuse or other, or Mrs. Dyer would move or change her name, until the parents, all too poor to give much time to their search, would abandon their tedious and futile efforts.

Palmer, the son-in-law of Mrs. Dyer, has much to explain. It is known that he assisted Mrs. Dyer to carry a carpet bag, believed to have contained the two last bodies sunk in the river.

Mrs. Dyer had gathered in two infants on the journey from her home to his. It is believed she took one dead in the bag. The other, which was alive, stayed one night at Palmer's house. Mrs. Dyer started for her home the next day, when neither child was alive. Her son-in-law and daughter carried the bag. Palmer is not definitely connected with this crime, but the police now swear they found in his house the clothing of one of the identified babies, and also ten pawn tickets for the effects of the other babies.

Letters Come.

Letters come day by day telling us that this person has been cured of dyspepsia, that person of Bad Blood, and another of Headache, still another of Biliousness, and yet others of various complaints of the Stomach, Liver, Bowels or Blood, all through the intelligent use of Burdock Blood Bitters.

It is the voice of the people recognizing the fact that Burdock Blood Bitters cures all diseases of the Stomach, Liver, Bowels and Blood.

Mr. T. G. Ludlow, 334 Colborne Street, Brantford, Ont., says: During seven years prior to 1886, my wife was sick all the time with violent headaches. Her head was so hot that it felt like burning up. She was weak, run down, and so feeble that she could hardly do anything, and so nervous that the least noise startled her. Night or day she could not rest and life was a misery to her. I tried all kinds of medicines and treatment for her but she steadily grew worse until I bought six bottles of Burdock Blood Bitters from C. Stork & Son, of Brampton, Ont., for which I paid $5.00, and it was the best investment I ever made in my life. Mrs. Ludlow took four out of the six bottles—there was no need of the other two, for those four bottles made her a strong, healthy woman, and removed every ailment from which she had suffered, and she enjoyed the most vigorous health. That five dollars saved me lots of money in medicine and attendance thereafter, and better than that it made home a comfort to me.

Mrs. Ellis is an earnest and forcible speaker, whose clear, unaffected statements bespeak a thorough grasp of her subject, and the public examinations of well-known persons selected by the audience at the close, furnished ready proof of the lady's ability to read character, besides being the source of much amusement." Among the subjects are "Phrenology," "Physiognomy," "Love and Marriage," "Dress Improvement," "Heredity," and "Parental Culture,"—the two last being private lectures to ladies. Mrs. Ellis opens her engagement in Peterborough in the Y.M.C.A. Hall, on Wednesday evening, 22nd inst. See advt.

BISHOP O'CONNOR'S LINDSAY WELCOME.

PRESENTED WITH A DUTIFUL ADDRESS.

Rt. Rev. Monsignor Laurent Honoured—His Investiture in His High Office of Domestic Prelate to His Holiness

On Sunday Right Rev. Bishop O'Connor paid an episcopal visit to Lindsay and was, according to the report of the Lindsay Post, accorded a welcome of so cordial a character as to show in a very strong light the high esteem and reverence in which his person and holy office are held by the people of every part of the diocese he visits.

On the arrival of the evening train from Peterborough, on Saturday evening, His Lordship, who was accompanied by Ven. Archdeacon Casey, was met by a deputation and escorted to St. Mary's church, where he was presented with a dutiful address, to which he responded in his usual impressive manner.

SUNDAY'S CEREMONIES.

Sunday was a red-letter day for St. Mary's. The first mass of the day was celebrated by His Lordship, assisted by Rt. Rev. Monsignor Laurent and Rev. Father Maguire. Previous to the mass the Bishop gave a short account of his journey to Rome. During the mass a large number received Holy Communion from the Bishop's hand.

There was again a very large congregation at ten o'clock mass.

Immediately before mass began, His Lordship Bishop O'Connor said that his object in coming to Lindsay was to honour the worthy pastor of the church, Vicar-General Laurent, upon whom His Lordship said His Holiness had conferred the high honour of Domestic Prelate in recognition of his faithful services and unselfish sacrifices during a priesthood of nearly forty years duration.

Turning to Monsignor Laurent, Bishop O'Connor than congratulated him upon his grand record in the priesthood, and upon his deserved elevation; when his busy life on earth ended he hoped his reward would be to hear his Saviour's welcome, "Well, done, thou good and faithful servant, enter thou into the joys of my kingdom."

His Lordship in full, canonicals, then proceeded with the impressive ceremony of invreting Vicar-Gen. Laurent in his new office, which consisted in the blessing of the new vestments of the new prelate.

At the conclusion of the ceremony Monsignor Laurent celebrated solemn pontifical high mass, being assisted by Monsignor McEvay as deacon, and Rev. Father Bretherton, as sub-deacon. The ceremonial was of the most impressive character, and the vestments, which were magnificently decorated cloth of gold were brought from Paris by His Lordship, the chausable being the gift of a friend in England to Father Bretherton. An eloquent sermon, in every way suitable to the occasion, was preached by Ven. Archdeacon Casey.

At the conclusion of the mass Dr. Lynch, heading a deputation of prominent members of the congregation, advanced and read the following address, Mr. John Kennedy handing Monsignor Laurent a well filled purse the gift of the congregation.

To the Right Reverend P. D. Laurent, Pastor of St Mary's Church, Lindsay, and Vicar-General of the Diocese of Peterborough:

BELOVED MONSIGNOR,—We appear before you to-day on behalf of the people of St. Mary's parish, to congratulate you on the distinction recently conferred upon you by our Holy Father the Pope, who has been graciously pleased to make you one of the prelates of his household.

It is a matter of rejoicing to your parishioners that His Holiness has done you so much honour, for we feel that the relations which have existed between us for the past twelve years enable us to say that the honour has been well deserved, inasmuch as your life in Lindsay has been marked in a singular degree by wise administration of parish affairs, and untiring devotion to the spiritual welfare of your people.

You had been a resident of Lindsay but a few months when the Catholic community suffered a great loss in the burning of the convent, but, thanks to your energy and business capacity, a new building soon arose from the ruins, and the schools resumed their useful work under proper conditions.

The parish debt soon engaged your attention. When you became our pastor in February, 1884 the parish debt amounted to $18,000, an obligation of sufficient magnitude to discourage a pastor who was a stranger amongst us. This great indebtedness, however, rapidly and steadily decreased, until in October 1890, the last payment was made, and the parish was out of debt. Current expenses had also been met during these years, and your people had the satisfaction of knowing that no undue pressure was felt by them in the discharge of the debt.

Under your prudent management large improvements have since then been made in the church property. A handsome spire has been added to the church; the church structure has been enlarged and beautified; a chime of bells has been placed in the spire; and a property has been purchased for a new cemetery.

The moral and religious interests of the people, too, have received your paternal attention. The schools, under your advice and supervision, have attained a high degree of excellence, a thoroughly Catholic tone has been encouraged in the social character of our people, and the spiritual side of parish life has been zealously and faithfully developed.

In conclusion, beloved Monsignor, we beg to tender you this testimonial of our esteem. Such an offering feebly tells how deep and real is our love and regard. But it will help to defray some of the outlay incident to your dignity. Though your labours have been many in the parish, they have not been accompanied by a corresponding increase in your private means, but you have been guided by other motives and look for another reward. Your people trust that your days may be many among them, and that you will continue to feel that their best wishes and prayers will always attend you.

Signed on behalf of the people of the parish.

Monsignor Laurent was deeply affected and replied as follows:—

GENTLEMEN OF THE COMMITTEE AND MY DEAR PEOPLE,—To-day it becomes our common and most pleasing duty to express our gratitude towards the great and holy pontiff now happily ruling the church of God, and whom it is our privilege to call by the endearing name of Father. The far reaching nature of his supreme paternity is well exemplified by the fact of his noticing with favour this far distant parish of St. Mary's, Lindsay. We pray that God may long spare his holiness for the good of the church and the world at large.

We also tender our thanks to that noble prince of the church, His Eminence Cardinal Ledochowsky, Perfect of the Propaganda, to whom the holy father has entrusted the supervision and care of all missionary countries throughout the world, a brave upholder of the liberty of conscience, a fearless confessor of the faith, who, some years ago, in much-tried England, did not shrink from the dungeon in the discharge of the episcopal office and the defance of his people's faith. It is through his eminence that the honour you refer to has been granted to this diocese of Peterborough and this parish of St. Mary's, Lindsay.

But we have among us to-day one who takes the place of the cardinal prefect and the holy father himself; one with whom the Vicar of Christ shares the burthen of ruling in faith and charity a portion of the universal flock which the Supreme Shepperd has called unto himself, one whom it is our duty and happiness to obey and revere as our Bishop, because Christ, through his Vicar had sent him up to govern that portion of the church included in the diocese of Peterborough. To him our hearts go out in unfeigned admiration and respectful love for his unassuming worth, for his untiring zeal, for his truly paternal love towards his priests and people, and last for his great kindness to this parish, when, at the feet of the Supreme Pontiff, he remembered it in a special manner and solicited the favour which has come to us to-day. He has shown his condescension still further by coming among us in person to share our joys and to confer with his own hands the distinction so graciously obtained.

As for you, my dear people, what can your poor pastor say to you? For twelve years we have laboured together in the work of the parish. Time has seemed short, because busy people who love their work notice but little the flight of years. Stormy days have been few, for no dark clouds could withstand the sunshine of your generosity and good will. The cold of indifference has never stilled your noble impulses. You have ever supplied the cheering sympathy in difficulty, as well as the necessary funds when money has been wanting. Your faith and Christian virtues have ever lightened the work of the priestly ministry. With the help of such a people at his back the most deficient pastor could not help showing some results, for which praise be given to the good God; and to you, my dear friends, may an ample reward be granted here and hereafter. The good words of your address and your generous offering in these hard times fill me with thankfulness on the one hand and, let me say it, with confusion on the other. They remind me of what I should have been and what I must try and be with the help of your charitable prayers. The priest should pray for the people, but the people also should pray for the priest, so that the spirit of Christ may grow and be perfected in all to make us faithful to duty, patient and submissive in trials, grateful for every blessing and joy, strong in hope and sweet charity until our day's work is done.

I will add, with the permission of His Lordship, that we are grateful to the Right Rev. Mgr. McEvay for his presence here to-day. He has come, at considerable inconvenience to himself, to show his love for his native parish. Old Lindsay has produced in various walks of life many good sons of whom she is justly proud, not least among whom is our Right Rev. friend, to whom we pray God may grant a long life of usefulness and honour. They had also with them Venerable Archdeacon Casey, rector of the Cathedral at Peterborough, who has on many occasions shown his kind feeling towards the pastor of Lindsay, and Rev. Father Bretherton, whose services were always at the command of the people of St. Mary's parish.

CHILDREN'S AID SOCIETY.

The Case Which They Had in the Police Court Yesterday.

In the case in the police court yesterday of the Children's Aid Society against a man for desertion and abandonment of his wife and family, a few peculiar incidents came to light.

The husband acknowledged to the magistrate that he would not have treated a dog as he treated his wife. His object evidently was to get rid of the trouble of taking care of his family and finally his wife agreed and article of separation were drawn up in a truly unsophisticated and illegal manner. This agreement of course the society cancelled—walked through without difficulty and a new agreement was substituted by which the husband agrees with the society not to abandon his family, but to take full, complete and proper care of them.

The magistrate allowed him to go under the usual suspended sentence to await the carrying out of the agreement. The threatening of personal violence involved in this case caused more amusement evidently to the agent than fear, as the threats of a man who would bully a woman can never create very much apprehension. Threats by people who are disappointed in their schemes are not infrequent.

A GALWAY WEDDING.

Nuptials of Miss Katie Clark and Mr Samuel Pearson.

A pleasant event took place last Tuesday morning about nine o'clock in the Roman Catholic church, the occasion being the marriage of Miss Katie Clark, second daughter of Mr. Thomas Clark, ex-reeve of Galway, to Mr. Samuel Pearson, of the same place.

The interesting ceremony was performed by Rev. Father Nolan, of Fenelon Falls, in the presence of a large number of friends and relatives, who proceeded after the ceremony to the home of the bride's parents where an elaborate wedding dinner was partaken of, and an enjoyable evening was spent which was participated in by their numerous friends, who came to extend to the newly married couple their best wishes. The bride was the recipient of many valuable and useful presents, which testified to the esteem in which she was held by all who knew her.

She was charmingly dressed in salmon coloured cashmere and was assisted by her sister, Miss Maggie Clark, who was also very becomingly attired.

The groom was ably supported by Mr. L. Doherty, of Somerville.

The happy pair will reside upon a farm in Galway, where the EXAMINER wishes them a prosperous wedded life.

The New Huffman House Wing.

In about another week the splendid addition recently made to the Huffman House will be ready for occupation. A half hour's time over the new section from the new boiler room in the basement to the top story of the new wing could not fail to impress one with the importance of the new work and as an adequate auxiliary to the growing requirements of this popular hotel. Not only so, but when the cost of so valuable an acquisition to to the resources of the hotel is mentally conjectured, enterprise and faith is a handsome return for the outlay must have been of the right stamp. The improvements are not of the niggardly kind —nothing to indicate that parsimonous policy of making "two bites of a cherry" —but everything solid, substantial, permanent and capacious. It is yet too soon to give a general description of the whole work, but it is not too much to say that the Huffman House this summer will, in point of extent and convenience of its accommodation, elegible location, beauty of surroundings, completeness of hygiene equipment and home-like attractions, occupy a proud position among the first-class hotels of Canada.

THE PRESBYTERIAN WOMAN'S FOREIGN MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

The Annual Meeting Opened This Afternoon in St. Paul's Church—Hundreds of Delegates Have Already Arrived.

The morning and afternoon trains were well freighted to day with hundreds of lady delegates to the Presbyterian Women's Foreign Missionary Society's annual convention, which opened in St. Paul's church this afternoon and the members of the local reception committee were kept busy indeed welcoming the strangers.

The Toronto delegation, which was very large, came down on the 11.25 a.m. C.P.R. express to day, in a special car, and the majority of the ladies were met at the station by those whose guests they will be during the week.

This afternoon, at the conclusion of the opening devotional exercises, the reports of the different branches of the society in this Presbytery were read by the delegates and arrangements were made for the presentation of credentials and signature of railway certificates.

This evening a conference will be held of the Board, comprising the thirty-six managers and Presbyterial Auxiliary and Mission Band Presidents and Presbyterial Secretarys and Treasurers.

The programme for to-morrow has been arranged as follows:—

A SUDDEN DEATH IN IOWA.

Demise of Mrs. David McFee, Formerly of this County.

Mrs. David McFee of Iowa, formerly Miss Maggie Sanderson of Smith, and daughter of the late Frank Sanderson of that township, died yesterday after a short illness from an attack of typhoid fever, leaving a husband and two children.

The deceased was married fifteen years ago to Mr. David McFee of Dummer, where they resided for some time, afterwards removing to Iowa.

A despatch was received on Saturday evening apprising her relatives here of her dangerous illness, and Mr. Frank Sanderson and Mrs. Joseph McKee of Smith, her brother and sister, left for the west on the Sunday evening express, but the sad intelligence was recived last evening of death having come to her relief at twelve o'clock.

The deceased had many most estimable qualities, for which she was universally loved and esteemed, and her death will be sincerely mourned in this vicinity.

CRICKET.

It would be a good idea if the cricketers would follow the example of the lacrossists and select a secretary for their juniors, as there will be a lot of new blood on the crease this year, and unless it is properly encouraged and junior games arranged from time to time interest is apt to lag.

LACROSSE.

At a meeting of the Peterborough lacrosse club last night, the second team organized in order that special attention might be made in the way of arranging matches for them. The officers of the club in general act, of course, for the juniors with the exception of a secretary, captain and committee which were chosen last night. This arrangement has been found to work most satisfactorily in connection with the Toronto clubs, where great attention is always paid towards encouraging and developing juniors as from them the first team has constantly to recruit its ranks year after year.

The officers elected last night were:
Secretary—Alf Terrill.
Captain—R. M. Glover.
Committee—R. M. Glover, Alf. Terrill, Ab. Green, W. Crossley and L. Dobbin.

BASEBALL.

The baseball club met at the Palace Restaurant last night, and reorganized for the season, electing the following officers:
Hon. Pres.—R. B. McKee.
Pres.—Mr. Alex Elliott.
1st Vice Pres.—G. W. Hatton.
2nd Vice Pres—R. J. Fife.
Secretary—W. A. Buchanan.
Treasurer—F. Harris.
Committee—H. R. H. Kenner, S. Ray, G. Hopkins and Dr. Pitcher.

The membership fee has been fixed at a dollar and the club will practice on the Driving Park grounds.

Unless the street railway service for the south end of the town on the George street line is restored the club will have made its first mistake in arranging to play at the Driving Park, as the boys will not go so far to practice, nor will the crowd be attracted there to a game as the distance is too far to walk and busses are not relished. The Riverside Park would have been a more suitable spot under the circumstances.

CURLIANA.

The April meeting of the Ontario Curling Association will be held this afternoon in the Walker House, beginning at 1.30 o'clock. The chief point of interest, after the routine of reviewing the past season, will be the consideration of Mr. W. A. Wilson's proposal to increase the representation of the different clubs in the Tankard competition in proportion to their membership. Though on the face this appears to favour the larger clubs it has some strong arguments behind it, and the general result of such a change would be in the line of increased interest in this fine game. The Tankard is the great competition, and a praiseworthy ambition leads every curler to hope for a place in it. Under present conditions there is little encouragement for the players. With two or three teams instead of one from a club the opportunity to get into a Tankard rink is increased just so many times. The practical effect would not be to add to the chances of the big clubs either, for the strength of a club like the Granites would be spread over three teams instead of being concentrated in one powerful combination as in the past.

THE WHEEL.

The wheelmen will hold their first run of the season this evening, and are asked to meet at the club rooms at 7 o'clock. Every bicyclist in town is cordially pressed to join the run and make it a success.

Dame Nature did not forsee the age of bicycles, or she would have arranged the hills so that a cyclist could coast all the time and not climb any.

The latest whim of lady cyclists is to have their wheels painted to match their dresses. What may be expected to be seen on the streets now are bicycles in various shades of green, white, brown, etc. If a young lady is in mourning for a deceased friend, it will be the correct thing for her to have the wheel painted black.

A communication received in New York from Milan, Italy, where John S. Johnson and other American professional riders are training, outlines the arrangements for a series of match races between J. Michael and Johnson, as follows:—There are to be six paced matches in Europe, all to come off before the end of July, at intervals of not less than a week. The stakes are to be $2,000 a side. Michael is also engaged to race twice against Johnson in America before the end of September, the distances named being five and twenty miles.

Watch any half dozen cyclists as they pass, and you will see that five of them do not know how to pedal properly. If they had but a slight knowledge of the proper method of foot motion, with the same expenditure of power they could accomplish far greater results. The art in pedaling is to push the pedal more than half the circle, taking care to lift the foot immediately it has done its effective work, so as not to burden the rising pedal. This necessitates the dropping of the heel at the top of the stroke, which helps the crank over the dead centre, pushing right down to the bottom of the stroke and bringing the foot back with a clawing motion to get over the dead centre at the bottom. If a rider who has been content with a pistonlike up and down pedal motion will try this slowly at first he will be suprised, after a little practice, to find that the machine does not require nearly so much pushing. Especially in hill climbing will he discover its advantage, while the ankle motion involved will be particularly beneficial.

McLeod is reported to be tearing along even faster than he was last season at Brantford, and to be giving his team mates, McIntosh and Harley Davidson, who arrived there last week, the go-by whenever he feels in the humor. McIntosh is not showing up as he might.

Dougherty of the Torontos, the Canadian novice record holder, inaugurated the season at the Island track on Saturday, riding twelve miles at a three-minute gait. He ought to be in it right up to the handle bars this year.

Anybody detected throwing upon a public road in New York State anything likely to cause damage to tires or bicycles will be hled to the court and punished severely.

On the national circuit the limit for prizes will be $100 for first, $50 for second, and $25 for third.

A Woman Of Refinement

INSISTS THAT THINGS SHALL LOOK WELL.

She certainly insists on a good tone as a first requisite in a Piano, but other things being equal she prefers a Piano that looks well to one that doesn't. As Mason & Risch Pianos sound well, last well and look well, they usually receive the preference in the homes of the cultured, where tone and design are both considered from the standpoint of art.

You can recognize a Mason & Risch Piano almost as soon as you enter a room by the quiet elegance of its appearance.

ISSUER OF MARRIAGE LICENSES

Next to Fairweather & Co's, off George Street

The counsel of older women is of inestimable value. A mistaken idea of modesty prevents many girls from learning the things that they ought to know before they assume the duties of matrimony and maternity. Women generally realize these most important steps in their lives, without knowing in any degree what they mean, or what responsibilities and trials they bring. The highest and best thing that any woman can do is to bear and rear healthy, intelligent children. The accomplishment of this end depends almost entirely upon her health and particularly upon the health and strength of the organs distinctly feminine. The state of the children, both intellectual and physical depends on the mother. If she doesn't care enough for her own comfort and happiness to take the proper care of herself, she certainly ought to do it for the sake of her children. To a very large extent, the destiny and achievement of a man is decided in the months before his birth. During that time is determined whether or not he is to be of robust health and strong intellect. During that time, his mind and body are started on the path that they will follow through life. Circumstances may influence him, but he cannot get away from the effects of pre-natal influences. One of the principal uses of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the preparation of prospective mothers for the time of trial and danger that comes when a child is born. The "Prescription" is strengthening and invigorating and lessens pain and danger. It insures the perfect well-being and the perfect health of both mother and child. Every woman should know these things before she really needs to know them. There are many things in Dr. Pierce's "Common Sense Medical Adviser," that every woman ought to know. This celebrated work has reached a sale of 680,000 copies at $1.50 each. The expense of production having thus been covered, 500,000 copies are now being given away. A copy will be sent to any address on receipt of thirty-one (31) one-cent stamps to cover customs and postage only.

A TOPIC WITH WOMEN

THE SUBJECT OF DRESS BUT ESPECIALLY EASTER COSTUMES.

All Woman-Kind Enticed Into Fashions' Net The Materials of the Season for Dressy Gowns—The Positively Dazzling Easter Bonnets.

The subject of dress assumes fresh importance as the final days of the Lenten season comes around and what shall a woman wear when the days of penitence are over? is the absorbing question beside which all the earlier resolutions of self-denial become a foggy uncertainty. Fashion seems to put forth every effort at this particular season to entice all woman-kind into her net, and fascinating combinations of color and materials of every conceivable kind are displayed in the most tempting manner.

The bonnets this spring are positively dazzling in the brilliance of the trimmings. Such flowers and feathers, such combinations of coloring, are a revelation. The winter styles were considered marked and individual, but they were unobtrusive and sombre compared to what is to be this season. There is no fixed and immutable law as to shape or size, so there is every reason why every woman should choose a becoming head-gear; indeed, the one point to be considered above all others is that the bonnet or hat must be of shape and color best suited to the wearer's appearance.

AN EASTER BONNET.

Tulle and chiffon play a most important part in hat trimmings. Big choux of the soft materials are put around the crowns of the hats or in soft rosettes under the brim, resting on the hair, and the long, graceful ends to tie under the chin will take away years from the age and hide the sharp lines of the chin, which is the first unmistakable sign that girlhood is past. These same choux are used with flowers put between and even with stiff ear-bows of velvet, and the material softens the crude effect and harsh outline that the flowers and velvet otherwise might give.

The lighter and more gossamerlike the hats can be made, the more are they liked, and some are composed entirely of tulle or chiffon, with the exception of the crown. The stiffly wired brim is covered with the chiffon, tulle, or net, and has an edge of fancy straw. Then all around the crown it is massed together in most becoming knots and bows. How such hats will stand summer wear is a matter for serious consideration. As marvels of beauty they are all that can be desired.

Soft, broad-brimmed flat hats are twisted into odd and fantastic shapes, and have the crowns built up with flowers and chiffon, or velvet until the original straw is quite lost sight of. Quillings and accordion pleatings lie flat on the rim, row after row overlapping one another.

But the new gowns for Easter festivities must have some consideration, so women can easily gratify their vanity without much of a struggle with their conscience.

Silks of every kind, except India and Surah, head the list of fashionable materials for dressy gowns, and mohair, alpaca, canvas and grenadines of silk or wool, or both mixed, are leading favorites in dress goods. In fact all transparent fabrics are desirable in style for the coming season, and they are made up over black, white or colored silks. Wool canvas comes in varying degrees of thickness, both loosely and coarsely woven, and a finer quality is sometimes called etamine. Other kinds are still softer, and any of the grades, in shades of tan or beige, are sure to be good style; but not all of them wear well, as the threads sometimes pull out. Novelties in canvas have silk flowers on the surface, and are broken into large plaids by colored silk stripes on a beige or gray ground. Grenadines will be much worn this season, and those with flowered stripes on a black ground, alternated with black satin, are especially effective made up over black silk. The tendency to light, transparent materials serves to extend the usefulness of gauze and chiffon, and the latest novelties in these are patterned all over in Persian or flowered designs in soft colors. There is a long series of thin fabrics between canvas and gauze, and any of these open-meshed weaves made over colored silk has a changeable effect which is very pretty, and decidedly a feature of the new in fashions.

SPRING VISITING GOWN.

Despite all the rumors to the contrary, silk waists and odd waists of all sorts seem to hold their own in fashion, and bid fair to outlive the summer. The fact that so few tailor gowns are made with the close-fitting bodice is conclusive proof that the silk waist will endure for at least one more season. The loose blouse effect is going out, however, but in its stead are draped waists with carefully fitted linings and pointed front, with either one or two points. The material is laid in narrow plaits up the back where the waist fastens, and the scant folds are arranged crosswise on the front. The sleeves are draped in a small puff at the top, wrinkled and close below, and cut long, with a frill of lace falling over the hand. The collar band of this simple waist is very fancy, with draped silk and lace and a lace bow at the back.

The cut of the new skirts is not yet materially changed, for they are still full around the bottom, but not with exaggerated fulness, closely fitted about the hips, and made with an inside facing of hair cloth. The model with the wide box plait effect in front seems to be a favorite, and this plait is sometimes stiffened across the bottom with whalebone to keep it in place. About the only variation noticeable in skirts is in the front breadth, which is often cut very narrow and flaring and trimmed down either side on the seam. Five yards is a good width for the skirt around the bottom for cloth or any wool goods. But street skirts are cut short enough to clear the ground well.

"Perfect Lemonade."

Perfect lemonade is made as follows, says the Health Magazine: For a quart, take the juice of three lemons, using the rind of one of them. Carefully peel the rind very thin, getting just the yellow outside; cut this into pieces and put with the juice and powdered sugar, of which use two ounces to the quart, in a jug or jar with a cover. When the water is just at the boiling point, pour it over the lemon and sugar, cover at once and let get cold. Try this way once and see if it is not delicious.

JOHN H. M'CONNELL.

A Windsor Man Who is Known Everywhere.

He Speaks Very Highly of Scott's Sarsaparilla.

Used it Last Spring as a Family Tonic and Intends to Use it This Year Also—It is Wholesome, Invigorating, Strengthening He Declares.

One of the best-known men in Ontario is Mr. John H. McConnell, of Windsor. He is connected with most of the leading secret, fraternal and benevolent societies, has organized lodges in every city, town and hamlet in the province, and is probably personally acquainted with a greater number of people than any other single individual in her Majesty's Dominion of Canada.

Ask almost anyone you meet, "Who is J. H. McConnell, of Windsor?" Nine out of every ten will be able to answer the question. The opinion of such a prominent man, therefore, is valuable. Mr. McConnell usually prefers to talk about political or society events. But he can say a good word frequently for anybody or anything outside these two subjects he thinks deserving of it.

He Talks About Scott's.

When in Toronto last Monday (March 2nd, 1896) he very outspokenly expressed himself as follows to the manufacturers of Scott's Sarsaparilla:

"Scott's Sarsaparilla is a tonic I use in my family. It is one of the best spring blood purifiers I know of. I used it last spring and intend to use it this. It is very strengthening, drives away nervousness, builds up the system, and is a good all-around, wholesome medicine.

"It is pleasant to take, the children like it, and since giving it to them we have had no sickness of any kind in our house. All this I can truthfully say, and when I say a thing I mean what I say, and I don't care who knows it."

Anybody who wishes to secure Mr. McConnell's opinion can get it by writing him at Windsor.

Lord Craven and Ben Johnson.

Lord Craven once invited Ben Jonson to dine at his house. At the appointed time Ben trudged off in his usual poor clothes, patched all over, and knocked at His Lordship's door. The astonished porter was rather dubious, and before he conducted the stranger in, sent to inform Lord Craven that a shabby clodhopper who called himself Ben Johnson, desired to see him. His Lordship flew to the door to welcome the poet, but startld back in surprise when he saw such an odd figure. "You Ben Jonson," said he. "You Ben Jonson, indeed! Shouldn't care for your clothes, but your face—goodness! You couldn't say 'Bo' to a goose." "Bo," said Ben. His Lordship burst into a hearty laugh, and satisfied by the joke of the personal identity of his famous guest, conducted him in.

Pure, rich blood is the true cure for nervousness, and Hood's Sarsaparilla is the One True Blood Purifier and nerve tonic.

By telling the public that our 2nd grade is equal to the best Flour made by any other mill. "Such statements are somewhat presumptuous."

THE PRINCESS MAUD.

WHO IS TO BECOME THE WIFE OF PRINCE KARL OF DENMARK.

The Striking Personality of the Youngest Daughter of the Prince and Princess of Wales. Her Tastes and Accomplishments.

Princess Maud of Wales, who is soon to become the wife of Prince Karl of Denmark, is the most original and vivacious of all the young women of the British royal family. She is the youngest daughter of the Prince and Princess of Wales, and has been the favorite topic for writers on the English society papers. These journals all say that the match is a purely love match, and that it is therefore very popular. The same remark is made about every royal match. At all events Princess Maud is very different from most of her royal relations. She is lively and loves all sorts of out-of-door sports. She is very fond of riding and driving, is an expert skater, a proficient cyclist and generally devoted to athletics. Shooting is the one accomplishment that she has not. She is particularly clever with her hands, being able to carve wood, to make pipes and to work little artifices in copper and bronze. She can stuff birds, and has a way of beautifying her house at very small expense. Pipe making is her dearest art. She has presented handsomely carved pipes to many of her two or three hundred cousins. One which she gave her cousin Emperor William of Germany is greatly prized by that mighty monarch. Princess Maud wears a monocle, is an expert photographer and a good violinist. Among other great things Princess Maud has done is the remarkable feat of riding on the top of a London bus. Withal she is a most charming young woman.

Woman in Journalism.

No more interesting statement has been made about newspapers of late than the disclosure that the editorials in the London Daily News during the American civil war were written by Harriet Martineau. The editorials of the Daily News, whose authorship until now remained unsuspected, were characterized by singular force and unusual charm, and in time these editorials did their work.

The effectiveness of a signed editorial when the signature is not that of the know editor of a newspaper is disputable. Harriet Martineau's signature to an editorial on the American civil war during the frenzy it caused in England would have prejudiced the case. The unsigned article could get at least a hearing. The signature would have put the plea out of court in the eyes of a large proportion of those who, with her woman's personality not interposed, would read, if not without passion, at least with attention. There are other women, like Mrs. Chapman, of the Westminster Review, scholars, patriots, students, imbued with an absorbing love of science and humanity, who, constitutionally devoid of personal ambition, have thus contributed to the progress of the age which, unseen but not unheard, they have adorned. Among these are Margaret Fuller, Rebecca Harding Davis and Lucia Calhoun Runkle, at one time on the staff of the New York Tribune.

A Daughter of Italy.

There is not a more popular woman in Italy than the Princess Giuseppina di Linguaglossa, the daughter of ex-Premier Francesco Crispi. Though only 23 years of age, she has busied herself in every movement for the alleviation of the downtrodden feminity in her native land. She finds pleasure in accompanying her philanthropic mother to factories to inspect the work of women and to encourage the wage-workers.

The Princess is also her father's idol. In his stormbeaten career he knows of no one to console him better in his sorrow and during the bitter persecution of his many enemies than his affectionate daughter. An accomplished musician and an agreeable reader, she helps to brighten the declining years of this venerable and conscientious statesman.

The Princess is a beautiful, slender brunette, of medium height and perfect contour. Her husband, Prince di Linguaglossa, is devoted to her. Crispi has recently presented his daughter with a fine castle and grounds near Naples caled the "Villa Lina."

Women Who Breathe Properly.

As a matter of fact, not one woman in a hundred breathes normally. The respiration of the average woman varies with every change of mental state or physical condition, and it is a rare thing for a woman to use her lungs to the best possible advantage without a previous knowledge of physiology and an appreciation of the merits of physical culture.

Desirable as is a thorough exercise in breathing, it is not safe to experiment in the matter. A very little instruction on the subject will enable any woman to comprehend the precise art of filling and emptying the lungs on scientific principles. After this has been acquired the chief thing is to breathe in as much sunshine as possible and to believe in the efficacy of oxygen as a remedy for nearly all the ills that are fashionable.

The following are some excellent rules for improving the respiration and bringing it up to a normal condition: Stand at an open window or recline on a couch, with the waist and chest unconfined; hold the chest walls high and inhale in slow, long breaths, exhale as slowly, three times only at first. Gradually the number of times may be increased and the time lengthened for the breathing exercise. Fifteen minutes, twice a day at least, should be devoted to this exercise to accomplish the desired result.

Mrs. Emma Eames-Storey, whose full and generous outlines are a beautiful example of the results of vocal and breathing gymnastics, is not only fond of outdoor life, of walking and horseback riding, but the requirements of her art demand continued daily practice of the exercises that develop the muscles of the throat, chest, back and abdomen.

Mrs. Kendal and Mrs. Langtry are both splendidly wholesome looking women who have led athletic, outdoor lives and who breathe normally.—New York World.

Just Before Bedtime.

Confections of mull, lace and corded ribbon court favor in the form of night gowns. The Paris productions outrank all others in exquisiteness of material and making. Late novelties in this line are more elaborate and costly than ever before. Soft mull muslin is used when the lace treatment is to be Valenciennes. Linen cambric is the chosen superstructure upon which finely woven torchon borders the ruffles and divides the groups of tucks.
